TAKE THAT, METER MAID!

What's this? A parking citation on a meter maid's cart? Well, not really. The "ticket" is a slip of paper that was placed on the stalled cart at Fifth Avenue and C Street in San Rafael yesterday — the work of a prankster who found the vehicle in a no-parking zone. Police said the wag even chose paper the same color as parking citations — pink — and wrote out numerous "violations." The cart had broken down, police said, and was awaiting repairs when the prankster came along.

Did A Killer Stalk Skid Row?

(Editors: Yuba City lies in some of the prettiest country in California. But this week, along the banks of the Feather River to the north, sheriff's officers have been digging up body after body from the lush orchards the local folks like to call "the peach bowl of the nation." And a husky farm labor contractor is in jail, charged with mass murder.

A UPI reporting team has spent two Days in Yuba City reconstructing the following report.)

By JACK V. FOX

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—The winos came shambling into the Bonanza Club on D Street In Marysville shortly after 9 a.m. As each appeared, his fellow drifters let out a cheer.

"Hey, Sarge, you made it!"

"There's Al. He didn't get you, Al!"

At the New Palm around the corner, Rose the barmaid said one of her customers always had milk in the morning. But on Thursday he ordered a double shot of Old Crow and a beer chaser.

Among these lost souls there was no doubt that the 20 victims of Yuba City's mass murders came from their ranks — skid row in the twin cities of Marysville and Yuba City, separated by the Feather River.

The towns once were a legend of the rip-roaring West in the Gold Rush days. There were 54 saloons in a four-block stretch, the prostitutes grabbed customers off the street and the miners, loggers, railroad men, cowboys and gamblers lived as if there was no tomorrow.

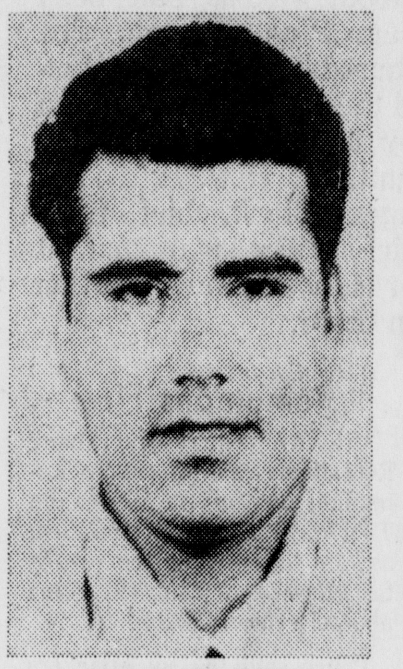
Those days are gone, but the shades of Sutter's boom linger on in a community which now is staunch Republican, hippieless and one of the most lush agricultural areas in all the United States.

Peaches, tomatoes, prunes, watermelons, strawberries, walnuts and almonds grow in the valley. Acres of fertile land are covered with water —flooded paddies that look like Southeast Asia.

But like the fruit, murders have seemed to come in clusters to California.

Charles Manson has been convicted of seven and is being tried for two more. Last year Dr. Victor Ohta, his wife, two children and a secretary were slain and tossed into their swimming pool in Santa Cruz. San Francisco's Zodiac killer — still uncaught —claims something like a dozen victims.

But even those gory heights were scaled this week when sheriff's deputies, wearing gauze masks and puffing cigars to reduce the stench, dug up body after body on the ranch of Jack Sullivan five miles north of Yuba City, from neat graves strung for half a mile on the riverbank beneath a prune orchard.



JUAN V. CORONA
Dug 20 graves?

One man had 32 cents in his pockets, another $9. The remainder had no wealth. One had a temporary driver's license. Another had a wrist band from a hospital and a Social Security card. One was identified because two of his toes were missing. One man had on three pairs of trousers. One man was nude except for a shirt.

They lay on their backs, their arms above their heads. Most had their shirts pulled up over their faces. All were taken to the Twin Cites mortuary which ordinarily handles one death a week.

Identification was gruesome and grim. Some were men nobody wanted and nobody missed. Some had isolated themselves from their families for years.

"It really grabs you when some guy's wife calls from Mexico or Arkansas and asks if we have found their husband — a man they haven't heard from for a year or so," said a sheriff's deputy. "They want to know and then again, they don't want to know."

The first body was discovered on May 20 by a Japanese farmer named Goro Kagehiro. He noticed a hole in an orchard, and when he came back that evening he found a mound of fresh earth. He dug and found a body. He reported it to the Sutter County sheriff's office.

Five days passed and then Roy Duron, a foreman at the Sullivan Ranch, was told by one of his laborers that while discing the rows between the prune trees he noticed an indentation. Detective Sgt. John Purcell and Detective Jerry Gregory went to the scene and found a second body.

It rained and rained on Tuesday, but in the downpour and on through the night, and into the next day, and the next, deputies dug up bodies. Some were in a peach orchard, the others in the soft loam of the Feather River bank, in graves 3 1-2 foot deep and 6 feet long.

The victims had been hacked to death by a machete or heavy knife. The fatal blow was at the back of the neck. All were men. They ranged in age from 40 to 63.

At 4:30 a.m. Wednesday, sheriff's deputies went to the home of Juan Veilliho Corona, 37, in a quiet street of small homes in Yuba City. It is a wood house of beige color with a brick frontplace. A plaster angel two feet high stands on the cement porch.

Corona answered the door. He is a good-looking Mexican, one inch short of six feet. He weighs 200 pounds and his black hair is parted in the middle. His wife Gloria is about 40. They have four daughters. Corona speaks fair English, his wife almost solely Spanish. The officers told him he was charged with murder. Corona pulled on his gray work pants, cowboy boots and a green sweater. He went along quietly.

When the patrol car arrived at the courthouse, a stately white building with columns that could pass for a southern

Mass Murder Witness Picked Up After 20 Bodies Are Found

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—A skid row transient has been picked up for questioning as a material witness in the mass ax killing of at least 20 farm workers, it was disclosed today.

Deputies continued churning up the earth along a Feather River orchard area where the 20 bodies have been found.

Police in Marysville, just across the river from Yuba City, said they picked up a transient farm laborer Thursday and turned him over to Sutter County authorities.

A crude "sketch or diagram," found in the home of the 37-year-old farm labor contractor who is being held on charges of murder, was being studied by detectives. However, an official source denied that a "map" to the burial sites had been found.

Eight more bodies were found in a peach orchard and in brush along the river Thursday.

Juan Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor and father of four small girls, was arrested early Wednesday after authorities unearthed nine bodies.

Court records show Corona was committed by a brother to a state mental hospital for three months in 1956 as being "confused and disoriented ... (suffering) delusions and hallucinations."

Psychiatrists diagnosed him as a schizophrenic. He was released from Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, Calif., as "recovered" on April 18, 1956.

Officials have not disclosed any apparent motive for the slayings.

Deputies, using a trench digging backhoe at times and puffing cigars to kill the stench of dead bodies, removed the hacked remains from shallow graves into hearses for transport to a mortuary in neighboring Marysville.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker, who barred newsmen from the gravesite area, said five of the victims have been identified. But only two names were released. He said one body might be that of a Negro. The others were middleaged whites.

Identifications have been hampered by the transient life of the farm workers, many of whom had not been in touch with their familes for years.

The victims were hacked in the back of the head with a heavy, sharp instrument, possibly a machete or meat cleaver. All were buried on their backs, with arms raised in a supplicating position and shirts pulled over their bloody heads.

UAR Signs Pact With Soviets In Surprise Move

15-Year Treaty Upsets Balance Of Arms In Mideast, Says Israel

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt and the Soviet Union today announced a 15-year treaty of "unbreakable friendship" that binds them closer militarily than ever before. The Arab world reacted enthusiastically but Israel said it was "a clear threat to upset the balance of arms in the Middle East."

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat signed the treaty Thursday to climax Podgorny's trip to Cairo which ended today. Political sources in Beirut called the pact unique in the Arab world and "of profound significance."

Podgorny left today in a blaze of Egyptian acclaim. Crowds mobbing the airport chanted slogans hailing SovietEgyptian friendship as Podgorny embraced Sadat in an enthusiastic red carpet sendoff that outdid his arrival four days ago.

A 21-gun salute thundered as PodgoRny's plane was airborne at 5:13 p.m. (10:13 a.m. EDT).

Tel Aviv dispatches said the scope of the agreement took Israel by surprise and the fact that a formal treaty was signed after so many years without one also was unexpected.

Israeli sources in Tel Aviv said the possible answers were that first, the Soviets are attempting to protect their billions of dollars of investment in Egypt and that the Kremlin wants to make sure Cairo will not lean any closer toward the United States.

"It is a clear hardening of the line for both parties," one Israeli source said.

Israeli sources said Israel would continue pushing ahead with efforts toward peace but with a wait and see attitude that would leave it up to Egypt to make the next move. Israel is still awaiting a reply to the proposals it made six weeks ago on reopening the Suez Canal.

While Israel worried, the Arab world reacted enthusiastically. Cairo and Beirut newspapers splashed news of the agreement on their front pages and Arab radios led their broadcasts with the story. Damascus Radio described the treaty as "an historic document."

The tone of the agreement left no doubt Soviet-Egyptian relations were not affected by Sadat's purge of a number of pro-Moscow elements from his government. If anything, they appeared to have been strengthened.

Tass said the two chiefs of state, who have held a series of meetings since Podgorny arrived Wednesday, devoted their talks to "the dangerous situation which continues to exist in the Middle East as a result of Israel's imperialist aggression against the United Arab Republic and other Arab countries.

"The two sides noted that Israel, relying on support from the United States, is acting as an aggressor," Tass quoted the communique as saying. It claimed "Israel's policy is a serious threat to international peace and security."

Tass said "the two sides ex-

Memorial Rites Set Over Long Weekend

The three-day Memorial Day weekend begins tomorrow, highlighted by special programs in Marin and Southern Sonoma cities and a holiday for nearly everyone on Monday.

All municipal, county, state and federal government offices will be closed, as will be post offices, public libraries and schools.

Most stores will be closed with a few neighborhood stores, liquor stores and the stores in Sausalito staying open.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual, but its business and classified advertising offices will be closed Monday.

Special observances will be held in San Rafael, Fairfax and Petaluma, and a combined service for Rohnert Park and Cotati in the latter city.

Marin County's traditional Memorial Day service will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday at the San Rafael Military Academy.

Because of the fire Tuesday night at the old courthouse, the ceremony and parade were moved from the World War I Doughboy Statue to Foster Hall at the Academy on Mission and Cottage Avenues. The change was necessitated by danger to spectators at the site of the fire, said Lawrence T. O'Brien, general chairman.

Members of the board of supervisors, and mayors of all the cities in Marin County have been invited, according to publicity chairman Alfred T. Little.

The Fairfax Senior Association will conduct a memorial service at 12:30 p.m. Monday in the Fairfax Honor Grove on Bolinas Avenue next to the city hall.

San Anselmo writer William M. Taylor will deliver the address. Music will be furnished by buglers from the San Rafael Military Academy led by Col. Lee M. Alfred, a chorus, and Molly Forde of Santa Venetia and Janelle Elliott of Mill Valley, accompanied by students from Marin Catholic High School.

Boy Scouts from Troops 7 and 49 and Cub Scouts from Packs 7 and 49 will mass the colors. They will be joined by members of Brownie Troop 1046, Girl Scout Troop 2015 and Cadette Troop 2198 in the pledge of allegiance.

Volcano Threatens Two More Villages

FORNAZZO, Italy (UPI)—Mt. Etna, pumping and belching molten lava at an increased rate, menaced two additional farming villages today on its heavily damaged southeastern slopes. 8

Renewed activity from Europe's tallest volcano raised new fears among local farmers and scientists alike. Vulcanologists studying Etna's worst eruption since 1928 said there was no way to forecast the current lava flow or Etna's unpredictable activity.

Commercial Soviet SST In 3 Years

PARIS (UPI)—A Soviet official said today the Soviet Union's TU144 supersonic airliner will go into commercial service at the end of 1973 or early 1974—the same time as its Anglo-French rival, Concorde.

Soviet Minister for Aeronautical Industries Pavel Dementiev told newsmen at the Paris airshow, where both delta-winged planes are drawing crowds, that so far the Soviet Union has built three flying models and would have two more in the air next year.

"In 1973 we will start series production and we expect commercial services at the end of 1973 or early 1974," Dementiev said, indicating for the first time that the Soviet Union has not overtaken the west in building these airliners.

The Anglo-French Concorde also is expected to go into service over the transatlantic run late in 1973 or early 1974.

Dementiev said the Soviet Union was interested in selling the TU144 aboard although the price had not yet been worked out. He said Pan American Airways President Najeeb Halaby "is in close contact with us for possible purchase."

Angela Attorney Attacks Gun Evidence, Demands Dismissal

By MARY LEYDECKER

Judge Richard E. Arnason yesterday refused a request by attorneys for Angela Davis to dismiss the case against her but took their motion under submission.

Attorney Michael Tigar of Los Angeles called the case a "frame-up" and said there was no evidence that Miss Davis furnished the guns used by Jonathan Jackson, the youth who set off the shoot-out on Aug. 7 at the Marin Civic Center.

Miss Davis is accused of providing the weapons, all of which were allegedly registered to her, as well as helping plan the abortive kidnap-escape attempt. San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee is charged with actually firing the shotgun blast which killed Judge Harold J. Haley.

Yesterday, after Magee was removed from the courtroom when he kicked and then later spit at his court-appointed attorney Ernest L. Graves of Los Angeles, a long-delayed hearing on motions by Miss Davis's attorneys finally got underway.

Tigar asked at the end of the day's session that Judge Arnason, a Contra Costa County jurist, dismiss the charges and "let Miss Davis go home."

Prosecuting attorney Albert W. Harris Jr., however, argued that there was plenty of evidence given to the grand jury which indicted Miss Davis to hold her for trial.

In answer to Tigar's claim that Miss Davis had not been linked to the crimes, Harris said, "no evidence!! Only all the weapons."

He traced the history of Miss Davis's purchase of four guns, the last two shortly before the shoot-out. He said, "These are not weapons of self-defense, they are weapons of aggression and violence."

Harris said that Miss Davis's motive in "aiding and abetting the crimes" was to gain the release of the Soledad Brothers, whom she had long supported publicly.

(Jonathan Jackson, who died in the shoot-out, was the younger brother of one of the Soledad Three, George Jackson.

Miss Davis reportedly had accompanied young Jackson when he went to see his brother at San Quentin twice during the week before the shoot-out.

Judge Arnason set hearing on further defense motions for 9 a.m. next Wednesday.

Angela Attorney Attacks Gun Evidence, Demands Dismissal

By MARY LEYDECKER

Judge Richard E. Arnason yesterday refused a request by attorneys for Angela Davis to dismiss the case against her but took their motion under submission.

Attorney Michael Tigar of Los Angeles called the case a "frame-up" and said there was no evidence that Miss Davis furnished the guns used by Jonathan Jackson, the youth who set off the shoot-out on Aug. 7 at the Marin Civic Center.

Miss Davis is accused of providing the weapons, all of which were allegedly registered to her, as well as helping plan the abortive kidnap-escape attempt. San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee is charged with actually firing the shotgun blast which killed Judge Harold J. Haley.

Yesterday, after Magee was removed from the courtroom when he kicked and then later spit at his court-appointed attorney Ernest L. Graves of Los Angeles, a long-delayed hearing on motions by Miss Davis's attorneys finally got underway.

Tigar asked at the end of the day's session that Judge Arnason, a Contra Costa County jurist, dismiss the charges and "let Miss Davis go home."

Prosecuting attorney Albert W. Harris Jr., however, argued that there was plenty of evidence given to the grand jury which indicted Miss Davis to hold her for trial.

In answer to Tigar's claim that Miss Davis had not been linked to the crimes, Harris said, "no evidence!! Only all the weapons."

He traced the history of Miss Davis's purchase of four guns, the last two shortly before the shoot-out. He said, "These are not weapons of self-defense, they are weapons of aggression and violence."

Harris said that Miss Davis's motive in "aiding and abetting the crimes" was to gain the release of the Soledad Brothers, whom she had long supported publicly.

(Jonathan Jackson, who died in the shoot-out, was the younger brother of one of the Soledad Three, George Jackson.

Miss Davis reportedly had accompanied young Jackson when he went to see his brother at San Quentin twice during the week before the shoot-out.

Judge Arnason set hearing on further defense motions for 9 a.m. next Wednesday.

In Las Vegas, Capt. Eugene Clark, chief of the Clark County Sheriff's office, said a local warrant probably will be issued for Hubbard in connection with checks he has written there.

Saigon On Drugs

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese cabinet members, prodded by the United States to do something about the drug traffic that has made an estimated one out of every 10 American servicemen in Vietnam a heroin addict, put most of the blame today on Thailand and Laos.

They said these two neighboring countries, both close allies, are the source of most of the heroin in South Vietnam, as reported Tuesday by a U.S. Congressional investigating team.

But they did not comment directly at their news conference on another charge in the Congressional report: that "politicians in both Laos and South Vietnam" are in the heroin business.

The Congressional report was issued Tuesday in Washington following an intensive investigation in South Vietnam. The chief author was Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn.

This report said between 25,000 and 40,000 American servicemen in Vietnam now are addicted to heroin. The total U.S. force in Vietnam at present is 262,500.

ROSARIO, Argentina (UPI)—The Swift & Co., meat packing plant bowed today to a series of demands by the leftist kidnapers of British Consul Stanley Sylvester and said it would distribute $60,000 worth of food to the poor to win his release.

The People's Revolutionary Army (ERT) had demanded that Swift distribute the food and rehire 4,000 workers it had laid off for economy reasons. Swift met that demand too and said it was considering others.

The kidnapers put a 5 p.m. EDT deadline of Swift's action and said if their demands were not met the diplomat-businessman would be placed on "trial." Sylvester, 59, an Argentine-born honorary consul, is manager of the Swift plant.

Police said the six hijackers—all men—are still under police investigation. Their names were withheld "as it is usual in case of asylum seekers," police said.

Romania meanwhile demanded the extradition of the six hijackers on grounds that they are ex-convicts wanted for robery and kidnaping. But a high Austrian police official said "we never extradite refugees from Warsaw Pact countries."

The final decision, however, is up to the Austrian courts. Vienna airport officials said 16 passengers and four crew members returned to Bucharest early today aboard a special plane sent from Bucharest to pick them up.

Zanuck Wins At Fox

NEW YORK (UPI)—Darryl F. Zanuck is still the fox of Hollywood. He has come out on top again in his latest battle of 45 years of Hollywood wars.

A Zanuck-led management team has been involved in a proxy fight to retain control of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. against a group of insurgent stockholders backed by Zanuck's estranged wife and their son.

Judges who counted the shares voted at the company's annual meeting May 18 said Thursday unofficial returns showed the management retained control by about 1.5 million shares out of 6.4 million voted.

A spokesman for the dissidents, Charles M. Lewis, partner in the Wall Street brokerage house of Treves & Co., said the losers might challenge the results in court.

GRIEF OVER MURDER — Mrs. Essie Mao Love wiped a tear from her eyes yesterday during a meeting in Ruleville, Miss., in the aftermath of the murder of Mrs. Love's teen-age daughter. Indictments Sought In Slaying Of Black

DREW, Miss. (UPI)—Authorities today moved swiftly to seek indictments against three young white men accused of killing a teen-age Negro girl in this small Mississippi delta town.

Frank O. Crosthwait Jr., prosecuting attorney for Sunflower County, said he would present the case to the next term of the grand jury which convenes June 7.

The three men were being held in a maximum security unit at the state penitentiary following their arrest a few hours after Jo Etha Collier, 18, was shot down Tuesday night on a Drew street. They were charged with murder.

The three were identified as Wayne Parks, 23, a cotton farmer from Drew; his brother, Wesley Parks, 26, a mechanic at Memphis, Tenn.; and their nephew, Allen Wilkerson, 19, a recent high school graduate from Memphis.

Investigators said no motive had been established for the shooting, which brought bitter reaction from black leaders and touched off protest marches Thursday afternoon at Drew and neighboring Ruleville.

FBI agents, acting on orders from President Nixon, have joined in the investigation to determine whether any federal law was violated in the killing.

Local white officials denounced the slaying. Mayor W. O. Williford of Drew called it a "tragic" incident. "The white community is upset as well as the black community," said Sunflower County Sheriff C. O. "Jack" Sessums.

About 200 blacks marched silently through Drew Thursday afternoon with Police Chief J. D. Fleming riding ahead of them in a patrol car. There were no incidents.

Thirty-one blacks, including several teen-agers, were arrested during a protest march at Ruleville on charges of obstructing sidewalks.

219 Enemy Die In Clash In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese infantrymen and tank crews with heavy U.S. air support killed 219 Communist soldiers today in the third day of bitter fighting around the town of Snuol in northeastern Cambodia, military spokesmen in Saigon reported.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said Communist troops were driven out of Snoul Thursday but had counter-attacked with mortars and infantry to within 500 yards of the town.

The fighting cost the Army of the Republic of (South) Vietnam (ARVN) at least eight dead and 18 wounded, ARVN spokesmen said, for a total of at least 12 over the three-day period.

Other military sources said more than 30 South Vietnamese have been killed in three days of the heaviest combat around Snoul since the allied invasion of Cambodia 13 months ago.

Snoul, a market town in a rubber-plantation area, straddles Highway 7 about 115 miles northeast of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, and about 90 miles northwest of Saigon.

A year ago most of the town was destroyed by the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in the allied strike into Cambodia. U.S. tank crews who occupied the town looted it in a widely reported incident.

ARVN spokesmen in Saigon claimed a "body count" of 99 Communists after a three-hour battle just west of Snoul today.

Only scattered fighting — as reported in South Vietnam, but the U.S. command said two Americans died Thursday when an Army AH1 "Cobra" helicopter gunship crashed near Quang Tri, 400 miles north of Saigon. Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

Product Recalled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration warns that a toy shaving kit called "Merry Lather N' Lotion Toiletries" poses a severe health hazard because the lotion and cream in the kit contain a bacteria. The agency said the bacteria could cause infections around the eyes, in the ears, nose and throat and in skin and connective tissues. It said the manufacturer, Merrymaking Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of Leisure Dymanics Inc., Cincinnati, has recalled the product.

47 Germans Killed In Rail Collision

RADEVORMWALD, Germany (UPI) — An express freight hurtled headon into a train carrying 100 children back from a school outing Thursday night in West Germany's worst rail disaster.

A police spokesman said 47 persons were killed, including 41 children, and 25 others were injured, many seriously.

The accident occurred on a single track when the children, who had been on a day excursion to the North Sea port of Bremen, were little more than 15 minutes away from the parents waiting for them at Radevormwald station.

The 63-ton diesel locomotive hauling the freight smashed into the two-car diesel unit carrying the children, crushing the first passenger car.

A clerk at Radevormwald town hall, who asked not to be identified, said she followed other people attracted by the sirens of police cars, fire engines and ambulances speeding to the scene, about two miles from the town.

"What I saw was terrible," she said. "The first of the rail cars was crushed so much that I felt I could have held it within the width of my arms."

The injured children were rushed to nearby hospitals and the dead were laid out in rows of coffins inside a gymnasium at Radevormwald.

Grief-stricken parents, many sobbing uncontrollably after identifying their children among the dead, stood in groups among the coffins.

On a nearby blackboard an official chalked the names of the dead and injured as they were identified.

The accident was the worst railway disaster since the state of West Germany was created in 1949.

The public prosecutor at Radevormwald, responsible for investigating such accidents in his district, said the crash "apparently stemmed from human error." A railways spokesman said the accident did not result from a mechanical failure on either train.

219 Enemy Die In Clash In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese infantrymen and tank crews with heavy U.S. air support killed 219 Communist soldiers today in the third day of bitter fighting around the town of Snuol in northeastern Cambodia, military spokesmen in Saigon reported.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said Communist troops were driven out of Snoul Thursday but had counter-attacked with mortars and infantry to within 500 yards of the town.

The fighting cost the Army of the Republic of (South) Vietnam (ARVN) at least eight dead and 18 wounded, ARVN spokesmen said, for a total of at least 12 over the three-day period.

Other military sources said more than 30 South Vietnamese have been killed in three days of the heaviest combat around Snoul since the allied invasion of Cambodia 13 months ago.

Snoul, a market town in a rubber-plantation area, straddles Highway 7 about 115 miles northeast of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, and about 90 miles northwest of Saigon.

A year ago most of the town was destroyed by the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in the allied strike into Cambodia. U.S. tank crews who occupied the town looted it in a widely reported incident.

ARVN spokesmen in Saigon claimed a "body count" of 99 Communists after a three-hour battle just west of Snoul today.

Only scattered fighting — as reported in South Vietnam, but the U.S. command said two Americans died Thursday when an Army AH1 "Cobra" helicopter gunship crashed near Quang Tri, 400 miles north of Saigon. Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

Product Recalled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration warns that a toy shaving kit called "Merry Lather N' Lotion Toiletries" poses a severe health hazard because the lotion and cream in the kit contain a bacteria. The agency said the bacteria could cause infections around the eyes, in the ears, nose and throat and in skin and connective tissues. It said the manufacturer, Merrymaking Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of Leisure Dymanics Inc., Cincinnati, has recalled the product.

47 Germans Killed In Rail Collision

RADEVORMWALD, Germany (UPI) — An express freight hurtled headon into a train carrying 100 children back from a school outing Thursday night in West Germany's worst rail disaster.

A police spokesman said 47 persons were killed, including 41 children, and 25 others were injured, many seriously.

The accident occurred on a single track when the children, who had been on a day excursion to the North Sea port of Bremen, were little more than 15 minutes away from the parents waiting for them at Radevormwald station.

The 63-ton diesel locomotive hauling the freight smashed into the two-car diesel unit carrying the children, crushing the first passenger car.

A clerk at Radevormwald town hall, who asked not to be identified, said she followed other people attracted by the sirens of police cars, fire engines and ambulances speeding to the scene, about two miles from the town.

"What I saw was terrible," she said. "The first of the rail cars was crushed so much that I felt I could have held it within the width of my arms."

The injured children were rushed to nearby hospitals and the dead were laid out in rows of coffins inside a gymnasium at Radevormwald.

Grief-stricken parents, many sobbing uncontrollably after identifying their children among the dead, stood in groups among the coffins.

On a nearby blackboard an official chalked the names of the dead and injured as they were identified.

The accident was the worst railway disaster since the state of West Germany was created in 1949.

The public prosecutor at Radevormwald, responsible for investigating such accidents in his district, said the crash "apparently stemmed from human error." A railways spokesman said the accident did not result from a mechanical failure on either train.

You just think you can't afford a country club.

The truth is: you can.

At Rancho del Norte in the Sonoma Hills — a mere hour's drive from the Golden Gate Bridge — you can enjoy all the convenience of a private club without the overwhelming expense. For annual dues of $300, you have 305 acres of outdoor recreation available to you 365 days a year.

When you compare that to the total cost of weekend excursions with your family over the year, the economics alone show you the advantage of belonging to Rancho del Norte. But there are many other advantages, too.

Rolling hills, a year-round creek, riding stables, livestock corrals, a large swimming pool, beautiful camping area, a five-acre lake (currently under construction), and a recreation lodge — all for you to enjoy as you will . . . when you will. Reservations are never necessary. And because our membership is limited, you'll never be crowded. There's no tipping, and you may bring guests at no extra charge.

A Free Family Day at Rancho del Norte

Come take a look for yourself . . . this weekend or next. Bring the entire family and enjoy a full day at Rancho del Norte at no cost to you whatsoever. There's a free barbecue, a large open space where your children can wander, and ample time for you to explore the grounds and lodge on your own.

How to get to Rancho del Norte

Go north on Highway 101 to the River Road exit (approximately 4 miles above Santa Rosa). Proceed east. You'll know you're on the right road if you come to a stop sign in a couple of blocks with a Texaco station on the right. Continue on this road (which goes to Calistoga) for 8 miles. (This road changes names twice — from River Road to Mark West Springs to Porter Creek Road, so do not be confused.) At this point watch for our mailbox and small sign on the right. The address is 3485 Porter Creek Road. Turn immediately to the left over a small bridge and follow the signs to the lodge. The Resident Manager will be there to greet you. Our telephone number: (707) 545-4898.

ARABIAN KING VISITS WHITE HOUSE

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia inspects the honor guard with President Richard M. Nixon and the guard's commanding officer, Col. Myron E. Lee Jr. (center), on the South Lawn of the White House. The monarch, touring the United States on a goodwill visit, brought along his own chef, butler and taster to prepare the king's lunch yesterday. Nixon and the other guests ate food prepared by the regular White House staff.

KATE SEBB'S SAGA

Prodded By Red Rifles, Bound Tight With Wire

By KATE WEBB
U.P. International

Editor's Note: Following is the fifth in a series of personal impressions written by UPI's 28-year-old Phnom Pnenh bureau chief about her capture and release 23 days later by North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

It seemed about two hours before the first rest stop. We lay against a roadside bank. There were yells from nearby trees and soldiers appeared. They stood over us, cocked their rifles and prodded us. Our shoes and Suzuki's glasses were ripped off and the soldiers retied the men with wire, tighter this time. Mine were left alone.

One of the guards walked away and the other sat smoking. I motioned my head at a soldier's canteen and asked for water. The soldier laughed and clicked his AK breach again. Too tired to care, I closed my eyes. "American," I heard the soldier say. "No, no, Anglaise, English," Sarath insisted. Jimmy nudged my shoulder with his. "Waster, miss," he said.

They carry their water in the jungle in ponchos tied by each end to a wooden pole. There must have been two gallons and we drained it as the guards stood by laughing.

We shuffled on until dusk, the asphalt burning our feet and splinters of bamboo cutting into our toes. We were still thirsty, but we were sweating again. We discarded our tree branches, no longer caring about the planes. Finally, we stopped. Soldiers appeared from the forest and grouped around. I had four cigarettes left and smoked two, which the soldiers lit for me. The other prisoners were taken behind a nearby tree.

They were led off one by one, the Cambodians first. "Food and water, my foot — shot one by one," I thought.

I knew that Charoon, still clad only in his shorts, was thinking the same thing and I tried to move nearer to him. But a guard moved him behind the tree with the others and motioned me to stay where I was. I lay in a hollow by the roadside, dozing.

Many times, a soldier would ask "American?" Many times I repeated, "Anglaise." Night fell. The soldiers appeared like shadows, all clad in the dull blues, browns and green of the Communist "line" soldier-equivalent to the American "grunt" in Vietnam.

Trucks moved on the road and into the forest with shaded headlights. I again found myself grimly amused at what observation planes could not observe.

A Cambodian wearing a bright blue shirt and civilian trousers appeared from somewhere and soon the other five captives were brought back. They whispered that they had simply undergone questioning by the Vietnamese. The Cambodian, prompted by Vietnamese, announced in Cambodian that we were prisoners of the Cambodian Liberation Forces. He said we were not to fear for our lives and would be taken a short way to another place. He said the Liberation Armed Forces were "humane."

Our ropes were replaced with green plastic covered wire. Mine, I noticed, were looser than the others. Tied in a chain and warned again not to run from the planes, we marched off into the night.

I remember little of that walk, except that we had no shoes. We were passed by shadowy groups of troops, some girls with pony tail hair styles. Four litters moved past like shadows, their bearers running at a shuffling trot. Two litters were closed, carrying dead. Groans and screams came from another and a guard told us it was a malaria case.

We were moving deep into the mountains and an artillery barrage started. We were herded into a three-man bunker. The guards stayed outside. The bunker was typical, deep and thick with about three feet of overhead cover. The six of us crammed inside, hardly able to breathe for what seemed about 30 minutes. It also smelled — of us.

Our party moved across creek beds, always uphill. We were passed by two soldiers carrying the tube of a 75 millimeter recoiless rifle on a tree branch and struggling and slithering under its weight.

Sometime in the middle of the night, we stopped at a military camp which had flimsy shelters over deep bunkers. A Vietnamese, speaking English with extreme difficulty, questioned me ... name, age, rank ... we were to hear the same questions often during the coming days. This night, the others were questioned separately, in the dark and closely watched by their guards.

They brought us a basket of rice and thin pork fat soup, our first meal in about 40 hours. I ate about a half bowl of the mixture, gagged and threw up on my sleeve. The others didn't seem to notice and continued eating. I drank some tea instead.

Later, I was put in one bunker and the others in another and we slept the few remaining hours until dawn.

I emerged from the bunker streaked with the red dust of its walls. A group of soldiers was eating. I asked if I could wash, pointing to a piece of soap each soldier carried in a strip of plastic. One soldier, amused, took me to a stream and watched as I splashed water over myself and my clothes. I took off my jeans and scrubbed them with sand. I happened to be wearing psychedelic colored pucci underwear. They stared, fascinated, and motioned with my rifle that I should wash my shirt, too. I grinned at him and shook my head, no.

We were given the breakfast that was to become our staple diet — rice with fatty pork in a salt sauce. The soldiers ate the same. We were questioned again and they fingered through our belongings. We offered them odd trinkets, but they refused them.

Heang's feet looked like pulp. A soldier threaded them with a needle and thread leaving the thread in the swollen places to allow the pus to run out. The Vietnamese knew about sore feet; all had gaping ulcers and scars from their toes to their knees.

400 Attend Dinner For Senator

More than 400 persons turned out last night at Peacock Gap Country Club for a birthday party and fund-raising affair for Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Behr, elected to the state Senate last November, was 55 on Tuesday. Aides to the senator said the dinner was expected to raise more than $10,000 toward wiping out a campaign deficit of nearly $18,000.

Among Republican notables at the $25-per-plate dinner were state Controller Houston I. Flournoy; Norman B. Livermore Jr., secretary of the State Resources Agency; William Penn Mott, state director of parks and recreation, and Putnam Livermore, chairman of the Republican State Central committee.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, honorary chairman, sent good wishes.

Guest speaker Flournoy spoke of the huge task facing the 1971 Legislature — grappling with welfare and tax reform while at the same time meeting the state's dire fiscal need.

Dinner co-chairmen were Leland H. Jordan, general manager of Behr's campaign, and Rodgers Broomhead of Ross, chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

Arrests In Case Of LSD-Laced Powder

HUNTINGTON STATION, N.Y. (UPI)—Police said two Long Island men who were arraigned on drug charges Wednesday allegedly mixed LSD with a chocolate powder and sold it to high school students to drink in their milk during lunch breaks.

Police said they seized 30,000 doses of LSD. The men, Nicholas F. Camerano, Jr., 23, and Raymond A. Castoro, 22, were ordered held without bail. Two other men were arrested on drug possession charges.

Lockheed Loan Foes Recruiting Industrial Leaders To Testify

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional opponents of President Nixon's plan to save the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from bankruptcy are turning to an unlikely ally —the business community.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leader of the opposition, is writing to the presiddents of the nation's 100 largest corporations and of the 20 largest aerospace firms in search of prominent witnesses who will come to Washington to testify against the plan.

His pitch is that free enterprise is threatened and government control inevitable if Washington starts bailing out firms which run into trouble.

The Senate Banking Committee will open hearings June 7 on Nixon's bill under which the federal government would guarantee repayment if Lockheed fails to make good on $250 million worth of bank loans.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., is the chairman of the committee and the chief sponsor of Nixon's bill. Four other committee members are co-sponsors.

But Proxmire counts himself and four other members of the 15-man committee as opponents. He hopes to swing over three of those in the middle and kill the bill in the committee.

Toward that end, Proxmire hopes to show that the business community itself is cool to Nixon's plan.

He is trying to convince Jack H. Vollbrecht, president of Aerojet-General Corp., to testify against it.

Vollbrecht, something of a maverick in the aerospace industry, argues, "It is wrong to protect an environment in which a company makes a bad bid and is not forced to live with the consequences of it."

Acting out of an economic motive, General Electric Co. also opposes the proposed "departure from our competitive enterprise system." GE makes engines for planes which will compete with Lockheed's airbus, the L-1011.

Lockheed intended to buy engines for the airbus from Britain's Rolls-Royce, which underbidded GE for the contract. Rolls-Royce's economic failure threatened the project and that is enough to threaten to tip Lockheed into trouble.

Opposition to the Lockheed loan guarantee also comes from McDonnell-Douglas, a major competitor, and is said to have been expressed privately by the Boeing Corp., anothar big plane maker.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., who fought to save the supersonic transport for Boeing, says he wants to take "a good long look" at Nixon's plan. "If they're going to do it for one company, they ought to do it for all," he says.

Younger's Son Named To Post

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Attorney General Evelle Younger has appointed his son to a $20,700-a-year job, the attorney general's office confirmed Thursday.

Eric Younger, 28, will be a special assistant attorney general in charge of liaison between the attorney general and the California Council on Criminal Justice.

The council was set up to consider special projects, such as helicopters or other police aids, to assist local law enforcement agencies.

Young Younger, a magna cum laude graduate of the Harvard Law School, has been with a southern California law firm from which he took a year's leave of absence to accept the state post.

A former policeman, he is still a member of the Pasadena Police Reserve.

Trail Ride Planned By Grange Group

The Bellevue Grange Young Marrieds group will sponsor an amateur trail ride at Sugarloaf Ridge State Park, Kenwood, on June 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A barbeque will be held at the end of the ride and prizes will be awarded. Judging will be based on the performance of both the rider and the horse. Entry forms may be received until June 5 from Sherry Schmidt, 3091 Eastman Lane, Petaluma.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Attorney General Evelle Younger has appointed his son to a $20,700-a-year job, the attorney general's office confirmed Thursday.

Eric Younger, 28, will be a special assistant attorney general in charge of liaison between the attorney general and the California Council on Criminal Justice.

The council was set up to consider special projects, such as helicopters or other police aids, to assist local law enforcement agencies.

Young Younger, a magna cum laude graduate of the Harvard Law School, has been with a southern California law firm from which he took a year's leave of absence to accept the state post.

A former policeman, he is still a member of the Pasadena Police Reserve.

Trail Ride Planned By Grange Group

The Bellevue Grange Young Marrieds group will sponsor an amateur trail ride at Sugarloaf Ridge State Park, Kenwood, on June 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A barbeque will be held at the end of the ride and prizes will be awarded. Judging will be based on the performance of both the rider and the horse. Entry forms may be received until June 5 from Sherry Schmidt, 3091 Eastman Lane, Petaluma.

KATE SEBB'S SAGA

Prodded By Red Rifles, Bound Tight With Wire

By KATE WEBB
U.P. International

Editor's Note: Following is the fifth in a series of personal impressions written by UPI's 28-year-old Phnom Pnenh bureau chief about her capture and release 23 days later by North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

It seemed about two hours before the first rest stop. We lay against a roadside bank. There were yells from nearby trees and soldiers appeared. They stood over us, cocked their rifles and prodded us. Our shoes and Suzuki's glasses were ripped off and the soldiers retied the men with wire, tighter this time. Mine were left alone.

One of the guards walked away and the other sat smoking. I motioned my head at a soldier's canteen and asked for water. The soldier laughed and clicked his AK breach again. Too tired to care, I closed my eyes. "American," I heard the soldier say. "No, no, Anglaise, English," Sarath insisted. Jimmy nudged my shoulder with his. "Waster, miss," he said.

They carry their water in the jungle in ponchos tied by each end to a wooden pole. There must have been two gallons and we drained it as the guards stood by laughing.

We shuffled on until dusk, the asphalt burning our feet and splinters of bamboo cutting into our toes. We were still thirsty, but we were sweating again. We discarded our tree branches, no longer caring about the planes. Finally, we stopped. Soldiers appeared from the forest and grouped around. I had four cigarettes left and smoked two, which the soldiers lit for me. The other prisoners were taken behind a nearby tree.

They were led off one by one, the Cambodians first. "Food and water, my foot — shot one by one," I thought.

I knew that Charoon, still clad only in his shorts, was thinking the same thing and I tried to move nearer to him. But a guard moved him behind the tree with the others and motioned me to stay where I was. I lay in a hollow by the roadside, dozing.

Many times, a soldier would ask "American?" Many times I repeated, "Anglaise." Night fell. The soldiers appeared like shadows, all clad in the dull blues, browns and green of the Communist "line" soldier-equivalent to the American "grunt" in Vietnam.

Trucks moved on the road and into the forest with shaded headlights. I again found myself grimly amused at what observation planes could not observe.

A Cambodian wearing a bright blue shirt and civilian trousers appeared from somewhere and soon the other five captives were brought back. They whispered that they had simply undergone questioning by the Vietnamese. The Cambodian, prompted by Vietnamese, announced in Cambodian that we were prisoners of the Cambodian Liberation Forces. He said we were not to fear for our lives and would be taken a short way to another place. He said the Liberation Armed Forces were "humane."

Our ropes were replaced with green plastic covered wire. Mine, I noticed, were looser than the others. Tied in a chain and warned again not to run from the planes, we marched off into the night.

I remember little of that walk, except that we had no shoes. We were passed by shadowy groups of troops, some girls with pony tail hair styles. Four litters moved past like shadows, their bearers running at a shuffling trot. Two litters were closed, carrying dead. Groans and screams came from another and a guard told us it was a malaria case.

We were moving deep into the mountains and an artillery barrage started. We were herded into a three-man bunker. The guards stayed outside. The bunker was typical, deep and thick with about three feet of overhead cover. The six of us crammed inside, hardly able to breathe for what seemed about 30 minutes. It also smelled — of us.

Our party moved across creek beds, always uphill. We were passed by two soldiers carrying the tube of a 75 millimeter recoiless rifle on a tree branch and struggling and slithering under its weight.

Sometime in the middle of the night, we stopped at a military camp which had flimsy shelters over deep bunkers. A Vietnamese, speaking English with extreme difficulty, questioned me ... name, age, rank ... we were to hear the same questions often during the coming days. This night, the others were questioned separately, in the dark and closely watched by their guards.

They brought us a basket of rice and thin pork fat soup, our first meal in about 40 hours. I ate about a half bowl of the mixture, gagged and threw up on my sleeve. The others didn't seem to notice and continued eating. I drank some tea instead.

Later, I was put in one bunker and the others in another and we slept the few remaining hours until dawn.

I emerged from the bunker streaked with the red dust of its walls. A group of soldiers was eating. I asked if I could wash, pointing to a piece of soap each soldier carried in a strip of plastic. One soldier, amused, took me to a stream and watched as I splashed water over myself and my clothes. I took off my jeans and scrubbed them with sand. I happened to be wearing psychedelic colored pucci underwear. They stared, fascinated, and motioned with my rifle that I should wash my shirt, too. I grinned at him and shook my head, no.

We were given the breakfast that was to become our staple diet — rice with fatty pork in a salt sauce. The soldiers ate the same. We were questioned again and they fingered through our belongings. We offered them odd trinkets, but they refused them.

Heang's feet looked like pulp. A soldier threaded them with a needle and thread leaving the thread in the swollen places to allow the pus to run out. The Vietnamese knew about sore feet; all had gaping ulcers and scars from their toes to their knees.

For an 11 minute affair call 388-5555

We know you'd like to spend a lot more time in the air with our pretty new stewardesses than we can give you. They are charming, winsome, graceful, efficient and very chicly dressed (heavens no, they don't wear uniforms). Unfortunately the ride between Marin and the San Francisco Airport is only 11 minutes and we aren't about to delay arrival time. It would ruin our near-perfect record. We are on time 99.2% of the time. The best record in the business. But you can always come back for more.

Portrait Of Murder Suspect, Farm Area

mansion, officers gave him a blanket to put over his head to thwart news photographers.

Corona is one of five brothers who came to this area from Jalisco, Mexico, the first in the early 1940s. The big thing then was the Beale Army Camp, then a staging area and now a large Air Force base.

One of the brothers opened a bar. The others went into the labor contracting business. In the Central Valley migrant workers are a necessity for the landowners. The transients range from about 2,000 in the winter months to 20,000 when the peaches and other crops are in harvest.

Mexican nationals with "green cards" swarm into the area in the summer. But when the orchards need pruning and thinning, the contractors seek out the "locals" and the best sources are the bars on Marysville's Skid Row where on a sober day a man can pick up $20.

That was Corona's calling. By word of mouth, Mexican workers came to him. But in the duller seasons, he spent much time in the Bonanza Club, the New Palm and the other dives of a miniature Bowery. He was there on business. According to the men who knew him, he never took a drink, he never smoked.

One man who knew him well is Ted Ramirez, a barber of Mexican extraction who is married to a girl named MacKenzie, a descendant of the Stuart clan. Like all barbers, Ramirez likes to talk.

"He was a quiet fellow," Ramirez said. "He would sit and shoot the breeze. But then suddenly you'd be off on an entirely different direction in the conversation.

"He would be in here (the Bonanza) in the morning asking if anyone wanted to pick up a few bucks in the orchards. Maybe four guys would say "okay" and they would pile into that red and white pickup of his and go off.

"Then sometimes he would come in late at night and line up guys to work the next day. He never got in arguments. I knew him and all his brothers. They started leaving about two years ago."

Corona's attorney is Roy J. Van Der Heuvel. He is a public defender in Sutter County and also has practiced law here for the past six years.

Van Der Heuvel, although refusing to discuss material facts in the case under a court gag order, shook things up a bit on the day of his appointment by saying:

"They have the wrong man."

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker is convinced they have the right man.

Whiteaker is 31, one of the youngest law enforcement officers ever to hold such a post. He also is the coroner for Sutter County, although a pathologist performed the autopisies.

"This is the man," Whiteaker said. He said that before Yuba City Judicial Court Judge J.J. Hankins ordered everyone to clam up about the killing. That order has left newsmen scratching in vain about a motive.

According to court records, Corona had spent three months in the Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, Calif., in 1956, suffering from "delusions and hallucinations" and was diagnosed as a schizophrenic. He was released three months later as recovered.

One of the first two bodies identified was that of Sigrid Emil Beierman, 63, of Marysville. Police said Beierman last was seen entering a 1970 van driven by Corona. This report was checked out after Beierman was reported missing several weeks ago, then it was dropped until his body was found. It apparently helped lead Sutter County officers to Iorona, although they, under the court order, would not say so.

One of Corona's brothers, Pedro, did not leave the area when the others did. He described Juan as "the best brother I have. He sends money every week to our mother in Autlan and takes care of any of the brothers who come up here."

Juan's wife Gloria, through an interpreter, said he "always treated me right and never was violent with me or our four children."

She shook her head. "I'll never believe this," she said. "I can't understand it."

The district attorney, who eventually will prosecute the case, is another young man. His name is D. Dave Teja. He is of East Indian descendant, savvy, cool.

Under the instructions, Corona once again was shielded by a blanket when he made his first court appearance Wednesday. The public and the press were barred from Judge Hankins' courtroom.

Corona spoke one word in his first appearance, when Hankins asked him if he had the $5,000 to $20,000 which it might require to hire his own defense attorney. "No," he said.

That morning two of Corona's children were waiting for a school bus. They were oblivious to the tragedy. One wore a red and orange plaid dress and the other a blue dress. Both had neatly shined white oxford shoes. A man apparently a relative, came along and hustled them off.

Mrs. Gloria Corona was crying.

"Is this going to hurt my children?" she asked. "Is it going to be on television and the newspapers?"

In the New Palm Hotel, Rose the barmaid was talking about the man who took the double Old Crow.

"He said that Juan used to ask him if he was a local and what nationality and how old and whether he had any relatives," Rose said. And still the bodies continued to be unearthed. The world watched the bizarre happenings in the lush fruit country along the Feather River, strangely fascinated.

And always the unanswered question:

Why?

pressed determination to bring about the earliest liquidation of the consequences of Israel's aggression and reestablish a fair peace in the Middle East that would take into account the legitimate interests of the Arab people of Palestine."

However, the treaty clearly gave Sadat a go-ahead on continuing talks that might lead to peace in the Middle East. The Tass announcement said the two sides "agreed that the policy followed by the United Arab Republic toward a peaceful settlement of the Middle East crisis is one which can create an atmosphere for a just and lasting peace in the area."

Other main points in the treaty:

—The Soviet Union will continue military support to Egypt and continue training Egyptians on the weapons it provides.

—The two nations will "consult each other immediately on matters of interest to their countries."

—Neither state will interfere in the other's affairs nor join treaties or pacts to which the other is opposed.

7 Counties Seek Ruling On Welfare

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Seven California counties have asked the state Court of Appeal to overrule a Sacramento Superior Court decision which forbids the state from cutting welfare payments to persons with large incomes.

The Sacramento decision reversed a ruling by an Alameda County court, which found that the welfare office rules were being interpreted too generously.

About 27,500 families would be cut from relief rolls if the state were allowed to follow the ruling handed down in the Alameda County case. However, the California Welfare Rights Organization went to the Sacramento court and got a contradictory ruling from the Superior Court there.

Joining Alameda County in the appeal were Marin, San Mateo, Tulare, Butte, San Diego and Santa Clara.

Draft Call Finds Only 1 Inductee

Only one of the 37 youths ordered to report to the Marin County Selective Service Board in May actually was inducted, executive secretary Joy M. Kinzer reported yesterday.

She said one refused induction, 19 failed to report, three were rejected, one was transferred, orders were canceled for three, one was reclassified to 1-SC, induction was still pending for five, two walked out, and new orders were issued for one.

The only man inducted was Hans P. Kramer of Fairfax.

Mrs. Kintzer said orders will go to 43 Marin County registrants in June, all men with numbers below 195 in the 1970 lottery or 125 in the 1971 lottery.

Career Choice Director Out

A directory of Marin County businesses and industries willing to assist students in selecting a career has been released by the Marin County Industry-Education Council.

The catalogue lists 110 businesses, industries and agencies which will provide speakers, demonstrations, tours and, in some cases, on-the-job training programs.

It was developed primarily for teachers and counselors and divides businesses into nine "cluster areas" — arts, business, health, nature, personal services, trade and industry, technology, public service and professional.

Four Booked In Possession Of Grass

Four Fairfax men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of marijuana possession following their arrest when a neighbor made a complaint about their dog.

Released without bail to appear next Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court were James Harry Caulkett, 20; Robert Wesley Cobbler, 19; James Reed Orchard, 22; and Steven Jacques Miramon, 21, all of 266 Cascade Drive in Fairfax. They were arrested at 6:20 p.m. when the neighbor, Mike Morarity, who also is a Fairfax police officer, went to the house to complain about the dog destroying his garden.

According to the police report, the four were arrested when the officer saw them preparing to roll a marijuana cigarette as he approached the house.

Soviets Launch Unmanned Probe

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today launched its second unmanned Cosmos earth satellite in as many days, the official Tass news agency said.

As usual, Tass gave no details of the mission of Cosmos 423 or Cosmos 424. It said the equipment aboard both was functioning normally.

Tass said Cosmos 424 went into an orbit a maximum 192 miles and a minimum 133 miles from the earths surface. It orbited the earth every 89.4 minutes at an orbital inclination of 65.4 degrees.

Fence Supply Yard, Trailer Given Nod

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday approved two use permit requests from Southern Sonoma residents.

The board granted the request of Richard McCaulley to operate a fence materials storage yard at 7070 Gravenstein Highway, Cotati, but said his advertising sign must be unlighted. It also approved the request of George M. Reeves to place a mobile home at 10822 Valley Ford Road, Petaluma, to house an agricultural worker.

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 8 in Marin Municipal Court for Sgt. George Milton Elsea, 26, of Hamilton Air Force Base, who is charged with possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia.

He was arrested May 11 when Novato police stopped his car because it didn't have a front license plate. They said they found a water pipe and three small bags of suspected pot in the car.

MARY H. SIMONDS
101 years of life

OBITUARIES

Mary H. Simonds, 101, Dies

Funeral service for Mary H. Simonds, who lived more than a century and whose family was the first to settle in Indian Valley in Novato, was held yesterday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Simonds, 101, died Tuesday at a local convalescent hospital where she had lived for several years.

On her 100th birthday she told the Independent-Journal she attributed her long life to living by the Golden Rule and being a good citizen.

Born in Christchurch, New Zealand, she sailed with her parents to San Francisco when she was four years old. According to her own account, her father had difficulty finding housing for His family of seven until he threatened go throw his five children into the Bay.

She was married on Christmas Day in 1897 to Walter Simonds Sr. and the couple built a house on 27th Avenue in San Francisco. Two weeks after they moved in, the earthquake hit and the house was filled with relatives and friends who had lost their homes.

When her parents purchased 40 acres of land in Indian Valley, she and her husband bought the adjoining five acres. They and their two children lived in four tents for a year until they constructed a barn and, later, a house.

Mrs. Simonds who celebrated her golden wedding anniversary a few years before her husband died in 1951 is survived by a son, Walter A. Simonds of Novato; a daughter, Gertrude M. Serres of Novato; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions to Guide Dogs for the Blind, San Rafael, would be preferred by the family.

Man Pleads To Reduced Charge

Aubrey Kenneth Rattan, 18, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing stolen property.

He is to be sentenced July 2.

Rattan, who was originally charged with felony burglary, was arrested May 6 in connection with the theft of a $1,500 video tape outfit from a room at the Tiburon Lodge March 9.

The arrest of Rattan and a companion who was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall ended a two-month investigation by the Tiburon Sheriff's Substation.

Warehouse Plan Gets Novato Nod

Novato Plan Review Committee has approved design of three proposed warehouses at Hamilton Industrial Park, which lies in a nearby unincorporated area.

The planning staff explained that construction planned in areas next to the city is referred to the city by the Marin County Planning Department for comment.

Registration For Summer Nursery

Formative Years Teaching nursery schools in Mill Valley and San Rafael are accepting registration for summer programs for children 3 to 6, according to Jaki Albright, director of the schools.

Swimming lessons, arts and crafts and excursions are among the activities that be offered from June 14-July 9 and July 12-Aug. 6 in Mill Valley and June 21-July 30 in San Rafael.

Sutton, 55, died unexpectly Tuesday while on a business trip to Colorado Springs, Colo. Death apparently was due to a heart attack, according to the El Paso County coroner's office.

He was a native of Youngstown, Ohio, and had lived in Marin since 1968, residing at 395 Cecelia Way, Tiburon.

Sutton was a member of Barstow Lodge 682, Free and Accepted Masons.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy, of the home address; a son, George B. Sutton of Tiburon, and a brother, Fred A. Sutton Sr., of Bristolville, Ohio.

mansion, officers gave him a blanket to put over his head to thwart news photographers.

Corona is one of five brothers who came to this area from Jalisco, Mexico, the first in the early 1940s. The big thing then was the Beale Army Camp, then a staging area and now a large Air Force base.

One of the brothers opened a bar. The others went into the labor contracting business. In the Central Valley migrant workers are a necessity for the landowners. The transients range from about 2,000 in the winter months to 20,000 when the peaches and other crops are in harvest.

Mexican nationals with "green cards" swarm into the area in the summer. But when the orchards need pruning and thinning, the contractors seek out the "locals" and the best sources are the bars on Marysville's Skid Row where on a sober day a man can pick up $20.

That was Corona's calling. By word of mouth, Mexican workers came to him. But in the duller seasons, he spent much time in the Bonanza Club, the New Palm and the other dives of a miniature Bowery. He was there on business. According to the men who knew him, he never took a drink, he never smoked.

One man who knew him well is Ted Ramirez, a barber of Mexican extraction who is married to a girl named MacKenzie, a descendant of the Stuart clan. Like all barbers, Ramirez likes to talk.

"He was a quiet fellow," Ramirez said. "He would sit and shoot the breeze. But then suddenly you'd be off on an entirely different direction in the conversation.

"He would be in here (the Bonanza) in the morning asking if anyone wanted to pick up a few bucks in the orchards. Maybe four guys would say "okay" and they would pile into that red and white pickup of his and go off.

"Then sometimes he would come in late at night and line up guys to work the next day. He never got in arguments. I knew him and all his brothers. They started leaving about two years ago."

Corona's attorney is Roy J. Van Der Heuvel. He is a public defender in Sutter County and also has practiced law here for the past six years.

Van Der Heuvel, although refusing to discuss material facts in the case under a court gag order, shook things up a bit on the day of his appointment by saying:

"They have the wrong man."

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker is convinced they have the right man.

Whiteaker is 31, one of the youngest law enforcement officers ever to hold such a post. He also is the coroner for Sutter County, although a pathologist performed the autopisies.

"This is the man," Whiteaker said. He said that before Yuba City Judicial Court Judge J.J. Hankins ordered everyone to clam up about the killing. That order has left newsmen scratching in vain about a motive.

According to court records, Corona had spent three months in the Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, Calif., in 1956, suffering from "delusions and hallucinations" and was diagnosed as a schizophrenic. He was released three months later as recovered.

One of the first two bodies identified was that of Sigrid Emil Beierman, 63, of Marysville. Police said Beierman last was seen entering a 1970 van driven by Corona. This report was checked out after Beierman was reported missing several weeks ago, then it was dropped until his body was found. It apparently helped lead Sutter County officers to Iorona, although they, under the court order, would not say so.

One of Corona's brothers, Pedro, did not leave the area when the others did. He described Juan as "the best brother I have. He sends money every week to our mother in Autlan and takes care of any of the brothers who come up here."

Juan's wife Gloria, through an interpreter, said he "always treated me right and never was violent with me or our four children."

She shook her head. "I'll never believe this," she said. "I can't understand it."

The district attorney, who eventually will prosecute the case, is another young man. His name is D. Dave Teja. He is of East Indian descendant, savvy, cool.

Under the instructions, Corona once again was shielded by a blanket when he made his first court appearance Wednesday. The public and the press were barred from Judge Hankins' courtroom.

Corona spoke one word in his first appearance, when Hankins asked him if he had the $5,000 to $20,000 which it might require to hire his own defense attorney. "No," he said.

That morning two of Corona's children were waiting for a school bus. They were oblivious to the tragedy. One wore a red and orange plaid dress and the other a blue dress. Both had neatly shined white oxford shoes. A man apparently a relative, came along and hustled them off.

Mrs. Gloria Corona was crying.

"Is this going to hurt my children?" she asked. "Is it going to be on television and the newspapers?"

In the New Palm Hotel, Rose the barmaid was talking about the man who took the double Old Crow.

"He said that Juan used to ask him if he was a local and what nationality and how old and whether he had any relatives," Rose said. And still the bodies continued to be unearthed. The world watched the bizarre happenings in the lush fruit country along the Feather River, strangely fascinated.

And always the unanswered question:

Why?

pressed determination to bring about the earliest liquidation of the consequences of Israel's aggression and reestablish a fair peace in the Middle East that would take into account the legitimate interests of the Arab people of Palestine."

However, the treaty clearly gave Sadat a go-ahead on continuing talks that might lead to peace in the Middle East. The Tass announcement said the two sides "agreed that the policy followed by the United Arab Republic toward a peaceful settlement of the Middle East crisis is one which can create an atmosphere for a just and lasting peace in the area."

Other main points in the treaty:

—The Soviet Union will continue military support to Egypt and continue training Egyptians on the weapons it provides.

—The two nations will "consult each other immediately on matters of interest to their countries."

—Neither state will interfere in the other's affairs nor join treaties or pacts to which the other is opposed.

7 Counties Seek Ruling On Welfare

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Seven California counties have asked the state Court of Appeal to overrule a Sacramento Superior Court decision which forbids the state from cutting welfare payments to persons with large incomes.

The Sacramento decision reversed a ruling by an Alameda County court, which found that the welfare office rules were being interpreted too generously.

About 27,500 families would be cut from relief rolls if the state were allowed to follow the ruling handed down in the Alameda County case. However, the California Welfare Rights Organization went to the Sacramento court and got a contradictory ruling from the Superior Court there.

Joining Alameda County in the appeal were Marin, San Mateo, Tulare, Butte, San Diego and Santa Clara.

Draft Call Finds Only 1 Inductee

Only one of the 37 youths ordered to report to the Marin County Selective Service Board in May actually was inducted, executive secretary Joy M. Kinzer reported yesterday.

She said one refused induction, 19 failed to report, three were rejected, one was transferred, orders were canceled for three, one was reclassified to 1-SC, induction was still pending for five, two walked out, and new orders were issued for one.

The only man inducted was Hans P. Kramer of Fairfax.

Mrs. Kintzer said orders will go to 43 Marin County registrants in June, all men with numbers below 195 in the 1970 lottery or 125 in the 1971 lottery.

Career Choice Director Out

A directory of Marin County businesses and industries willing to assist students in selecting a career has been released by the Marin County Industry-Education Council.

The catalogue lists 110 businesses, industries and agencies which will provide speakers, demonstrations, tours and, in some cases, on-the-job training programs.

It was developed primarily for teachers and counselors and divides businesses into nine "cluster areas" — arts, business, health, nature, personal services, trade and industry, technology, public service and professional.

Four Booked In Possession Of Grass

Four Fairfax men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of marijuana possession following their arrest when a neighbor made a complaint about their dog.

Released without bail to appear next Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court were James Harry Caulkett, 20; Robert Wesley Cobbler, 19; James Reed Orchard, 22; and Steven Jacques Miramon, 21, all of 266 Cascade Drive in Fairfax. They were arrested at 6:20 p.m. when the neighbor, Mike Morarity, who also is a Fairfax police officer, went to the house to complain about the dog destroying his garden.

According to the police report, the four were arrested when the officer saw them preparing to roll a marijuana cigarette as he approached the house.

Soviets Launch Unmanned Probe

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today launched its second unmanned Cosmos earth satellite in as many days, the official Tass news agency said.

As usual, Tass gave no details of the mission of Cosmos 423 or Cosmos 424. It said the equipment aboard both was functioning normally.

Tass said Cosmos 424 went into an orbit a maximum 192 miles and a minimum 133 miles from the earths surface. It orbited the earth every 89.4 minutes at an orbital inclination of 65.4 degrees.

Fence Supply Yard, Trailer Given Nod

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday approved two use permit requests from Southern Sonoma residents.

The board granted the request of Richard McCaulley to operate a fence materials storage yard at 7070 Gravenstein Highway, Cotati, but said his advertising sign must be unlighted. It also approved the request of George M. Reeves to place a mobile home at 10822 Valley Ford Road, Petaluma, to house an agricultural worker.

Air Force Sergeant To Face Pot Hearing

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 8 in Marin Municipal Court for Sgt. George Milton Elsea, 26, of Hamilton Air Force Base, who is charged with possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia.

He was arrested May 11 when Novato police stopped his car because it didn't have a front license plate. They said they found a water pipe and three small bags of suspected pot in the car.

MARY H. SIMONDS
101 years of life

OBITUARIES

Mary H. Simonds, 101, Dies

Funeral service for Mary H. Simonds, who lived more than a century and whose family was the first to settle in Indian Valley in Novato, was held yesterday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Simonds, 101, died Tuesday at a local convalescent hospital where she had lived for several years.

On her 100th birthday she told the Independent-Journal she attributed her long life to living by the Golden Rule and being a good citizen.

Born in Christchurch, New Zealand, she sailed with her parents to San Francisco when she was four years old. According to her own account, her father had difficulty finding housing for His family of seven until he threatened go throw his five children into the Bay.

She was married on Christmas Day in 1897 to Walter Simonds Sr. and the couple built a house on 27th Avenue in San Francisco. Two weeks after they moved in, the earthquake hit and the house was filled with relatives and friends who had lost their homes.

When her parents purchased 40 acres of land in Indian Valley, she and her husband bought the adjoining five acres. They and their two children lived in four tents for a year until they constructed a barn and, later, a house.

Mrs. Simonds who celebrated her golden wedding anniversary a few years before her husband died in 1951 is survived by a son, Walter A. Simonds of Novato; a daughter, Gertrude M. Serres of Novato; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions to Guide Dogs for the Blind, San Rafael, would be preferred by the family.

Man Pleads To Reduced Charge

Aubrey Kenneth Rattan, 18, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing stolen property.

He is to be sentenced July 2.

Rattan, who was originally charged with felony burglary, was arrested May 6 in connection with the theft of a $1,500 video tape outfit from a room at the Tiburon Lodge March 9.

The arrest of Rattan and a companion who was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall ended a two-month investigation by the Tiburon Sheriff's Substation.

Warehouse Plan Gets Novato Nod

Novato Plan Review Committee has approved design of three proposed warehouses at Hamilton Industrial Park, which lies in a nearby unincorporated area.

The planning staff explained that construction planned in areas next to the city is referred to the city by the Marin County Planning Department for comment.

ABAG Takes Look At Its Performance

NAPA (UPI)—A plea for a regional government with authority was made Thursday at a conference called by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

"A regional constitution is struggling to be born here," said Eugene Lee, University of California professor who served as moderator.

"Regional jobs can't be done any more by voluntary organizations," such as ABAG, Lee asserted.

"We're all going through a revolution now, in which society will have to wrench itself away from many old ideas," Lee said while demanding that the work be done "in our democratic tradition."

"Let us all allow our minds in the next few hours to get out of the boundaries of our cities and counties to truly regional problems we must face."

Lee's contention that voluntary organizations could not handle regional problems satisfactorily was challenged by Supervisor Ignazio Vella of Sonoma County.

Vella declared executive authority would lead to authoritarianism, which he said was an "anathema to the philosophy of the U.S."

"If you wish to have more efficiency, you must give up more freedom," the supervisor said while declaring that the Nazi government in Germany was "one of the most efficient ... the world has ever seen."

"State, federal, local and private interests are all fighting now to try to govern the Bay Area," Lee said, "and local governments are clearly losing out as they wallow around trying to protect their little plots of zoning."

James Dowden, of the private National Service to Regional Councils, remarked that at present "the air is still foul, the water is worse ... the housing atrocious."

He said "regional council, like ABAG, haven't been as productive as they could be, though they have done good work."

Eggshell Defects Found In DDT Laboratory Test

DAVIS (UPI)—Two University of California scientists have come up with what they believe is the first laboratory-documented evidence that DDT plays a part in weakening the eggshells of birds.

"I have no doubt that DDT is a factor in causing eggshell thinning among birds although there may be other factors," said Dr. Larry McFarland, who conducted experiments with associate R. L. Garrett.

"We have photographic evidence that Japanese quail fed DDT produce structurally defective eggshells. This is the first time in our knowledge this has been shown in the laboratory," he said Thursday.

Conservationists have long maintained that the pesticide and its residues, which are slow to break down in the environment, cause thin eggshells when they enter birds' bodies in food. As a result, they have argued, eggs break in the nests and no young are produced.

Using the university's huge scanning electron photographic microscope, the scientists discovered structural defects in Japanese quail eggs after the birds were fed the pesticide.

"We have seen that the central area of the shell—the spongy area—is most severely affected. In some cases, it was absent," McFarland said.

"I can only surmise—very strongly—that DDT or its metabolites (products of chemical breakdown) are implicated in these structural changes."

He said the defects he and Garrett photographed possibly explain the "weak eggshell" problems that reportedly threaten species of wild birds such as the peregrine falcon and the brown pelican. The laboratory quail were fed pesticides in amounts comparable to those that might be found in the wild.

Eggshells were studied under the microscope before and after the feeding.

"We are faced," McFarland said, "with the difficulty of correlating thinning of the eggshell with the presence of DDT in the environment. In the laboratory, we have observed structural changes that are definitely similar to structural changes observed (not under controlled conditions) in some brown pelican eggshells."

ABAG Takes Look At Its Performance

NAPA (UPI)—A plea for a regional government with authority was made Thursday at a conference called by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

"A regional constitution is struggling to be born here," said Eugene Lee, University of California professor who served as moderator.

"Regional jobs can't be done any more by voluntary organizations," such as ABAG, Lee asserted.

Europeans Asked To Share Burden

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — John B. Connally, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, bluntly told the rest of the non-Communist world today to open its doors to more American products and shoulder a larger share of the common defense.

"No longer does the U.S. economy dominate the free world," Connally told a lunch meeting winding up the four-day international banking conference of delegates from 20 nations.

"No longer can considerations of friendship or need or capacity justify the United States carrying so heavy a share of the common burdens," Connally said.

Today's speech was Connally's first public comment here on the international monetary crisis caused by an avalanche of unwanted dollars into Europe.

"We today spend nearly nine per cent of our gross national product on defense-nearly $5 billion of that overseas, and much of it in Western Europe and Japan," Connally said.

"Financing a military shield is part of the burden of leadership;" he said, "But 25 years after World War II, legitimate questions arise over how the cost of these responsibilities should be allocated among the free world allies who benefit from that shield."

Connally said, "we are not going to devalue. We are not going to change the price of gold. We are controlling our inflation.

"Is it natural or inevitable that fully 30 per cent of Japanese exports go to the U.S. market—or do restrictions in Europe help account for the direction of that flow?" Connally asked.

"After years of income growth averaging more than 10 per cent should not the Japanese consumer have free access to the products of the outside world?"

"Must Canada maintain tariffs on private purchases of U.S. autos at a time a balance of payments surplus has resulted in a floating exchange rate?"

"Is it right that United States agricultural products find acess to the densely populated continent of Europe increasingly limited?"

Arthur F. Burns, head of the American Federal Reserve System, today accused other central banks of upsetting the international monetary system by trying to make profits as if they were private firms.

"We live in a world in which private citizens and business are expected to act in response to the profit motive," Burns told the concluding session.

"Central banks, on the other hand, have a stabilizing function that should not be influenced by considerations of profit or loss," he said.

The West Germans contended during the conference that the dollar is overvalued, and that the Americans ought to raise their interest rates up to European levels so speculative money will stay home.

French, Italian and Japanese delegates were for more controls on capital movement, a path neither the Americans nor the Germans wished to tread.

All-Year School Bill To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Reagan administration-backed bill which could enable California children to go to school all year reached its final legislative barrier today.

The Assembly Thursday approved the measure by Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-San Diego, and returned it to the Senate for approval of lower house changes. The lone dissenting vote was cast by Assemblyman John Miller, D-Berkeley.

The bill allows school districts voluntarily to switch to an all-year, quarter system, with the permission of the state superintendent of public instruction. Burgener said Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, and Gov. Ronald Reagan backed the bill.

NATO Brass Wary Of Troops Cut

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) today stressed the need for caution and a common approach to the Soviet call for talks on cutting military forces in Europe.

Meeting in the bi-annual defense planning committee, the ministers welcomed the Soviet reply to repeated NATO appeals for talks on mutual and balanced force reductions.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird emphasized the need for a common approach to the subject and promised the other 13 ministers the United States would have plans ready for discussion by July. NATO also has prepared a series of studies of the subject.

Laird also stressed all the NATO partners had to maintain their strength to give meaningful negotiations a chance of success, U.S. officials said.

The British and German defense ministers agreed on the need for a common approach on force reductions and emphasized the need for caution in reply to the Soviets.

Lord Carrington, for Britain, warned the NATO nations "must beware of being diverted from meeting the essential requirements of defense."

"In seeking detente we must be careful not to exchange substance for shadow," he said.

Helmut Schimdt, the West German minister, said the west should not lose the initiative on the force reduction question but should not "rush" into dealing with the east.

Laird also indicated the United States felt the need for a continued greater European contribution to its own defense, officials said.

The European defense ministers assured Laird they were determined to improve their contribution to European defense in the 1970s.

Boat Stolen

A 12-foot aluminum boat was stolen from a dock at the residence of its owner, Thomas C. Hartley of 37 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, Monday or Tuesday, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

Congressional Record Feels Inflation Bite

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The price of all that talk is up again. Each page of the Congressional Record will cost $140—a total estimated cost of $7 million this year.

The public printer, A.N. Spence, says the only cure for it is for congressmen to say what they mean the first time. It's all that "revising and extending" of remarks that helps run up the bill.

Spence conceded in testimony published today that this was only a dream. But while he was dreaming he envisioned one further improvement in publication of Congress' own daily newspaper.

Assuming that House and Senate members no longer were allowed to rewrite their remarks (sometimes as late as 9 or 10 p.m. or even midnight), the official reporters could type their verbatim transcript onto a tape that would drive an automatic typesetting machine fast enough to produce three record pages per minute.

The way it is now, 600 employes of the Government Printing Office work all night getting out the Record's 42,000 copies, spending a good bit of their time just deciphering what the lawmakers have handwritten between the typewritten lines.

"The other night we were late," he told a House subcommittee. "We had one member in the other house (the Senate) who had interlined more material per page then there was on the original typed page. Then we had to call his administrative assistant in. For two hours our production people and his administrative assistant tried to decipher what the member put in there."

The record is published each morning after either the House or Senate has met the previous day. It purports to provide a verbatim account of what happens. Many days this requires more than 200 pages, and an estimated 50,000 pages are to be printed in the new fiscal year.

The per page cost of the record rises each year, and the total number of pages also mounts gradually. As recently as 1965 the page cost was $108.50. For the year just approaching its end the estimate was $128. Spence said $140 was his best guess for the 12 months starting July 1.

Auto Repairs Gain Controls

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two bills authorizing the state to license auto repair shops were approved Thursday by the Senate Business and Professions Committee and sent to the Finance Committee.

One of the measures by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, DBeverly Hills, would set up a state Bureau of Automotive Repair to register repair dealers.

The other bill by Sen. William Coombs, R-Rialto, provides for the licensing of repair shops. It earlier also called for the licensing of mechanics but was amended by the committee to cover only shops.

Originally the bureau created by Beilenson's bill would have been placed under the Department of Consumer Affairs but the committee moved it to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

License fees paid by shop owners would finance the new bureau.

Federal Attorney Faces Bribe Soliciting Count

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A Federal Trade Commission attorney was charged Thursday with soliciting a $150,000 bribe from the president of a local figure salon under FTC investigation.

Robert Charles Brown, 64, a San Francisco FTC lawyer for 10 years, was accused in a U.S. Grand Jury indictment of seeking the money from Richard Proctor. A salon operated by Proctor has been under investigation for possible violation of federal regulations on advertising and contracts with clients.

The indictment charges that Brown, investigating attorney for the FTC, offered to give the business a "favorable" report for $150,000.

Proctor reportedly contacted his attorney, who informed the FBI.

U. S. Attorney Dwayne Keys said Proctor gave Brown several thousand dollars during a conversation which Proctor allowed FBI agents to record, and Brown was later arrested by the FBI.

FTC Regional Director Raymond Lloyd said in San Francisco that Brown had been suspended from his duties.

Federal Attorney Faces Bribe Soliciting Count

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A Federal Trade Commission attorney was charged Thursday with soliciting a $150,000 bribe from the president of a local figure salon under FTC investigation.

Robert Charles Brown, 64, a San Francisco FTC lawyer for 10 years, was accused in a U.S. Grand Jury indictment of seeking the money from Richard Proctor. A salon operated by Proctor has been under investigation for possible violation of federal regulations on advertising and contracts with clients.

The indictment charges that Brown, investigating attorney for the FTC, offered to give the business a "favorable" report for $150,000.

Proctor reportedly contacted his attorney, who informed the FBI.

U. S. Attorney Dwayne Keys said Proctor gave Brown several thousand dollars during a conversation which Proctor allowed FBI agents to record, and Brown was later arrested by the FBI.

FTC Regional Director Raymond Lloyd said in San Francisco that Brown had been suspended from his duties.

Russian, U.S. Fishermen In Another Brush

BOSTON (UPI)—Another incident of a Russian fishing vessel sailing through the lobster gear of an American boat has been reported to the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard's 1st District Headquarters said the incident took place about 6 a.m. Thursday some 65 miles south-southeast of Montauk Point, N.Y.

The lobster boat "United States" in its initial message said six Russian trawlers were in the area and that one passed through its nets. The boat gave no damage report.

Five hours later she radioed the Coast Guard she had passed charts to the Russian factory ship Robert Ehyke, marking the position and formation of her nets and those of a sister ship, the Susan Y.

The United States said it left the area satisfied and that there were no further problems.

Guilty Plea To Reduced Charge

Lissa Pope, 26, of Tiburon, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of writing a bad check.

She is to be sentenced July 16.

Mrs. Pope originally charged with three felony bad check counts, was arrested April 12 at her home on a warrant accusing her of writing more than $900 worth of bad checks.

Strawberry Drafts Recreation Budget

A preliminary $74,802 budget for 1971-72, which represents an increase of approximately 30 per cent over this year, has been approved by the Strawberry Recreation District board.

Directors estimated the spending program will require a tax rate of 55 cents per $100 assessed valuation, compared to this year's 50-cent rate.

Clerk Jeanne Heick reported the budget allocates $26,136 for salaries and includes the new position of district manager, who will oversee operation of the new community building and all district properties. He will be paid $10,000 per year.

Other budget items, with this year's expenditures in parenthesis, are: operations, $16,879 ($9,255); debt retirement, $24,342 ($25,543); capital outlay, $850 ($10,000), and reserves, $6,000 ($2,500).

Mrs. Heick said the board set a budget hearing for 8:30 p.m. July 7 at the community building and will adopt a final budget at that time.

In other business, the board authorized a five-year lease with the Strawberry Swim Club for district-owned swimming facilities at $6,000 per year in rent.

The board also amended its contract with Mill Valley Refuse Service to allow the firm to collect garbage for recycling by Whole Systems Inc.

McGovern To Face Surgery Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., the only announced Democratic Presidential candidate, will enter a hospital Monday for hernia surgery.

Doctors said they foresaw no complications with the operation and McGovern's office said he hoped to be released in time to be in the Senate June 4 for an important vote on the draft extension.

Annexation Bill Goes To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill making it easier for cities to annex unincorporated territory has been passed by the Assembly despite objections that it constituted a "land grab."

The bill by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, was sent to the Senate Thursday on a 42-20 vote after Knox agreed to give residents and landowners in unincorporated areas 60 days instead of 20 days to protest against a proposed annexation.

"If we don't make major moves in this area, the West Coast will look like the East Coast—like Hoboken and places like that," said Knox, chairman of the Local Government Committee.

Action Seen On Recreation Area

By Benjamin Shore
(I-J Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — Chances for Congressional action this year on the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area have been boosted by recent White House attention to a similar plan in the New York area.

President Nixon put his stamp of approval on the proposed Gateway National Recreation Area in New York harbor May 3 when he toured the area by helicopter.

White House aides said last week the President wants the Interior Department to move ahead with the development of open land near urban areas.

Plans for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area, taking in open land in southern Marin County and northern San Francisco, have been lying dormant in the department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

But a bureau spokesman acknowledged that as a result of the recent White House interest in recreation areas, indications of Administration action on the Golden Gate proposal now can be expected within two months.

The proposal centers mainly around portions of military lands — the Presidio, Forts Funston, Mason and Miley in San Francisco, Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite on the Marin headlands — and Alcatraz Island in the bay.

This is the basic Administration proposal, which Rep. William S. Mailliard (R-San Francisco) has introduced in the Congress. The bill is cosponsored by Reps. Don H. Clausen (R-Crescent City), Paul N. McCloskey (R-Portola Valley), George Miller (D-Alameda), Charles Gubser (R-Gilroy) and Burt Talcott (R-Salinas).

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation is aware of sharp differences in the Bay Area over including the park-like Presidio in the recreation area, which would be administered by the National Park Service.

Some Bay Area conservationists want a commitment in writing from the Park Service that it would maintain the grounds as well as the Army has. Others, arguing that the Army has not done a good job, want the land included in the recreation area.

Sen. John V. Tunney (D-Calif.) is interested in the possibility of including Pt. Reyes National Seashore in the proposed recreation area.

Rep. Phillip Burton (D-San Francisco) has introduced separate legislation that would add the Navy Net Depot in Tiburon to the area.

Furthermore, Burton wants Alcatraz sold back to the Indians for $24.

These and other varying proposals must be weighed in the Interior Department's report to the Congress. Once a report is issued, hearings can be held in the House and Senate. Hearings to create the Gateway area in New York already have begun.

"I would hope President Nixon's visit to Gateway sets a pretty clear precedent," Mailliard said, although he was not optimistic about getting a departmental report out in time for hearings this years.

Interior Secretary Morton, accompanying Nixon on the Gateway tour, specifically mentioned the Golden Gate proposal as one which the Administration would like to see expedited.

Nixon has included $580 million in the fiscal 1972 budget for acquistion of parklands, especially preserves near urban centers that could be used for recreation.

The President recently turned over a long stretch of beachfront at Camp Pendleton for public use, and gave an 11-acre abandoned Nike missile site to the City of Redondo Beach for a park.

Novato Plans Tricycle Race

The Novato Jaycees will sponsor a tricycle race June 19 at 11 a.m. at the Western Weekend Country Fair as part of the Western Weekend Celebration in Novato.

There will be races for riders 3 through 6 years old, according to Max E. Carpenter, race chairman.

Riders may submit entries to the Novato Jaycees, P. O. Box 634, postmarked by June 10, and include name, age, address and telephone number, Carpenter said.

Festival Sets Play Tryouts

The Marin Shakespeare Festival has announced tryouts tomorrow and Sunday for two of this season's presentations, "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Wind in the Willows."

Tryouts for "As You Like It" will be held June 20.

All sessions will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael, where the festival season opens July 17.

Persons seeking parts are asked to prepare a short speech or scene, preferably from plays to be presented, and to supply a resume and photograph.

Distaff Bar Keeps Win Court Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Women who want to be bartenders today owed the California Supreme court a drink on the house.

The high court Thursday declared unconstitutional the state law limiting woman bartenders to the wife of the license holder or to a woman who holds a liquor license.

The provision in the state constitution stated "a person may not be disqualified because of sex from entering or pursuing a lawful business, vocation or profession."

In addition the Supreme Court said the present law violates the equal-protection guarantees of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and the 1964 Federal Civil Rights Act.

"The pedestal upon which women have been placed has all too often, upon closer inspection, been revealed as a cage," said Justice Raymond E. Peters in writing the court's opinion.

The court ruled in the case of two Los Angeles bar owners who sued to stop the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control from taking action against them because they employed women as barkeeps.

Fire Remodeling In Novato Set

The Novato Fire District board has authorized remodeling at Station Two, South Novato Boulevard, to provide storage area at a cost of $235.

Fire Chief Jack Kidder reported directors on Wednesday also authorized display of the snorkel at the Novato Little League Pancake Breakfast June 5 at the Novato Fair Shopping Center.

Fireman Raymond Cleary was raised to the top salary step, $880 a month.

Panel Nod On Extra $1 Billion

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Finance Committee has tentatively agreed to increase Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed state budget by nearly $1 billion.

Chairman Randolph Collier said Thursday he would submit the proposed $7.5 billion spending program to committee members Tuesday for a vote.

"If they think these programs are necessary, they can put their money where their mouth is," the crusty Yreka Democrat told a newsman.

Committee staff estimated the state must generate $836 million in new revenue—a major tax increase—to balance the expenditure blueprint.

Reagan's proposed budget for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 called for spending $6.73 billion to operate state government and provide assistance to local school districts.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee, the Lower House's counterpart to the Senate Finance Committee, approved two weeks ago a budget of $7.06 billion.

Traditionally the Senate has held tighter purse strings on state spending, but apparently this year Senators plan to break precedent.

Although both houses must reconcile the amounts in the final version of the budget, the governor has the last word. Reagan can trim down or veto expenditures he believes unjustified. But he cannot add money.

Senate and Assembly versions of the budget differ in several key areas, including welfare, Medi-Cal and school aid.

The Senate added $146 million more than the lower house for Medi-Cal for a total program of $735 million and ordered full financing of all welfare programs with an open-ended spending plan.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said this provision would hike welfare spending a minimum of $220 million more to $793 million next year, but warned this sum could soar to $270 million.

The Assembly panel recommended spending what Reagan suggested — $573 million — but wrote into the program a guarantee counties would not have to pick up the amount if estimates are too low.

Senators also have tentatively agreed to give schools $100 million more than the governor, who recommended about $1.5 billion in classroom aid.

Both committees have voted a 10 per cent salary boost for state college and university faculty members, with a 5 per cent increase for all other state employes.

The governor recommended no salary hikes, but offered state workers more fringe benefits and time and one-half pay for overtime. They now get compensatory time off.

The finance committee also provided about $36 million in tax-supported general fund money for college and university construction. The governor made no similar spending proposal.

Today is Friday, May 28, the 148th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

British statesman William Pitt was born May 28, 1759.

On this day in history:

In 1798 President John Adams was empowered by Congress to recruit an American army of 10,000 volunteers.

In 1934 the Dionne quintuplets were born near Callender, Ont.

In 1940 the evacuation of British, French and Belgian troops from Dunkerque, on the English Channel coast of France, began. When it was completed, 337,000 had reached Britain safely, more than 13,000 others were killed.

In 1955 Albert Whitehouse, director of the United Steelworkers, predicted automation in factories would lead to a two-hour work day.

A thought for today: Miguel de Cervantes said: "My honor is dearer to me than my life."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Player's Statement Cannot Deceive Readers Of This Hand

"I would have bet 5-to-1 that I was going to make that hand," South declared after going down one on the hand shown today. "I had three good chances for it, but everything was sour. Some days it doesn't pay to get out of bed." This statement was intended to prove that South was a great player but that fate was against him, but he cannot deceive readers of this column.

CLUB LEAD

West opened the jack of clubs, and dummy's queen lost to the ace. Back came a club to dummy's king, and declarer promptly drew trumps in two rounds.

South tried his first shot by leading a low diamond to finesse with dummy's jack. East won with the queen of damonds and returned a low diamond.

West's nine forced out the king, and South tried his second shot by leading a diamond to the ace. If the diamonds broke evenly, his last diamond would be good and would allow him to discard a heart from dummy.

South had to fall back on his third shot. He led a heart, hoping that West held the ace. But East had the ace of hearts, and the defenders defeated the contract with two heart tricks.

SURE THING

South had a sure thing going if he just played the hand carefully. After winning the second trick in dummy with the king of clubs he should immediately ruff dummy's last club.

South then draws trumps, noting with satisfaction that they divide evenly. The stage is then set for the correct diamond play. South leads a low diamond from his hand and puts in dummy's eight when West plays low.

LOW DIAMOND

East wins with the ten of diamonds but cannot make a safe return. A diamond gives dummy a free finesse; a heart gives a trick to dummy's king.

West cannot interfere by putting up the nine of diamonds when South first leads that suit.

Declarer then puts in dummy's jack, and East is caught just as fast in the trap.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠-6 3
♥-A J 5 3 2
♦-Q 10 7 6
♣-A 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

You have 11 points in high cards and two points for the doubletons, enough for an optional opening bid. You decide to bid rather than pass because your high-card structure is good. You would prefer to have the ten or nine of hearts instead of three very low cards, and some very conservative experts would prefer to pass this hand for lack of a strong suit.

Distaff Bar Keeps Win Court Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Women who want to be bartenders today owed the California Supreme court a drink on the house.

The high court Thursday declared unconstitutional the state law limiting woman bartenders to the wife of the license holder or to a woman who holds a liquor license.

The provision in the state constitution stated "a person may not be disqualified because of sex from entering or pursuing a lawful business, vocation or profession."

In addition the Supreme Court said the present law violates the equal-protection guarantees of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and the 1964 Federal Civil Rights Act.

"The pedestal upon which women have been placed has all too often, upon closer inspection, been revealed as a cage," said Justice Raymond E. Peters in writing the court's opinion.

The court ruled in the case of two Los Angeles bar owners who sued to stop the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control from taking action against them because they employed women as barkeeps.

Fire Remodeling In Novato Set

The Novato Fire District board has authorized remodeling at Station Two, South Novato Boulevard, to provide storage area at a cost of $235.

Fire Chief Jack Kidder reported directors on Wednesday also authorized display of the snorkel at the Novato Little League Pancake Breakfast June 5 at the Novato Fair Shopping Center.

Fireman Raymond Cleary was raised to the top salary step, $880 a month.

Panel Nod On Extra $1 Billion

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Finance Committee has tentatively agreed to increase Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed state budget by nearly $1 billion.

Chairman Randolph Collier said Thursday he would submit the proposed $7.5 billion spending program to committee members Tuesday for a vote.

"If they think these programs are necessary, they can put their money where their mouth is," the crusty Yreka Democrat told a newsman.

Committee staff estimated the state must generate $836 million in new revenue—a major tax increase—to balance the expenditure blueprint.

Reagan's proposed budget for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 called for spending $6.73 billion to operate state government and provide assistance to local school districts.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee, the Lower House's counterpart to the Senate Finance Committee, approved two weeks ago a budget of $7.06 billion.

Traditionally the Senate has held tighter purse strings on state spending, but apparently this year Senators plan to break precedent.

Although both houses must reconcile the amounts in the final version of the budget, the governor has the last word. Reagan can trim down or veto expenditures he believes unjustified. But he cannot add money.

Senate and Assembly versions of the budget differ in several key areas, including welfare, Medi-Cal and school aid.

The Senate added $146 million more than the lower house for Medi-Cal for a total program of $735 million and ordered full financing of all welfare programs with an open-ended spending plan.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said this provision would hike welfare spending a minimum of $220 million more to $793 million next year, but warned this sum could soar to $270 million.

The Assembly panel recommended spending what Reagan suggested — $573 million — but wrote into the program a guarantee counties would not have to pick up the amount if estimates are too low.

Senators also have tentatively agreed to give schools $100 million more than the governor, who recommended about $1.5 billion in classroom aid.

Both committees have voted a 10 per cent salary boost for state college and university faculty members, with a 5 per cent increase for all other state employes.

The governor recommended no salary hikes, but offered state workers more fringe benefits and time and one-half pay for overtime. They now get compensatory time off.

The finance committee also provided about $36 million in tax-supported general fund money for college and university construction. The governor made no similar spending proposal.

Alarm On Boating Wastes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Its bow slicing powerfully through the waves, a tanned blonde lolling on the deck, the modern powerboat symbolizes carefree life in the clean outdoors.

At least that's the view from shore.

But California antipollution authorities look at yachts from a less romantic angle.

What they see are boats with toilet facilities legally draining their sewage directly into the water. This applies to naval and commercial vessels, as well as pleasure boats.

State water officials say they don't know exactly how much sewage is dumped by sports craft, but they consider it dangerous because it is untreated and because yachts sometimes tie up near bathing areas.

"Volume-wise, perhaps they're not large contributors, compared to industrial and commercial dischargers," says Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board. "But most of this waste is going into the bay without any treatment. There is a health concern."

A bill has been introduced in the state legislature by Assembly Water Committee Chairman Carley V. Porter, D-Compton, to require toilet-equipped vessels to have holding tanks or federally approved treatment facilities by 1974.

"We have made a great deal of progress in California in regulating the discharge of wastes to our surface waters," says Porter. "The only discharges not regulated at the present time are those from vessels which use our waterways. This act will apply to pleasure craft as well as merchant ships and naval vessels."

The federal government has already drawn up proposed treatment requirements for all vessels with "heads."

Expected to be adopted by the end of the year, the federal standards would require head discharges from new vessels to meet treatment standards within two years. Existing vessels would have to meet the standards within five years.

Navy and commercial craft would also be covered, although the Navy is moving on its own to install treatment facilities and holding tanks on its ships.

John E. Bennett, director of the state Department of Navigation and Ocean Development, says California has about 525,000 registered recreational boats, about 100,000 of them equipped with toilets.

In San Diego, "the trouble is not quantity, but the fact that boats are next to bathing beaches," reports Executive Officer Dennis O'Leary of the San Diego regional board.

Charles T. Carnahan, executive officer of the Sacramento-Central Valley Regional Board, cites the "increasing use of houseboats" in the delta as a major problem.

"One boat may not contribute a lot," he says. "But in aggregate they contribute quite a bit. At a marina you may have 50, 75 or 100 boats tied up, with people living on some of them and throwing parties. It can produce a relatively sizable discharge."

Because the sewage is untreated, he considers it "really a lot more dangerous from a public health standpoint than sewage from a treatment plant."

Attorney Lance Rideout, commodore of the Sacramento Yacht Club, strongly supports Porter's bill.

"If we're going to take the position that state waters have to be cleaned up," he says, "we have to go along with it. We have to lead the way. Our kids are the ones who swim in the river."

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, May 28, the 148th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

British statesman William Pitt was born May 28, 1759.

On this day in history:

In 1798 President John Adams was empowered by Congress to recruit an American army of 10,000 volunteers.

In 1934 the Dionne quintuplets were born near Callender, Ont.

In 1940 the evacuation of British, French and Belgian troops from Dunkerque, on the English Channel coast of France, began. When it was completed, 337,000 had reached Britain safely, more than 13,000 others were killed.

In 1955 Albert Whitehouse, director of the United Steelworkers, predicted automation in factories would lead to a two-hour work day.

A thought for today: Miguel de Cervantes said: "My honor is dearer to me than my life."

Pet Lover Leaves Estate To Animals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Mrs. Lillian Tracht Schaaf, 76, who had not owned a pet in 20 years, left $900,000 in her will for the construction and operation of a home "for friendless animals."

Mrs. Schaaf, who died Jan. 25, stipulated in her will probated here Wednesday that none of the animals at the home could be used for medical purposes.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Player's Statement Cannot Deceive Readers Of This Hand

"I would have bet 5-to-1 that I was going to make that hand," South declared after going down one on the hand shown today. "I had three good chances for it, but everything was sour. Some days it doesn't pay to get out of bed." This statement was intended to prove that South was a great player but that fate was against him, but he cannot deceive readers of this column.

Opening lead — ♣ J

CLUB LEAD

West opened the jack of clubs, and dummy's queen lost to the ace. Back came a club to dummy's king, and declarer promptly drew trumps in two rounds.

South tried his first shot by leading a low diamond to finesse with dummy's jack. East won with the queen of damonds and returned a low diamond.

West's nine forced out the king, and South tried his second shot by leading a diamond to the ace. If the diamonds broke evenly, his last diamond would be good and would allow him to discard a heart from dummy.

South had to fall back on his third shot. He led a heart, hoping that West held the ace. But East had the ace of hearts, and the defenders defeated the contract with two heart tricks.

SURE THING

South had a sure thing going if he just played the hand carefully. After winning the second trick in dummy with the king of clubs he should immediately ruff dummy's last club.

South then draws trumps, noting with satisfaction that they divide evenly. The stage is then set for the correct diamond play. South leads a low diamond from his hand and puts in dummy's eight when West plays low.

LOW DIAMOND

East wins with the ten of diamonds but cannot make a safe return. A diamond gives dummy a free finesse; a heart gives a trick to dummy's king.

West cannot interfere by putting up the nine of diamonds when South first leads that suit.

Declarer then puts in dummy's jack, and East is caught just as fast in the trap.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠-6 3
♥-A J 5 3 2
♦-Q 10 7 6
♣-A 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

You have 11 points in high cards and two points for the doubletons, enough for an optional opening bid. You decide to bid rather than pass because your high-card structure is good. You would prefer to have the ten or nine of hearts instead of three very low cards, and some very conservative experts would prefer to pass this hand for lack of a strong suit.

Acquittal For Students In Fresno Ruckus

FRESNO (UPI)—A Municipal Court jury has acquitted two Fresno State College students of charges stemming from demonstrations at the college last May.

Vincent Lavery, 34, and Gilbert Acuna, 22, had been charged with unlawful assembly and obstructing traffic.

During their trial, which ended Tuesday, they contended they were at the scene of the demonstration to stop possible violence.

The demonstration took place after the FSC administration announced the firing of most of the school's ethnic studies program faculty.

Lavery and Acuna were the last of those arrested to be brought to trial.

Command Chain For Suicide Center Set

Peggy Gartman of San Rafael will be operations coordinator for the Marin Suicide Prevention Center, the center's board of directors has announced.

At a meeting held Thursday at the San Rafael office of the Marin Association for Mental Health, according to board president Keith C. Craig, directors approved this chain of command:

The board of directors will make policy decisions. Mrs. Gartman, as operations coordinator, will be the liaison between the board and the volunteers who will man the telephones to take crisis calls.

Under Mrs. Gartman will be six subordinates in charge of resources (a file of various agencies and services that can aid those in distress), referrals (giving volunteers help in referring clients and problems to proper agencies), office operations, professional advisory committee, volunteer scheduling, and training.

Craig said the board hopes to open a telephone service for crisis calls "very soon" but declined to name a specific date. He said the board is trying to get free space in a church building in Central Marin where the telephone crisis center will be set up.

The directors will meet again in special session at 4 p.m. next Wednesday, June 2, at the Marin Association for Mental Health office. They will continue discussions on the organization chart, possibilities of raising funds, and get progress reports on negotiations for space to open the telephone service.

Degrees For Hopes

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob and Delores Hope will receive his and her honorary degrees Sunday at St. Bonaventure University near Buffalo, N.Y., it was announced here.

Fresno Still Top Agricultural County

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Fresno County kept its title as the nation's wealthiest farming county with a record $473.8 million in crops grown during 1970, Agricultural Commissioner Thomas E. Corn said Wednesday.

The total was $15.7 million, or 3.4 per cent higher, than the gross value of 1969 crops.

Alarm On Boating Wastes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Its bow slicing powerfully through the waves, a tanned blonde lolling on the deck, the modern powerboat symbolizes carefree life in the clean outdoors.

At least that's the view from shore.

But California antipollution authorities look at yachts from a less romantic angle.

What they see are boats with toilet facilities legally draining their sewage directly into the water. This applies to naval and commercial vessels, as well as pleasure boats.

State water officials say they don't know exactly how much sewage is dumped by sports craft, but they consider it dangerous because it is untreated and because yachts sometimes tie up near bathing areas.

"Volume-wise, perhaps they're not large contributors, compared to industrial and commercial dischargers," says Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board. "But most of this waste is going into the bay without any treatment. There is a health concern."

A bill has been introduced in the state legislature by Assembly Water Committee Chairman Carley V.. Porter, D-Compton, to require toilet-equipped vessels to have holding tanks or federally approved treatment facilities by 1974.

"We have made a great deal of progress in California in regulating the discharge of wastes to our surface waters," says Porter. "The only discharges not regulated at the present time are those from vessels which use our waterways. This act will apply to pleasure craft as well as merchant ships and naval vessels."

The federal government has already drawn up proposed treatment requirements for all vessels with "heads."

Expected to be adopted by the end of the year, the federal standards would require head discharges from new vessels to meet treatment standards within two years. Existing vessels would have to meet the standards within five years.

Navy and commercial craft would also be covered, although the Navy is moving on its own to install treatment facilities and holding tanks on its ships.

John E. Bennett, director of the state Department of Navigation and Ocean Development, says California has about 525,000 registered recreational boats, about 100,000 of them equipped with toilets.

In San Diego, "the trouble is not quantity, but the fact that boats are next to bathing beaches," reports Executive Officer Dennis O'Leary of the San Diego regional board.

Charles T. Carnahan, executive officer of the Sacramento-Central Valley Regional Board, cites the "increasing use of houseboats" in the delta as a major problem.

"One boat may not contribute a lot," he says. "But in aggregate they contribute quite a bit. At a marina you may have 50, 75 or 100 boats tied up, with people living on some of them and throwing parties. It can produce a relatively sizable discharge."

Because the sewage is untreated, he considers it "really a lot more dangerous from a public health standpoint than sewage from a treatment plant."

Attorney Lance Rideout, commodore of the Sacramento Yacht Club, strongly supports Porter's bill.

"If we're going to take the position that state waters have to be cleaned up," he says, "we have to go along with it. We have to lead the way. Our kids are the ones who swim in the river."

U.S. Suffers Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Imports exceeded exports by $214.7 million in April, to create the first deficit in the U.S. trade account in more than two years, the Commerce Department reported today.

The trade deficit aggravates the nation's critical balance of payments problem. A flood of dollars overseas this year has already resulted in five European nations increasing the value of thair currency in relation to the dollar, in effect devaluing the dollar.

Imports totaled a record $3.76 billion during the month, eclipsing the previous high of $3.69 billion recorded last January. Exports in April totaled $3.54 billion.

The export figure was down from $3.81 billion in March while imports were up from the March figure of $3.57 billion.

Acquittal For Students In Fresno Ruckus

FRESNO (UPI)—A Municipal Court jury has acquitted two Fresno State College students of charges stemming from demonstrations at the college last May.

Vincent Lavery, 34, and Gilbert Acuna, 22, had been charged with unlawful assembly and obstructing traffic.

During their trial, which ended Tuesday, they contended they were at the scene of the demonstration to stop possible violence.

The demonstration took place after the FSC administration announced the firing of most of the school's ethnic studies program faculty.

Lavery and Acuna were the last of those arrested to be brought to trial.

Command Chain For Suicide Center Set

Peggy Gartman of San Rafael will be operations coordinator for the Marin Suicide Prevention Center, the center's board of directors has announced.

At a meeting held Thursday at the San Rafael office of the Marin Association for Mental Health, according to board president Keith C. Craig, directors approved this chain of command:

The board of directors will make policy decisions. Mrs. Gartman, as operations coordinator, will be the liaison between the board and the volunteers who will man the telephones to take crisis calls.

Under Mrs. Gartman will be six subordinates in charge of resources (a file of various agencies and services that can aid those in distress), referrals (giving volunteers help in referring clients and problems to proper agencies), office operations, professional advisory committee, volunteer scheduling, and training.

Craig said the board hopes to open a telephone service for crisis calls "very soon" but declined to name a specific date. He said the board is trying to get free space in a church building in Central Marin where the telephone crisis center will be set up.

The directors will meet again in special session at 4 p.m. next Wednesday, June 2, at the Marin Association for Mental Health office. They will continue discussions on the organization chart, possibilities of raising funds, and get progress reports on negotiations for space to open the telephone service.

The total was $15.7 million, or 3.4 per cent higher, than the gross value of 1969 crops.

ART REVIEW

Hyde-Doty-Grusser Show Is Satisfying

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Having reviewed Allie Hyde's paintings in San Francisco this spring, it is worth noting that seeing them a second time holds no less interest.

In this current show she shares with Jefferey Doty and Herb Grusser through June 21 at the Unitarian Fellowship, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael, her crisp-edged tapestries of muted color still effect the same initial impact and interesting after-images.

The patterned camouflage she often uses to delay recognition of a subject is, of course, less concealing. But the fact that we now immediately recognize the marijuana plant hidden in the blazing pattern of flowers doesn't lessen respect for the intricate paint scheme. And it only brings us to the total concept sooner now that the baby being born is at once discernible amid the color patterns.

Where Miss Hyde does not camouflage, as in a painting of a flower-flanked carved stone memorial, her ability to reduce a topic to its essence is just a striking. In fact, all of her work is dramatic. And in that way her paintings also relate to Grusser's mobiles and Doty's ceramic sculpture.

Grusser's painted discs and modified triangles, crescents and free form shapes which hang on arched metal rods, have the look of Alexander Calder's mobiles. Simple as they are, they do manage certain contrasts.

At times Grusser's work assumes life and airiness as in a delicate, leafy branch of brushed metal parts. At others, his work has an imposing quality such as in a sprawling spine of black metal rods ended by stark white circles, one large black disc and a teardrop of bright red.

The drama in Doty's sculpture is the sense of motion in its dented, twisting forms. It is also in the massiveness of its gnarled and casual structure and in the brown rawness and pitted glazes of its surfaces.

Some of it is brutally organic such as the chunks of clay from which weathered tree branches can be believed to grow. Others are intellectually provocative. One such is a sort of uncapped fire hydrant, its rough, delicately etched outside touched by its inner speckled glaze which drips from the openings.

The other, rising from a flag draped pedestal, is a tortured column of clay broken midway by a marble chunk caught in a jungle of burned wire and tipped with a ribbed, spiked sphere of damaged wire.

Other strong sculpture pieces are unfortunately weakened by self-conscious drips of candle wax. And while a few of Doty's "utilitarian" ceramics such as a crumpled bottle don't measure up, others, including all his understated urns and a huge bowl built of raw cloth-textured slabs, its folded,"snail-tracked" interior glazed with deep blue pools, are generous compensation.

Novato Boys' Club Opens Clubhouse Fund Effort

Directors of the Boy's Club of Novato have opened a campaign to raise $100,000 to build and equip the first phase of a club at Lamont and Railroad avenues.

Plans are to construct a club on the two-acre site, now under option, in a three-phase development.

Novato's population is more than 31,000 and growing fast, creating a city large enough to support a club comparable to those in Santa Rosa, Marin City or other Bay Area communities, said President David E. Milano.

Vice President Paul S. Scheller said first phase construction would provide a large games room, facilities for arts and crafts instruction, a library, a room for older boys and an office for an executive director.

If sufficient funds are raised in the initial drive, the next phase of construction would include a gymnasium and kitchen. The third phase plan provides a swimming pool, Scheller reported.

The campaign got off to a good start with a $1,000 donation from the Novato Junior Women's club, but Milano stressed the need for 200 volunteers to make it a success.

Immediate plans are for appointment of a campaign general chairman, a policy steering committee and chairmen for three solicitation divisions, Milano said.

There are about 5,648 boys between the ages of 6 and 18 in the Novato area and an urgent need for a boys' club to serve them, he said.

The nonprofit club would be affiliated with the Boys' Clubs of America which serve all boys regardless of race, color or creed, Milano reported. The annual dues would be $3 and boys unable to pay are given a chance to earn the membership fee.

Scheller said the proposed club site is centrally located and "easily accessible to the greatest number of boys in the community."

Milano urged every club and organized group in the city to join in a communitywide effort to raise funds. About one third of the construction costs is expected to be contributed in materials and labor, he said.

He noted that the Boy's Club of America has been functioning for 65 years and has operated under a charter granted by Congress since 1956.

College Slates Spring Festival For June 5

The Associated Students of the College of Marin will stage its first Spring Festival June 5 at the student center.

The festival will feature about 20 booths displaying and selling crafts, art works and foods.

Staged as a fund raising event for student body coffers, the festival will include works on sale by both students and non-students.

Proceeds from the sales will be kept by the artists who will pay the student association for use of booths.

The festival will begin at about 10 a.m.

Julie's Position Not Favoritism

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House said yesterday Julie Nixon Eisenhower had asked no special favors for her teaching assignment at Atlantic Beach, Fla., next fall.

A group of teachers at Jacksonville, Fla., near Atlantic Beach, have complained the President's 22-year-old daughter was assigned as a beginning teacher to a choice school only four blocks from her home, while many teachers must drive miles to get to their classrooms in ghetto areas.

Connie Stuart, First Lady Pat Nixon's press secretary, said Mrs. Eisenhower "is a teacher like any other teacher. She was assigned to a school. It wasn't her request."

FAMILY

"Fantasia" — Reissue of 30-year-old Disney all time giant entertainment. Philadelphia orchestra plays nine musical classics and artists project their imaginative interpretations in cartoons. Outstanding.

"20,000 Leagues Under The Sea" — Reissue of Disney's interpretation of the Jules Verne's science fiction classic. An imaginative production set in 1868 with good acting from a fine cast.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Andromeda Strain" — A team of trained scientists race against time trying to identify a fatal disease transported to earth by a space probe satellite. Very entertaining but too technical and the destruction of people and animals would be too frightening for young children.

"Assassination Bureau" — An English satire about some elegant dealers in death. The head of an international organization of professional killers bargains with his men, they must kill him or he will kill them. Ending is an amusing surprise.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — A deft sophisticated comedy about two bandits. Imaginative camera work, wonderful score and witty performances. Very violent ending.

"Chisum" — Based on actual character and incidents during the cattle war in New Mexico in 1878. The plot is filled with intrigue, revenge, bloody murder and violent gun battles, which is routine for westerns. Good of its kind.

"Deserter" — A formula western plot about the spartan training of an elite commando squad for a slaughter of several hundred Apache Indians. Stereotyped characters. Admirable photography.

"I Never Sang for my Father" — Exceptional acting makes this film an emotional experience. It tells of the efforts of a man to build a bridge of understanding to his domineering ill-tempered old father. Well handled but depressing.

"Lawrence of Arabia" — Reissue of magnificent production telling the story of T.E. Lawrence, an English soldier who led the revolt of Bedouins against the Turks during World War I.

"Love Story" — Film is pure romantic escapism and an old fashioned simple love story. Acting is exceptional and some tasteless language mars an otherwise beautiful portrayal.

"Rise of Louis XIV" — French film with English subtitles is near documentary but beautiful and meticulously done, though slow moving. It is a study of the reign of the young king and the way he asserted his power when Cardinal Mazarin died.

"Waterloo" — The battle where Napoleon is defeated by Wellington has some of the most exquisite action sequences ever filmed, they are both spectacular and horrifying. Too violent for young children.

"Zeppelin" — World War I spy story about a British double agent. The details about zeppelins are of interest but the story is a routine medioce romantic melodrama.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — Typical Woody Allen fare of tasteless insults, irreverent nonsense dealing in the lowest moral and aesthetic denominators. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

"Little Big Man" — A very violent tragi-comic history of Indian-white relations as recalled by 121 year old ex-gun fighter. Very thought provoking, bloody with some sex scenes.

"Little Fauss, Big Halsey" — Contemporary motorcycle drama. Fast pace covers shallow content and goes nowhere. Nudity and sex.

ADULTS ONLY

"Five Easy Pieces" — A portrait of a modern alienated man who is not comfortable either with his talented family or with the rough life of an oil rigger. His callous treatment of everyone causes him to lose the sympathy from the audience. Explicit sex and crude dialogue.

"M.A.S.H. — Nothing escapes the mockery of this ribard blood soaked comedy of wartime Korea. Several scenes are as gruesome as they are funny. Sex, nudity and cursing make this a very adult satire.

Two Inmates Fail To Come Back To San Quentin

Two San Quentin Prison inmates, out on 72-hour passes, failed to return to the prison yesterday.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park identified the missing men as Lee Cagle, 47, and Julio Lopez, 27, both serving burglary terms from Alameda County.

Park said Cagle was to have returned to the prison at 3:30 p.m. yesterday and Lopez at 1 p.m., but neither showed up. Cagle was to be paroled in July and Lopez in August.

Park said there is a 1 per cent failure-to-return rate among the "several thousand" inmates who have taken part statewide in the 72-hour pass program.

Eye Gouger To Mental Hospital

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The son of a prominent Massachusetts politician, who gouged out his eyes while in a jail last week was transferred Wednesday from Maryland General Hospital to a state mental hospital.

Charles Innes Jr., 25, whose father is general counsel to the Massachusetts House of Representatives, was under the influence of a powerful animal tranquilizer when the incident occurred last Thursday, according to police. "It is doubtful that he will ever see again," a nursing supervisor said. But his general condition is very good.

Innes was taken by ambulance to Springfield State Hospital, also located in Baltimore.

Court Clears Anti-Spiro Yell

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)—The Washington Supreme Court ruled Thursday it wasn't a crime to yell "warmonger" at Spiro Agnew while the vice president was making a political speech.

The court reversed the disorderly conduct conviction of Peter J. McDonough, a Gonzaga University students who yelled at Agnew at a political rally during the 1968 presidential campaign. Agnew was campaigning for the vice presidency at the time.

"Shouting the word 'warmonger' but once—without more to indicate a further purpose or intention of breaking up the meeting ... did not amount to a disturbance of the peace, in fact or in law," said the majority opinion written by Justice Hugh J. Rosellini.

4 Hub Schools Win In Cleanup

Four schools in the San Anselmo School District have been named winners in a five-month clean campus competition.

Isabel Cook, Sleepy Hollow, Hidden Valley and Yolansdale schools each were awarded a camera after periodic checks of campuses, ending with a final inspection Wednesday.

Yolansdale pupils, kindergarten through third grade, got a special award, a snapon banner for their ecology flag. Runner-up was Brookside School, which received a banner, according to the district office.

The contest started Jan. 1.

U.S. Suffers Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Imports exceeded exports by $214.7 million in April, to create the first deficit in the U.S. trade account in more than two years, the Commerce Department reported today.

The trade deficit aggravates the nation's critical balance of payments problem. A flood of dollars overseas this year has already resulted in five European nations increasing the value of thair currency in relation to the dollar, in effect devaluing the dollar.

Imports totaled a record $3.76 billion during the month, eclipsing the previous high of $3.69 billion recorded last January. Exports in April totaled $3.54 billion.

The export figure was down from $3.81 billion in March while imports were up from the March figure of $3.57 billion.

A 10-week folk guitar course for beginning, intermediate I and intermediate II students will be offered to children and adults at La Tercera School from June 21 to Aug. 27. Participants must furnish their own guitars.

A 10-week course in ballet for children over the age of 5 will be offered at La Tercera School from June 21 to Aug. 27. Tennis lessons for persons 8 years old and over will be offered from June 21 to July 16. If there is enough interest, a second session may be offered from July 26 to Aug. 20. Participants must furnish their own tennis rackets.

Golf instruction for children between the ages of 10 and 16 will be offered at the Liberty Valley Golf Course, 50 Liberty Road, Petaluma, from June 21 to Aug. 20.

Few National Stars Set For Marin's Auditorium

The Marin Veterans Memorial auditorium at the Civic Center, scheduled to open on Sept. 25, is booked almost solid through June of next year.

The bulk of the bookings are by local organizations, with only a sprinkling of national names like the Lawrence Welk Show and the San Francisco Symphony.

Leon G. Kalimos, manager of the memorial building, acknowledged that the new 2,100-seat theater has not booked top performers like pianists Van Cliburn and Jose Iturbi or the Stuttgart Ballet, which play in San Francisco, Sacramento and other Bay Area communities.

Kalimos gave these reasons Marin has not yet drawn performers of international renown:

1. Opening date of the auditorium and the seating capacity were not definite until too late to book for the 1971-72 season. Only 900 seats were originally planned, and it was not until this February that the county supervisors authorized funds for a full 2,100 seats.

2. Artists like Van Cliburn or Iturbi are too expensive for a 2,000-seat theater, especially when the audience potential is unknown. "If a performer costs $10,000, all 2,000 seats would have to be a sell-out at $5 per seat just to break even. Tickets would have to sell for $8 to $9 because you don't always have a sellout," said Kalimos.

3. Impresarios who arrange for the performers are reluctant to risk expensive shows in an untried location like Marin where audience reaction is unknown. "Take the Stuttgart Ballet," said Kalimos. "At $50,000 per week, we'd need a big auditorium and an established audience before an impresario will risk bringing such a performance here."

Kalimos said many people have the mistaken idea that he, as manager of the building, can book all the performances. "That's not my job. All we do is rent the space. The ones who book performances and take the risk of losing their shirt are the impresarios."

Producers who bring entertainment to San Francisco are not likely to move such entertainment just 15 or 20 miles north to Marin when there is no established audience here, he added.

Kalimos, however, expects Marin to begin drawing more name entertainers from the 1972-73 season, after the Memorial has been opened for a season. The Marin manager said he has contacted various producers like John Kornfeld, James Doolittle of Los Angeles, and others on the Pacific Coast to let them know that the Marin Memorial will open this year.

The theater will open Sept. 25 with the Marin Symphony Orchestra and guest soloist Dorothy Kirsten.

Thereafter every weekend and many of the weekdays are booked through June of 1972.

Name performances include the Lawrence Welk Show on Sept. 26; and the San Francisco Symphony Concert on Jan. 22, Feb. 26, April 22, and May 20, 1972.

Producer Mel Goldblatt has several dates reserved in October and November this year, but performers have not been decided. On Nov. 11 through 13, Goldblatt had planned to present the play, "Charlie Brown", but this fell through, and he is working on replacements.

Other reservations made through June of next year include these:

Grape Festival on Oct. 2, Marin County Fair from Oct. 8 through 11, A. M. Lecture Series sponsored by the Family Service League, Marin Ski Swap, Explorama travel films, Seawell antique shows, Marin Conservation League benefit, Marin Symphony, Youth in Arts, Marin Hearing and Speech Center Concert, San Rafael High School Symphonic and Concert Band, Marin Festival of Trees, Actors Playhouse of Marin, Marin Civic Ballet, Marin Youth Orchestra Concert, San Rafael Elementary and High Schools Vocal Festival, Terra Linda High School Symphonic Band, Marin Cat Fanciers, San Rafael High School Annual Musical, San Rafael Elementary Schools Instrumental Festival, Marin Sports Show, San Rafael High School Instrumental Festival, and many others.

Local organizations may use the building at lower rental than commercial performers.

Hearing Set For Bomb Call Man

Rodney Allan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court ot misdemeanor charges of possessing narcotics paraphernalia and being in a place where marijuana is used.

A hearing on defense motions was set Wednesday for June 17.

Woods was arrested May 3 after a male caller told a San Anselmo police dispatcher, "There's a bomb in your place — May Day, May Day."

The call was traced to Wood's residence, police said, but the bomb threat charge has not been filed against him pending further investigation.

The misdemeanor charges stem from a contraption for smoking marijuana allegedly found in Woods's residence when police went to investigate the bomb threat.

Speed Controls Are Tightened

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department moved today to bring widely abused stimulant drugs commonly known as "pep pills" and "speed" under the same tight controls that govern codeine, morphine and methadone.

John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, announced that the amphetamine and methamphetamine drugs were being reclassified from a category which covers drugs like barbiturates to one which includes highly addictive drugs subject to widespread abuse.

The change, which could become effective in 30 days, means the two drugs will come under a manufacturing quota set by Attorney General John N. Mitchell; that a federal order form will be required for their distribution; and that they may be obtained only on a doctor's prescription that may not be refilled.

A Stormy Assembly Adjourns

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The 183rd United Presbyterian Church General Assembly adjourned Wednesday after a 10-day session highlighted by the election of the first woman moderator, a controvery involving a black militant, and a strongly-worded statement on Vietnam.

Lois H. Stair, 47, of Wausha, Wisc., was the first woman named moderator of the 3.1 million member denomination, gaining the votes of only four more than a majority of the 799 voting commissioners needed in a race against three men.

Mrs. Stair, mother of two grown sons, is vice president and secretary of her husband's foundry company.

Easily the most controversial issue on the agenda developed when the Rev. Edler Hawkins, a black minister heading the committee on church and race, revealed that $10,000 had been given to a legal aid fund for avowed Communist Angela Davis.

After heated debate the $100,000 per year legal defense fund was extended for three years by a close vote. However, a motion was adopted censuring the church and race committee for a "serious question concerning the propriety" of the grant.

The commissioners went on record against President Nixon's Vietnamization policy "which provides arms for Asians to kill other Asians" and adopted the policy-making body's strongest provision yet on the Indochina war.

A statement urging withdrawal from Vietnam "no later than the end of 1971" and presidential amnesty "for those who are in prisons or expatriates for conscientious dissent to this war" was adopted by a narrow margin.

The general assembly extended for two years a committee seeking a plan of re-union with the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., which is located generally in the southern states.

ART REVIEW

Hyde-Doty-Grusser Show Is Satisfying

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Having reviewed Allie Hyde's paintings in San Francisco this spring, it is worth noting that seeing them a second time holds no less interest.

In this current show she shares with Jefferey Doty and Herb Grusser through June 21 at the Unitarian Fellowship, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael, her crisp-edged tapestries of muted color still effect the same initial impact and interesting after-images.

The patterned camouflage she often uses to delay recognition of a subject is, of course, less concealing. But the fact that we now immediately recognize the marijuana plant hidden in the blazing pattern of flowers doesn't lessen respect for the intricate paint scheme. And it only brings us to the total concept sooner now that the baby being born is at once discernible amid the color patterns.

Where Miss Hyde does not camouflage, as in a painting of a flower-flanked carved stone memorial, her ability to reduce a topic to its essence is just a striking. In fact, all of her work is dramatic. And in that way her paintings also relate to Grusser's mobiles and Doty's ceramic sculpture.

Grusser's painted discs and modified triangles, crescents and free form shapes which hang on arched metal rods, have the look of Alexander Calder's mobiles. Simple as they are, they do manage certain contrasts.

At times Grusser's work assumes life and airiness as in a delicate, leafy branch of brushed metal parts. At others, his work has an imposing quality such as in a sprawling spine of black metal rods ended by stark white circles, one large black disc and a teardrop of bright red.

The drama in Doty's sculpture is the sense of motion in its dented, twisting forms. It is also in the massiveness of its gnarled and casual structure and in the brown rawness and pitted glazes of its surfaces.

Some of it is brutally organic such as the chunks of clay from which weathered tree branches can be believed to grow. Others are intellectually provocative. One such is a sort of uncapped fire hydrant, its rough, delicately etched outside touched by its inner speckled glaze which drips from the openings.

The other, rising from a flag draped pedestal, is a tortured column of clay broken midway by a marble chunk caught in a jungle of burned wire and tipped with a ribbed, spiked sphere of damaged wire.

Other strong sculpture pieces are unfortunately weakened by self-conscious drips of candle wax. And while a few of Doty's "utilitarian" ceramics such as a crumpled bottle don't measure up, others, including all his understated urns and a huge bowl built of raw cloth-textured slabs, its folded,"snail-tracked" interior glazed with deep blue pools, are generous compensation.

Novato Boys' Club Opens Clubhouse Fund Effort

Directors of the Boy's Club of Novato have opened a campaign to raise $100,000 to build and equip the first phase of a club at Lamont and Railroad avenues.

Plans are to construct a club on the two-acre site, now under option, in a three-phase development.

Novato's population is more than 31,000 and growing fast, creating a city large enough to support a club comparable to those in Santa Rosa, Marin City or other Bay Area communities, said President David E. Milano.

Vice President Paul S. Scheller said first phase construction would provide a large games room, facilities for arts and crafts instruction, a library, a room for older boys and an office for an executive director.

If sufficient funds are raised in the initial drive, the next phase of construction would include a gymnasium and kitchen. The third phase plan provides a swimming pool, Scheller reported.

The campaign got off to a good start with a $1,000 donation from the Novato Junior Women's club, but Milano stressed the need for 200 volunteers to make it a success.

Immediate plans are for appointment of a campaign general chairman, a policy steering committee and chairmen for three solicitation divisions, Milano said.

There are about 5,648 boys between the ages of 6 and 18 in the Novato area and an urgent need for a boys' club to serve them, he said.

The nonprofit club would be affiliated with the Boys' Clubs of America which serve all boys regardless of race, color or creed, Milano reported. The annual dues would be $3 and boys unable to pay are given a chance to earn the membership fee.

Scheller said the proposed club site is centrally located and "easily accessible to the greatest number of boys in the community."

Milano urged every club and organized group in the city to join in a communitywide effort to raise funds. About one third of the construction costs is expected to be contributed in materials and labor, he said.

He noted that the Boy's Club of America has been functioning for 65 years and has operated under a charter granted by Congress since 1956.

College Slates Spring Festival For June 5

The Associated Students of the College of Marin will stage its first Spring Festival June 5 at the student center.

The festival will feature about 20 booths displaying and selling crafts, art works and foods.

Staged as a fund raising event for student body coffers, the festival will include works on sale by both students and non-students.

Proceeds from the sales will be kept by the artists who will pay the student association for use of booths.

The festival will begin at about 10 a.m.

Julie's Position Not Favoritism

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House said yesterday Julie Nixon Eisenhower had asked no special favors for her teaching assignment at Atlantic Beach, Fla., next fall.

A group of teachers at Jacksonville, Fla., near Atlantic Beach, have complained the President's 22-year-old daughter was assigned as a beginning teacher to a choice school only four blocks from her home, while many teachers must drive miles to get to their classrooms in ghetto areas.

Connie Stuart, First Lady Pat Nixon's press secretary, said Mrs. Eisenhower "is a teacher like any other teacher. She was assigned to a school. It wasn't her request."

FAMILY

"Fantasia" — Reissue of 30-year-old Disney all time giant entertainment. Philadelphia orchestra plays nine musical classics and artists project their imaginative interpretations in cartoons. Outstanding.

"20,000 Leagues Under The Sea" — Reissue of Disney's interpretation of the Jules Verne's science fiction classic. An imaginative production set in 1868 with good acting from a fine cast.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Andromeda Strain" — A team of trained scientists race against time trying to identify a fatal disease transported to earth by a space probe satellite. Very entertaining but too technical and the destruction of people and animals would be too frightening for young children.

"Assassination Bureau" — An English satire about some elegant dealers in death. The head of an international organization of professional killers bargains with his men, they must kill him or he will kill them. Ending is an amusing surprise.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — A deft sophisticated comedy about two bandits. Imaginative camera work, wonderful score and witty performances. Very violent ending.

"Chisum" — Based on actual character and incidents during the cattle war in New Mexico in 1878. The plot is filled with intrigue, revenge, bloody murder and violent gun battles, which is routine for westerns. Good of its kind.

"Deserter" — A formula western plot about the spartan training of an elite commando squad for a slaughter of several hundred Apache Indians. Stereotyped characters. Admirable photography.

"I Never Sang for my Father" — Exceptional acting makes this film an emotional experience. It tells of the efforts of a man to build a bridge of understanding to his domineering ill-tempered old father. Well handled but depressing.

"Lawrence of Arabia" — Reissue of magnificent production telling the story of T.E. Lawrence, an English soldier who led the revolt of Bedouins against the Turks during World War I.

"Love Story" — Film is pure romantic escapism and an old fashioned simple love story. Acting is exceptional and some tasteless language mars an otherwise beautiful portrayal.

"Rise of Louis XIV" — French film with English subtitles is near documentary but beautiful and meticulously done, though slow moving. It is a study of the reign of the young king and the way he asserted his power when Cardinal Mazarin died.

"Waterloo" — The battle where Napoleon is defeated by Wellington has some of the most exquisite action sequences ever filmed, they are both spectacular and horrifying. Too violent for young children.

"Zeppelin" — World War I spy story about a British double agent. The details about zeppelins are of interest but the story is a routine medioce romantic melodrama.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — Typical Woody Allen fare of tasteless insults, irreverent nonsense dealing in the lowest moral and aesthetic denominators. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

"Little Big Man" — A very violent tragi-comic history of Indian-white relations as recalled by 121 year old ex-gun fighter. Very thought provoking, bloody with some sex scenes.

"Little Fauss, Big Halsey" — Contemporary motorcycle drama. Fast pace covers shallow content and goes nowhere. Nudity and sex.

ADULTS ONLY

"Five Easy Pieces" — A portrait of a modern alienated man who is not comfortable either with his talented family or with the rough life of an oil rigger. His callous treatment of everyone causes him to lose the sympathy from the audience. Explicit sex and crude dialogue.

"M.A.S.H. — Nothing escapes the mockery of this ribard blood soaked comedy of wartime Korea. Several scenes are as gruesome as they are funny. Sex, nudity and cursing make this a very adult satire.

Two Inmates Fail To Come Back To San Quentin

Two San Quentin Prison inmates, out on 72-hour passes, failed to return to the prison yesterday.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park identified the missing men as Lee Cagle, 47, and Julio Lopez, 27, both serving burglary terms from Alameda County.

Park said Cagle was to have returned to the prison at 3:30 p.m. yesterday and Lopez at 1 p.m., but neither showed up. Cagle was to be paroled in July and Lopez in August.

Park said there is a 1 per cent failure-to-return rate among the "several thousand" inmates who have taken part statewide in the 72-hour pass program.

Eye Gouger To Mental Hospital

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The son of a prominent Massachusetts politician, who gouged out his eyes while in a jail last week was transferred Wednesday from Maryland General Hospital to a state mental hospital.

Charles Innes Jr., 25, whose father is general counsel to the Massachusetts House of Representatives, was under the influence of a powerful animal tranquilizer when the incident occurred last Thursday, according to police. "It is doubtful that he will ever see again," a nursing supervisor said. But his general condition is very good.

Innes was taken by ambulance to Springfield State Hospital, also located in Baltimore.

Court Clears Anti-Spiro Yell

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)—The Washington Supreme Court ruled Thursday it wasn't a crime to yell "warmonger" at Spiro Agnew while the vice president was making a political speech.

The court reversed the disorderly conduct conviction of Peter J. McDonough, a Gonzaga University students who yelled at Agnew at a political rally during the 1968 presidential campaign. Agnew was campaigning for the vice presidency at the time.

"Shouting the word 'warmonger' but once—without more to indicate a further purpose or intention of breaking up the meeting ... did not amount to a disturbance of the peace, in fact or in law," said the majority opinion written by Justice Hugh J. Rosellini.

4 Hub Schools Win In Cleanup

Four schools in the San Anselmo School District have been named winners in a five-month clean campus competition.

Isabel Cook, Sleepy Hollow, Hidden Valley and Yolansdale schools each were awarded a camera after periodic checks of campuses, ending with a final inspection Wednesday.

Yolansdale pupils, kindergarten through third grade, got a special award, a snapon banner for their ecology flag. Runner-up was Brookside School, which received a banner, according to the district office.

The contest started Jan. 1.

Few National Stars Set For Marin's Auditorium

The Marin Veterans Memorial auditorium at the Civic Center, scheduled to open on Sept. 25, is booked almost solid through June of next year.

The bulk of the bookings are by local organizations, with only a sprinkling of national names like the Lawrence Welk Show and the San Francisco Symphony.

Leon G. Kalimos, manager of the memorial building, acknowledged that the new 2,100-seat theater has not booked top performers like pianists Van Cliburn and Jose Iturbi or the Stuttgart Ballet, which play in San Francisco, Sacramento and other Bay Area communities.

Kalimos gave these reasons Marin has not yet drawn performers of international renown:

1. Opening date of the auditorium and the seating capacity were not definite until too late to book for the 1971-72 season. Only 900 seats were originally planned, and it was not until this February that the county supervisors authorized funds for a full 2,100 seats.

2. Artists like Van Cliburn or Iturbi are too expensive for a 2,000-seat theater, especially when the audience potential is unknown. "If a performer costs $10,000, all 2,000 seats would have to be a sell-out at $5 per seat just to break even. Tickets would have to sell for $8 to $9 because you don't always have a sellout," said Kalimos.

3. Impresarios who arrange for the performers are reluctant to risk expensive shows in an untried location like Marin where audience reaction is unknown. "Take the Stuttgart Ballet," said Kalimos. "At $50,000 per week, we'd need a big auditorium and an established audience before an impresario will risk bringing such a performance here."

Kalimos said many people have the mistaken idea that he, as manager of the building, can book all the performances. "That's not my job. All we do is rent the space. The ones who book performances and take the risk of losing their shirt are the impresarios."

Producers who bring entertainment to San Francisco are not likely to move such entertainment just 15 or 20 miles north to Marin when there is no established audience here, he added.

Kalimos, however, expects Marin to begin drawing more name entertainers from the 1972-73 season, after the Memorial has been opened for a season. The Marin manager said he has contacted various producers like John Kornfeld, James Doolittle of Los Angeles, and others on the Pacific Coast to let them know that the Marin Memorial will open this year.

The theater will open Sept. 25 with the Marin Symphony Orchestra and guest soloist Dorothy Kirsten.

Thereafter every weekend and many of the weekdays are booked through June of 1972.

Name performances include the Lawrence Welk Show on Sept. 26; and the San Francisco Symphony Concert on Jan. 22, Feb. 26, April 22, and May 20, 1972.

Producer Mel Goldblatt has several dates reserved in October and November this year, but performers have not been decided. On Nov. 11 through 13, Goldblatt had planned to present the play, "Charlie Brown", but this fell through, and he is working on replacements.

Other reservations made through June of next year include these:

Grape Festival on Oct. 2, Marin County Fair from Oct. 8 through 11, A. M. Lecture Series sponsored by the Family Service League, Marin Ski Swap, Explorama travel films, Seawell antique shows, Marin Conservation League benefit, Marin Symphony, Youth in Arts, Marin Hearing and Speech Center Concert, San Rafael High School Symphonic and Concert Band, Marin Festival of Trees, Actors Playhouse of Marin, Marin Civic Ballet, Marin Youth Orchestra Concert, San Rafael Elementary and High Schools Vocal Festival, Terra Linda High School Symphonic Band, Marin Cat Fanciers, San Rafael High School Annual Musical, San Rafael Elementary Schools Instrumental Festival, Marin Sports Show, San Rafael High School Instrumental Festival, and many others.

Local organizations may use the building at lower rental than commercial performers.

Hearing Set For Bomb Call Man

Rodney Allan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court ot misdemeanor charges of possessing narcotics paraphernalia and being in a place where marijuana is used.

A hearing on defense motions was set Wednesday for June 17.

Woods was arrested May 3 after a male caller told a San Anselmo police dispatcher, "There's a bomb in your place — May Day, May Day."

The call was traced to Wood's residence, police said, but the bomb threat charge has not been filed against him pending further investigation.

The misdemeanor charges stem from a contraption for smoking marijuana allegedly. found in Woods's residence when police went to investigate the bomb threat.

A Stormy Assembly Adjourns

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The 183rd United Presbyterian Church General Assembly adjourned Wednesday after a 10-day session highlighted by the election of the first woman moderator, a controvery involving a black militant, and a strongly-worded statement on Vietnam.

Lois H. Stair, 47, of Wausha, Wisc., was the first woman named moderator of the 3.1 million member denomination, gaining the votes of only four more than a majority of the 799 voting commissioners needed in a race against three men.

Mrs. Stair, mother of two grown sons, is vice president and secretary of her husband's foundry company.

Easilv the most controversial issue on the agenda developed when the Rev. Edler Hawkins, a black minister heading the committee on church and race, revealed that $10,000 had been given to a legal aid fund for avowed Communist Angela Davis.

After heated debate the $100,000 per year legal defense fund was extended for three years by a close vote. However, a motion was adopted censuring the church and race committee for a "serious question concerning the propriety" of the grant.

The commissioners went on record against President Nixon's Vietnamization policy "which provides arms for Asians to kill other Asians" and adopted the policy-making body's strongest provision yet on the Indochina war.

A statement urging withdrawal from Vietnam "no later than the end of 1971" and presidential amnesty "for those who are in prisons or expatriates for conscientious dissent to this war" was adopted by a narrow margin.

The general assembly extended for two years a committee seeking a plan of re-union with the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., which is located generally in the southern states.

Speed Controls Are Tightened

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department moved today to bring widely abused stimulant drugs commonly known as "pep pills" and "speed" under the same tight controls that govern codeine, morphine and methadone.

John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, announced that the amphetamine and methamphetamine drugs were being reclassified from a category which covers drugs like barbiturates to one which includes highly addictive drugs subject to widespread abuse.

The change, which could become effective in 30 days, means the two drugs will come under a manufacturing quota set by Attorney General John N. Mitchell; that a federal order form will be required for their distribution; and that they may be obtained only on a doctor's prescription that may not be refilled.

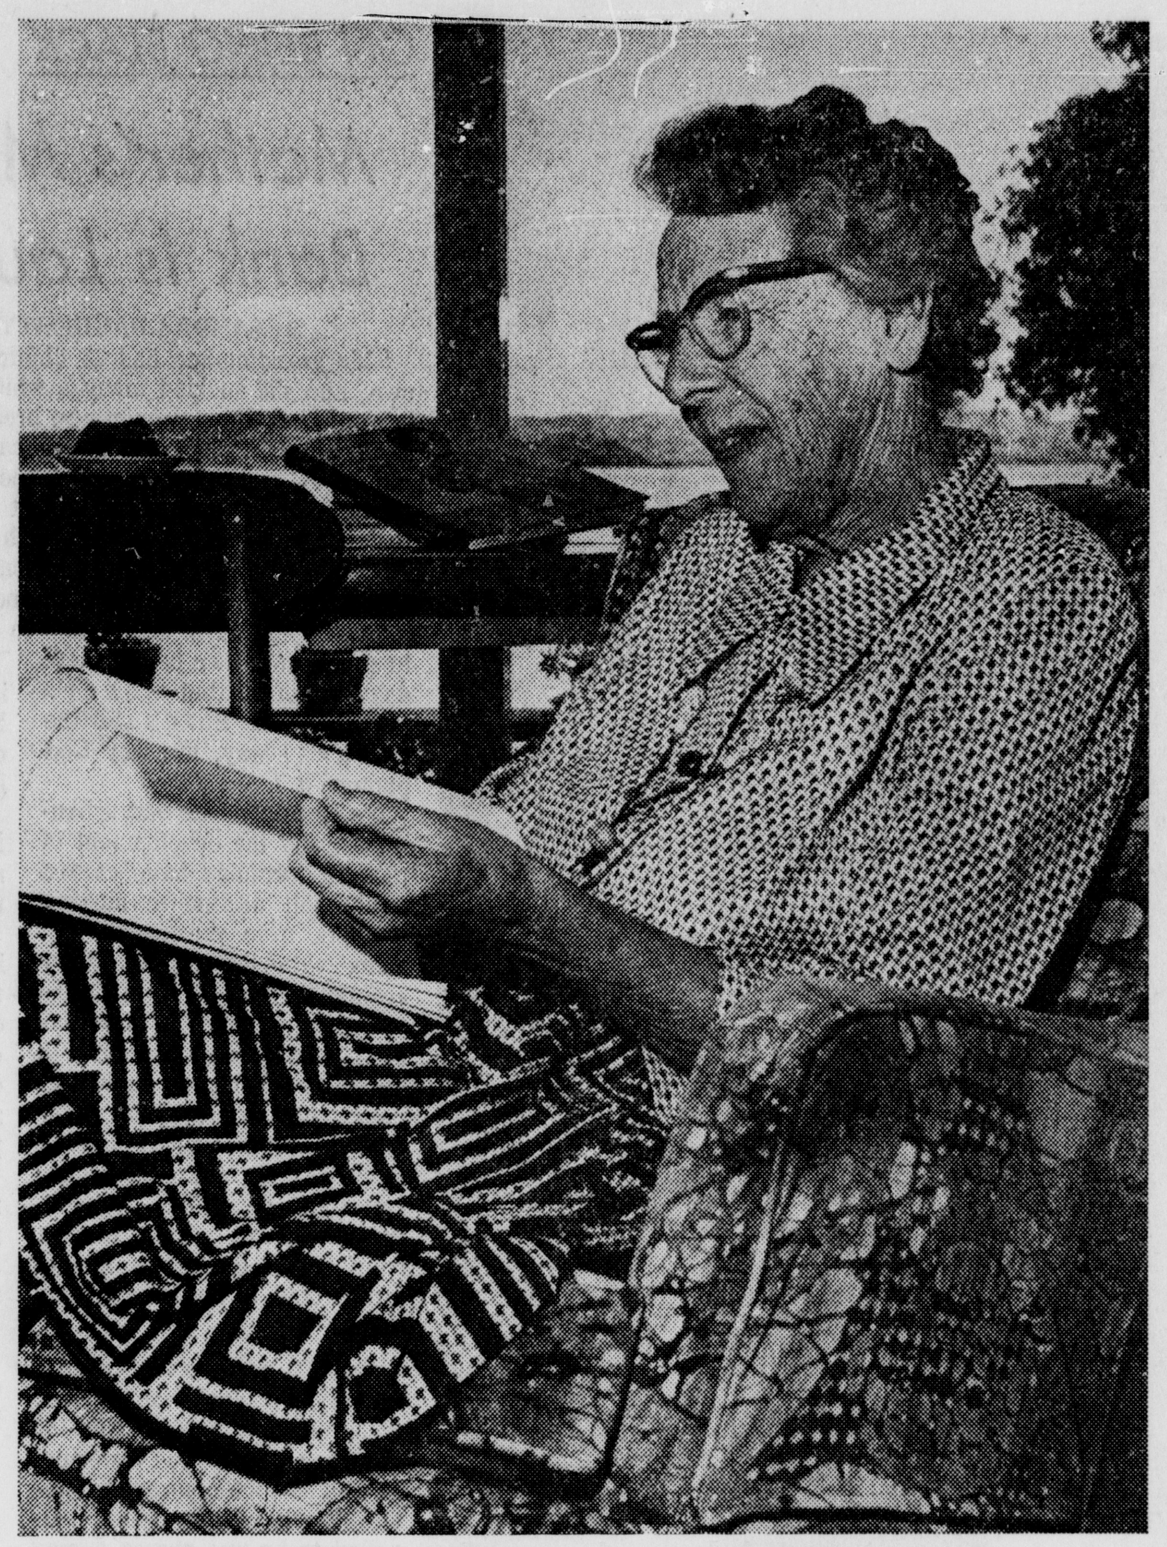
Second Medical School Graduation For Doctor

By PAT BALMES



DR. H. E. (JO) THELANDER, a 75-year-old pediatrician and professor emirtus at University of California San Francisco Medical Center, will be graduated this June from medical school for the second time in her life. "My main reason was to look at medicine from a student's viewpoint," says the Tiburon resident, who has served on several national committees on medical education. She received the university's highest honor in 1967 for her pioneer studies on the care of brain-damaged children. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)

For the second time in her life, Dr. H. E. (Jo) Thelander, of Tiburon, will be graduated from medical school in June. The 75-year-old pediatrician received her first medical degree almost half a century ago.

Between her two medical degrees she was in private pediatric practice in San Francisco for more than 40 years and was clinical professor of pediatrics at University of California San Francisco Medical Center, where she received in 1967 the university's highest honor for her work in the care of brain-damaged children. She started over again in medical school four years ago.

"I guess that is a first," Dr. Thelander said. "The University of California San Francisco's administration not only took me in, but invited me to participate in curriculum discussions. The main reason I began the second time around was to look at medicine from a student's viewpoint."

Dr. Thelander has had a lifelong interest in medical education and served on several national medical education committees.

"A lot of doctors tell me they would like to take medicine over again one day," she says, adding thatsome envy her for her freedom.

ONE MAJOR difference of the second time around from her "awfully good" course at University of Minnesota Medical School, which she completed in 1924, is that she misses the very close relationship of students and professors.

"I cannot believe this is due to the size of classes, as they have the same proportion of teachers to students as then," she says. "I wonder if this is part of the generation gap.

"But I had fun. I enjoyed my classmates. Most of them were great. Forget the long hair and shabby clothes. Maybe if people my age had been primped from infancy and had wept in the barber's chair before two years of age, we too would like to explore a change. When the demands, confrontations, strikes, parades and picketings of this period are history, it probably will be found that a new era of humanism has emerged with greater concern for all mankind."

JO THELANDER is one of nine children who grew up on a farm in Little Falls, Minn., when Charles Lindbergh was growing up there too.

When her three brothers served in World War I, she felt badly that she couldn't go to war with them.

"They suggested that I join nursing. Then, if there were a war, I could go," says the small woman.

But she was unhappy in nurse's training and after a medical missionary addressed the student nurses about her work, Jo told her, "I wish I could study medicine and go to a foreign country."

The missionary arranged a scholarship at University of Minnesota, where Jo studied for eight years; earning a master's degree and her medical degree, cum laude.

There were as many women in proportion to men in medical school then as there are today. She encountered no prejudice against women.

She never married. A busy colleague once said that doctors ought to be celibate instead of priests, she said humorously.

DR. THELANDER interned at Children's Hospital in San Francisco in 1925 when the house staff was limited to women and all but two of the departments had women physicians as chiefs.

She was appointed to the pediatrics department's staff in the school of medicine of University of California San Francisco, maintaining a private practice in San Francisco and participating in numerous community and civic activities.

In 1926 she went to China to serve as a medical missionary and remained until revolutionaries chased her out in 1927.

"I had a terrific time. I loved it, even the smells, But the Chinese didn't love us," she says. Her letters home are now at the Hoover Institute at Stanford University.

Awaiting another foreign assignment in San Francisco, she went into practice with Dr. Edward B. Shaw, whose partner had died while she was in China. No other foreign assignment came because of the troubled world situation. After practicing several years she decided to stay in San Francisco and repaid her scholarship to the Lutheran church.

DURING World War II Dr. Thelander entered the Navy as a doctor, with the rank of lieutenant commander. Stationed in San Francisco Marine, she left the Navy as a commander and for several years was chief consultant for Woman Veterans, Western Area.

Continuing private practice after the war, Dr. Thelander was also on the teaching staff at Children's Hospital where she was chairman of the pediatrics department for 10 years. She pioneered studies of brain-damaged children, which have led to great improvement in recognition and proper management of neurological defects in the early years of life.

In 1952 she started the Child Development Center at Children's Hospital, funded by the Cerebral Palsy Association. Later the March of Dimes helped finance the birth defects program. The Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital has also helped finance her work.

She started the center, not only for children with certain afflictions, but as she said, "we'll just take them all" in the diagnostic and evaluation center and nursery school to prepare them for one of the city's schools or centers.

A SIMPLE quilt covers Dr. Thelander's bed at home, each square embroidered with one of her little patient's names by his mother, a bittersweet reminder of her work at the Child Development Center between 1952 and her retirement in 1967.

Saying that she thinks the media and general public feel that doctors are too commercial, Dr. Thelander speaks of "an awful lot of charity work for handicapped and poor done by doctors who don't advertise it." Her years of work for the Child Development Center were all voluntary.

IN 1958 Dr. Thelander was presented the Mabel Converse Memorial Award for Distinguished Service by the San Francisco Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It hangs in her Seafirth Place house in Tiburon.

"I've traveled all over the world and that's why I'm content to stay home," she says, and she leaves her sunny home reluctantly each morning she attends medical school.

As to when doctors complain that woman may drop out of medicine to rear a family, Dr. Thelander says, "Children do not stay little long. So what if a woman drops out for five years; we live five years longer than the men do!"

Whipping Cream

If whipping cream refuses to whip, place bowl in another bowl of ice. Many cooks use ice to chill pastries and bread dough.

Trial Hang 'Up

If you are in doubt about where and at what height to hang a picture, do this: cut from brown paper a pattern exactly the size of the picture and fasten it to the wall with a bit of masking tape. You can keep changing the pattern's position until you hit on the perfect spot, then hang the picture there.

Meet The Skin-Thin Body Look

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rudi Gernreich believes in "body clothes" and thinks there's no better way of achieving that look than by using sweaters in infinite ways. The man who made the topless has even produced a bra-like sweater.

"Everything's based on the sweater theme," said Gerneich at the showing of his fall and winter collection for Harmon Knitwear, previewed for buyers and press Wednesday afternoon.

It was in 1966 that Gernreich became the enfant terrible of the fashion world when he showed swim suits with nothing above the waist but a pair of skinny straps. Now, his latest accent on the bustline is with tiny, ribcagelet sweaters, sleeveless, worn over long sleeved, longer "poor boy" type of sweaters.

GERNREICH GAVE the tiny pullovers no name; they were just part of the layered look he used with the accent on sweaters, usually ribbed.

All the clothes except one group for evening stressed cover, but always cling also. Almost tunic length sweaters were paired with skinny pants in ribbed fabrics.

The one group of fashions that really exposed the figure were in matte jerseys, done in black or medium brown, with V-shaped cutouts under the arms and at the front. These he laced together with springs from a hardware store. That's what he said.

Gernreich has a thing for rugged looking fashions; his industrial zippers were a big hit not many seasons ago. This year, other hardware touches included hip-riding belts, loosely fitted and fastened at the front with the same hardware that's used for horse's reins. Leather trim abounds, almost always stitched to the ribbed or knit fabric.

THE DESIGNER was fascinated with combinations of checks and stripes. Some of them came with striped tops, checkerboard skirts gathered full and shown either as a dress or the divided leg culotte. He showed them in combinations of offwhite or red-printed patterns, the checks of the skirts looking four or five inches across.

Gernreich hasn't given up the mini by any means, showing it in several versions in mid-thigh lengths, the models wearing color-coordinated hose. Other lengths for day as they would be shipped, he said, would just dissect the kneecaps.

Gernreich commentated his own show as usual.

"CLOTHES MUST be real," he told his audience. "They're non-nostalgic; they're of our time," he added, giving a gentle slap on the wrists to other designers who've dipped into the 1930s and 1940s in their new collections.

The use of sweaters on sweaters really was an extension, he said, "of what the kids have been doing with jeans and shirts.

"These are body clothes."

Civilized Face Is New Look For Fall

A new look for fall is the civilized face, reports Women's Wear Daily. Extreme is its key, and it leaves little option for in-between.

Lips are either a bloody red or a glossy natural. Hair is waves and curled out of the past or wound into a contemporary knot. Complexion is either powdered like porcelain or glowing with the look of the outdoors. Nails look as if they are dipped in blood or buffed to a natural glow.

Divorced men remarry faster than women, the Census Bureau says.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Marriage Like Business Pacts? Could Be The Way We're Moving

DEAR HELEN:

Here's a modest proposal: Why should marriage, the biggest human contract we have, not be "subject to renewal or cancellation," just as other contracts are? And without the misery of divorce?

So — my suggestion: A trial run of a year (with no children started). This to work out the kinks, and if either party proves defective, the conditional contract carries a "singles-back-- guarantee.

After this, the parties sign a two-year contract, renewable every seven years thereafter. I figure three years should pretty well convince the two whether or not they have a chance to make it as a couple. The later seven-year contract is necessary because we are said to change completely about every seven years. Should the man and woman change in different directions, the agreement can be dissolved.

Seems to me this would keep married people on their toes and in there trying to fulfill the terms of the contract. As it stands now, you work your head off winning a mate, then often get lax and "un-trying" because, after all, you've got him (her), with divorce an expensive and sometimes very difficult alternative.

It's time we made marriage a business agreement with terms as tough and definite as any long, legal contract. I believe that man and woman, being so totally different in attitudes, reactions, feelings and needs, aren't conditioned to live together for life — unless they work like crazy to fulfill and grow with their partnership. Contracts which must be reviewed and voted on would make them work.

Will this day sometime come? — FORWARD THINKER.

DEAR THINKER:

Might could. I'm sure that within the next two decades, we'll see tremendous changes in marriage and family life (or lack of same). Judging from how fast we've moved in the last 10 years, the whole thing is pretty frightening, yes? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Please say a few words about women getting so fat. My wife, in her 40s, is eating herself into an awful shape. There's nothing wrong with her health. Her appetite is the trouble.

The children and I are all slim. We watch our weight. Whatever we say just seems to have the opposite effect on her. She has a pretty face and a great personality but ever since we got married she has been gaining, and that adds up after 18 years.

How do you get through to her that she won't be well much longer, besides being an embarrassment to her family, if she doesn't go on a diet? — HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:

Without nagging, get it across that while you don't love her less, you'd like to love less of her.

Insist that she get a medical checkup, and then, via praise and appreciation, beam her in on a losing streak. Membership in a reducing club helps, for here she will learn that good, balanced, low-calorie diets aren't pain when they bring such great results — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You said "My pet peeve is women who are marital doormats 'for the sake of the children.' " Then you told a wife and family to fight back against the husband.

How many Christians have died from torture (Joan of Arc, etc.) to sustain "one jot or tittle" of Divine Law. We are not asked to be martyrs, only to honor and obey our husbands and fathers. Women got the vote. The least they can do is shut up, conform and be faithful. — FOR DIVINE LAW

DEAR F.D.L.:

I'm not for "supine squaws." Or conformity to tyrants. Sorry! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mother's Milk Bank Is Lauded

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"My grandmother had 13 children of her own, and she suckled many a white baby in her day, too. Slave women who breast-fed the babies in the 'big house' were called milk-mammies and wet nurses in those days." Grandma, an 88-year-old resident of a local rest home, rocked back and forth gently as she recalled childhood days and conversations in the South where she was born and reared.

"You young girls don't seem to have time to suckle your own babies these days — got all that modern paraphernalia. But it's still the natural way, the way God planned it."

It's certainly true that urbanization and the development of modern formulas have caused an overall decline in nursing mothers over the years. But along with the contemporary ecology movement — a desire to return to nature — there has been a noticeable increase in nursing mothers. Available statistics and observations indicate that the typical nursing mother comes from the higher educated strata of women, young college girls. Women from the lower socio-economic strata tend to bottle-feed their babies.

AND IT appears that comparatively few black women elect to nurse their babies. This, of course, probably has historical as well as contemporary rationale. Black women were compelled to be wet nurses during slavery days. Many black women these days, for financial reasons, must return to work shortly after the birth of their children, rendering them unable to be full-time nursing mothers.

Though wet nurses are largely a thing of the past, there is what could be called a contemporary counterpart — the Mothers' Milk Bank, Inc., at 2032 Webster Street in San Francisco.

Established in 1948 by the baby hygiene committee of the American Association of University Women, the Mothers' Milk Bank collects surplus milk from healthy, nursing mothers and pasteurizes and distributes it on doctors' orders to premature and sick infants. It also supplies human milk for research purposes.

Like the blood bank, the color of the donating mother does not matter. She need only be a healthy mother who is interested and willing to take time to collect the milk. Each mother is paid 10 cents an ounce for her milk, but this is minimal compared to the time and effort involved.

LIKEWISE, THE child recipients come in all colors. They need only be children who thrive better on human milk.

Financial obligations and limited milk supplies have facilitated the need to raise the price of milk for recipients to 50 cents an ounce. But no child is denied the milk due to lack of family income and ability to pay.

The Mothers' Milk Bank is a non-profit corporation, and a medical advisory staff governs all its medical policies. It is in need of financial contributions, volunteer assistants and, of course, milk donors. The milk demand is greater than the supply.

The Mothers' Milk Bank does not claim to save lives — for who can really say — but it does boast of helping children back to health.

In today's society where many of us are seeking ways to help on an individual basis, the Mothers' Milk Bank is an estremely worthwhile project. Here, a special select group of women who may have no monetary wealth can share their health and bring happiness. That in itself is quite an accomplishment.

Devaluing Effect Of Inflation Told

Should inflation continue at its present rate, in 28 years a person making $7,200 today would need to earn $16,800 to maintain his present standard of living.

A $25,000 home today would cost $58,000, television sets would increase from $275 to almost $640.

A suit today costing $125 would be $290 and college tuition would be double what it is today, according to the National Meat and Livestock Board.

Second Medical School Graduation For Doctor

By PAT BALMES

For the second time in her life, Dr. H. E. (Jo) Thelander, of Tiburon, will be graduated from medical school in June. The 75-year-old pediatrician received her first medical degree almost half a century ago.

Between her two medical degrees she was in private pediatric practice in San Francisco for more than 40 years and was clinical professor of pediatrics at University of California San Francisco Medical Center, where she received in 1967 the university's highest honor for her work in the care of brain-damaged children. She started over again in medical school four years ago.

"I guess that is a first," Dr. Thelander said. "The University of California San Francisco's administration not only took me in, but invited me to participate in curriculum discussions. The main reason I began the second time around was to look at medicine from a student's viewpoint."

Dr. Thelander has had a lifelong interest in medical education and served on several national medical education committees.

"A lot of doctors tell me they would like to take medicine over again one day," she says, adding thatsome envy her for her freedom.

ONE MAJOR difference of the second time around from her "awfully good" course at University of Minnesota Medical School, which she completed in 1924, is that she misses the very close relationship of students and professors.

"I cannot believe this is due to the size of classes, as they have the same proportion of teachers to students as then," she says. "I wonder if this is part of the generation gap.

"But I had fun. I enjoyed my classmates. Most of them were great. Forget the long hair and shabby clothes. Maybe if people my age had been primped from infancy and had wept in the barber's chair before two years of age, we too would like to explore a change. When the demands, confrontations, strikes, parades and picketings of this period are history, it probably will be found that a new era of humanism has emerged with greater concern for all mankind."

JO THELANDER is one of nine children who grew up on a farm in Little Falls, Minn., when Charles Lindbergh was growing up there too.

When her three brothers served in World War I, she felt badly that she couldn't go to war with them.

"They suggested that I join nursing. Then, if there were a war, I could go," says the small woman.

But she was unhappy in nurse's training and after a medical missionary addressed the student nurses about her work, Jo told her, "I wish I could study medicine and go to a foreign country."

The missionary arranged a scholarship at University of Minnesota, where Jo studied for eight years; earning a master's degree and her medical degree, cum laude.

There were as many women in proportion to men in medical school then as there are today. She encountered no prejudice against women.

She never married. A busy colleague once said that doctors ought to be celibate instead of priests, she said humorously.

DR. THELANDER interned at Children's Hospital in San Francisco in 1925 when the house staff was limited to women and all but two of the departments had women physicians as chiefs.

She was appointed to the pediatrics department's staff in the school of medicine of University of California San Francisco, maintaining a private practice in San Francisco and participating in numerous community and civic activities.

In 1926 she went to China to serve as a medical missionary and remained until revolutionaries chased her out in 1927.

"I had a terrific time. I loved it, even the smells, But the Chinese didn't love us," she says. Her letters home are now at the Hoover Institute at Stanford University.

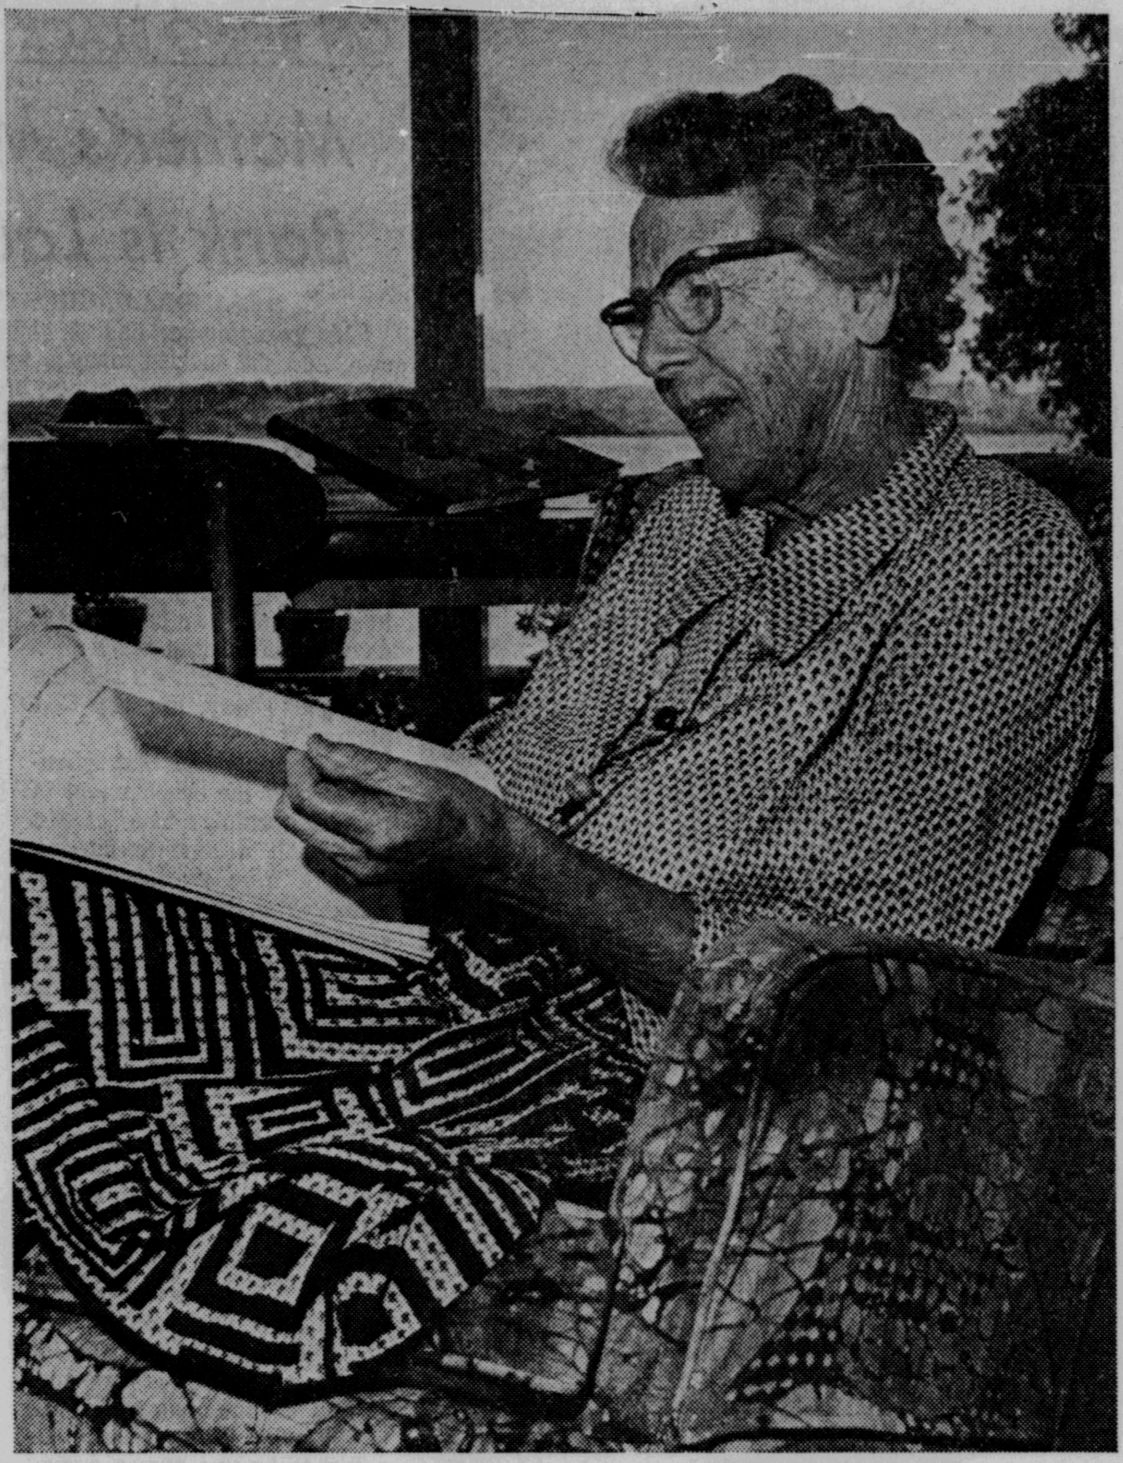
Awaiting another foreign assignment in San Francisco, she went into practice with Dr. Edward B. Shaw, whose partner had died while she was in China. No other foreign assignment came because of the troubled world situation. After practicing several years she decided to stay in San Francisco and repaid her scholarship to the Lutheran church.

DURING World War II Dr. Thelander entered the Navy as a doctor, with the rank of lieutenant commander. Stationed in San Francisco Marine, she left the Navy as a commander and for several years was chief consultant for Woman Veterans, Western Area.

Continuing private practice after the war, Dr. Thelander was also on the teaching staff at Children's Hospital where she was chairman of the pediatrics department for 10 years. She pioneered studies of brain-damaged children, which have led to great improvement in recognition and proper management of neurological defects in the early years of life.

In 1952 she started the Child Development Center at Children's Hospital, funded by the Cerebral Palsy Association. Later the March of Dimes helped finance the birth defects program. The Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital has also helped finance her work.

She started the center, not only for children with certain afflictions, but as she said, "we'll just take them all" in the diagnostic and evaluation center and nursery school to prepare them for one of the city's schools or centers.



DR. H. E. (JO) THELANDER, a 75-year-old pediatrician and professor emirtus at University of California San Francisco Medical Center, will be graduated this June from medical school for the second time in her life. "My main reason was to look at medicine from a student's viewpoint," says the Tiburon resident, who has served on several national committees on medical education. She received the university's highest honor in 1967 for her pioneer studies on the care of brain-damaged children. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)

Saying that she thinks the media and general public feel that doctors are too commercial, Dr. Thelander speaks of "an awful lot of charity work for handicapped and poor done by doctors who don't advertise it." Her years of work for the Child Development Center were all voluntary.

IN 1958 Dr. Thelander was presented the Mabel Converse Memorial Award for Distinguished Service by the San Francisco Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It hangs in her Seafirth Place house in Tiburon.

"I've traveled all over the world and that's why I'm content to stay home," she says, and she leaves her sunny home reluctantly each morning she attends medical school.

As to when doctors complain that woman may drop out of medicine to rear a family, Dr. Thelander says, "Children do not stay little long. So what if a woman drops out for five years; we live five years longer than the men do!"

If whipping cream refuses to whip, place bowl in another bowl of ice. Many cooks use ice to chill pastries and bread dough.

Trial Hang 'Up

If you are in doubt about where and at what height to hang a picture, do this: cut from brown paper a pattern exactly the size of the picture and fasten it to the wall with a bit of masking tape. You can keep changing the pattern's position until you hit on the perfect spot, then hang the picture there.

Meet The Skin-Thin Body Look

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rudi Gernreich believes in "body clothes" and thinks there's no better way of achieving that look than by using sweaters in infinite ways. The man who made the topless has even produced a bra-like sweater.

"Everything's based on the sweater theme," said Gerneich at the showing of his fall and winter collection for Harmon Knitwear, previewed for buyers and press Wednesday afternoon.

It was in 1966 that Gernreich became the enfant terrible of the fashion world when he showed swim suits with nothing above the waist but a pair of skinny straps. Now, his latest accent on the bustline is with tiny, ribcagelet sweaters, sleeveless, worn over long sleeved, longer "poor boy" type of sweaters.

GERNREICH GAVE the tiny pullovers no name; they were just part of the layered look he used with the accent on sweaters, usually ribbed.

All the clothes except one group for evening stressed cover, but always cling also. Almost tunic length sweaters were paired with skinny pants in ribbed fabrics.

The one group of fashions that really exposed the figure were in matte jerseys, done in black or medium brown, with V-shaped cutouts under the arms and at the front. These he laced together with springs from a hardware store. That's what he said.

Gernreich has a thing for rugged looking fashions; his industrial zippers were a big hit not many seasons ago. This year, other hardware touches included hip-riding belts, loosely fitted and fastened at the front with the same hardware that's used for horse's reins. Leather trim abounds, almost always stitched to the ribbed or knit fabric.

THE DESIGNER was fascinated with combinations of checks and stripes. Some of them came with striped tops, checkerboard skirts gathered full and shown either as a dress or the divided leg culotte. He showed them in combinations of offwhite or red-printed patterns, the checks of the skirts looking four or five inches across.

Gernreich hasn't given up the mini by any means, showing it in several versions in mid-thigh lengths, the models wearing color-coordinated hose. Other lengths for day as they would be shipped, he said, would just dissect the kneecaps.

Gernreich commentated his own show as usual.

"CLOTHES MUST be real," he told his audience. "They're non-nostalgic; they're of our time," he added, giving a gentle slap on the wrists to other designers who've dipped into the 1930s and 1940s in their new collections.

The use of sweaters on sweaters really was an extension, he said, "of what the kids have been doing with jeans and shirts.

"These are body clothes."

Divorced men remarry faster than women, the Census Bureau says.

Civilized Face Is New Look For Fall

A new look for fall is the civilized face, reports Women's Wear Daily. Extreme is its key, and it leaves little option for in-between.

Lips are either a bloody red or a glossy natural. Hair is waves and curled out of the past or wound into a contemporary knot. Complexion is either powdered like porcelain or glowing with the look of the outdoors. Nails look as if they are dipped in blood or buffed to a natural glow.

"The homes work to help the teen-agers be responsible and active residents in their neighborhood, school and community."

Each unit of the foundation raises funds to support the homes, and the Madrone Unit plans a box lunch picnic in July, a gin fizz breakfast and bridge party in August and a Christmas card tea in the fall.

New members who are interested in teen-agers' problems are welcome, says Mrs. LaHue.

A native of Modesto, the new chairman was reared in Oakland and attended Oregon State University. She has lived in Marin 23 years. Her husband is an electrical engineer with the Public Utilities Commission.

Add Days To Life Of Flowers

Would you like to add several days to the life of your cut flowers?

First, forget the popular practice of adding aspirins and copper pennies to the water. This is a "totally useless" practice, states an article in the current issue of American Home.

Adding life to bouquets starts in the garden, according to the magazine. Cut stems cleanly at an angle with a sharp knife. A slant cut exposes more cells for water intake. After cutting the flowers, plunge them in a pail of warm water. Warm water does not shock the flowers and moves up the stem more readily than cold. And water is the most important factor in determining the life-span of cut flowers.

The article also suggests you cut flowers in the early evening after they have built up a food supply during the sunny hours.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Marriage Like Business Pacts? Could Be The Way We're Moving

DEAR HELEN:

Here's a modest proposal: Why should marriage, the biggest human contract we have, not be "subject to renewal or cancellation," just as other contracts are? And without the misery of divorce?

So — my suggestion: A trial run of a year (with no children started). This to work out the kinks, and if either party proves defective, the conditional contract carries a "singles-back-- guarantee.

After this, the parties sign a two-year contract, renewable every seven years thereafter. I figure three years should pretty well convince the two whether or not they have a chance to make it as a couple. The later seven-year contract is necessary because we are said to change completely about every seven years. Should the man and woman change in different directions, the agreement can be dissolved.

Seems to me this would keep married people on their toes and in there trying to fulfill the terms of the contract. As it stands now, you work your head off winning a mate, then often get lax and "un-trying" because, after all, you've got him (her), with divorce an expensive and sometimes very difficult alternative.

It's time we made marriage a business agreement with terms as tough and definite as any long, legal contract. I believe that man and woman, being so totally different in attitudes, reactions, feelings and needs, aren't conditioned to live together for life — unless they work like crazy to fulfill and grow with their partnership. Contracts which must be reviewed and voted on would make them work.

Will this day sometime come? — FORWARD THINKER.

DEAR THINKER:

Might could. I'm sure that within the next two decades, we'll see tremendous changes in marriage and family life (or lack of same). Judging from how fast we've moved in the last 10 years, the whole thing is pretty frightening, yes? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Please say a few words about women getting so fat. My wife, in her 40s, is eating herself into an awful shape. There's nothing wrong with her health. Her appetite is the trouble.

The children and I are all slim. We watch our weight. Whatever we say just seems to have the opposite effect on her. She has a pretty face and a great personality but ever since we got married she has been gaining, and that adds up after 18 years.

How do you get through to her that she won't be well much longer, besides being an embarrassment to her family, if she doesn't go on a diet? — HUSBAND.

DEAR HUSBAND:

Without nagging, get it across that while you don't love her less, you'd like to love less of her.

Insist that she get a medical checkup, and then, via praise and appreciation, beam her in on a losing streak. Membership in a reducing club helps, for here she will learn that good, balanced, low-calorie diets aren't pain when they bring such great results — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You said "My pet peeve is women who are marital doormats 'for the sake of the children.' " Then you told a wife and family to fight back against the husband.

How many Christians have died from torture (Joan of Arc, etc.) to sustain "one jot or tittle" of Divine Law. We are not asked to be martyrs, only to honor and obey our husbands and fathers. Women got the vote. The least they can do is shut up, conform and be faithful. — FOR DIVINE LAW

DEAR F.D.L.:

I'm not for "supine squaws." Or conformity to tyrants. Sorry! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mother's Milk Bank Is Lauded

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"My grandmother had 13 children of her own, and she suckled many a white baby in her day, too. Slave women who breast-fed the babies in the 'big house' were called milk-mammies and wet nurses in those days." Grandma, an 88-year-old resident of a local rest home, rocked back and forth gently as she recalled childhood days and conversations in the South where she was born and reared.

"You young girls don't seem to have time to suckle your own babies these days — got all that modern paraphernalia. But it's still the natural way, the way God planned it."

It's certainly true that urbanization and the development of modern formulas have caused an overall decline in nursing mothers over the years. But along with the contemporary ecology movement — a desire to return to nature — there has been a noticeable increase in nursing mothers. Available statistics and observations indicate that the typical nursing mother comes from the higher educated strata of women, young college girls. Women from the lower socio-economic strata tend to bottle-feed their babies.

AND IT appears that comparatively few black women elect to nurse their babies. This, of course, probably has historical as well as contemporary rationale. Black women were compelled to be wet nurses during slavery days. Many black women these days, for financial reasons, must return to work shortly after the birth of their children, rendering them unable to be full-time nursing mothers.

Though wet nurses are largely a thing of the past, there is what could be called a contemporary counterpart — the Mothers' Milk Bank, Inc., at 2032 Webster Street in San Francisco.

Established in 1948 by the baby hygiene committee of the American Association of University Women, the Mothers' Milk Bank collects surplus milk from healthy, nursing mothers and pasteurizes and distributes it on doctors' orders to premature and sick infants. It also supplies human milk for research purposes.

Like the blood bank, the color of the donating mother does not matter. She need only be a healthy mother who is interested and willing to take time to collect the milk. Each mother is paid 10 cents an ounce for her milk, but this is minimal compared to the time and effort involved.

LIKEWISE, THE child recipients come in all colors. They need only be children who thrive better on human milk.

Financial obligations and limited milk supplies have facilitated the need to raise the price of milk for recipients to 50 cents an ounce. But no child is denied the milk due to lack of family income and ability to pay.

The Mothers' Milk Bank is a non-profit corporation, and a medical advisory staff governs all its medical policies. It is in need of financial contributions, volunteer assistants and, of course, milk donors. The milk demand is greater than the supply.

The Mothers' Milk Bank does not claim to save lives — for who can really say — but it does boast of helping children back to health.

In today's society where many of us are seeking ways to help on an individual basis, the Mothers' Milk Bank is an estremely worthwhile project. Here, a special select group of women who may have no monetary wealth can share their health and bring happiness. That in itself is quite an accomplishment.

Devaluing Effect Of Inflation Told

Should inflation continue at its present rate, in 28 years a person making $7,200 today would need to earn $16,800 to maintain his present standard of living.

A $25,000 home today would cost $58,000, television sets would increase from $275 to almost $640.

A suit today costing $125 would be $290 and college tuition would be double what it is today, according to the National Meat and Livestock Board.

Ten-year member

Mrs. LaHue Installation Scheduled

Mrs. David F. LaHue of Larkspur, new chairman of the Madrone Unit of Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, will be installed at the unit's annual meeting Wednesday.

Other new officers are Mmes. James W. Conley, vice chairman; P. Edward Frowd, secretary; and Joseph Durney, treasurer.

Lee LaHue has been a member of the unit for 10 years and has served as treasurer, vice chairman and chairman of the volunteer committee.

"Marin Foundation provides group homes for teen-agers whose age, experience and problems make it impossible for them to stay in their own homes or foster homes successfully," she ways. "The homes work to help the teen-agers be responsible and active residents in their neighborhood, school and community."

Each unit of the foundation raises funds to support the homes, and the Madrone Unit plans a box lunch picnic in July, a gin fizz breakfast and bridge party in August and a Christmas card tea in the fall.

New members who are interested in teen-agers' problems are welcome, says Mrs. LaHue.

A native of Modesto, the new chairman was reared in Oakland and attended Oregon State University. She has lived in Marin 23 years. Her husband is an electrical engineer with the Public Utilities Commission.

Sewing, knitting, learning to play golf, bridge and ice skating are Mrs. LaHue's hobbies.

"I love to read or play the organ for relaxation," she says.

Committee chairman for the unit are Mmes. J. D. Worthington, ways and means; Jack L. Mengel, volunteer; A. D. Silva, house; Alfred Olson, bridge; E. L. Griffin, Christmas cards; and Geoffrey Bain, publicity.

Rescrvations chairmen are Mmes. George Grossi and Newton Petersen.

ANOTHER SERIES in the Education for Childbirth Association program will begin Wednesday. Classes will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. for nine weeks at the office of Mrs. Gunhild H. Zrown, registered physical therapist, 1300 South Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae.

The series includes techniques for relaxation, breathing, posture control, post-natal recovery and instruction to increase the understanding of the processes of pregnancy and labor. Husbands are invited to attend all the classes which will include films on childbirth. Expectant parents must have the written permission from their physicians to enroll.

Cocktails

Fruit cocktails and sherbets are more eye-appealing if served in hollowed-out orange or grapefruit halves in mounds of crushed ice.

Add Days To Life Of Flowers

Would you like to add several days to the life of your cut flowers?

First, forget the popular practice of adding aspirins and copper pennies to the water. This is a "totally useless" practice, states an article in the current issue of American Home.

Adding life to bouquets starts in the garden, according to the magazine. Cut stems cleanly at an angle with a sharp knife. A slant cut exposes more cells for water intake. After cutting the flowers, plunge them in a pail of warm water. Warm water does not shock the flowers and moves up the stem more readily than cold. And water is the most important factor in determining the life-span of cut flowers.

The article also suggests you cut flowers in the early evening after they have built up a food supply during the sunny hours.

Flood Advisers Ask No-Tax Budget

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Over the strong objections of one member, the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory Board yesterday endorsed a no-tax budget for fiscal 1971-72.

Instead, directors will recommend to the county board of supervisors that the district operate next year on existing reserve funds totaling about $54,000.

Discussion of the austere budget, which brought protest from Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen, centered on two items — flood control work in Ross and property owners' claims against the zone.

The two items, which, if accepted, could have pushed this year's tax rate of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation past the 25-cent mark, were the only major items in the budget.

The Ross flood control work was estimated to cost about $300,000 and would alleviate flooding at Ross Common and along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Ross General Hospital.

Such work was agreed upon by the county when Ross entered the zone in 1967, Allen told the board, urging they budget some money for the project.

"Are you willing to see that street closed a couple of times again next winter," he said.

Chairman Neil R. Brixon, supported by the other three board members, said the zone shouldn't budget any money until it is determined if the Army Corps of Engineers will help finance the improvements.

Referring to the county's 1967 agreement with the Town of Ross, Brixon said that at that time the town was only talking of $55,000 to $65,000 worth of improvements.

"It was never my intent to buy a Cadillac for Ross," he said of the $300,000 repair estimate. "I was thinking along the lines of a small, economy car."

Donald R. Frost, county director of public works, urged that the zone tax for part of the project this year even though it would not be started.

"It can be done with no increase to the tax rate," he said. "Just maintain the one you have now."

"You budget money when you are going to spend it," responded board member Fred B. Graham.

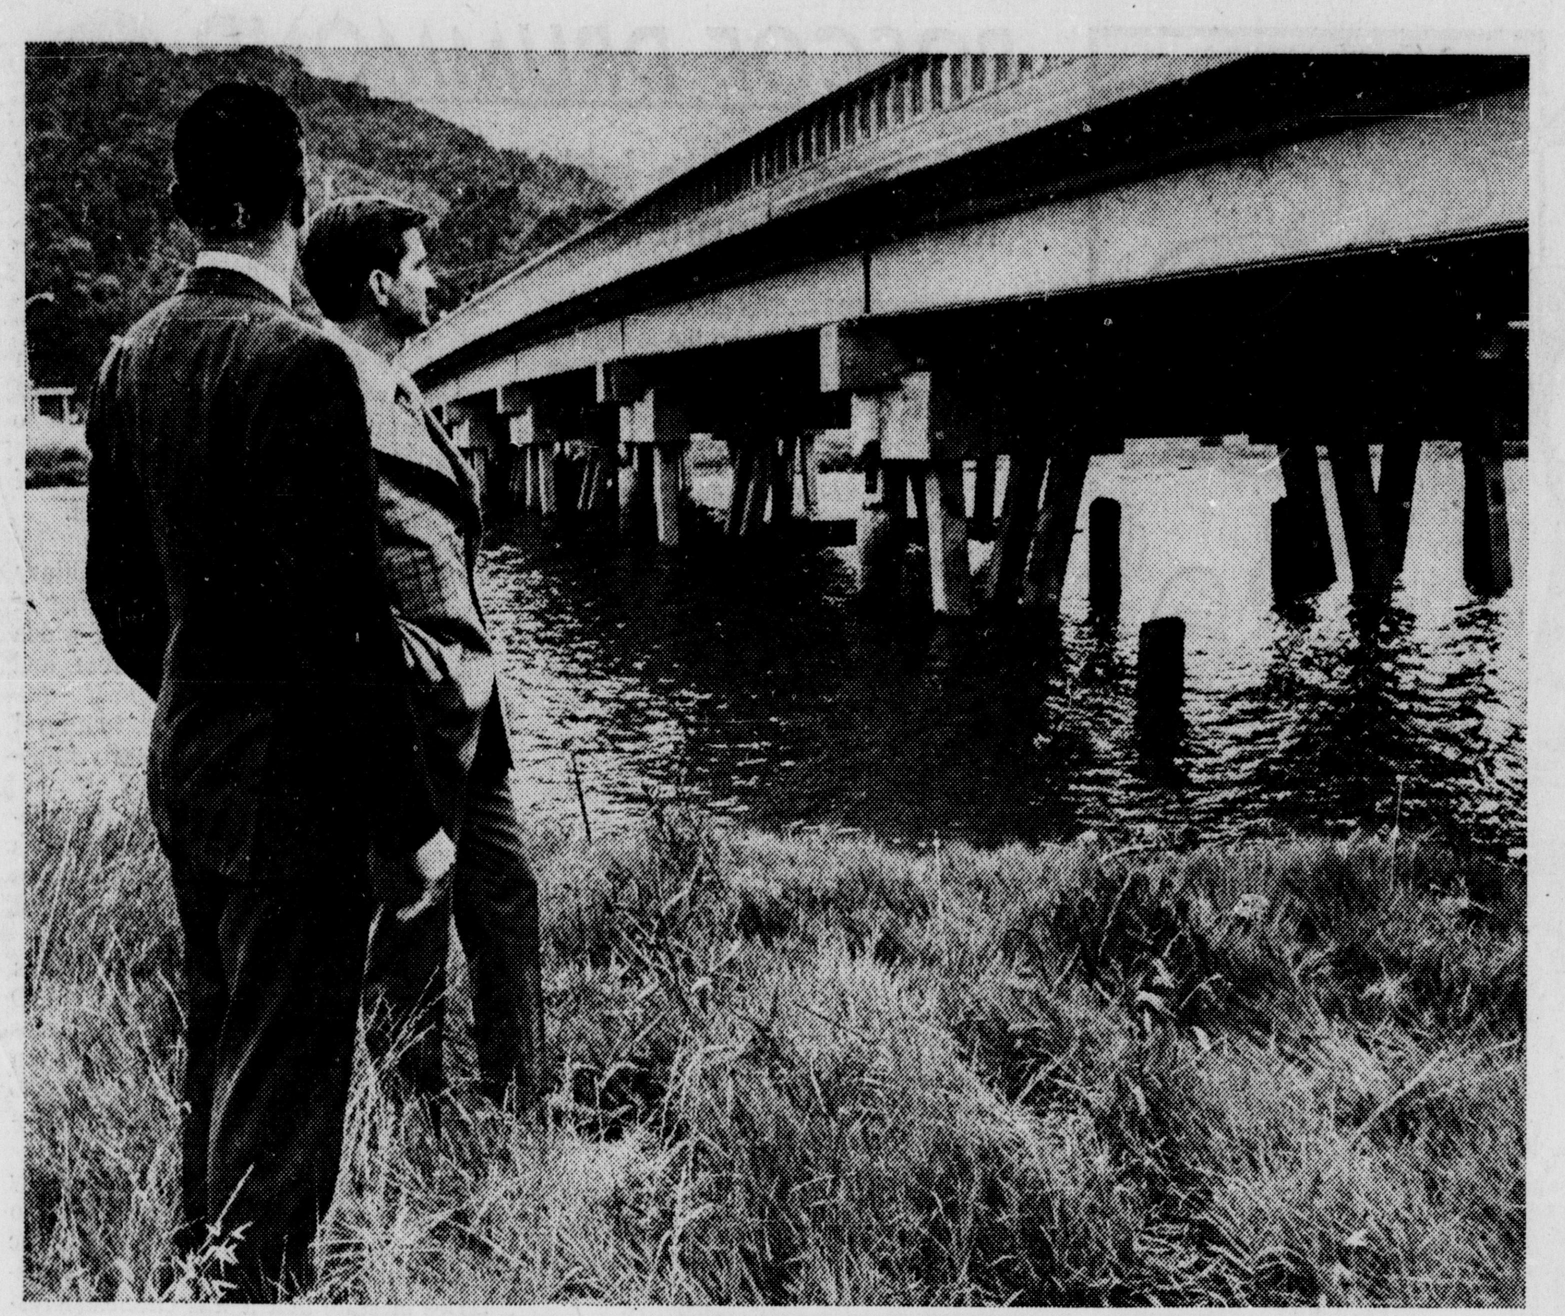
The same attitude shot down a recommendation from the county administrator's office that the zone budget about $85,000 to cover possible claims against it by property owners in Larkspur.

Five property owners and the city have filed claims against the zone, contractor, trucking firm, county, corps and 50 John Does for damages to their property during the early stages of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

The claims total about $131,000 and the county has asked the zone to put up a portion as insurance against the claims.

The homeowners, most of whom live on Harvard Drive, maintain the vibrations caused by heavy equipment using the street have caused their homes to separate from foundations.

"I say before we put up one nickel we should wait for a decision," Brixon said. Others agreed.



BRIDGE OPENING EXPECTED TODAY

Larkspur City Engineer Roy H. Hoffman (left) and Robert Perry, manager of Safeway on Bon Air Road, inspect new pilings supporting Bon Air Bridge which is expected to be reopened tonight — weeks ahead of schedule. The bridge has been closed to all traffic since April 5 and was not expected to open until June 21. However, fast curing time of cement has allowed its opening ahead of schedule, city officials said yesterday. Cost of repairs to the bridge, damaged during the Army Corps of Engineers' dredging of Corte Madera Creek, have been divided between the city, state and Corps.

Yosemite Park Searched For Missing Coed From Belvedere

I-J Special Report

YOSEMITE — Mary Hoefer, 19-year-old daughter of advertising executive John H. Hoefer of Belvedere, has been reported missing from Yosemite National Park since Saturday.

Park rangers combed the valley floor at the park yesterday in the continuing search for Miss Hoefer, a sophomore at the University of California at Berkeley.

A summer employee at the park, she had been working as a desk clerk at Yosemite Lodge for the past two weeks.

She was last seen near the lodge about 10 p.m. Saturday, said park information officer Larry Quist. Friends said she was talking with a man in his early 20s in the lodge parking lot, Quist reported.

"At this time we are just listing her as a missing person and that is about all we know right now," Quist said.

Rangers have searched places where Miss Hoefer was known to hike by herself, but there have been no clues, Quist reported.

Kathy Thiede, 19, who roomed with Miss Hoefer at the park said that Saturday morning Miss Hoefer mentioned going to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hoefer of 32 Peninsula Road, during the weekend.

However, there was no sign that Miss Hoefer left the room with plans to go anywhere, she said.

Miss Hoefer often spent time in a nearby meadow by herself and often took long hikes and bicycle rides alone, Miss Thiede said.

The missing girl, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 140 pounds with brown eyes and blonde hair, was last seen wearing a white blouse, dark slacks, brown hiking boots and blue socks.

Drunk Drivers Are Sentenced

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Tuesday by Judge David Menary Jr. was:

Bobby Eugene Keenum, 39, of 221 Beryl Street, Mill Valley, arrested May 1 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Sentenced Wednesday by Judge Robert A. Smallman were:

Austin Bryan Fenger, 39, of 40 Pamela Court, Tiburon, arrested May 22 in Sausalito, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Robert Keith McLean, 33, of Sonoma, arrested May 21 on Highway 37, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Driver Shot; Ex-Convict Arrested

I-J Special Report

CRESCENT CITY — A Rohnert Park man, who suffered three gunshot wounds after stopping to help a stalled motorist on Highway 101, was reported in critical condition today.

Jack C. Baldwin, 52, of 7502 Boris Court, was shot in the chest, neck and groin. Nurses at Seaside Hospital, Crescent City, reported he was responding to treatment and said he was conscious, alert and "appears to have a very tough constitution."

His alleged assailant, Harold Hagy, 48, who was paroled last month from San Quentin, was booked into Humboldt County Jail on charges of attempted murder, kidnapping and auto theft.

Sheriff's detectives said Baldwin, an insurance representative for the California Teachers association, stopped Tuesday near Leggett in northern Mendocino County to help a stranded motorist.

Officers said Hagy has been identified as the motorist and said that he pulled a .38 caliber revolver on Baldwin and ordered him to drive to Oregon.

Deputies said the men got out of the car in northern Humboldt County on a rest stop. There Hagy allegedly shot Baldwin three times and left him to die on the side of the highway.

Passing motorists noticed the injured man and called for assistance. Baldwin gave officers the license number on his car and a road block was set up south of Crescent City. Officers said Hagy in the stolen auto was the first to come along and was captured without resistance.

Hagy had reportedly been released after serving 12 and a half years for a similar crime committed in San Bernardino County in 1958. Hagy was placed on permanent parole to West Virginia, but had not reported to his parole officer there.

State Blocks Plans To Dredge At Jenner

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The proposed gravel dredging operation on the Russian River at Jenner fell victim yesterday to a concerted statewide effort by environmentalists before the state Lands Commission.

The commission terminated the state's lease with Northern California Aggregates for dredging near the coast at Jenner.

John Cummings, president of American Leisure Lands Corp. and its subsidiary, Northern California Aggregates, said the lease termination was accomplished in mutual agreements between his company and the commission.

"We're dropping the idea (dredging) altogether," Cummings said. "The book is closed. We had tremendous pressure from environmentalists all over the state. They simply could not be satisfied," he said.

Jenner residents attending yesterday's commission meeting greeted the action with applause. Virginia Hechtman, director of the Jenner Coastline Conservation Coalition, said the action culminated an 18-month campaign to break the lease and end the threat of dredging along the scenic rugged coast.

During hearings on use permits, environmentalists testified that the dredging operation would spell ecological doom for the area.

Cummings said the lands company still plans to go ahead with the development of the Jenner Bay subdivision on 1,100 acres adjacent to the point where the Russian River meets the ocean. He said that plans for a yachting harbor and marina must now be scrapped since dredging will not be possible.

Cummings said he hoped the Army Corps of Engineers would carry through plans to keep the river mouth open year 'round so that at least small boating can be permitted.

Gloomy Marin City Poet Vanishes In Mother Lode

I-J Special Report

NEVADA CITY — Search was underway today in the remote hills near this Nevada County community for Lewis Barrett Welch of Marin City, a 44-year-old Beat Generation poet.

Welch, who had been visting the mountain home of poet Gary Snyder, disappeared Sunday after leaving a note indicating he was depressed, according to Frank Gallino, Nevada County undersheriff.

Sheriff's deputies, friends and members of the Ananda commune, founded by Bay Area expatriates, joined in the search.

Welch of 52 Buckelew Street, read poetry at North Beach coffee houses at the height of the Beat Generation era and was the author of "On Out" and "Hermit Poems."

According to Gallino, Welch said in his note that he was a failure and that taking his life was the best way out.

Welch had been an athlete, a pool hall hustler, B-29 gunner during World War II, a dock worker, actor, jazz musician and copywriter before becoming a poet.

A fellow poet, Dr. John Doss of Bolinas said Welch had been depressed over the bay oil spill in January and said the U.S. "was starting to die on its coasts and that he was heading for the hills."

Gallino said: "Frankly, we don't know whether he's a suicide or just a missing person." It would take a long while to cover all of the remote and rugged area, he said.

Poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti reported that Welch "split up" with a Mill Valley girlfriend who went to Latin America and that might have caused some despair.

Welch and bar owner Neil Davis led a group of 50 to 150 praying poetry-reading Sausalitans in a protest against downtown decay and parking lots in Sausalito in July 1969.

At that time, Welch recited his poem: "Sausalito, little willow, perfect beauty by the last bay in the world, none more beautiful, today we kneel at the feet and curse the men who have misused you."

Welch's poems have appeared in anthologies in Italy, England and the United States.

He strolled over the beaches and Mount Tamalpais to observe the plants, water and small animals "so I'll know what to do when the world blows up."

Welch once described himself as a poet whose work is performed more on stages than on pages.

Fairfax Pipe Correction Requested

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night voted unanimously to ask the city council to correct the inadequate culvert on Fairfax Creek at Olema Drive.

According to E. Ross Parkerson, chairman, the action is the first step taken to correct problems on the creek. A recently adopted watercourses ordinance prohibits obstructions in the creek that interfere with the natural flow of water.

Board members Hugh O. Winn and Gloria Duncan, who recently studied the 1966 county flood control report, made the recommendation to the commission.

In other business, Parkerson said members approved a zoning permit for palm reading at 705 Center Avenue at the Fair-Anselm Shopping Center by Mary and Miller Uwanawich and a jewelry business at 131 Mono Avenue by James L. Wheeler. The vote on the latter was 5-1 with John J. Hourihan dissenting.

Application for a bicycle rental and sales shop at 1750 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was denied in a 5-1 vote with Charles Eckles dissenting.

Parkerson said the permit was denied because the commission recently adopted a new zoning ordinance recommending that land be zoned for residential use. The ordinance has not yet been approved by the City Council.

Landscaping plans for a 68-unit apartment project on Fairfax Creek by the Gentry Development Co. were approved, Parkerson said.

Special Fairfax Meeting

The Fairfax School District board will meet in special session tomorrow at the request of the principal of White Hill School it was announced today.

The meeting will be at 9 a.m. in the district office at 58 Park Road, Fairfax.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond said principal Thomas J. Kelly had asked the board to meet so that he could present a letter relating to conditions at the school. Hammond said he had no knowledge of the specifics of Kelly's letter.

The board will also accept the resignation of a teacher on leave and weigh the applications of two candidates for the teacher's replacement.

No other business is to be conducted, according to Hammong.

Guilty Plea To Marijuana Count

Patric Joe Smith, 25, of Mill Valley, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where marijuana is used.

He is to be sentenced June 8.

Smith, originally charged with possessing marijuana, was arrested April 13 after San Anselmo police found a plastic bag of suspected pot in his pickup truck which had stalled on Redwood Road.

City Tries Dogs For Dope Hunts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco police are going to try to train their dogs to sniff out narcotics and explosives.

Chief Alfred J. Nelder said Thursday a handler had been sent to Washington, D.C., to observe training efforts there.

The chief reported that Scotland Yard in England reports success with attempts to train the animals to smell out both substances.

Crash Victim Reported Better

An elderly San Anselmo woman, injured in a two-car crash in San Rafael Wednesday, was reported in good condition today in Marin General Hospital.

Tthe woman, Cecile G. Preble, 68, of 232 Saunders Avenue, suffered a concussion, scalp cut and multiple bruises when thrown from her car by the crash impact.

Police said her auto collided shortly after 2:30 p.m. at Front and Hoag streets with one driven by Arthur L. Vallert, 16, of 260 San Luis Way, Novato. Vallert was treated at Marin General for knee and forehead cuts.

Man Committed For Drug Help

Jon Theodore Kilpatrick, 26, of Fairfax, was committed to the California Rehabilitation Center yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court as either a narcotics addict or in danger of becoming one.

Judge Wilson's decision was made on the basis of doctors' reports received yesterday.

Kilpatrick previously pleaded guilty to burglarizing a San Anselmo variety store Dec. 18.

Still pending in Superior Court is another charge that Kilpatrick burglarized a San Rafael residence April 24.

Thieves Take 60 Water Beds

Sixty water beds and four heaters, valued at $800, have been stolen from the Come Together factory at 44 Woodland Avenue in San Rafael, police reported today.

The beds were boxed and ready for delivery, according to police, who said the burglary took place between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. yesterday. Entrance was gained through double doors at the rear of the building.

Taken were 48 king-size beds owned by Come Together Water Bed Co. and 12 beds and four heaters owned by Western Water Beds. Both companies are of San Rafael.

Driver Injured In Skid, Crash

A 21-year-old San Rafael woman received a cut face and scalp when her car skidded on wet pavement and went off the road hitting a utility pole, San Rafael police reported today.

Wendy H. Banks of 116 Coleman Drive was treated at Marin General Hospital at 7:10 p.m. yesterday after the accident on D Street in San Rafael.

Police said she was driving south when the accident occurred. The car, a 1963 Ford, received moderate damage to the right front end, according to police.

Recital Slated By Gary Walker

The chancel choir of St. Sebastian's Church in Greenbrae and baritone Gary Walker, choir conductor, will present a recital at 4 p.m. June 6 at the church.

The choir will perform works by Haydn, Mozart, Vivaldi and Walker. Walker will sing selections by Brahms, Lully, Faure and Paisiello.

Admission will be free.

Innocent Pleas To Indecent Exposures

Robert Edward Arnold, 46, and Thomas Allen Gust, 25, both of San Francisco, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of indecent exposure.

A pretrial conference was set for June 9.

The pair was arrested last Saturday when an off-duty sheriff allegedly saw them sunbathing in the nude near Shafter Bridge in Lagunitas.

Marist Society Plans To Sell Seminary Site

The Marist Society of California plans to sell its 10-acre St. Peter Chanel Seminary at 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, according to Frank Heffernan, a member of the Marists Lay Advisory Board.

The site containing seminary buildings, a pool and tennis courts is adjacent to Forest Meadows and sometimes used for outings by local groups.

For the past 93 years the site has been used for schools, first the Tamalpais School for Boys and then the seminary.

The Marist Society purchased the property and nine buildings from the Tamalpais School for Boys in 1955 for $400,000.

Heffernan said the Marist Society decided to sell the property because it feels students should be closer to educational centers in San Francisco and Berkeley.

It is proposed that seminary activity be located in San Francisco and at the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley, Heffernan reported.

Several of the 10 students at the seminary now take academic courses at the University of San Francisco.

The Marist Society constructed a major building, containing a library, chapel, student and faculty dining rooms, kitchen and living quarters for 10 brothers of the order at the site in 1961.

Hub Man Denies Forgery Counts

William Frederick O'Bayley, 23, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two charges of forgery and one of possessing a bad check with intent to defraud.

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 8.

O'Bayley is also awaiting sentencing on charges of burglary and concealing stolen property.

Cotati Building Plans Win Nod

The Cotati Planning Commission last night approved the architectural design of two building projects.

The commission approved the plan of Earl Andersen for a 10-unit apartment building on Page Street and plans of Loren Griffith and Wendell French to move four homes to 8440 Park Avenue.

The commission delayed action on the request of William W. Snelling for a garden terrace adjoining the Barrel of Suds bar at 8197 La Plaza, saying a use permit and public hearing would be required since the open beer garden with live music would be near residential lots.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

What Fire Started Must Be Completed

Tuesday evening's fire solved one question: what to do with the old Marin County Courthouse.

There is now only one thing left to do: raze it.

The courthouse annex proved to be as fireproof as its designer had claimed. Fire doors and fire walls, together with excellent work by the San Rafael Fire Department, kept the flames from penetrating from the old courthouse itself into the annex. So the annex building remains, and is back in use by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

What remains of the courthouse, however, certainly is no longer worth preserving. Although the main floor received surprisingly little damage, considering the immense blaze that roared in the building for several hours, the upper stories were damaged beyond restoring.

IT IS SAD INDEED to see the old landmark left but a charred hulk. It is sadder still to think that anyone would intentionally set fire to it.

However, it brings into the open what has been realized all along by county and city officials and many others: The building itself was inhibiting sale of the square to anyone who might develop it in a way which could help save San Rafael's economically threatened downtown.

Since the courthouse was of no feasible commercial use, its removal had to be added to the cost of the property by anyone figuring on possible purchase. It may well have been the "sticker" that held up sale of the square.

The fire did not remove the building, but it destroyed enough of it that the county must now complete the job. Fire insurance may be sufficient to cover the cost of removing the remains.

The property, with the annex intact and commercially unseable, then may find a buyer.

In the meantime, we have a suggestion.

CERTAINLY, COUNTY OFFICIALS cannot permit the gutted walls to remain. Certainly, they should not permit the concrete foundations to remain.

The work of removal, begun by fire, should be completed as soon as possible.

And we suggest that county and city then fill and turf over the excavation that will result, and convert the whole square into a park until such time as an acceptable purchase offer is received.

Who knows? With a little community effort — some landscaping, maybe even tables and benches — it might prove to be such an attractive open space that it would do as much for the downtown business district as would commercial development.

At least, it wouldn't cost much extra to try it and see.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Three Play Out Bitter Charade On Czech Stage

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Can the people of California stop the State Assembly from rewriting history?

The startling maneuver is all there in the Assembly's publications and it reads like a Russian history book.

The state constitution requires each house of the Legislature to keep a journal of its proceedings. In accordance, each has published a "Daily Journal," which gives a chronological history of actions on measures introduced.

Well, if you'll turn to the history on AB 21 in the Assembly Weekly History of April 30, 1971, it says on April 22 that AB 21 was "read third time, passage refused. Motion to reconsider on the next legislative day made by Mr. Burton."

One week later, however, in the May 7 Weekly History, it says that on April 22 AB 21 was "read third time and passed." This same notation has appeared in subsequent weekly histories.

ARE WE TO understand that what was first reported as happening in regard to AB 21 on April 22 didn't really happen at all? Did the bill pass or didn't it? What can be believed?

AB 21 was authored by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, one of Speaker Bob Moretti's top lieutenants. Enactment of the bill would mean an end to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Because of a constitutional provision for a two-thirds vote on a tax levy on corporations, the Burton bill needed 54 votes to pass — at least that's what it says on the bill's cover.

When the bill reached the floor on April 22, according to the journal for that day, it was "refused passage" by a party-line vote of 41 ayes to 31 noes, 13 short of the number of ayes needed to make two-thirds. This roll call is recorded. Burton moved to reconsider the vote on the next legislative day and AB 21 was ordered to the unfinished bssiness file.

Action on this motion was continued to April 29, when Burton announced his intention to let his reconsideration motion lapse, requesting the speaker to transmit the bill to the Senate with the understanding that only those sections requiring less than 54 votes would be operative. In practice, this would mean that the depletion allowance would be eliminated for individuals, but would remain for corporations.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT so stunned some members that they wanted a chance to vote again. Assemblyman Bob Badham, R-Newport Beach, who had opposed the bill, moved for reconsideration, but his motion failed 35 to 25.

Speaker Moretti then ordered the bill over to the Senate with the understanding that sections requiring 54 votes would be inoperative. The GOP floor leader, Bob Monagan, charged Moretti had "in effect, sent the bill out on his own motion."

Sometime between April 29 and May 3 apparently someone decided they didn't like that wording in the journal of April 22, or the weekly history where it said AB 21 "was refused passage."

So on Monday, May 3, Democratic Floor Leader Walter Karabian asked the members to approve various daily journals "as corrected by the minute clerk."

IN MOST CIRCLES, a "correction" means there has been an error. But the correction for the April 22 journal would change the wording to show AB 21 was "passed," rather than "was refused passage."

So at this point, Assembly history was rewritten by 31 Democrats who supported Karabian's move. Republicans managed to gather only 29 votes to oppose the "corection."

Monagan asked for reconsideration. However, on May 6 the opposition collapsed. Monagan waived his motion.

The deed is done. Presumably now, the people of the state have every right to question the authenticity of all Assembly publications. With this kind of precedent, what's to prevent the 41-vote majority from changing journals of past years?

It's easy. If they don't like what has happened, just "correct" it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Insinuation Found In Council Report

Reference is made to article which appeared in your paper, Tuesday, May 18, on page 5, column 2, paragraph 7 under title "Decision On Burton Is Delayed", which was under a 5 by 7 photograph of two contestants for Miss USA, thus calling better-than-average attention to the article. in question. Since I am president of San Rafael American Little League, member of the board of directors of St. Raphael's Men's Club, and newly elected first vice-commander of American Legion, Wilkins Post 37, to name a few, I can ill afford the insinuations made by your statement: "If the council does not accept Burton's resignation, he may not be entirely welcome back on the commission." Several people have approached me and commented "that they could not believe their eyes and that it could not be true". Since your statement is without basis in fact and has created such comment and has maliciously placed the seed of doubt in people's minds as to my integrity, character, and dedication to public service, your unfounded statement amounts to moral turpitude and places in jeopardy my future career in public service, and I hereby insist on a retraction of such statement under the provisions of the California Civil Code, Section 48A.

Time For Organized Taxpayers' Revolt

Strictly on a local level, have you too received notice of re-assessment of your property? In my present frame of mind there is little difference between the systematic re-appraisal of privately held property and unreasonable search and seizure. Not only have we been re-assessed, but add to that the common knowledge certain taxing agencies of Marin regard the new 1971-72 assessment rate on property of 25 per cent of its full cash value as a windfall to be immediately absorbed into the system.

The lack of a county-side organized property tax revolt has established a trend of passive payment upon demand. The demands have reached the stage of dementia. However, the trend can so easily be reversed. With the battle cry of "Property Tax Reform Now" all of the community improvement clubs in Marin can join together in a demand that our 1971-72 tax bills reflect lesser amounts over last year's. Failing a significant roll back in property taxes, the possibility of paying our 1971-72 taxes into a holding trust account should seriously be explored. Don't wait for your community improvement club to contact you, you contact it. If you are a non-member, get affiliated.

Coverage Of Track Found Wanting

As a high school coach in Marin County I feel that your paper does not do an adequate job of covering high school sports. Rather than give you my opinion of what I think you should do, may I just mention a few of the inconsistencies . . . May I also state that in the past my particular sport, track and field, has had more than its share of coverage, although inconsistent at times.

The following recent developments have really made me wonder just what your purpose is in covering particular sports events:

1 - On Saturday, May 8, the MCAL track and field championships were held at College of Marin. On the Tuesday and Wednesday preceding this date, the results of the trials were put in your hands. Neither these results were published or, more important, was the public made aware that the championships were going to be held. The first mention of the meet was in the May 10 edition.

2 - Your reporter covering the meet, Mr. (Paul) Cane, either was not present at the meet or had no idea of what he was witnessing. Our championship meet produced more outstanding results than any meet in recent history. Four of the athletes competing in that meet are the best ever in Marin County history — and, barring any unforseen circumstances, will each be competing in this year's state meet, giving Marin County at least four schools in representation, something which hasn't happened in a long time.

3 - Upon reading last night's IJ (May 18) I learn from Mr. (David) Einstein that last Saturday's Division III track and field meet was a "chaotic disaster". Also, that "except for Tams triumph (varsity), the meet Saturday was a flop." First, the meet was held on Friday. Which meet did Mr. Einstein attend? Second, Tamalpais was not the leading team from Marin County — Terra Linda was, on combined varsity and Soph-bee points. We expect no praise for this, but our athletes certainly don't look at the meet as a "flop" . . .

If this kind of quality reporting is allowed to exist, where is your accountability? The public should be made aware of the facts. That should be your purpose.

Little Knowledge Is Dangerous Thing

They often say that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. Having just read two letters by Mr. Thomas Knight of the Planned Parenthood organization, I can easily believe it.

Mr. Knight states categorically, for example, that an "unborn infant" is a figment of Mr. Rus Walton's imagination. He cites as proof a few well-known facts from elementary physiology and embryology. What he fails to mention is that the object he insists we should all correctly refer to as a "fetus" is fully-developed in all of its human characteristics, sucks its thumb, moves about, and can even survive the process of premature birth within only six months of conception. Isn't it remarkable how a so-called fetus can become an infant in only a couple of hours, Mr. Knight?. . .

In another part of one of his letters Mr. Knight insists that every woman should have the right to regulate her own fertility and should never be forced to have an unwanted child. I don't know anyone who would argue with these as general principles. But does it really follow logically that every pregnant woman thereby has the right to terminate her pregnancy at any time she chooses simply because she feels she doesn't want to have a child? I wonder how many of us would ever have seen the light of day if such a criterion for birth had prevailed in the past! And I also can't help wondering how long elderly dependent, handicapped children and any others who might come to be looked on by their relatives as "unwanteds" could hope to survive in a world where being wanted by those one depended on determined one's right to life!

Finally, Mr. Knight hypothesises that the wider distribution of information like that supplied by his organization is exactly what is needed to counteract our growing problem with venereal disease and unwanted pregnancies. What a travesty of logic! Can't you just picture our young people refraining from illicit sexual relations because, thanks to Mr. Knight and Planned Parenthood, they now know where to get and how to use contraceptives. Who are you trying to kid, Mr. Knight?

Democrats Turn Isolationist, Reversing Former Party Roles

WASHINGTON — The most significant consequence of the vote on the Mansfield amendment, seeking to cut U.S. forces in Europe by half, is being overlooked. It is this:

The Democratic Party by a vote of 31 to 22 repudiated the foreign policy of its four most recent Presidents — Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson — and aligned itself with the new isolationism.

The effect of the vote on the Mansfield resolution is to put the Democrats behind a foreign policy whose premise is: Forget trying to keep the peace and hope war won't break out.

Thus we are now witnessing the substantial beginnings of a nearly complete reversal of the position of the two major parties in foreign affairs.

THE DEMOCRATS are embracing the isolationism which dominated the Republican Party from 1920 until the late 1940s when Senator Vandenberg and General Eisenhower took the GOP out of the hands of the Tafts and the Wherrys.

The Republicans are supporting the internationalist foreign policy of the four postwar Democratic Presidents and of Dwight Eisenhower.

The way the two parties voted on the Mansfield amendment is evidence that the Democrats have gone far down the road to isolationism and the Republicans are continuing internationalist.

The Mansfield amendment drew nearly all of its support from Democratic senators and was defeated only because the Republican senators were almost unanimously against it.

Here is the party breakdown: Democrats for the amendment 31; against it 22. Republicans for the amendment 5; against it 39.

NO SINGLE INITIATIVE by the Democratic leaders proves that the party has gone Republican-isolationist. But the sum-total of their recent actions shows they are moving steadily in that direction. The sum of their moves are these:

To force a precipitate withdrawal from Vietnam without adequate time to enable the South Vietnamese to be ready to defend themselves alone.

To curtail the constitutional powers of the President as commander-in-chief.

To abolish the draft.

To reduce unilaterally the military strength of the nation — a degree of projected one-sided disarmament which couldn't fail to dismay our allies and delight our adversaries.

To cut U.S. forces in Europe to a level which would render NATO nearly impotent.

THE METHOD as well as the substance of the Mansfield initiative reveals the lack of concern which the Democrats apparently have for enabling the United States to help keep the peace.

It proposed to slash U.S. NATO forces without any consultation with our NATO allies. It proposed to reduce U.S. forces in Europe without any parallel reduction of Soviet forces in Europe and prior to any attempt to negotiate such a reduction.

Most Democratic senators said they thought this was just fine — and voted to reject the counsel of two Democratic Presidents and two Democratic secretaries of state that it was careless irresponsibility.

Most Republican senators voted to support the President in his efforts to insure that the United States try to keep out of war by helping to deter war from breaking out.

There are 1,105,000 NATO troops in Western Europe, and 1,235,000 Warsaw Pact troops in Eastern Europe.

The responsible road to a more stable peace is to negotiate a mutual reduction.

It was unilateral disarmament which led to both World War I and World War II.

Drought Returns To Texas, But It's Different Now

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

LUBBOCK, Tex. — All day the cloudless sky over the South Plains is a hazy blue at the dome, but toward every horizon it is yellow with dust. The dry wind blows incessantly; one afternoon it is from the west, and hot, then the next morning it has shifted to the north and is cold. But it never stops.

Old timers around here say "It won't rain until the wind stops, and the wind won't stop until it rains." So the wind blows on and the drought drags on. Some say it is the worst since the mid-50s, others say there has been nothing like it since depression days.

Off in one direction from Lubbock, the main crops are cotton and milo sorghum for cattle feed. One way the land is irrigated, one way it depends on the rain that does not come. To the east where the caprock drops off toward the Oklahoma line, the business is range cattle, and there is no grass for them. In one locality there has been less than three inches of rain in 20 months, less than you expect on the desert.

But the most intense local drought began last fall and has been broken only by one quick two-inch rain that barely dampened the surface. Seed plantings have been delayed. Some farmers who risked planting cotton saw the young plants cut off at ground level as if by a blade — but by a sandstorm.

YOU CAN FEEL the drought as well as see it if you drive the string-straight farm roads east of here, out around Idalou and Lorenzo. In the fields, the oil wells keep rocking and pumping from deep beneath the surface. But the surface itself, plowed and waiting, is blowing away. Little whirlwinds spin across the flatness sometimes chasing each other. Mirages, imaginary lakes that look as good to the farmers as they would to any stranded prospector on a cartoon desert, sizzle near the horizon and then disappear.

You can feel the dust on your fingertips without seeing it, and your lips dry soon after you leave the airport. This is the way it affects you, passing through, but then you have no stake here, and soon you can book another plane and head back to the green East.

A few, but only a few, have sold out and moved away, or gone into another business. More cattlemen are liquidating their herds because feed is short and its price is up a third over last year. Thus they rush their cattle to feed lots and then to market — far ahead of schedule — at about twice the normal rate for this time of year. To them and others whose livelihoods depend on rain, the story of the drought is not a description of a thirsty landscape, but a profit-and-loss statement already written in red ink for 1971. To the rest of the nation, it will mean higher beef prices in months ahead.

STILL, YOU WILL LOOK in vain to fill in the images usually conjured up by the words drought and "dustbowl." For grown-up Americans, the first things they bring to the mind's eye are the opening scenes of "The Grapes of Wrath," with the land literally blowing away and the bank foreclosing and the pitiable Joads loading up their truck to head for the Promised Land. The absence of such scenes, despite the acuteness of the weather, is telling testimony to how things have changed since the Great Depression.

The Joads wouldn't have recognized a profit-and-loss statement had they seen one. Likely they wouldn't have been able to skin any farm implement more advanced than a team of mules. In the mid-30s, Roosevelt had begun the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (AAA), but nobody in the Joads' plight ever heard of things like an Emergency Livestock Seed and Hay Transport program, and the emergency loans of the Farmer's Home Administration. But today, farmers in 182 of Texas' 254 counties are declared eligible for such government help, and using it.

Today, more than half the crop land here on the South Plains is irrigated. It was the Rural Electrification Administration that first made that possible. With irrigation, many farms and ranches that would have been wiped out by such a drought will be able to ride it out instead.

AND TODAY, most marginal farmers like the Joads are off the land. They went to California during the depression, or to the cities after the war. Farm labor is far less intensive in the tractor age, and now those who provide it must be paid a minimum wage. Most of the smaller farmers here are working rented land.

But most of the land is in big farms, in the hands of the men who were tougher, meaner or luckier than the Joad family. They survived the '30s and grew, and then the drought of the '50s, and they will survive this one too. That has become the story of farming in America in this part of the West, and particularly in the case of Johnny Wheeler, a man you will hear more about shortly.

Flood Advisers Ask No-Tax Budget

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Over the strong objections of one member, the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory Board yesterday endorsed a no-tax budget for fiscal 1971-72.

Instead, directors will recommend to the county board of supervisors that the district operate next year on existing reserve funds totaling about $54,000.

Discussion of the austere budget, which brought protest from Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen, centered on two items — flood control work in Ross and property owners' claims against the zone.

The two items, which, if accepted, could have pushed this year's tax rate of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation past the 25-cent mark, were the only major items in the budget.

The Ross flood control work was estimated to cost about $300,000 and would alleviate flooding at Ross Common and along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Ross General Hospital.

Such work was agreed upon by the county when Ross entered the zone in 1967, Allen told the board, urging they budget some money for the project.

"Are you willing to see that street closed a couple of times again next winter," he said.

Chairman Neil R. Brixon, supported by the other three board members, said the zone shouldn't budget any money until it is determined if the Army Corps of Engineers will help finance the improvements.

Referring to the county's 1967 agreement with the Town of Ross, Brixon said that at that time the town was only talking of $55,000 to $65,000 worth of improvements.

"It was never my intent to buy a Cadillac for Ross," he said of the $300,000 repair estimate. "I was thinking along the lines of a small, economy car."

Donald R. Frost, county director of public works, urged that the zone tax for part of the project this year even though it would not be started.

"It can be done with no increase to the tax rate," he said. "Just maintain the one you have now."

"You budget money when you are going to spend it," responded board member Fred B. Graham.

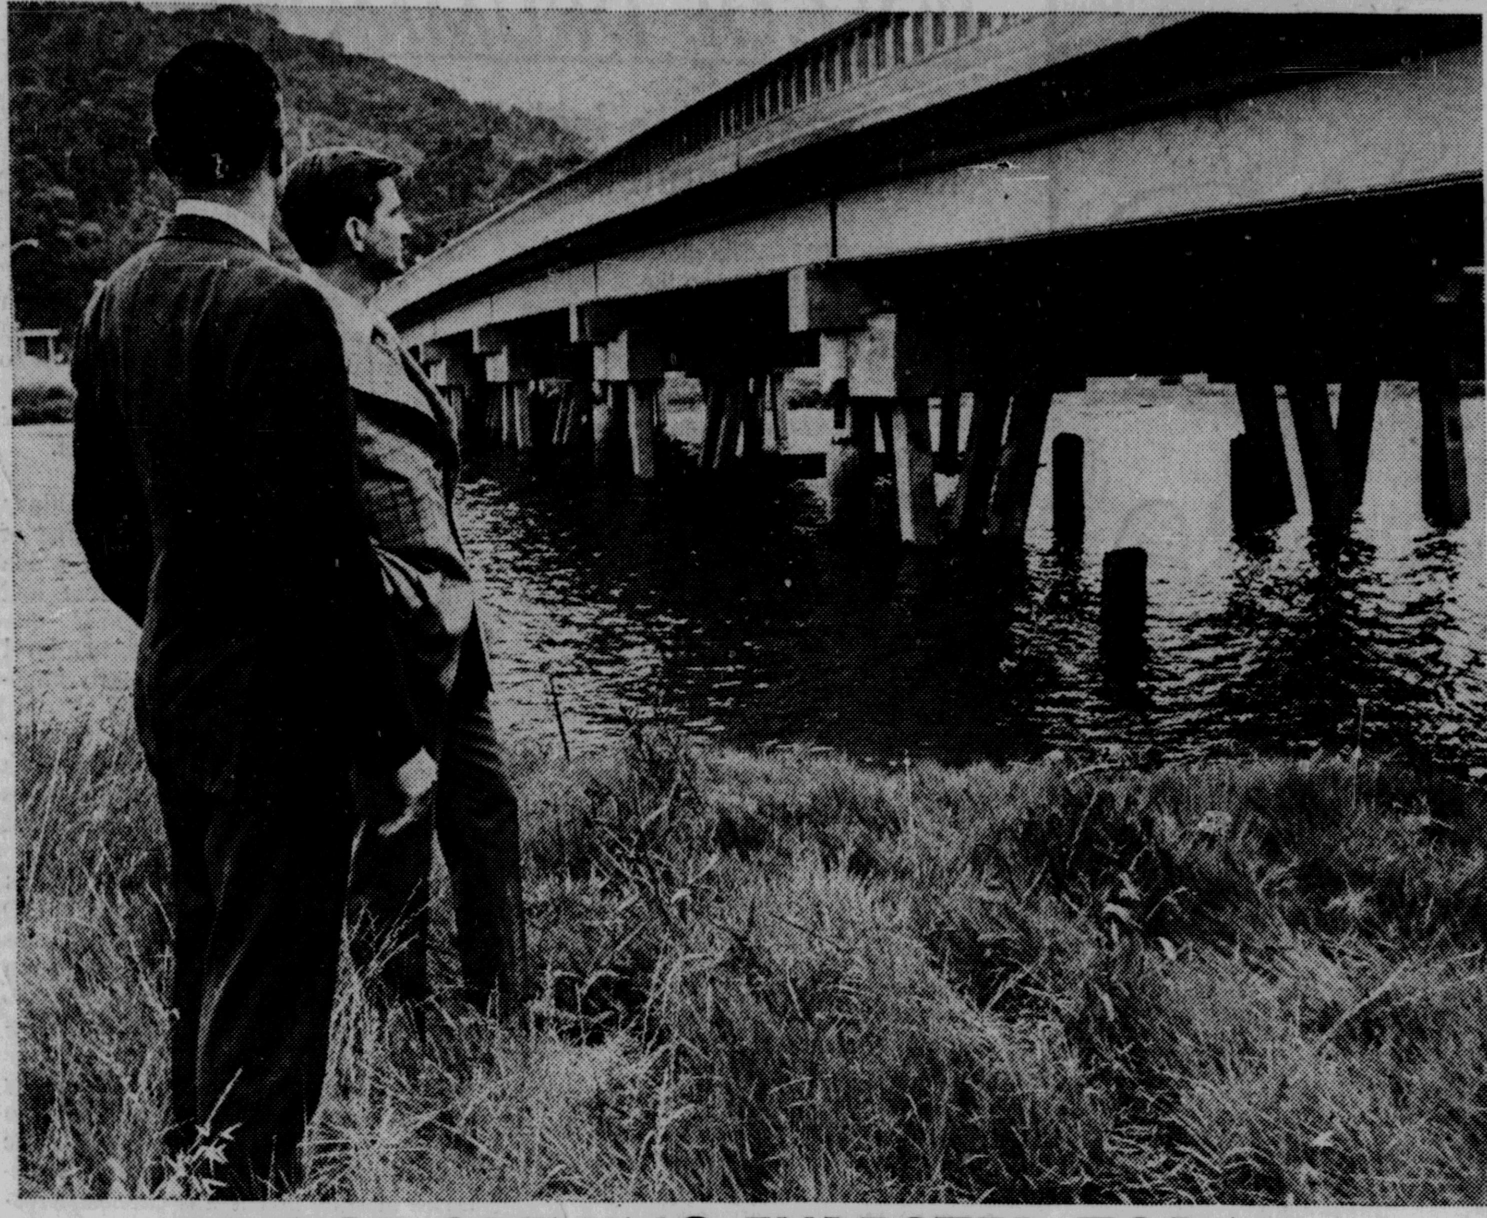
The same attitude shot down a recommendation from the county administrator's office that the zone budget about $85,000 to cover possible claims against it by property owners in Larkspur.

Five property owners and the city have filed claims against the zone, contractor, trucking firm, county, corps and 50 John Does for damages to their property during the early stages of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

The claims total about $131,000 and the county has asked the zone to put up a portion as insurance against the claims.

The homeowners, most of whom live on Harvard Drive, maintain the vibrations caused by heavy equipment using the street have caused their homes to separate from foundations.

"I say before we put up one nickel we should wait for a decision," Brixon said. Others agreed.



BRIDGE OPENING EXPECTED TODAY

Larkspur City Engineer Roy H. Hoffman (left) and Robert Perry, manager of Safeway on Bon Air Road, inspect new pilings supporting Bon Air Bridge which is expected to be reopened tonight — weeks ahead of schedule. The bridge has been closed to all traffic since April 5 and was not expected to open until June 21. However, fast curing time of cement has allowed its opening ahead of schedule, city officials said yesterday. Cost of repairs to the bridge, damaged during the Army Corps of Engineers' dredging of Corte Madera Creek, have been divided between the city, state and Corps.

Driver Shot; Ex-Convict Arrested

I-J Special Report

CRESCENT CITY — A Rohnert Park man, who suffered three gunshot wounds after stopping to help a stalled motorist on Highway 101, was reported in critical condition today.

Jack C. Baldwin, 52, of 7502 Boris Court, was shot in the chest, neck and groin. Nurses at Seaside Hospital, Crescent City, reported he was responding to treatment and said he was conscious, alert and "appears to have a very tough constitution."

His alleged assailant, Harold Hagy, 48, who was paroled last month from San Quentin, was booked into Humboldt County Jail on charges of attempted murder, kidnapping and auto theft.

Sheriff's detectives said Baldwin, an insurance representative for the California Teachers association, stopped Tuesday near Leggett in northern Mendocino County to help a stranded motorist.

Officers said Hagy has been identified as the motorist and said that he pulled a .38 caliber revolver on Baldwin and ordered him to drive to Oregon.

Deputies said the men got out of the car in northern Humboldt County on a rest stop. There Hagy allegedly shot Baldwin three times and left him to die on the side of the highway.

Passing motorists noticed the injured man and called for assistance. Baldwin gave officers the license number on his car and a road block was set up south of Crescent City. Officers said Hagy in the stolen auto was the first to come along and was captured without resistance.

Hagy had reportedly been released after serving 12 and a half years for a similar crime committed in San Bernardino County in 1958. Hagy was placed on permanent parole to West Virginia, but had not reported to his parole officer there.

Special Fairfax Meeting

The Fairfax School District board will meet in special session tomorrow at the request of the principal of White Hill School it was announced today.

The meeting will be at 9 a.m. in the district office at 58 Park Road, Fairfax.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond said principal Thomas J. Kelly had asked the board to meet so that he could present a letter relating to conditions at the school. Hammond said he had no knowledge of the specifics of Kelly's letter.

The board will also accept the resignation of a teacher on leave and weigh the applications of two candidates for the teacher's replacement.

No other business is to be conducted, according to Hammong.

State Blocks Plans To Dredge At Jenner

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The proposed gravel dredging operation on the Russian River at Jenner fell victim yesterday to a concerted statewide effort by environmentalists before the state Lands Commission.

The commission terminated the state's lease with Northern California Aggregates for dredging near the coast at Jenner.

John Cummings, president of American Leisure Lands Corp. and its subsidiary, Northern California Aggregates, said the lease termination was accomplished in mutual agreements between his company and the commission.

"We're dropping the idea (dredging) altogether," Cummings said. "The book is closed. We had tremendous pressure from environmentalists all over the state. They simply could not be satisfied," he said.

Jenner residents attending yesterday's commission meeting greeted the action with applause. Virginia Hechtman, director of the Jenner Coastline Conservation Coalition, said the action culminated an 18-month campaign to break the lease and end the threat of dredging along the scenic rugged coast.

During hearings on use permits, environmentalists testified that the dredging operation would spell ecological doom for the area.

Cummings said the lands company still plans to go ahead with the development of the Jenner Bay subdivision on 1,100 acres adjacent to the point where the Russian River meets the ocean. He said that plans for a yachting harbor and marina must now be scrapped since dredging will not be possible.

Cummings said he hoped the Army Corps of Engineers would carry through plans to keep the river mouth open year 'round so that at least small boating can be permitted.

Gloomy Marin City Poet Vanishes In Mother Lode

I-J Special Report

NEVADA CITY — Search was underway today in the remote hills near this Nevada County community for Lewis Barrett Welch of Marin City, a 44-year-old Beat Generation poet.

Welch, who had been visting the mountain home of poet Gary Snyder, disappeared Sunday after leaving a note indicating he was depressed, according to Frank Gallino, Nevada County undersheriff.

Sheriff's deputies, friends and members of the Ananda commune, founded by Bay Area expatriates, joined in the search.

Welch of 52 Buckelew Street, read poetry at North Beach coffee houses at the height of the Beat Generation era and was the author of "On Out" and "Hermit Poems."

According to Gallino, Welch said in his note that he was a failure and that taking his life was the best way out.

Welch had been an athlete, a pool hall hustler, B-29 gunner during World War II, a dock worker, actor, jazz musician and copywriter before becoming a poet.

A fellow poet, Dr. John Doss of Bolinas said Welch had been depressed over the bay oil spill in January and said the U.S. "was starting to die on its coasts and that he was heading for the hills."

Gallino said: "Frankly, we don't know whether he's a suicide or just a missing person." It would take a long while to cover all of the remote and rugged area, he said.

Poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti reported that Welch "split up" with a Mill Valley girlfriend who went to Latin America and that might have caused some despair.

Welch and bar owner Neil Davis led a group of 50 to 150 praying poetry-reading Sausalitans in a protest against downtown decay and parking lots in Sausalito in July 1969.

At that time, Welch recited his poem: "Sausalito, little willow, perfect beauty by the last bay in the world, none more beautiful, today we kneel at the feet and curse the men who have misused you."

Welch's poems have appeared in anthologies in Italy, England and the United States.

He strolled over the beaches and Mount Tamalpais to observe the plants, water and small animals "so I'll know what to do when the world blows up."

Welch once described himself as a poet whose work is performed more on stages than on pages.

Guilty Plea To Marijuana Count

Patric Joe Smith, 25, of Mill Valley, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where marijuana is used.

He is to be sentenced June 8.

Smith, originally charged with possessing marijuana, was arrested April 13 after San Anselmo police found a plastic bag of suspected pot in his pickup truck which had stalled on Redwood Road.

City Tries Dogs For Dope Hunts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco police are going to try to train their dogs to sniff out narcotics and explosives.

Chief Alfred J. Nelder said Thursday a handler had been sent to Washington, D.C., to observe training efforts there.

The chief reported that Scotland Yard in England reports success with attempts to train the animals to smell out both substances.

Fairfax Pipe Correction Requested

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night voted unanimously to ask the city council to correct the inadequate culvert on Fairfax Creek at Olema Drive.

According to E. Ross Parkerson, chairman, the action is the first step taken to correct problems on the creek. A recently adopted watercourses ordinance prohibits obstructions in the creek that interfere with the natural flow of water.

Board members Hugh O. Winn and Gloria Duncan, who recently studied the 1966 county flood control report, made the recommendation to the commission.

In other business, Parkerson said members approved a zoning permit for palm reading at 705 Center Avenue at the Fair-Anselm Shopping Center by Mary and Miller Uwanawich and a jewelry business at 131 Mono Avenue by James L. Wheeler. The vote on the latter was 5-1 with John J. Hourihan dissenting.

Application for a bicycle rental and sales shop at 1750 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was denied in a 5-1 vote with Charles Eckles dissenting.

Parkerson said the permit was denied because the commission recently adopted a new zoning ordinance recommending that land be zoned for residential use. The ordinance has not yet been approved by the City Council.

Landscaping plans for a 68-unit apartment project on Fairfax Creek by the Gentry Development Co. were approved, Parkerson said.

Crash Victim Reported Better

An elderly San Anselmo woman, injured in a two-car crash in San Rafael Wednesday, was reported in good condition today in Marin General Hospital.

Tthe woman, Cecile G. Preble, 68, of 232 Saunders Avenue, suffered a concussion, scalp cut and multiple bruises when thrown from her car by the crash impact.

Police said her auto collided shortly after 2:30 p.m. at Front and Hoag streets with one driven by Arthur L. Vallert, 16, of 260 San Luis Way, Novato. Vallert was treated at Marin General for knee and forehead cuts.

Man Committed For Drug Help

Jon Theodore Kilpatrick, 26, of Fairfax, was committed to the California Rehabilitation Center yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court as either a narcotics addict or in danger of becoming one.

Judge Wilson's decision was made on the basis of doctors' reports received yesterday.

Kilpatrick previously pleaded guilty to burglarizing a San Anselmo variety store Dec. 18.

Still pending in Superior Court is another charge that Kilpatrick burglarized a San Rafael residence April 24.

Yosemite Park Searched For Missing Coed From Belvedere

I-J Special Report

YOSEMITE — Mary Hoefer, 19-year-old daughter of advertising executive John H. Hoefer of Belvedere, has been reported missing from Yosemite National Park since Saturday.

Park rangers combed the valley floor at the park yesterday in the continuing search for Miss Hoefer, a sophomore at the University of California at Berkeley.

A summer employee at the park, she had been working as a desk clerk at Yosemite Lodge for the past two weeks.

She was last seen near the lodge about 10 p.m. Saturday, said park information officer Larry Quist. Friends said she was talking with a man in his early 20s in the lodge parking lot, Quist reported.

"At this time we are just listing her as a missing person and that is about all we know right now," Quist said.

Rangers have searched places where Miss Hoefer was known to hike by herself, but there have been no clues, Quist reported.

Kathy Thiede, 19, who roomed with Miss Hoefer at the park said that Saturday morning Miss Hoefer mentioned going to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hoefer of 32 Peninsula Road, during the weekend.

However, there was no sign that Miss Hoefer left the room with plans to go anywhere, she said.

Miss Hoefer often spent time in a nearby meadow by herself and often took long hikes and bicycle rides alone, Miss Thiede said.

The missing girl, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 140 pounds with brown eyes and blonde hair, was last seen wearing a white blouse, dark slacks, brown hiking boots and blue socks.

Thieves Take 60 Water Beds

Sixty water beds and four heaters, valued at $800, have been stolen from the Come Together factory at 44 Woodland Avenue in San Rafael, police reported today.

The beds were boxed and ready for delivery, according to police, who said the burglary took place between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. yesterday. Entrance was gained through double doors at the rear of the building.

Taken were 48 king-size beds owned by Come Together Water Bed Co. and 12 beds and four heaters owned by Western Water Beds. Both companies are of San Rafael.

Driver Injured In Skid, Crash

A 21-year-old San Rafael woman received a cut face and scalp when her car skidded on wet pavement and went off the road hitting a utility pole, San Rafael police reported today.

Wendy H. Banks of 116 Coleman Drive was treated at Marin General Hospital at 7:10 p.m. yesterday after the accident on D Street in San Rafael.

Police said she was driving south when the accident occurred. The car, a 1963 Ford, received moderate damage to the right front end, according to police.

Recital Slated By Gary Walker

The chancel choir of St. Sebastian's Church in Greenbrae and baritone Gary Walker, choir conductor, will present a recital at 4 p.m. June 6 at the church.

The choir will perform works by Haydn, Mozart, Vivaldi and Walker. Walker will sing selections by Brahms, Lully, Faure and Paisiello.

Admission will be free.

Innocent Pleas To Indecent Exposures

Robert Edward Arnold, 46, and Thomas Allen Gust, 25, both of San Francisco, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of indecent exposure.

A pretrial conference was set for June 9.

The pair was arrested last Saturday when an off-duty sheriff allegedly saw them sunbathing in the nude near Shafter Bridge in Lagunitas.

Marist Society Plans To Sell Seminary Site

The Marist Society of California plans to sell its 10-acre St. Peter Chanel Seminary at 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, according to Frank Heffernan, a member of the Marists Lay Advisory Board.

The site containing seminary buildings, a pool and tennis courts is adjacent to Forest Meadows and sometimes used for outings by local groups.

For the past 93 years the site has been used for schools, first the Tamalpais School for Boys and then the seminary.

The Marist Society purchased the property and nine buildings from the Tamalpais School for Boys in 1955 for $400,000.

Heffernan said the Marist Society decided to sell the property because it feels students should be closer to educational centers in San Francisco and Berkeley.

It is proposed that seminary activity be located in San Francisco and at the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley, Heffernan reported.

Several of the 10 students at the seminary now take academic courses at the University of San Francisco.

The Marist Society constructed a major building, containing a library, chapel, student and faculty dining rooms, kitchen and living quarters for 10 brothers of the order at the site in 1961.

Hub Man Denies Forgery Counts

William Frederick O'Bayley, 23, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two charges of forgery and one of possessing a bad check with intent to defraud.

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 8.

O'Bayley is also awaiting sentencing on charges of burglary and concealing stolen property.

Drunk Drivers Are Sentenced

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Tuesday by Judge David Menary Jr. was:

Bobby Eugene Keenum, 39, of 221 Beryl Street, Mill Valley, arrested May 1 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Sentenced Wednesday by Judge Robert A. Smallman were:

Austin Bryan Fenger, 39, of 40 Pamela Court, Tiburon, arrested May 22 in Sausalito, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Robert Keith McLean, 33, of Sonoma, arrested May 21 on Highway 37, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Cotati Building Plans Win Nod

The Cotati Planning Commission last night approved the architectural design of two building projects.

The commission approved the plan of Earl Andersen for a 10-unit apartment building on Page Street and plans of Loren Griffith and Wendell French to move four homes to 8440 Park Avenue.

The commission delayed action on the request of William W. Snelling for a garden terrace adjoining the Barrel of Suds bar at 8197 La Plaza, saying a use permit and public hearing would be required since the open beer garden with live music would be near residential lots.

Why Not Different School For Those Who Desire It?

This week's hassle over an experimental education program proposed for the Mill Valley School District next year makes one wonder if the opponents of the plan understood it.

Many parents told district trustees Monday that the program, called Experience in Cooperative Education, was divisive and would tend to fragment the district.

They based this on one feature of the plan — that some 60 pupils would be taken out of regular classes and placed under direction of two teachers at an off-campus site.

WHY IS THIS objectionable? Children, after all, are separated from each other at regular schools —separated by classroom walls, different lunch hours, different recess periods.

It's not stretching things too far to assume that many youngsters —perhaps even next-door neighbors — never see each other during the school day.

Why, then, is it undesirable for a group of students to attend classes away from their fellow pupils?

If the parents meant the pupils would be separated by radically different educational programs, they're right again.

BUT DO THESE parents insist that all children, no matter what their personal preferences, abilities and interests, be lumped together in the same educational bag and fed, occasionally force-fed, the same courses?

If so, they are moving contrary to modern educational theory.

Herein lies the heart of the matter. The Mill Valley School District for some years has been moving toward identifying differences between individual pupils and then cultivating these differences.

ROB GOLDSTEIN, the Tamalpais Valley School teacher who proposed the cooperative education program, conducts his class in an informal atmosphere that would shock many of the more educationally conservative parents.

But children are not assigned to Goldstein's class unless they and their parents approve. Thus no parent can claim his Johnny is being used as a guinea pig in an experimental program without his approval.

Objections by parents weren't the only things that killed the program, at least for now. Supt. James A. Collins said it would have cost more than educating 60 children by the usual method, and the district was having trouble finding an acceptable site for the program.

There remains the possibility that the program, in a modified form, will be implemented next fiscal year.

Here's hoping that parents with a "what's right for me is right for everyone" attitude don't kill any chance for it before it can be tried.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Lack Of Security To Blame For Loss Of Old Courthouse

I was shocked, saddened and angry. It didn't have to happen. What is this environmental thing? Does it not include our heritage? I think it should and does. Judging by the telephone calls I have received today, I am far from being alone.

A friend called me about 7 o'clock to tell me that it was burning — this old courthouse of ours — and then again later. At 11 I watched it on the TV newscast, as it was being destroyed. I felt tears coming into my eyes: another old friend was going.

My compliments to reporter Jeff Greer for his excellent historical picture and to I-J librarian Jean Day, who was able to supply the material immediately when needed.

YOU SEE I WAS privileged to serve in the old building for 27 years — seven of them as manager of Marvelous Marin, Inc., and 20 as supervisor. During those years, I never failed to feel the richness of its passing years — the consciousness of those who had climbed those broad stairs and passed through the huge pillars and doors during the many, many years before; some with expectation of joy and hope and the others with fear and dread.

This loss is an indictment of the board of supervisors, who turned it all over to the administrator to report back to them while they went on their way. Where was the leadership? Where was the personal interest in the only remaining structure of a century-old county government?

The answer is that they just couldn't care less. They were too busy carrying out the grand manner charade out at Brasilia. During the passing virus of destroying public buildings, this valuable and important structure was certainly entitled to security protection if ever anything was.

MENTION WAS MADE in the news story of the dislike many people had for the last addition to the courthouse — that it didn't match the older sections. Few know that the architect was a student of Frank Lloyd Wright, who had lived and worked at Taliesin. He was instructed to design a building that could be converted for business occupance. That was the only way the great need for court space could have gotten the votes required to build; there was so much fear that somehow or other I would be able to throw a monkey wrench into the scheme of building the Civic Center. Chip Day was present when the vote was taken. He wrote a very amusing story about it. Perhaps I can get a copy and run it in the column soon.

My friends, I hope you will understand my emotions about this loss of ours. Again; it never should have happened.

VOICE OF YOUTH

If You Miss Bandwagon, It Will Be Back Again

By CANDY MATSON
Novato High School
Sophomore

Slow down. Curb your speed and keep slackening until you come to a complete standstill. Once you have stopped, look around and watch the people pass. Watch them closely: they are all in a hurry. They rush by in every direction, scurrying from task to task, issue to issue, stand to stand, to belief to moral to value. . . It's constant. It's as if life were one big climax; as if society moves along continually at the peak of the traffic hour.

Who is caught up in the haste? Look around, and on every side you will see a different bandwagon. First there are the politicians, each screaming louder than the other. Then the society "freaks," going more and more far-out to get "far-in." There are the businessmen living their lives on a schedule. There are the radicals — different — full of strange dreams and forever preaching unheard of, "impossible" ideas. There are the activists, and the parasites who latch on to any stand that comes along which might stir up some excitement. There are the newscasters and newsmen who spew facts, figures, violence and bad-news-headlines into your tired ears so fast that it makes your poor head reel. There are the optimists, the pessimists; the peace lovers, the capitalists; the old generation, the young generation; people who have an opinion on everything, people who haven't any opinions at all, and know-it-alls who are experts on expertise.

BUT WHO ARE these hasty persons? They — we — are everyday people who are being forced into growing up at an earlier and earlier age. It's as though there were loudspeakers ceaselessly blaring their own form of propaganda. Not only are we being forced to grow up, but forced to claim almost god-like wisdom and insight on every diverse subject that appears in Newsweek.

People, and particularly young people, are being pressured into making decisions on just about every issue ever questioned. Every day, 15-year-olds, 16-year-olds, even 14-year-olds are being pressed to make up their minds — now!

This is not to say that they shouldn't start thinking for themselves. This is not to say that 16 isn't the time to begin taking on the responsibility of preparing oneself for a very complex world. This is not to say that the vociferous youth who clamor to "be heard" do not know what they want. This is not to say that there are not values to be decided on. Opinions should be formulated and sincere consideration given them while one is still young and open-minded.

THIS ARTICLE is to say — and I'm saying it now — that there is a lifetime in which to search for the answers. I say that there is a time for everything. Most of the questions today are not yes and no, or even multiple choice. They require many years of listening, asking, accepting, discarding. It is well to begin when we are young — young enough to have plenty of time to change our minds. As we go through life, different stages tend to shade subjects with different tints. It is not fair that youth be forced to travel in the same direction even when the wind changes.

There are many modes of transportation for traveling through the years, but there is much to be said for standing still sometimes. There are simple things to see that cannot often be caught on the run.

What Fire Started Must Be Completed

Tuesday evening's fire solved one question: what to do with the old Marin County Courthouse.

There is now only one thing left to do: raze it.

The courthouse annex proved to be as fireproof as its designer had claimed. Fire doors and fire walls, together with excellent work by the San Rafael Fire Department, kept the flames from penetrating from the old courthouse itself into the annex. So the annex building remains, and is back in use by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

What remains of the courthouse, however, certainly is no longer worth preserving. Although the main floor received surprisingly little damage, considering the immense blaze that roared in the building for several hours, the upper stories were damaged beyond restoring.

IT IS SAD INDEED to see the old landmark left but a charred hulk. It is sadder still to think that anyone would intentionally set fire to it.

However, it brings into the open what has been realized all along by county and city officials and many others: The building itself was inhibiting sale of the square to anyone who might develop it in a way which could help save San Rafael's economically threatened downtown.

Since the courthouse was of no feasible commercial use, its removal had to be added to the cost of the property by anyone figuring on possible purchase. It may well have been the "sticker" that held up sale of the square.

The fire did not remove the building, but it destroyed enough of it that the county must now complete the job. Fire insurance may be sufficient to cover the cost of removing the remains.

The property, with the annex intact and commercially unseable, then may find a buyer.

In the meantime, we have a suggestion.

CERTAINLY, COUNTY OFFICIALS cannot permit the gutted walls to remain. Certainly, they should not permit the concrete foundations to remain.

The work of removal, begun by fire, should be completed as soon as possible.

And we suggest that county and city then fill and turf over the excavation that will result, and convert the whole square into a park until such time as an acceptable purchase offer is received.

Who knows? With a little community effort — some landscaping, maybe even tables and benches — it might prove to be such an attractive open space that it would do as much for the downtown business district as would commercial development.

At least, it wouldn't cost much extra to try it and see.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Three Play Out Bitter Charade On Czech Stage

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Can the people of California stop the State Assembly from rewriting history?

The startling maneuver is all there in the Assembly's publications and it reads like a Russian history book.

The state constitution requires each house of the Legislature to keep a journal of its proceedings. In accordance, each has published a "Daily Journal," which gives a chronological history of actions on measures introduced.

Well, if you'll turn to the history on AB 21 in the Assembly Weekly History of April 30, 1971, it says on April 22 that AB 21 was "read third time, passage refused. Motion to reconsider on the next legislative day made by Mr. Burton."

One week later, however, in the May 7 Weekly History, it says that on April 22 AB 21 was "read third time and passed." This same notation has appeared in subsequent weekly histories.

ARE WE TO understand that what was first reported as happening in regard to AB 21 on April 22 didn't really happen at all? Did the bill pass or didn't it? What can be believed?

AB 21 was authored by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, one of Speaker Bob Moretti's top lieutenants. Enactment of the bill would mean an end to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Because of a constitutional provision for a two-thirds vote on a tax levy on corporations, the Burton bill needed 54 votes to pass — at least that's what it says on the bill's cover.

When the bill reached the floor on April 22, according to the journal for that day, it was "refused passage" by a party-line vote of 41 ayes to 31 noes, 13 short of the number of ayes needed to make two-thirds. This roll call is recorded. Burton moved to reconsider the vote on the next legislative day and AB 21 was ordered to the unfinished bssiness file.

Action on this motion was continued to April 29, when Burton announced his intention to let his reconsideration motion lapse, requesting the speaker to transmit the bill to the Senate with the understanding that only those sections requiring less than 54 votes would be operative. In practice, this would mean that the depletion allowance would be eliminated for individuals, but would remain for corporations.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT so stunned some members that they wanted a chance to vote again. Assemblyman Bob Badham, R-Newport Beach, who had opposed the bill, moved for reconsideration, but his motion failed 35 to 25.

Speaker Moretti then ordered the bill over to the Senate with the understanding that sections requiring 54 votes would be inoperative. The GOP floor leader, Bob Monagan, charged Moretti had "in effect, sent the bill out on his own motion."

Sometime between April 29 and May 3 apparently someone decided they didn't like that wording in the journal of April 22, or the weekly history where it said AB 21 "was refused passage."

So on Monday, May 3, Democratic Floor Leader Walter Karabian asked the members to approve various daily journals "as corrected by the minute clerk."

IN MOST CIRCLES, a "correction" means there has been an error. But the correction for the April 22 journal would change the wording to show AB 21 was "passed," rather than "was refused passage."

So at this point, Assembly history was rewritten by 31 Democrats who supported Karabian's move. Republicans managed to gather only 29 votes to oppose the "corection."

Monagan asked for reconsideration. However, on May 6 the opposition collapsed. Monagan waived his motion.

The deed is done. Presumably now, the people of the state have every right to question the authenticity of all Assembly publications. With this kind of precedent, what's to prevent the 41-vote majority from changing journals of past years?

It's easy. If they don't like what has happened, just "correct" it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Insinuation Found In Council Report

Reference is made to article which appeared in your paper, Tuesday, May 18, on page 5, column 2, paragraph 7 under title "Decision On Burton Is Delayed", which was under a 5 by 7 photograph of two contestants for Miss USA, thus calling better-than-average attention to the article. in question. Since I am president of San Rafael American Little League, member of the board of directors of St. Raphael's Men's Club, and newly elected first vice-commander of American Legion, Wilkins Post 37, to name a few, I can ill afford the insinuations made by your statement: "If the council does not accept Burton's resignation, he may not be entirely welcome back on the commission." Several people have approached me and commented "that they could not believe their eyes and that it could not be true". Since your statement is without basis in fact and has created such comment and has maliciously placed the seed of doubt in people's minds as to my integrity, character, and dedication to public service, your unfounded statement amounts to moral turpitude and places in jeopardy my future career in public service, and I hereby insist on a retraction of such statement under the provisions of the California Civil Code, Section 48A.

Time For Organized Taxpayers' Revolt

Strictly on a local level, have you too received notice of re-assessment of your property? In my present frame of mind there is little difference between the systematic re-appraisal of privately held property and unreasonable search and seizure. Not only have we been re-assessed, but add to that the common knowledge certain taxing agencies of Marin regard the new 1971-72 assessment rate on property of 25 per cent of its full cash value as a windfall to be immediately absorbed into the system.

The lack of a county-side organized property tax revolt has established a trend of passive payment upon demand. The demands have reached the stage of dementia. However, the trend can so easily be reversed. With the battle cry of "Property Tax Reform Now" all of the community improvement clubs in Marin can join together in a demand that our 1971-72 tax bills reflect lesser amounts over last year's. Failing a significant roll back in property taxes, the possibility of paying our 1971-72 taxes into a holding trust account should seriously be explored. Don't wait for your community improvement club to contact you, you contact it. If you are a non-member, get affiliated.

Coverage Of Track Found Wanting

As a high school coach in Marin County I feel that your paper does not do an adequate job of covering high school sports. Rather than give you my opinion of what I think you should do, may I just mention a few of the inconsistencies . . . May I also state that in the past my particular sport, track and field, has had more than its share of coverage, although inconsistent at times.

The following recent developments have really made me wonder just what your purpose is in covering particular sports events:

1 - On Saturday, May 8, the MCAL track and field championships were held at College of Marin. On the Tuesday and Wednesday preceding this date, the results of the trials were put in your hands. Neither these results were published or, more important, was the public made aware that the championships were going to be held. The first mention of the meet was in the May 10 edition.

2 - Your reporter covering the meet, Mr. (Paul) Cane, either was not present at the meet or had no idea of what he was witnessing. Our championship meet produced more outstanding results than any meet in recent history. Four of the athletes competing in that meet are the best ever in Marin County history — and, barring any unforseen circumstances, will each be competing in this year's state meet, giving Marin County at least four schools in representation, something which hasn't happened in a long time.

3 - Upon reading last night's IJ (May 18) I learn from Mr. (David) Einstein that last Saturday's Division III track and field meet was a "chaotic disaster". Also, that "except for Tams triumph (varsity), the meet Saturday was a flop." First, the meet was held on Friday. Which meet did Mr. Einstein attend? Second, Tamalpais was not the leading team from Marin County — Terra Linda was, on combined varsity and Soph-bee points. We expect no praise for this, but our athletes certainly don't look at the meet as a "flop" . . .

If this kind of quality reporting is allowed to exist, where is your accountability? The public should be made aware of the facts. That should be your purpose.

Little Knowledge Is Dangerous Thing

They often say that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. Having just read two letters by Mr. Thomas Knight of the Planned Parenthood organization, I can easily believe it.

Mr. Knight states categorically, for example, that an "unborn infant" is a figment of Mr. Rus Walton's imagination. He cites as proof a few well-known facts from elementary physiology and embryology. What he fails to mention is that the object he insists we should all correctly refer to as a "fetus" is fully-developed in all of its human characteristics, sucks its thumb, moves about, and can even survive the process of premature birth within only six months of conception. Isn't it remarkable how a so-called fetus can become an infant in only a couple of hours, Mr. Knight?. . .

In another part of one of his letters Mr. Knight insists that every woman should have the right to regulate her own fertility and should never be forced to have an unwanted child. I don't know anyone who would argue with these as general principles. But does it really follow logically that every pregnant woman thereby has the right to terminate her pregnancy at any time she chooses simply because she feels she doesn't want to have a child? I wonder how many of us would ever have seen the light of day if such a criterion for birth had prevailed in the past! And I also can't help wondering how long elderly dependent, handicapped children and any others who might come to be looked on by their relatives as "unwanteds" could hope to survive in a world where being wanted by those one depended on determined one's right to life!

Finally, Mr. Knight hypothesises that the wider distribution of information like that supplied by his organization is exactly what is needed to counteract our growing problem with venereal disease and unwanted pregnancies. What a travesty of logic! Can't you just picture our young people refraining from illicit sexual relations because, thanks to Mr. Knight and Planned Parenthood, they now know where to get and how to use contraceptives. Who are you trying to kid, Mr. Knight?

Democrats Turn Isolationist, Reversing Former Party Roles

WASHINGTON — The most significant consequence of the vote on the Mansfield amendment, seeking to cut U.S. forces in Europe by half, is being overlooked. It is this:

The Democratic Party by a vote of 31 to 22 repudiated the foreign policy of its four most recent Presidents — Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson — and aligned itself with the new isolationism.

The effect of the vote on the Mansfield resolution is to put the Democrats behind a foreign policy whose premise is: Forget trying to keep the peace and hope war won't break out.

Thus we are now witnessing the substantial beginnings of a nearly complete reversal of the position of the two major parties in foreign affairs.

THE DEMOCRATS are embracing the isolationism which dominated the Republican Party from 1920 until the late 1940s when Senator Vandenberg and General Eisenhower took the GOP out of the hands of the Tafts and the Wherrys.

The Republicans are supporting the internationalist foreign policy of the four postwar Democratic Presidents and of Dwight Eisenhower.

The way the two parties voted on the Mansfield amendment is evidence that the Democrats have gone far down the road to isolationism and the Republicans are continuing internationalist.

The Mansfield amendment drew nearly all of its support from Democratic senators and was defeated only because the Republican senators were almost unanimously against it.

Here is the party breakdown: Democrats for the amendment 31; against it 22. Republicans for the amendment 5; against it 39.

NO SINGLE INITIATIVE by the Democratic leaders proves that the party has gone Republican-isolationist. But the sum-total of their recent actions shows they are moving steadily in that direction. The sum of their moves are these:

To force a precipitate withdrawal from Vietnam without adequate time to enable the South Vietnamese to be ready to defend themselves alone.

To curtail the constitutional powers of the President as commander-in-chief.

To abolish the draft.

To reduce unilaterally the military strength of the nation — a degree of projected one-sided disarmament which couldn't fail to dismay our allies and delight our adversaries.

To cut U.S. forces in Europe to a level which would render NATO nearly impotent.

THE METHOD as well as the substance of the Mansfield initiative reveals the lack of concern which the Democrats apparently have for enabling the United States to help keep the peace.

It proposed to slash U.S. NATO forces without any consultation with our NATO allies. It proposed to reduce U.S. forces in Europe without any parallel reduction of Soviet forces in Europe and prior to any attempt to negotiate such a reduction.

Most Democratic senators said they thought this was just fine — and voted to reject the counsel of two Democratic Presidents and two Democratic secretaries of state that it was careless irresponsibility.

Most Republican senators voted to support the President in his efforts to insure that the United States try to keep out of war by helping to deter war from breaking out.

There are 1,105,000 NATO troops in Western Europe, and 1,235,000 Warsaw Pact troops in Eastern Europe.

The responsible road to a more stable peace is to negotiate a mutual reduction.

It was unilateral disarmament which led to both World War I and World War II.

Drought Returns To Texas, But It's Different Now

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

LUBBOCK, Tex. — All day the cloudless sky over the South Plains is a hazy blue at the dome, but toward every horizon it is yellow with dust. The dry wind blows incessantly; one afternoon it is from the west, and hot, then the next morning it has shifted to the north and is cold. But it never stops.

Old timers around here say "It won't rain until the wind stops, and the wind won't stop until it rains." So the wind blows on and the drought drags on. Some say it is the worst since the mid-50s, others say there has been nothing like it since depression days.

Off in one direction from Lubbock, the main crops are cotton and milo sorghum for cattle feed. One way the land is irrigated, one way it depends on the rain that does not come. To the east where the caprock drops off toward the Oklahoma line, the business is range cattle, and there is no grass for them. In one locality there has been less than three inches of rain in 20 months, less than you expect on the desert.

But the most intense local drought began last fall and has been broken only by one quick two-inch rain that barely dampened the surface. Seed plantings have been delayed. Some farmers who risked planting cotton saw the young plants cut off at ground level as if by a blade — but by a sandstorm.

YOU CAN FEEL the drought as well as see it if you drive the string-straight farm roads east of here, out around Idalou and Lorenzo. In the fields, the oil wells keep rocking and pumping from deep beneath the surface. But the surface itself, plowed and waiting, is blowing away. Little whirlwinds spin across the flatness sometimes chasing each other. Mirages, imaginary lakes that look as good to the farmers as they would to any stranded prospector on a cartoon desert, sizzle near the horizon and then disappear.

You can feel the dust on your fingertips without seeing it, and your lips dry soon after you leave the airport. This is the way it affects you, passing through, but then you have no stake here, and soon you can book another plane and head back to the green East.

A few, but only a few, have sold out and moved away, or gone into another business. More cattlemen are liquidating their herds because feed is short and its price is up a third over last year. Thus they rush their cattle to feed lots and then to market — far ahead of schedule — at about twice the normal rate for this time of year. To them and others whose livelihoods depend on rain, the story of the drought is not a description of a thirsty landscape, but a profit-and-loss statement already written in red ink for 1971. To the rest of the nation, it will mean higher beef prices in months ahead.

STILL, YOU WILL LOOK in vain to fill in the images usually conjured up by the words drought and "dustbowl." For grown-up Americans, the first things they bring to the mind's eye are the opening scenes of "The Grapes of Wrath," with the land literally blowing away and the bank foreclosing and the pitiable Joads loading up their truck to head for the Promised Land. The absence of such scenes, despite the acuteness of the weather, is telling testimony to how things have changed since the Great Depression.

The Joads wouldn't have recognized a profit-and-loss statement had they seen one. Likely they wouldn't have been able to skin any farm implement more advanced than a team of mules. In the mid-30s, Roosevelt had begun the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (AAA), but nobody in the Joads' plight ever heard of things like an Emergency Livestock Seed and Hay Transport program, and the emergency loans of the Farmer's Home Administration. But today, farmers in 182 of Texas' 254 counties are declared eligible for such government help, and using it.

Today, more than half the crop land here on the South Plains is irrigated. It was the Rural Electrification Administration that first made that possible. With irrigation, many farms and ranches that would have been wiped out by such a drought will be able to ride it out instead.

AND TODAY, most marginal farmers like the Joads are off the land. They went to California during the depression, or to the cities after the war. Farm labor is far less intensive in the tractor age, and now those who provide it must be paid a minimum wage. Most of the smaller farmers here are working rented land.

But most of the land is in big farms, in the hands of the men who were tougher, meaner or luckier than the Joad family. They survived the '30s and grew, and then the drought of the '50s, and they will survive this one too. That has become the story of farming in America in this part of the West, and particularly in the case of Johnny Wheeler, a man you will hear more about shortly.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By GEORGE NEVIN

Why Not Different School For Those Who Desire It?

This week's hassle over an experimental education program proposed for the Mill Valley School District next year makes one wonder if the opponents of the plan understood it.

Many parents told district trustees Monday that the program, called Experience in Cooperative Education, was divisive and would tend to fragment the district.

They based this on one feature of the plan — that some 60 pupils would be taken out of regular classes and placed under direction of two teachers at an off-campus site.

WHY IS THIS objectionable? Children, after all, are separated from each other at regular schools —separated by classroom walls, different lunch hours, different recess periods.

It's not stretching things too far to assume that many youngsters —perhaps even next-door neighbors — never see each other during the school day.

Why, then, is it undesirable for a group of students to attend classes away from their fellow pupils?

If the parents meant the pupils would be separated by radically different educational programs, they're right again.

BUT DO THESE parents insist that all children, no matter what their personal preferences, abilities and interests, be lumped together in the same educational bag and fed, occasionally force-fed, the same courses?

If so, they are moving contrary to modern educational theory.

Herein lies the heart of the matter. The Mill Valley School District for some years has been moving toward identifying differences between individual pupils and then cultivating these differences.

ROB GOLDSTEIN, the Tamalpais Valley School teacher who proposed the cooperative education program, conducts his class in an informal atmosphere that would shock many of the more educationally conservative parents.

But children are not assigned to Goldstein's class unless they and their parents approve. Thus no parent can claim his Johnny is being used as a guinea pig in an experimental program without his approval.

Objections by parents weren't the only things that killed the program, at least for now. Supt. James A. Collins said it would have cost more than educating 60 children by the usual method, and the district was having trouble finding an acceptable site for the program.

There remains the possibility that the program, in a modified form, will be implemented next fiscal year.

Here's hoping that parents with a "what's right for me is right for everyone" attitude don't kill any chance for it before it can be tried.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Lack Of Security To Blame For Loss Of Old Courthouse

I was shocked, saddened and angry. It didn't have to happen. What is this environmental thing? Does it not include our heritage? I think it should and does. Judging by the telephone calls I have received today, I am far from being alone.

A friend called me about 7 o'clock to tell me that it was burning — this old courthouse of ours — and then again later. At 11 I watched it on the TV newscast, as it was being destroyed. I felt tears coming into my eyes: another old friend was going.

My compliments to reporter Jeff Greer for his excellent historical picture and to I-J librarian Jean Day, who was able to supply the material immediately when needed.

YOU SEE I WAS privileged to serve in the old building for 27 years — seven of them as manager of Marvelous Marin, Inc., and 20 as supervisor. During those years, I never failed to feel the richness of its passing years — the consciousness of those who had climbed those broad stairs and passed through the huge pillars and doors during the many, many years before; some with expectation of joy and hope and the others with fear and dread.

This loss is an indictment of the board of supervisors, who turned it all over to the administrator to report back to them while they went on their way. Where was the leadership? Where was the personal interest in the only remaining structure of a century-old county government?

The answer is that they just couldn't care less. They were too busy carrying out the grand manner charade out at Brasilia. During the passing virus of destroying public buildings, this valuable and important structure was certainly entitled to security protection if ever anything was.

MENTION WAS MADE in the news story of the dislike many people had for the last addition to the courthouse — that it didn't match the older sections. Few know that the architect was a student of Frank Lloyd Wright, who had lived and worked at Taliesin. He was instructed to design a building that could be converted for business occupance. That was the only way the great need for court space could have gotten the votes required to build; there was so much fear that somehow or other I would be able to throw a monkey wrench into the scheme of building the Civic Center. Chip Day was present when the vote was taken. He wrote a very amusing story about it. Perhaps I can get a copy and run it in the column soon.

My friends, I hope you will understand my emotions about this loss of ours. Again; it never should have happened.

VOICE OF YOUTH

If You Miss Bandwagon, It Will Be Back Again

By CANDY MATSON
Novato High School
Sophomore

Slow down. Curb your speed and keep slackening until you come to a complete standstill. Once you have stopped, look around and watch the people pass. Watch them closely: they are all in a hurry. They rush by in every direction, scurrying from task to task, issue to issue, stand to stand, to belief to moral to value. . . It's constant. It's as if life were one big climax; as if society moves along continually at the peak of the traffic hour.

Who is caught up in the haste? Look around, and on every side you will see a different bandwagon. First there are the politicians, each screaming louder than the other. Then the society "freaks," going more and more far-out to get "far-in." There are the businessmen living their lives on a schedule. There are the radicals — different — full of strange dreams and forever preaching unheard of, "impossible" ideas. There are the activists, and the parasites who latch on to any stand that comes along which might stir up some excitement. There are the newscasters and newsmen who spew facts, figures, violence and bad-news-headlines into your tired ears so fast that it makes your poor head reel. There are the optimists, the pessimists; the peace lovers, the capitalists; the old generation, the young generation; people who have an opinion on everything, people who haven't any opinions at all, and know-it-alls who are experts on expertise.

BUT WHO ARE these hasty persons? They — we — are everyday people who are being forced into growing up at an earlier and earlier age. It's as though there were loudspeakers ceaselessly blaring their own form of propaganda. Not only are we being forced to grow up, but forced to claim almost godlike wisdom and insight on every diverse subject that appears in Newsweek.

People, and particularly young people, are being pressured into making decisions on just about every issue ever questioned. Every day, 15-year-olds, 16-year-olds, even 14-year-olds are being pressed to make up their minds — now!

This is not to say that they shouldn't start thinking for themselves. This is not to say that 16 isn't the time to begin taking on the responsibility of preparing oneself for a very complex world. This is not to say that the vociferous youth who clamor to "be heard" do not know what they want. This is not to say that there are not values to be decided on. Opinions should be formulated and sincere consideration given them while one is still young and open-minded.

THIS ARTICLE is to say — and I'm saying it now — that there is a lifetime in which to search for the answers. I say that there is a time for everything. Most of the questions today are not yes and no, or even multiple choice. They require many years of listening, asking, accepting, discarding. It is well to begin when we are young — young enough to have plenty of time to change our minds. As we go through life, different stages tend to shade subjects with different tints. It is not fair that youth be forced to travel in the same direction even when the wind changes.

There are many modes of transportation for traveling through the years, but there is much to be said for standing still sometimes. There are simple things to see that cannot often be caught on the run.

PLEASE WARM ME UP

I'm a beautiful new 9 room plus home in San Rafael hills with a great view. My owner, the contractor, will not heat me up until someone wants me. In fact, he has recently chopped $3,800 off my price. I have 2 great decks, sunken living room, formal dining room, utility room, huge family room w/wet bar, 3 large bdrms., 2½ baths. I'm quite lonely and I'm sure you won't find anyone as nice as me at $51,950.

PLEASE WARM ME UP

I'm a beautiful new 9 room plus home in San Rafael hills with a great view. My owner, the contractor, will not heat me up until someone wants me. In fact, he has recently chopped $3,800 off my price. I have 2 great decks, sunken living room, formal dining room, utility room, huge family room w/wet bar, 3 large bdrms., 2½ baths. I'm quite lonely and I'm sure you won't find anyone as nice as me at $51,950.

Ex-Marin Judge Loses Ballot Suit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Supreme Court has ruled against a former Marin attorney involved in a long fight over a judgeship in sparsely populated Sierra County.

The court said Wednesday that John F. Keane and not the former Marinite, Gordon I. Smith, is entitled to sit as the mountainous county's lone superior court judge.

The judgeship has been contested since early last year, when Smith defeated Keane, then the incumbent, by a nine-vote margin. Later, however, a trial court ruled nine ballots were counted improperly and that there was a tie.

During the campaign, Smith, then Sierra's district attorney, raised questions about Keane's performance on the bench and implied the judge had been imbibing. Smith listed one of his qualifications as "sobriety."

In a second election in November, Keane won by nearly 300 votes. In the meantime, however, the state Court of Appeal ruled the controversial nine votes in the primary were intended for Smith and directed he be certified as elected.

In February, the Supreme Court agreed to consider the issue.

The court upheld the primary tie vote and said Keane was the ultimate winner by virtue of the runoff.

Smith has indicated he will petition the court to reverse itself. He has 15 days to act.

Sierra County has been without a regularly assigned judge since January, when Keane's term expired. Smith's term as district attorney also expired at the same time, and he since has been replaced in that post.

Smith, 56, formerly served as Sierra's superior court judge but was defeated for reelection in 1958. While in Marin, he practiced law in San Rafael and also served as a deputy district attorney.

Peace Sit-In Trial Dates Set For 26

Twenty-six persons pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges stemming from a sit-in at the San Rafael office of the U.S. Selective Service May 5.

Ten of the group said they wished to represent themselves.

When asked by Judge David Menary Jr. to plead to the charges, eight of the 10 replied, "I stand mute before the court," and the innocent pleas were entered for them by Judge Menary.

The 26 are among a group of 36 persons — three of them juveniles — charged with failing to disperse and wilfully obstructing a public place in connection with the sit-in.

Seven others previously pleaded innocent and are set to stand trial June 10.

Menary set jury trial dates for the 26 in three groups.

Scheduled to be tried June 17 are: Steven John Loegerin, 19; James Gordon Digby, 22, and Ronald Keith Nichols, 32, all of Novato; Neil Lionel Edwards, 26, Michael Alan Glass, 18, and Kenneth John Cottrell, 23, all of Mill Valley; Richard Carol Sloan, 35, of Lagunitas; Michael Drew Mendelson, 25, of Berkeley, and Eric Signard Svenson, 20, of San Rafael.

Scheduled to be tried July 1 are: Debbie Webb, 20, and Randy Clifton Patterson, 22, both of Kentfield; Robert Nelson Well, 24, of Novato; James Kimo Campbell, 24, of San Rafael; William Griffin Zane, 26, of Fairfax, and Lynn Zimmerman, 21, of Sausalito.

Scheduled to be tried July 8 are : Wendi Anne Kallins, 19, Wilmar Eugene Frieson, 21, Kenneth William Bott, 19, all of Mill Valley; Robert Alan LeBlanc, 23, Gregory Carlton Fearon, 22, Carol Marie Ouellet, 20, Deborah Lee Neil, 18, and Daryl Kent Grossman, 23, all of San Rafael; Michele Tormanen, 19, and James Russell Allen, 23, both of Fairfax, and Mark Nolen Werner, 22, of Sausalito.

Three Youths Seeking Delinquency Panel Post

Three youths, including the newly elected student body president of Marin Community College in Kentfield, applied for posts on the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Commission yesterday.

Interviewed by the commissioners at the Civic Center were Kenneth Bott, 19, of Mill Valley, who will head the student body at the college next semester; Paul Clark, 16, a sophomore at San Rafael High School; and Melany Beth Kramer, 17, of Fairfax, a junior at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Gary Giacomini, who served as chairman in the absence of the Rev. James C. Upshaw, said other candidates will be interviewed at the next meeting at 4 p.m. June 8.

Two vacancies are open on the 11-member commission. The commissioners will make recommendations to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which appoints the commissioners.

The commissioners also decided they would attend the meeting of the Marin Juvenile Justice Commission at 4 p.m. next Wednesday. The justice commissioners will discuss County Administrator Alan Bruce's recommendation that the preplacement center be phased out at Marin Juvenile Hall and group counselors at the hall be reclassified to a lower salary.

Smog Boards Get Teeth In Ruling From High Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Air pollution control districts have as much power as the State Public Utilities Commission, the State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The decision concerns the PUC, the Orange County Air Pollution Control District and Southern California Edison Co. which wants to build two generating units in Huntington Beach.

The smog district refused Edison a permit, but the PUC ordered the company to proceed and declared it had paramount jurisdiction.

Justices decided Edison must obey rules of both agencies and said that neither has "exclusive or paramount authority."

Edison, the court said, is free to go to court to challenge the reasonableness of the smog district's rejection.

Pacific Island Review Slated

"Sounds of Young Hawaii", a program of songs and dances of the Pacific islands will be presented at 8 p.m. June 9 and 10 at St. Peter Chanel Seminary.

The group of 36 young people from Hawaii will present the program at the seminary at 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

This is the second world tour of the group which have performed throughout the United States, Canada, Europe and Japan. This is their first Bay Area appearance.

Tools Taken

Tools valued at $795 have been taken during the past two months from the shed at the Pacific Gas and Electric o. yard at 750 Lindaro Street, San Rafael police reported today.

BART Approves Fare Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District Thursday approved a fare schedule ranging from 30 cents to $1.05 and conceded that a tax subsidy might be needed in the future to keep BART in the black.

BART is now authorized by state law to levy a property tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation if the money is needed to cover operational costs. The tax would be levied against property owners in Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco counties.

A spokesman said, however, if BART patronage is heavy enough and operational costs low enough, the tax levy may not be needed later on.

Oregon Drafts Curb On Bottles

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—A bill banning nonreturnable beverage bottles and cans and lift-tab can lids in Oregon was approved Thursday by the State Senate.

The measure was sent to the Assembly, which previously approved it in slightly different form, for concurrence in an amendment changing the effective date from July 1, 1972, to Oct. 1, 1972.

The bill would require a five-cent deposit on all beverage bottled and containers, except returnable beer bottles which would have a two-cent deposit.

Righetti Estate Regains Timber Cutting Rights

The estate of Dr. Ethel Righetti paid $1,000 to itself yesterday to purchase the rights to cut timber on the 1,400-acre Righetti Ranch on Bolinas Ridge.

The transaction was a legal formality to allow the estate to take back timber rights which had been contracted to an Oregon lumber firm.

The estate previously filed suit against the firm — Mathews, Humbert and Walker of North Bend, Ore. — in Marin Superior Court for breach of contract.

Yesterday at the Marin Hall of Justice, the co-executors of the estate, Marie R. Weaver and Milton R. Righetti, made the only bid for the timber rights which were being sold at public auction by San Francisco attorney William D. McKee, a trustee of the estate.

The timer operation of the Oregon firm has been in and out of the courts for several years, with charges that the operation was filling nearby creeks with silt and that illegal burning was being allowed on the property.

Criminal charges stemming from the illegal burning are still pending against the lumber firm's owners in Marin Municipal Court.

Peace Sit-In Trial Dates Set For 26

Twenty-six persons pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges stemming from a sit-in at the San Rafael office of the U.S. Selective Service May 5.

Ten of the group said they wished to represent themselves.

When asked by Judge David Menary Jr. to plead to the charges, eight of the 10 replied, "I stand mute before the court," and the innocent pleas were entered for them by Judge Menary.

The 26 are among a group of 36 persons — three of them juveniles — charged with failing to disperse and wilfully obstructing a public place in connection with the sit-in.

Seven others previously pleaded innocent and are set to stand trial June 10.

Menary set jury trial dates for the 26 in three groups.

Scheduled to be tried June 17 are: Steven John Loegerin, 19; James Gordon Digby, 22, and Ronald Keith Nichols, 32, all of Novato; Neil Lionel Edwards, 26, Michael Alan Glass, 18, and Kenneth John Cottrell, 23, all of Mill Valley; Richard Carol Sloan, 35, of Lagunitas; Michael Drew Mendelson, 25, of Berkeley, and Eric Signard Svenson, 20, of San Rafael.

Scheduled to be tried July 1 are: Debbie Webb, 20, and Randy Clifton Patterson, 22, both of Kentfield; Robert Nelson Well, 24, of Novato; James Kimo Campbell, 24, of San Rafael; William Griffin Zane, 26, of Fairfax, and Lynn Zimmerman, 21, of Sausalito.

Scheduled to be tried July 8 are : Wendi Anne Kallins, 19, Wilmar Eugene Frieson, 21, Kenneth William Bott, 19, all of Mill Valley; Robert Alan LeBlanc, 23, Gregory Carlton Fearon, 22, Carol Marie Ouellet, 20, Deborah Lee Neil, 18, and Daryl Kent Grossman, 23, all of San Rafael; Michele Tormanen, 19, and James Russell Allen, 23, both of Fairfax, and Mark Nolen Werner, 22, of Sausalito.

Three Youths Seeking Delinquency Panel Post

Three youths, including the newly elected student body president of Marin Community College in Kentfield, applied for posts on the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Commission yesterday.

Interviewed by the commissioners at the Civic Center were Kenneth Bott, 19, of Mill Valley, who will head the student body at the college next semester; Paul Clark, 16, a sophomore at San Rafael High School; and Melany Beth Kramer, 17, of Fairfax, a junior at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Gary Giacomini, who served as chairman in the absence of the Rev. James C. Upshaw, said other candidates will be interviewed at the next meeting at 4 p.m. June 8.

Two vacancies are open on the 11-member commission. The commissioners will make recommendations to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which appoints the commissioners.

The commissioners also decided they would attend the meeting of the Marin Juvenile Justice Commission at 4 p.m. next Wednesday. The justice commissioners will discuss County Administrator Alan Bruce's recommendation that the preplacement center be phased out at Marin Juvenile Hall and group counselors at the hall be reclassified to a lower salary.

Smog Boards Get Teeth In Ruling From High Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Air pollution control districts have as much power as the State Public Utilities Commission, the State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The decision concerns the PUC, the Orange County Air Pollution Control District and Southern California Edison Co. which wants to build two generating units in Huntington Beach.

The smog district refused Edison a permit, but the PUC ordered the company to proceed and declared it had paramount jurisdiction.

Justices decided Edison must obey rules of both agencies and said that neither has "exclusive or paramount authority."

Edison, the court said, is free to go to court to challenge the reasonableness of the smog district's rejection.

Ex-Marin Judge Loses Ballot Suit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Supreme Court has ruled against a former Marin attorney involved in a long fight over a judgeship in sparsely populated Sierra County.

The court said Wednesday that John F. Keane and not the former Marinite, Gordon I. Smith, is entitled to sit as the mountainous county's lone superior court judge.

The judgeship has been contested since early last year, when Smith defeated Keane, then the incumbent, by a nine-vote margin. Later, however, a trial court ruled nine ballots were counted improperly and that there was a tie.

During the campaign, Smith, then Sierra's district attorney, raised questions about Keane's performance on the bench and implied the judge had been imbibing. Smith listed one of his qualifications as "sobriety."

In a second election in November, Keane won by nearly 300 votes. In the meantime, however, the state Court of Appeal ruled the controversial nine votes in the primary were intended for Smith and directed he be certified as elected.

In February, the Supreme Court agreed to consider the issue.

The court upheld the primary tie vote and said Keane was the ultimate winner by virtue of the runoff.

Smith has indicated he will petition the court to reverse itself. He has 15 days to act.

Sierra County has been without a regularly assigned judge since January, when Keane's term expired. Smith's term as district attorney also expired at the same time, and he since has been replaced in that post.

Smith, 56, formerly served as Sierra's superior court judge but was defeated for reelection in 1958. While in Marin, he practiced law in San Rafael and also served as a deputy district attorney.

BART Approves Fare Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District Thursday approved a fare schedule ranging from 30 cents to $1.05 and conceded that a tax subsidy might be needed in the future to keep BART in the black.

BART is now authorized by state law to levy a property tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation if the money is needed to cover operational costs. The tax would be levied against property owners in Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco counties.

A spokesman said, however, if BART patronage is heavy enough and operational costs low enough, the tax levy may not be needed later on.

Oregon Drafts Curb On Bottles

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—A bill banning nonreturnable beverage bottles and cans and lift-tab can lids in Oregon was approved Thursday by the State Senate.

The measure was sent to the Assembly, which previously approved it in slightly different form, for concurrence in an amendment changing the effective date from July 1, 1972, to Oct. 1, 1972.

The bill would require a five-cent deposit on all beverage bottled and containers, except returnable beer bottles which would have a two-cent deposit.

Righetti Estate Regains Timber Cutting Rights

The estate of Dr. Ethel Righetti paid $1,000 to itself yesterday to purchase the rights to cut timber on the 1,400-acre Righetti Ranch on Bolinas Ridge.

The transaction was a legal formality to allow the estate to take back timber rights which had been contracted to an Oregon lumber firm.

The estate previously filed suit against the firm — Mathews, Humbert and Walker of North Bend, Ore. — in Marin Superior Court for breach of contract.

Yesterday at the Marin Hall of Justice, the co-executors of the estate, Marie R. Weaver and Milton R. Righetti, made the only bid for the timber rights which were being sold at public auction by San Francisco attorney William D. McKee, a trustee of the estate.

The timer operation of the Oregon firm has been in and out of the courts for several years, with charges that the operation was filling nearby creeks with silt and that illegal burning was being allowed on the property.

Criminal charges stemming from the illegal burning are still pending against the lumber firm's owners in Marin Municipal Court.

Giants At Candlestick For Series With Expos

JIM GILMARTIN

Giant Fans Already Talk World Series

Some notes gleaned after a visit to Candlestick Park yesterday as a warmup for tonight's opening homestand for those Cinderella Giants . . .

The ticket office already is besieged by requests about playoffs and, yes, even World Series ducats. Ticket manager Peter Hoffman says persons purchasing season tickets now would be eligible for post-season tickets . . . The first escalator that would eliminate the strains of Cardiac Hill, scene of so many heart attacks, should be in operation by Aug. 15 . . . By World Series time, if the Giants make the grade, the old ball orchard, now under renovation, hopefully will accommodate 40,000 persons.

The Giants apparently are a bunch of hams, to wit: Through last night's game in Los Angeles they have won seven out of eight televised games, including two exhibition contests . . . There's a write-in campaign to get shortstop Chris Speier, the dazzling rookie, on the All-Star team. The ballots were printed before the season began and no one expected Chris to be the sensation he is . . . Incidentally, Radio KSFO has put together a tape recording the several sensational plays by Speier who along with unsung second baseman Tito Fuentes is largely responsible for the team's fantastic early season success.

Another reason for the Giants' success at the home gate this season is the work of Garry Schumacher, Art Santo Domingo and John Taddeucci of the public relations department who got players out in force on the banquet circuit last winter to arouse interest . . . Schumacher, by the way, reminded me that he is in his 50th year of organized baseball as a reporter first and finally as publicity director for Horace Stoneham. Good old Garry is the inventor of the yearbook, by the way.

Jim Ray Hart, who was sent down to Phoenix to work himself out of a shoulder injury, isn't even playing for the Pacific Coast League farm club. He still can't throw, but reportedly is hitting well in practice . . . Jeff Carter of San Rafael, the Voice of Candlestick, is available for speaking engagements scheduled by the late Russ Hodges of Mill Valley.

Allan B. Murray's Boosters Club is sold out for its Montreal-New York-Philadelphia trip next month with 154 fans booked . . . The popular Boosters Club attracts about 90 fans to its bimonthly dinner meetings at Rubini's in Fairfax . . . Next Wednesday the Giants' Jerry Johnson, described by some as the best relief pitcher in baseball, will be the featured guest along with Nate Thurmond of the Warriors and a "special guest," according to Murray . . . Newest members of the Boosters Club are former State Sen. Jack McCarthy and former Marin District Attorney Roger Garety, two good sports . . .

Other Boosters trips this year, according to Murray, are to Los Angeles July 9-11, St. Louis-Chicago Aug. 3-8 and Houston-Cincinnati Sept. 20-26. . . Murray advises his Boosters to bring along their boxing gloves on the L.A. weekender because those Dodger fans are tough. "I'm a different kind of fighter," he says, "I'm taking my track shoes."

Taddeucci noted that the Giants indeed are a "home team" with no fewer than 16 players, two-thirds of the roster, residing in the Bay Area. Pitcher Frank Reberger of Novato is the only Marinite. Alan Gallagher is the only native born San Franciscan. The other Giants who live in the Bay Area the year-'round are Juan Marichal, who recently purchased a home site in fashionable Woodside Hills, Gaylord Perry, Ron Bryant, Jerry Johnson, Rich Robertson, Russ Gibson, Willie McCovey, Hal Lanier, Chris Speier, Bob Heise, Willie Mays, Ken Henderson, Bobby Bonds and Frank Johnson.

Return From Dodgerland With Two Out Of Three

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The crowd came out expecting to see Willie Mays set another of his many records Thursday night but the great San Francisco Giants outfielder ran into an outstanding pitching performance by Don Sutton.

Sutton hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-1 victory for only their second win this season over the Giants. And it was a critical victory for Sutton who went into the game with a 1-5 record.

But the soft-spoken righthander proved equal to the task and delighted the throng by striking out Mays the first three times he faced him. The first time Sutton fanned Mays in the first inning it raised him to the 1,000 strikeout plateau in his major league career.

"You know that Mays is a super star so just getting him out is a thrill," Sutton said. "He's a great one and he's hit a lot off me.

"When I was a kid playing Little League baseball I would dream of striking out a great star like Mays three times. But once reality struck me, I had no such thoughts."

Mays went into the game with 1,949 runs scored in his lengthy career, putting him in a tie with Stan Musial for the National League record. But the 20-year star of the majors never got on base in four times at bat.

Sutton, whose only previous win was a shutout against Atlanta, appeared to be heading for a similar effort against the Giants for six innings. But in the seventh, catcher Dick Dietz slammed a solo homer into the left field seats.

"Dietz hit a bad pitch," Sutton said. "I hung a curve waist high."

Sutton, who normally alternates his curve with a fast ball, said he went to his slider early in the game because he didn't feel he had a good curve ball.

Other than the home run ball, he gave up only three singles and did not walk a man while striking out eight.

"Control was responsible more than anything else," he said. "I moved the ball around, showing it to them in one place and throwing it another. It's hard to explain when a pitcher is going to have a good game. You can go out there feeling fine and get bombed. I threw very few pitches where I wanted them when I was warming up."

Manager Walt Alston agreed that control was the major factor in Sutton's win. Alston said he had seen Sutton throw harder but he made very few bad pitches.

The Dodgers got to San Francisco starter Ron Bryant for two runs in the first inning, one of them unearned, and that proved to be all they needed.

Maury Wills led off with a walk, an error and a walk to Wes Parker loaded the bases with one out. Then Richie Allen stroked a single to centerfield toscore Wills and Willie Davis, who later singled to stretch his hitting streak to 19 games.

The Dodgers matched San Francisco's homer with a four-bagger by Bill Sudakis in the sixth inning when they were leading 4-0. It came off reliever John Cumberland.

Bryant had gone into the game with a mark of 5-1 and a string of three straight wins. But he lasted only four innings to take the loss.

The Giants headed home where they meet Montreal tonight with Steve Stone, 3-2, opposing the Expos' Steve Renko, 4-3.

Rain Washes Out 3 Tournament Games

For the first time in its eight year history, the Redwood High School Tournament of Champions saw rain yesterday. A steady drizzle turned to a downpour in late afternoon and wiped out three of four first round games.

In the opener, Kennedy of Fremont defeated Richmond by virtue of a tournament rule that was imposed when the teams played out their time limit tied to 1-1 after nine innings. The Titans outhit the defending champion Oilers, 6-3, on which basis they were awarded the victory.

As a result of the rain, the entire schedule for the three-day tourney has been moved up one day; with semi-finals tomorrow and finals on Memorial Day. Today the rest of the first round will be completed, with Ignacio Valley vs. Sunset at 4 p.m., Rancho Cotate vs. Moreau at 6 and Castlemont vs. Marin Catholic at 8.

Senior pitcher Dennis DeBaar tied a tournament record for Kennedy with 16 strikeouts as he went all nine innings and was credited with the victory. His opponent, Miles Brantson, also went the distance, quite an accomplishment considering he is only a freshman!

Backup QB, Not Kicker, Says Blanda

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—George Blanda, pro football's senior citizen, said Thursday he will keep on playing as long as "I'm a backup quarterback."

"I would never stay on a club as just a kicker," said the 43-year-old signal calling marvel in an interview with Bill Mulflur, executive sports editor for the Oregon Journal.

Blanda said in the interview he doesn't get his kicks out of kicking, even though he has booted 190 consecutive extra points and appeared in 154 consecutive games since leaving the NFL to join the AFL in its beginning in 1960.

Other than a dissertation about the kicking end of football, Blanda said, "I think it's wrong when athletes make more money than the president of the United States. It's that way in basketball and baseball but not in football, although it would have become that way if it hadn't been for the merger. I signed with the Chicago Bears as a 12th round draft choice out of the University of Kentucky for $6,000.

"Football isn't complicated, the television announcers like to make it sound that way. Football is a game of block, tackle, desire and discipline."

Blanda was in Portland for an exhibition golf match. He has a six handicap.

It Could Be Record Run In Tomorrow's Indy 500

ij Sports

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—one of the most competitive 500-mile speedway auto races in years loomed today with at least a half dozen hot-shot drivers battling for the million-dollar jackpot.

Barring adverse weather conditions and major accidents which slow the pace of the field, Saturday's winner was expected to average at least a record 160 miles per hour for the distance—possibly faster.

The forecast called for partly cloudy to cloudy skies with temperatures climbing into the 70s. Possible rain was expected to hold off until evening.

Unlike last year, when Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., ran away from the field to become the eighth pole sitter to roll into victory lane, the 200-lap chase was expected to be a torrid dual between the three British McLaren machines and the rest of the field headed by Unser, his brother, Bobby, and A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex.

The three basically identical McLarens are driven by pole sitter Peter Revson, New York City; Mark Donohue, Media, Pa., who starts next to Revson in the first row, and New Zealand's Denis Hulme, the fourth fastest qualifier who starts on the inside of the second row.

Their machines are powered by four-cylinder Offenhausers, an engine that churned the four fastest cars in qualifications and which has an 18-15 advantage over the eight-cylinder Fords among the 33 starters.

Al Unser led 190 of the 200 laps last year, including the last 95, but no such singular superiority was expected this time—especially with the three McLarens up front.

However, many railbirds figured it will be the McLarens against the field, with Donohue perhaps the driver to beat. The Brown University alumnus with an engineering degree dominated practice through most of the month, only to lose the pole spot to Revson when a handling problem in his car cropped up on the first day of the time trials nearly two weeks ago.

The correction has been made and Donohue's machine was ready to go, as were those of the other front runners.

Bobby Unser was starting on the outside of the front row while brothers Al and Foyt, shooting for a record fourth "500" victory, were in the second row. In the third row were such chargers as Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., and Mario Andretti, Nazarath, Pa., the winner two years ago.

Some predicted the winner will come from the first nine starters, but the three-hour chase provides so many intangibles, such as mechanical breakdowns and accidents, that virtually anything was possible.

Ruby, in the lineup for the 12th time, charged from 25th position to take the lead last year before his machine caught fire and he was eliminated.

Four years ago Parnelli Jones in a turbocar led 171 laps and was in front by nearly 60 seconds when a $6 ball bearing went sour near the finish and Foyt got the checkered flag as the winner.

A year later a similar fate hit Leonard, also within sight of victory in another turbocar.

Bobby Unser won then, taking the final lead with just nine laps to go.

Bobby Unser said flatly it's McLaren against the field this year.

"They've got such an advantage speed-wise and handling-wise, there's no doubt they're faster than the other cars," he said. "Thirty of us will be underdogs this year."

Race strategy, however, will hold the ultimate answer to the winner.

"If a couple of us can keep the pressure on, maybe we can force the McLarens to run a race that is too hard on their machines," Leonard said.

The rules still call for three mandatory pit stops to take on fuel, and pit strategy plays a vital part in the outcome of the race.

They talked about race strategy today in Gasoline Alley where seasoned mechanics put the final touches on their finely tuned machines, but it was obvious those hoping to challenge for victory will have to run among or close to the leaders.

Chief Steward Harlan Fengler gave the starters their final instructions at today's traditional drivers meeting, the last ceremonious function before Saturday's noon (EDT) flying start of the race.

The race will be shown on ABC television on delayed basis from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. tomorrow, Pacific time, about eight hours after the expected end of the race.

More Than 300 Runners Expected For Marathon

More than 300 runners from 20 states are expected to compete tomorrow in the second annual Golden Gate Marathon, a 26-mile, 385-yard endurance test that will start at Paradise Park on the Tiburon Peninsula and end at the San Francisco Marina.

The event will start at 7:30 a.m. and follow a course through Tiburon, Belvedere, Mill Valley, Sausalito, across the Golden Gate Bridge, through portions of the Presidic and finally to the Marina.

It is co-sponsored by the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union and the Golden Gate Marathon Committee.

A. L. PLAYOFF PREVIEW?

A's Open Series In Boston

BOSTON (UPI)—A weekend series that the long-shot bettors say could be a preview of next fall's American League playoffs opens at Fenway Park tonight and the opening game pitching choices are the hottest in the business.

Dick Williams will celebrate his return to Fenway Park by throwing Vida Blue (10-1) at the Red Sox team he managed until he was canned late in the 1969 season.

Eddie Kasko, Williams' replacement as manager of the Red Sox, will counter with his hottest pitcher, unbeaten Sonny Siebert (8-0) in what would likely be the matchup if the teams were opening in the final clash for the pennant.

The Red Sox and Athletics, respective leaders of the two American League divisions, will be colliding for the first time this season and Oakland will be throwing the book at Boston with Chuck Dobson and Jim "Catfish" Hunter following the spectacular Blue to the mound on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The three have won 21 straight decisions.

Tomorrow's game in Boston will be televised by KCRA (Channel 3, Sacramento) beginning at 11 a.m.

The Red Sox, indicating the pressure on the three-game set, finally decided to scramble their batting order after earning a split with the lowly Washington Senators on the strength of a 6-2 victory Thursday afternoon.

Kasko indicated he would return slumping veteran Luis Aparicio to shortstop after a one-game bench tour but would probably use hot-hitting rookie second baseman Doug Griffin in the leadoff spot Aparicio had occupied for weeks.

Luis, with one hit in his last 43 trips, will bat first, second, seventh or eighth. The speculation was that Griffin would be leading off with Luis second, Reggie Smith third and Carl Yastrzemski dropping into the cleanup spot previously occupied by Rico Petrocelli.

Kasko hoped to have Yastrzemski available for the game after removing him early for a rest on Thursday. Duane Josephson was due back behind the plate after missing two games with a wrenched shoulder.

ALL-STAR GAME

Lew's Wedding Night On Court

HOUSTON (UPI)—Lew Alcindor will spend his wedding night playing basketball.

Alcindor, the 7-3 center of the NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks, planned to get married today in Washington and then fly to Houston for the first meeting of the all stars from the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association.

The players arranged the game to fatten their pension funds and to help the Whitney Young Foundation and they consider it a real test of the relative strengths of the two leagues.

Oscar Robertson, a teammate of Alcindor on the Bucks, revealed Alcindor's hitherto secret wedding in the locker room before the first NBA practice Thursday. Then Robertson said:

"He's giving up his honeymoon. That's how much he thinks of the game."

The game, starting at 7:30 p.m. CDT, will be played before a token crowd of about 15,000 in the cavernous Astrodome, but it will be seen by about 20 million over 197 television stations, the largest network for a pro basketball game in prime time in history. The old record was 189 stations.

(Although the game will be played at 5:30 p.m. PDT, it won't be brought to the Bay Area until later, on delayed television. Channel 3 will have it at 8:30 p.m. and Channel 2 at 11 p.m.)

NBA coach Bill Russell said he was not going to announce his starting lineup until shortly before tipoff, but the best guess was Alcindor, Robertson, one of the game's organizers; Elvin Hayes of San Diego, a former University of Houston star; John Havlicek, whom Russell played with and coached on the Celtics; and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers.

ABA coach Larry Brown said he would start former NBA players Rick Barry of New York and Zelmo Beaty of Utah along with Willie Wise of Utah, Charlie Scott of Virginia and Larry Jones of Florida.

The ABA reserves are most valuable player Mel Daniels and Roger Brown of Indiana, Don Freeman and Steve Jones of Texas, Bill Melchionni of New York and John Brisker of Pittsburgh.

Russell's bench consists of Earl Monroe of Baltimore, Walt Frazier and Dave Debusschere of New York, Dave Bing of Detroit, Lou Hudson of Atlanta and Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

"You don't have to be a genius to coach this team, but I am so I will," Russell said. "I'm gonna tell them only one thing and that is they have to make one pass each during the game. Seriously, I consider this one of the real sincere compliments of my life to coach this team."

Russell, a player or coach on 11 world championship Boston teams, said he was going to play all his players, but he intended to win big if he could.

"We're going to beat them as bad as we can out of respect...respect to the ABA,," Russell said. "It wouldn't be respectful to beat them only 20 points if we could beat them 50. It would not be fair and they would not appreciate it."

The first half of the game will be played under NBA rules with the NBA ball and the 24-second clock. The last half will be with the ABA red, white and blue ball, the 30-second ABA clock and the three-point rule for field goals from more than than 25 feet.

Jones, the ABA Player Association president, said the colored ball handles different because the painted leather does not absorb perspiration and does not breathe. Someone asked Russell if his team would go for the new three-point shots in the second half.

"Our guys can shoot from out there," Russell said. "They might not be able to breathe from out there, but they can shoot."

The ABA players association took a full page advertisement in both daily newspapers and printed an open letter to the NBA players saying the NBA was overrated and was going to lose.

They showed a copy to Russell and invited him to post it on the dressng room bulletin board for his players to read.

"My guys can't read," Russell said. "They been on scholarships since the third grade."

2 Pitchers Have 'Reborn' Feeling

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Chris Zachary and Tom Kelley have that reborn feeling today.

Zachary, back in a starting rotation for the first time in five years, pitched a two-hitter Thursday night as the St. Louis Cardinals stretched their National League Eastern Division lead to a full game with a 10-0 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

And Kelley, an American League castoff who twice quit baseball, tossed a four-hitter to help the Atlanta Braves defeat the Montreal Expos 4-1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the San Francisco Giants 5-1 in the only other NL games.

Zachary, a 27-year-old righthander obtained from Kansas City last year, allowed only a double to rival pitcher Ferguson Jenkins in the third inning and a sixth inning single by Chris Cannizzaro in recording his second victory against one loss.

He was backed by a 16-hit St. Louis attack, including three by Lou Brock, who drove in three runs and extended his hitting streak to 23 games.

"The last time I was in the starting rotation in the majors was with Houston in the last half of the 1966 season," said Zachary. "I was 3-5 but pitching better than that. The only time I've ever had any success in the majors was in the starting rotation. I've never done well as a reliever. I just hope I can stay in the starting rotation."

Kelley, backed by Henry Aaron's 607th career Homer and Sonny Jackson's two-run single, scattered three singles and a double in recording his first National League victory.

Kelley, who pitched for Cleveland in 1966 and returned to baseball after undergoing back surgery in 1968, claims he regained his major league form pitching winter ball in Puerto Rico this year.

Robert Clemente and Manny Sanguillen contributed home runs and Dock Ellis pitched one-hit ball for the last five innings for his fourth straight victory as Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati.

Jim Merritt, a 20-game winner last season, was racked for four runs in the first two innings as he absorbed his seventh loss without a victory this year.

A WELL GUARDED HOLE

Golfers at Hidden Hills Country Club in Jacksonville, Fla., will have something besides sand traps to worry about in the future. An 11-foot alligator, which had been dwelling in a nearby pond and disturbing residents, was transferred to a pond on the golf course, where, presumably, he will be less dangerous. State game and fish officer Robert Brantley helped the reluctant gator move in.

Redwood Crew Takes Title

Redwood High School won the lightweight crew championship of the Bay Area yesterday, defeating Skyline High of Oakland in a two-team race on Oakland's Lake Merritt.

The Redwood team, composed of John Broderick, Steve Barbour, Max Agajan, Woody Buckner and David Kimelman, edged the Skyline lighweights by three quarters of a length over the 1,300 meter course. The winning time of five minutes, 18 seconds was considered fast under the bad weather conditions.

Redwood thus closed out its first crew season with a 4-1 record.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Even Superstars Have Bad Days

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some days even the superstars look like Little Leaguers.

That was the case Thursday with Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins, two of the top players in the American League.

Robinson dropped a routine fly ball in the second inning of a game with the Cleveland Indians, allowing two runs to score and paving the way for a 10-5 Orioles' defeat.

Oliva didn't do anything quite as embarrassing, but he did fail to come up with Roberto Pena's line single to right field in the eighth inning, letting the ball get by him for a bases-clearing triple which gave the Kansas City Royals a 5-3 victory.

In both instances the players thought they had the play sized up correctly.

Robinson called second baseman Dave Johnson off a soft fly hit to right by Ray Fosse with two runners aboard but failed to hold on to the ball as both runners crossed the plate.

Robinson's error keyed a three-run inning and gave the Indians a 4-0 lead. The Orioles bounced back to tie the score in the fifth but Ted Uhlaender delivered a two-run single in the sixth to give the Indians a lead they never relinquished. Uhlaender drove in four runs in the game while Boog Powell cracked his eighth homer of the year for Baltimore.

Oliva was victimized by the outfield grass which caused the ball Pena hit to bounce away from the charging rightfielder. With the bases loaded in the eighth and the Brewers trailing 3-2, pinch-hitter Pena hit what appeared to be a single to right and Oliva rushed in hoping to make a play at the plate on Tommy Harper, who was trying to score from second base with the tie-breaking run.

But the ball took a bad hop over Oliva's glove and went for a triple as three runs scored.

"I charged the ball," said Oliva. "It was right in front of me. But then it hit the grass and scooted off to the side. If I get it, the man from second can't score and the game is still tied 3-3."

In the only other AL action, Detroit edged New York 4-3 and Boston defeated Washington, 62.

Willie Horton hit his 10th homer of the year and singled home another run during a three-run sixth inning as the Tigers moved to within 1 1-2 games of second-place Baltimore in the East. Run-scoring singles by Al Kaline, Horton and Bill Freehan in the sixth pinned Fritz Peterson with his fourth loss and helped Mickey Lolich to his eighth victory.

Winning pitcher Gary Peters cracked a two-run single and Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli homered to pace Boston's triumph.

Bill Lee of Terra Linda pitched three-hit relief in the final 3⅓ innings for his second save. The Red Sox now lead Baltimore by three games in the east.

No Decision Yet For Andros

PENDLETON, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State football coach Dee Andros says he is waiting for Oalahoma to make "the next move" regarding the vacant athletic director's post there.

A former Sooner star, Andros flew here Thursday from Norman, Okla., where he visited with Oklahoma officials.

He said Oklahoma was talking with at least two other candidates for the job and a final decision probably would be made next week.

Ironic Twist In Walker Cup Victory

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) —There was an ironic twist to Britain's 13-11 victory over the United States Thursday in the 23rd Walker Cup amateur golf match.

The two men —Roddy Carr and Hugh Stuart —who did most to achieve the victory were rated extremely lucky to be selected.

It was lucky for Britain, winners for only the second time, that they were. Carr and Stuart helped contribute six and one half points of the total Britain gained from 12 victories and two halve matches. The United States won 10, plus the two halved.

Carr, 20-year old son of former British Captain Joe Carr, wound up the only man on either side to remain undefeated in four matches.

Stuart, a 28-year-old insurance inspector from Ayr, Scotland, was chosen for only three matches and emerged victorious each time.

With his achievement, young Carr at last emerged from the shadow of his father's past triumphs. After three victories and a half in his first Walker Cup he is no longer just "the son of Joe Carr."

Carr sank a 33-foot putt on the 18th green to defeat Jim Simons of Butler, Pa., by two holes Thursday.

Simons, 21 year old youngster of the U.S. squad, lost both matches in his first Walker Cup and two other American newcomers also failed to impress on their debuts. They were Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta and John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex.

But the undoubted success of the U.S. team was dapper Tom Kite, a 21-year-old student at the University of Texas. Only once in four outings on the 6,951 yard, par 72 course was he on the losing side.

MEMPHIS GOLF

Ziegler's Act Tough To Follow

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Larry Ziegler needs an encore.

But after firing a near record 62 over the par 70 Colonial Country Club course to take the first day lead in the 14th annual Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, he's a tough act to follow.

Ziegler, 31, from Terre Dulac, Mo., said the round, which included six birdies and an eagle, was his best since he won the 1969 Michigan Classic and the lowest round he has had. He joined the PGA tour in 1966.

It fell a stroke short of the record 61 touring pro Steve Reid fired during the 1969 Memphis Open, which was renamed the Danny Thomas event a year ago.

Ziegler started early and finished the course just after noon.

The remainder of the field seeking the top prize of $35,000 chased him to no avail through an intermittent rain.

Veteran Frank Beard came closest, but rested two strokes back with a six-under par 64. Lee Trevino and Chi Chi Rodriquez were paired at 66, four strokes off the pace, and defending champ Dave Hill, who said he was tired, was back in the pack at 71.

After getting to the clubhouse, the blond Ziegler explained that he only came to Memphis this year "to give this course one more whack."

He said in four previous trips he had been on the road again after two days, after playing poorly and never completing 27 holes.

"I had bad elbows, bad knees, anything you want to think of," he said.

"I've done so poorly in Memphis that I almost missed this year, but decided to give it one more try, since the course will be torn up after this year," Ziegler said.

Colonial Country Club, scene of the tournament since it began in 1958, is being vacated in its present location, which has become surrounded by homes and businesses, and moved to a more rural location.

Ziegler was clearly the master of the course in first round play Thursday.

He started on the back nine—the toughest with a par of 36—and shaved five strokes off par with three birdies and an eagle on the 500 yard 16th hole, sinking a putt from 25 feet out.

He picked up three more birdies on the front. Ziegler used only 27 putts for the entire round. He had nine one-putts and no three-putts.

Hill, who won here in 1967, 1969 and again last year, said the rain that dampened the grounds from noon on played havoc with his iron game. He added, "I'm just downright tired."

San Rafael's Decker Returns To The Cubs

Joe Decker, a righthander who earned his prep stardom at Petaluma High School, has been called back to the major league by the Chicago Cubs.

Decker's mother, Mrs. William F. Royce of San Rafael, said this morning that he telephoned her last night from Tacoma where he has been pitching for the Cubs' Pacific Coast League farm club.

Decker, who had compiled a 5-0 record with a 1.77 earned run average for Tacoma, left for Pittsburgh last night to join the Cubs, according to his mother. The Cubs are in Pittsburgh for a four-game series. Decker pitched for the Chicago team last year.

Giants At Candlestick For Series With Expos

JIM GILMARTIN

Giant Fans Already Talk World Series

Some notes gleaned after a visit to Candlestick Park yesterday as a warmup for tonight's opening homestand for those Cinderella Giants . . .

The ticket office already is besieged by requests about playoffs and, yes, even World Series ducats. Ticket manager Peter Hoffman says persons purchasing season tickets now would be eligible for post-season tickets . . . The first escalator that would eliminate the strains of Cardiac Hill, scene of so many heart attacks, should be in operation by Aug. 15 . . . By World Series time, if the Giants make the grade, the old ball orchard, now under renovation, hopefully will accommodate 40,000 persons.

The Giants apparently are a bunch of hams, to wit: Through last night's game in Los Angeles they have won seven out of eight televised games, including two exhibition contests . . . There's a write-in campaign to get shortstop Chris Speier, the dazzling rookie, on the All-Star team. The ballots were printed before the season began and no one expected Chris to be the sensation he is . . . Incidentally, Radio KSFO has put together a tape recording the several sensational plays by Speier who along with unsung second baseman Tito Fuentes is largely responsible for the team's fantastic early season success.

Another reason for the Giants' success at the home gate this season is the work of Garry Schumacher, Art Santo Domingo and John Taddeucci of the public relations department who got players out in force on the banquet circuit last winter to arouse interest . . . Schumacher, by the way, reminded me that he is in his 50th year of organized baseball as a reporter first and finally as publicity director for Horace Stoneham. Good old Garry is the inventor of the yearbook, by the way.

Jim Ray Hart, who was sent down to Phoenix to work himself out of a shoulder injury, isn't even playing for the Pacific Coast League farm club. He still can't throw, but reportedly is hitting well in practice . . . Jeff Carter of San Rafael, the Voice of Candlestick, is available for speaking engagements scheduled by the late Russ Hodges of Mill Valley.

Allan B. Murray's Boosters Club is sold out for its Montreal-New York-Philadelphia trip next month with 154 fans booked . . . The popular Boosters Club attracts about 90 fans to its bimonthly dinner meetings at Rubini's in Fairfax . . . Next Wednesday the Giants' Jerry Johnson, described by some as the best relief pitcher in baseball, will be the featured guest along with Nate Thurmond of the Warriors and a "special guest," according to Murray . . . Newest members of the Boosters Club are former State Sen. Jack McCarthy and former Marin District Attorney Roger Garety, two good sports . . .

Other Boosters trips this year, according to Murray, are to Los Angeles July 9-11, St. Louis-Chicago Aug. 3-8 and Houston-Cincinnati Sept. 20-26. . . Murray advises his Boosters to bring along their boxing gloves on the L.A. weekender because those Dodger fans are tough. "I'm a different kind of fighter," he says, "I'm taking my track shoes."

Taddeucci noted that the Giants indeed are a "home team" with no fewer than 16 players, two-thirds of the roster, residing in the Bay Area. Pitcher Frank Reberger of Novato is the only Marinite. Alan Gallagher is the only native born San Franciscan. The other Giants who live in the Bay Area the year-'round are Juan Marichal, who recently purchased a home site in fashionable Woodside Hills, Gaylord Perry, Ron Bryant, Jerry Johnson, Rich Robertson, Russ Gibson, Willie McCovey, Hal Lanier, Chris Speier, Bob Heise, Willie Mays, Ken Henderson, Bobby Bonds and Frank Johnson.

Return From Dodgerland With Two Out Of Three

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The crowd came out expecting to see Willie Mays set another of his many records Thursday night but the great San Francisco Giants outfielder ran into an outstanding pitching performance by Don Sutton.

Sutton hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-1 victory for only their second win this season over the Giants. And it was a critical victory for Sutton who went into the game with a 1-5 record.

But the soft-spoken righthander proved equal to the task and delighted the throng by striking out Mays the first three times he faced him. The first time Sutton fanned Mays in the first inning it raised him to the 1,000 strikeout plateau in his major league career.

"You know that Mays is a super star so just getting him out is a thrill," Sutton said. "He's a great one and he's hit a lot off me.

"When I was a kid playing Little League baseball I would dream of striking out a great star like Mays three times. But once reality struck me, I had no such thoughts."

Mays went into the game with 1,949 runs scored in his lengthy career, putting him in a tie with Stan Musial for the National League record. But the 20-year star of the majors never got on base in four times at bat.

Sutton, whose only previous win was a shutout against Atlanta, appeared to be heading for a similar effort against the Giants for six innings. But in the seventh, catcher Dick Dietz slammed a solo homer into the left field seats.

"Dietz hit a bad pitch," Sutton said. "I hung a curve waist high."

Sutton, who normally alternates his curve with a fast ball, said he went to his slider early in the game because he didn't feel he had a good curve ball.

Other than the home run ball, he gave up only three singles and did not walk a man while striking out eight.

"Control was responsible more than anything else," he said. "I moved the ball around, showing it to them in one place and throwing it another. It's hard to explain when a pitcher is going to have a good game. You can go out there feeling fine and get bombed. I threw very few pitches where I wanted them when I was warming up."

Manager Walt Alston agreed that control was the major factor in Sutton's win. Alston said he had seen Sutton throw harder but he made very few bad pitches.

The Dodgers got to San Francisco starter Ron Bryant for two runs in the first inning, one of them unearned, and that proved to be all they needed.

Maury Wills led off with a walk, an error and a walk to Wes Parker loaded the bases with one out. Then Richie Allen stroked a single to centerfield toscore Wills and Willie Davis, who later singled to stretch his hitting streak to 19 games.

The Dodgers matched San Francisco's homer with a four-bagger by Bill Sudakis in the sixth inning when they were leading 4-0. It came off reliever John Cumberland.

Bryant had gone into the game with a mark of 5-1 and a string of three straight wins. But he lasted only four innings to take the loss.

The Giants headed home where they meet Montreal tonight with Steve Stone, 3-2, opposing the Expos' Steve Renko, 4-3.

Rain Washes Out 3 Tournament Games

For the first time in its eight year history, the Redwood High School Tournament of Champions saw rain yesterday. A steady drizzle turned to a downpour in late afternoon and wiped out three of four first round games.

In the opener, Kennedy of Fremont defeated Richmond by virtue of a tournament rule that was imposed when the teams played out their time limit tied to 1-1 after nine innings. The Titans outhit the defending champion Oilers, 6-3, on which basis they were awarded the victory.

As a result of the rain, the entire schedule for the three-day tourney has been moved up one day; with semi-finals tomorrow and finals on Memorial Day. Today the rest of the first round will be completed, with Ignacio Valley vs. Sunset at 4 p.m., Rancho Cotate vs. Moreau at 6 and Castlemont vs. Marin Catholic at 8.

Senior pitcher Dennis DeBaar tied a tournament record for Kennedy with 16 strikeouts as he went all nine innings and was credited with the victory. His opponent, Miles Brantson, also went the distance, quite an accomplishment considering he is only a freshman!

Backup QB, Not Kicker, Says Blanda

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—George Blanda, pro football's senior citizen, said Thursday he will keep on playing as long as "I'm a backup quarterback."

"I would never stay on a club as just a kicker," said the 43-year-old signal calling marvel in an interview with Bill Mulflur, executive sports editor for the Oregon Journal.

Blanda said in the interview he doesn't get his kicks out of kicking, even though he has booted 190 consecutive extra points and appeared in 154 consecutive games since leaving the NFL to join the AFL in its beginning in 1960.

Other than a dissertation about the kicking end of football, Blanda said, "I think it's wrong when athletes make more money than the president of the United States. It's that way in basketball and baseball but not in football, although it would have become that way if it hadn't been for the merger. I signed with the Chicago Bears as a 12th round draft choice out of the University of Kentucky for $6,000.

"Football isn't complicated, the television announcers like to make it sound that way. Football is a game of block, tackle, desire and discipline."

Blanda was in Portland for an exhibition golf match. He has a six handicap.

It Could Be Record Run In Tomorrow's Indy 500

Sports

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—one of the most competitive 500-mile speedway auto races in years loomed today with at least a half dozen hot-shot drivers battling for the million-dollar jackpot.

Barring adverse weather conditions and major accidents which slow the pace of the field, Saturday's winner was expected to average at least a record 160 miles per hour for the distance—possibly faster.

The forecast called for partly cloudy to cloudy skies with temperatures climbing into the 70s. Possible rain was expected to hold off until evening.

Unlike last year, when Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., ran away from the field to become the eighth pole sitter to roll into victory lane, the 200-lap chase was expected to be a torrid dual between the three British McLaren machines and the rest of the field headed by Unser, his brother, Bobby, and A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex.

The three basically identical McLarens are driven by pole sitter Peter Revson, New York City; Mark Donohue, Media, Pa., who starts next to Revson in the first row, and New Zealand's Denis Hulme, the fourth fastest qualifier who starts on the inside of the second row.

Their machines are powered by four-cylinder Offenhausers, an engine that churned the four fastest cars in qualifications and which has an 18-15 advantage over the eight-cylinder Fords among the 33 starters.

Al Unser led 190 of the 200 laps last year, including the last 95, but no such singular superiority was expected this time—especially with the three McLarens up front.

However, many railbirds figured it will be the McLarens against the field, with Donohue perhaps the driver to beat. The Brown University alumnus with an engineering degree dominated practice through most of the month, only to lose the pole spot to Revson when a handling problem in his car cropped up on the first day of the time trials nearly two weeks ago.

The correction has been made and Donohue's machine was ready to go, as were those of the other front runners.

Bobby Unser was starting on the outside of the front row while brothers Al and Foyt, shooting for a record fourth "500" victory, were in the second row. In the third row were such chargers as Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., and Mario Andretti, Nazarath, Pa., the winner two years ago.

Some predicted the winner will come from the first nine starters, but the three-hour chase provides so many intangibles, such as mechanical breakdowns and accidents, that virtually anything was possible.

Ruby, in the lineup for the 12th time, charged from 25th position to take the lead last year before his machine caught fire and he was eliminated.

Four years ago Parnelli Jones in a turbocar led 171 laps and was in front by nearly 60 seconds when a $6 ball bearing went sour near the finish and Foyt got the checkered flag as the winner.

A year later a similar fate hit Leonard, also within sight of victory in another turbocar. Bobby Unser won then, taking the final lead with just nine laps to go.

Bobby Unser said flatly it's McLaren against the field this year.

"They've got such an advantage speed-wise and handling-wise, there's no doubt they're faster than the other cars," he said. "Thirty of us will be underdogs this year."

Race strategy, however, will hold the ultimate answer to the winner.

"If a couple of us can keep the pressure on, maybe we can force the McLarens to run a race that is too hard on their machines," Leonard said.

The rules still call for three mandatory pit stops to take on fuel, and pit strategy plays a vital part in the outcome of the race.

They talked about race strategy today in Gasoline Alley where seasoned mechanics put the final touches on their finely tuned machines, but it was obvious those hoping to challenge for victory will have to run among or close to the leaders.

Chief Steward Harlan Fengler gave the starters their final instructions at today's traditional drivers meeting, the last ceremonious function before Saturday's noon (EDT) flying start of the race.

The race will be shown on ABC television on delayed basis from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. tomorrow, Pacific time, about eight hours after the expected end of the race.

More Than 300 Runners Expected For Marathon

More than 300 runners from 20 states are expected to compete tomorrow in the second annual Golden Gate Marathon, a 26-mile, 385-yard endurance test that will start at Paradise Park on the Tiburon Peninsula and end at the San Francisco Marina.

The event will start at 7:30 a.m. and follow a course through Tiburon, Belvedere, Mill Valley, Sausalito, across the Golden Gate Bridge, through portions of the Presidic and finally to the Marina.

It is co-sponsored by the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union and the Golden Gate Marathon Committee.

A. L. PLAYOFF PREVIEW?

A's Open Series In Boston

BOSTON (UPI)—A weekend series that the long-shot bettors say could be a preview of next fall's American League playoffs opens at Fenway Park tonight and the opening game pitching choices are the hottest in the business.

Dick Williams will celebrate his return to Fenway Park by throwing Vida Blue (10-1) at the Red Sox team he managed until he was canned late in the 1969 season.

Eddie Kasko, Williams' replacement as manager of the Red Sox, will counter with his hottest pitcher, unbeaten Sonny Siebert (8-0) in what would likely be the matchup if the teams were opening in the final clash for the pennant.

The Red Sox and Athletics, respective leaders of the two American League divisions, will be colliding for the first time this season and Oakland will be throwing the book at Boston with Chuck Dobson and Jim "Catfish" Hunter following the spectacular Blue to the mound on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The three have won 21 straight decisions.

Tomorrow's game in Boston will be televised by KCRA (Channel 3, Sacramento) beginning at 11 a.m.

The Red Sox, indicating the pressure on the three-game set, finally decided to scramble their batting order after earning a split with the lowly Washington Senators on the strength of a 6-2 victory Thursday afternoon.

Kasko indicated he would return slumping veteran Luis Aparicio to shortstop after a one-game bench tour but would probably use hot-hitting rookie second baseman Doug Griffin in the leadoff spot Aparicio had occupied for weeks.

Luis, with one hit in his last 43 trips, will bat first, second, seventh or eighth. The speculation was that Griffin would be leading off with Luis second, Reggie Smith third and Carl Yastrzemski dropping into the cleanup spot previously occupied by Rico Petrocelli.

Kasko hoped to have Yastrzemski available for the game after removing him early for a rest on Thursday. Duane Josephson was due back behind the plate after missing two games with a wrenched shoulder.

Unprofitable Day Chasing Salmon

By AL GIDDINGS

The other day I met Sam Knoles and Bob Louchenauer for breakfast at the Red Kettle Restaurant in San Rafael. We were going on a salmon trip after having been kept in for the past two weeks because of the winds.

At the Kettle, we discussed the fires at the old Court House and San Rafael Joe's. It's all unbelievable. This week I had taken Sam on an abolone outing, so he filled "Locky" in on how great things had gone. He then proceeded to tell us all that he got eight packages for the freezer from his five abalones! "And," he said, "each package contains a meal for two!" That's for him and his wife. After some pondering, we finally figured out how he could get eight packages containing three steaks to the package, and feed two people with each package. For economical reasons, he doesn'g feed his wife!

AT 6 A.M. we were enroute down the Loch Lomand channel. Sam was baiting hooks. I was trying to write. "Locky" was the helmsman.

At 6:35 a.m. we were just passing Lime Point. Only one guy was fishing for bass off the rocks, and he had a fish on! It looked like that old pro, Andy Wurz of Sleepy Hollow. You can find him on a rock out by the Golden Gate almost every low tide morning from now until October.

At 7:40 we were at "B" Buoy near the lightship. Rough trip. Lots of debris in the Gate waters which was picked up by the high tides, then the minus tides take all this junk out through the Gate. It can be a hazard to boats.

IT WAS 7:45. We put those lines out. Fair and calm here — a little shower, and a big colorful rainbow. Beautiful.

At 8 a.m. two of the lines tangled - a 15-minute problem. Locky made a turn too fast!

At 9 a.m. we still had no fish except for one 15-incher on an Andy Reeker spoon. It was properly released. Radio report from other boats were all ni.

At 10 a.m. Sam got a hit — his line broke on the strike. He said it was a new line, only three years old!

AT 10:30 Sam served us smoked fish. He asked me how I liked it. I asked him if it was kingfish. Now he refuses to talk to me!

From 10:30 to 12:30 I had a temporary case of ptomaine poisoning, but was beginning to feel better. Probably the smoked fish! Sam said I was seasick!

At 12:35 some guy named Taylor said he just got a 15-pounder (on the radio), but we had no fish in the box yet. The boats were sure scattered; the radio conversation seemed to be that the only fish taken were from the Pedro Point Area. It was windy, so we decided not to make that run.

WE TRIED Duxbury Reef off Bolinas and "Locky" got a fish. As he landed it, he said, "A nice ling cod for the wife!" It was no ling cod,but it was a hake! I thought this guy's gotta be kidding, so I said nothing. (This yarn will probably cause me to lose my berth on the Lo-Hat, "Locky's" boat). Then Sam and "Locky" caught two black snappers. "Locky" said, "Now everybody has a fish!" I could stand this deceit no longer, so I told "Locky" that his fish was a hake. Incredible! He swore me to secrecy so I can't say much more about this from here on in!

We gave it a go off Rocky Point where all the birds in the county were working (Murres - Anchovy Birds, Commorants and Gulls.) Salmon? nope, but a Kingfish every pass! We headed for the dock skunked!

MARTY MEDIN of Marin called from Yuba City about the shad fishing. He and Pete Valconczi of Pt. Reyes Station went up Monday morning with their families for their usual shad outing on the Yuba River. The water's too high yet! Marty got four Tuesday, and Pete landed just one. Pete got washed off his feet in the high water, losing his rod, reel - the works! A $100 outfit. I hope the new chief of the Marin County Fire Department, Dick Pedroli, realizes that his man Pete may camp there till the river falls so that he can recover that prize rod.

STATISTICALLY speaking, only 11,197 salmon taken by Bay Area party boats during April as compared with a near 30,000 in March. (Those winds make a difference!) And only 150 stripers landed during this windy April by the party boats.

TROUT PLANTS again this week at Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe lakes and Rodeo Lagoon!

'WE'RE NOT MACHINES'

Boyer's Disenchantment Is Not A Sudden Thing

ATLANTA (UPI)—Clete Boyer's disenchantment with the Atlanta Braves was no sudden thing.

Coming to Atlanta wasn't an easy adjustment. Boyer had been a New York Yankee for eight season. In five of those, 1960-64, the Yankees had been American League champions and in two, 1961-62, they had been world champions.

Those were the days of wine and rose. Most ball players, then, dreamed of being a "Yankee" and Boyer was having the time of his life. Like any player will tell you, baseball is really fun when you are winning.

"The Yankees were a first-class organization," Boyer will tell you. "They really knew how to treat you right."

The contrast between the Braves and the Yankees, real or imagined, was evident to Boyer from the day he joined the Atlanta club five seasons ago. And, built on a series of minor irritations, Clete Boyer's disenchantment crested this week when he demanded his release.

"It was really a lot of little things," Boyer insisted. "But it boils down to this: I respect anyone who respects me and when they don't respect me, I don't respect them. It's that simple.

"The feeling has persisted around here that when things aren't going well, management takes the easy way out by blaming the players.

"We're human, not machines. If you do your best, that's all anyone can ask. These people know, or they should know, that if you can't build an organization in four or five years you should know you're moving on.

"You shouldn't try to save your job by blaming the players. After all, a ball player can only do what he can do."

Boyer makes it clear that his dispute with the Braves is with General Manager Paul Richards, not Field Manager Luman Harris.

"As a person, I like to play for Luman because he always lets me alone," Boyer said. "But he never seems to be able to make a decision. Everything is 'ask Paul.'"

Boyer said he has "just been unhappy with the Braves; I don't like their system of baseball," but the incident that triggered Boyer's outburst this week was a curfew, imposed by Harris but which Boyer is convinced was ordered by Richards.

"This is my 16th year of professional baseball and I never had to check in or check out before," Boyer complained. "We win a few games and everybody's happy. Then we lose a few and they get upset.

"One thing I learned a long time ago," Boyer said. "Baseball has a long season. You're going to win some and lose some. All you can do is play your best and not let it worry you.

"I remember the seventh game of the 1962 World Series. We were in the seventh inning and the pressure got to me so bad my knees began to buckle. I told myself then, 'Just do your best, you can do no more.' I beat the pressure then and I haven't let it get to me like that since. The Yankees went on to win that game and the series from the San Francisco Giants.

"There is too much second guessing going on with the braves. Richards takes everything personal and this he shouldn't do."

Actually, it's not just the braves organization that's bugging Clete Boyer. He's getting a divorce from his pretty blonde wife after 16 years of marriage, his car rental business and other investments haven't been going well and, at 34, he's painfully aware that he's approaching the twilight of his baseball career.

"I've really been happy with my career," said Boyer. "I love baseball and I'd like to stay in it.

"But," Boyer concluded rather wistfully, "I really don't know what is going to happen."

Nagel Funeral Today

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI)—Funeral services will be held today for Walter Nagel, former major league pitcher in the early part of the century.

Nagel died Thursday. He was 91.

A Santa Rosa native, he joined the Los Angeles Angels in 1905 and established a record of 14 straight wins. In 1911 he played with Boston and Pittsburgh, but injured his arm and returned to California in 1912.

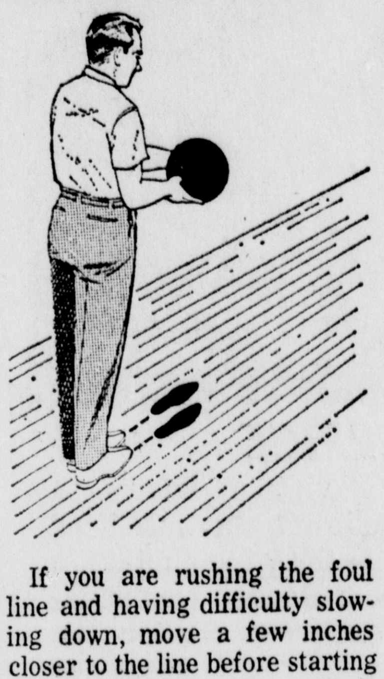
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



If you are rushing the foul line and having difficulty slowing down, move a few inches closer to the line before starting your approach (illustration). This will force you to be cautious (for fear of fouling) and you'll go up slower. Once you become accustomed to the proper rhythm, you can gradually move back to your normal area.

ALL-STAR GAME

Lew's Wedding Night On Court

HOUSTON (UPI)—Lew Alcindor will spend his wedding night playing basketball.

Alcindor, the 7-3 center of the NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks, planned to get married today in Washington and then fly to Houston for the first meeting of the all stars from the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association.

The players arranged the game to fatten their pension funds and to help the Whitney Young Foundation and they consider it a real test of the relative strengths of the two leagues.

Oscar Robertson, a teammate of Alcindor on the Bucks, revealed Alcindor's hitherto secret wedding in the locker room before the first NBA practice Thursday. Then Robertson said:

"He's giving up his honeymoon. That's how much he thinks of the game."

The game, starting at 7:30 p.m. CDT, will be played before a token crowd of about 15,000 in the cavernous Astrodome, but it will be seen by about 20 million over 197 television stations, the largest network for a pro basketball game in prime time in history. The old record was 189 stations.

(Although the game will be played at 5:30 p.m. PDT, it won't be brought to the Bay Area until later, on delayed television. Channel 3 will have it at 8:30 p.m. and Channel 2 at 11 p.m.)

NBA coach Bill Russell said he was not going to announce his starting lineup until shortly before tipoff, but the best guess was Alcindor, Robertson, one of the game's organizers; Elvin Hayes of San Diego, a former University of Houston star; John Havlicek, whom Russell played with and coached on the Celtics; and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers.

ABA coach Larry Brown said he would start former NBA players Rick Barry of New York and Zelmo Beaty of Utah along with Willie Wise of Utah, Charlie Scott of Virginia and Larry Jones of Florida.

The ABA reserves are most valuable player Mel Daniels and Roger Brown of Indiana, Don Freeman and Steve Jones of Texas, Bill Melchionni of New York and John Brisker of Pittsburgh.

Russell's bench consists of Earl Monroe of Baltimore, Walt Frazier and Dave Debusschere of New York, Dave Bing of Detroit, Lou Hudson of Atlanta and Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

"You don't have to be a genius to coach this team, but I am so I will," Russell said. "I'm gonna tell them only one thing and that is they have to make one pass each during the game. Seriously, I consider this one of the real sincere compliments of my life to coach this team."

Russell, a player or coach on 11 world championship Boston teams, said he was going to play all his players, but he intended to win big if he could.

"We're going to beat them as bad as we can out of respect...respect to the ABA,," Russell said. "It wouldn't be respectful to beat them only 20 points if we could beat them 50. It would not be fair and they would not appreciate it."

The first half of the game will be played under NBA rules with the NBA ball and the 24-second clock. The last half will be with the ABA red, white and blue ball, the 30-second ABA clock and the three-point rule for field goals from more than than 25 feet.

Jones, the ABA Player Association president, said the colored ball handles different because the painted leather does not absorb perspiration and does not breathe. Someone asked Russell if his team would go for the new three-point shots in the second half.

"Our guys can shoot from out there," Russell said. "They might not be able to breathe from out there, but they can shoot."

The ABA players association took a full page advertisement in both daily newspapers and printed an open letter to the NBA players saying the NBA was overrated and was going to lose.

They showed a copy to Russell and invited him to post it on the dressng room bulletin board for his players to read.

"My guys can't read," Russell said. "They been on scholarships since the third grade."

2 Pitchers Have 'Reborn' Feeling

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Chris Zachary and Tom Kelley have that reborn feeling today.

Zachary, back in a starting rotation for the first time in five years, pitched a two-hitter Thursday night as the St. Louis Cardinals stretched their National League Eastern Division lead to a full game with a 10-0 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

And Kelley, an American League castoff who twice quit baseball, tossed a four-hitter to help the Atlanta Braves defeat the Montreal Expos 4-1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the San Francisco Giants 5-1 in the only other NL games.

Zachary, a 27-year-old righthander obtained from Kansas City last year, allowed only a double to rival pitcher Ferguson Jenkins in the third inning and a sixth inning single by Chris Cannizzaro in recording his second victory against one loss.

He was backed by a 16-hit St. Louis attack, including three by Lou Brock, who drove in three runs and extended his hitting streak to 23 games.

"The last time I was in the starting rotation in the majors was with Houston in the last half of the 1966 season," said Zachary. "I was 3-5 but pitching better than that. The only time I've ever had any success in the majors was in the starting rotation. I've never done well as a reliever. I just hope I can stay in the starting rotation."

Kelley, backed by Henry Aaron's 607th career Homer and Sonny Jackson's two-run single, scattered three singles and a double in recording his first National League victory.

Kelley, who pitched for Cleveland in 1966 and returned to baseball after undergoing back surgery in 1968, claims he regained his major league form pitching winter ball in Puerto Rico this year.

Robert Clemente and Manny Sanguillen contributed home runs and Dock Ellis pitched one-hit ball for the last five innings for his fourth straight victory as Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati.

Jim Merritt, a 20-game winner last season, was racked for four runs in the first two innings as he absorbed his seventh loss without a victory this year.

A WELL GUARDED HOLE

Golfers at Hidden Hills Country Club in Jacksonville, Fla., will have something besides sand traps to worry about in the future. An 11-foot alligator, which had been dwelling in a nearby pond and disturbing residents, was transferred to a pond on the golf course, where, presumably, he will be less dangerous. State game and fish officer Robert Brantley helped the reluctant gator move in.

Redwood Crew Takes Title

Redwood High School won the lightweight crew championship of the Bay Area yesterday, defeating Skyline High of Oakland in a two-team race on Oakland's Lake Merritt.

The Redwood team, composed of John Broderick, Steve Barbour, Max Agajan, Woody Buckner and David Kimelman, edged the Skyline lighweights by three quarters of a length over the 1,300 meter course. The winning time of five minutes, 18 seconds was considered fast under the bad weather conditions.

Redwood thus closed out its first crew season with a 4-1 record.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Even Superstars Have Bad Days

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some days even the superstars look like Little Leaguers.

That was the case Thursday with Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins, two of the top players in the American League.

Robinson dropped a routine fly ball in the second inning of a game with the Cleveland Indians, allowing two runs to score and paving the way for a 10-5 Orioles' defeat.

Oliva didn't do anything quite as embarrassing, but he did fail to come up with Roberto Pena's line single to right field in the eighth inning, letting the ball get by him for a bases-clearing triple which gave the Kansas City Royals a 5-3 victory.

In both instances the players thought they had the play sized up correctly.

Robinson called second baseman Dave Johnson off a soft fly hit to right by Ray Fosse with two runners aboard but failed to hold on to the ball as both runners crossed the plate.

Robinson's error keyed a three-run inning and gave the Indians a 4-0 lead. The Orioles bounced back to tie the score in the fifth but Ted Uhlaender delivered a two-run single in the sixth to give the Indians a lead they never relinquished. Uhlaender drove in four runs in the game while Boog Powell cracked his eighth homer of the year for Baltimore.

Oliva was victimized by the outfield grass which caused the ball Pena hit to bounce away from the charging rightfielder. With the bases loaded in the eighth and the Brewers trailing 3-2, pinch-hitter Pena hit what appeared to be a single to right and Oliva rushed in hoping to make a play at the plate on Tommy Harper, who was trying to score from second base with the tie-breaking run.

But the ball took a bad hop over Oliva's glove and went for a triple as three runs scored.

"I charged the ball," said Oliva. "It was right in front of me. But then it hit the grass and scooted off to the side. If I get it, the man from second can't score and the game is still tied 3-3."

In the only other AL action, Detroit edged New York 4-3 and Boston defeated Washington, 62.

Willie Horton hit his 10th homer of the year and singled home another run during a three-run sixth inning as the Tigers moved to within 1 1-2 games of second-place Baltimore in the East. Run-scoring singles by Al Kaline, Horton and Bill Freehan in the sixth pinned Fritz Peterson with his fourth loss and helped Mickey Lolich to his eighth victory.

Winning pitcher Gary Peters cracked a two-run single and Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli homered to pace Boston's triumph.

Bill Lee of Terra Linda pitched three-hit relief in the final 3⅓ innings for his second save. The Red Sox now lead Baltimore by three games in the east.

No Decision Yet For Andros

PENDLETON, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State football coach Dee Andros says he is waiting for Oalahoma to make "the next move" regarding the vacant athletic director's post there.

A former Sooner star, Andros flew here Thursday from Norman, Okla., where he visited with Oklahoma officials.

He said Oklahoma was talking with at least two other candidates for the job and a final decision probably would be made next week.

Ironic Twist In Walker Cup Victory

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) —There was an ironic twist to Britain's 13-11 victory over the United States Thursday in the 23rd Walker Cup amateur golf match.

The two men —Roddy Carr and Hugh Stuart —who did most to achieve the victory were rated extremely lucky to be selected.

It was lucky for Britain, winners for only the second time, that they were. Carr and Stuart helped contribute six and one half points of the total Britain gained from 12 victories and two halve matches. The United States won 10, plus the two halved.

Carr, 20-year old son of former British Captain Joe Carr, wound up the only man on either side to remain undefeated in four matches.

Stuart, a 28-year-old insurance inspector from Ayr, Scotland, was chosen for only three matches and emerged victorious each time.

With his achievement, young Carr at last emerged from the shadow of his father's past triumphs. After three victories and a half in his first Walker Cup he is no longer just "the son of Joe Carr."

Carr sank a 33-foot putt on the 18th green to defeat Jim Simons of Butler, Pa., by two holes Thursday.

Simons, 21 year old youngster of the U.S. squad, lost both matches in his first Walker Cup and two other American newcomers also failed to impress on their debuts. They were Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta and John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex.

But the undoubted success of the U.S. team was dapper Tom Kite, a 21-year-old student at the University of Texas. Only once in four outings on the 6,951 yard, par 72 course was he on the losing side.

MEMPHIS GOLF

Ziegler's Act Tough To Follow

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Larry Ziegler needs an encore.

But after firing a near record 62 over the par 70 Colonial Country Club course to take the first day lead in the 14th annual Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, he's a tough act to follow.

Ziegler, 31, from Terre Dulac, Mo., said the round, which included six birdies and an eagle, was his best since he won the 1969 Michigan Classic and the lowest round he has had. He joined the PGA tour in 1966.

It fell a stroke short of the record 61 touring pro Steve Reid fired during the 1969 Memphis Open, which was renamed the Danny Thomas event a year ago.

Ziegler started early and finished the course just after noon.

The remainder of the field seeking the top prize of $35,000 chased him to no avail through an intermittent rain.

Veteran Frank Beard came closest, but rested two strokes back with a six-under par 64. Lee Trevino and Chi Chi Rodriquez were paired at 66, four strokes off the pace, and defending champ Dave Hill, who said he was tired, was back in the pack at 71.

After getting to the clubhouse, the blond Ziegler explained that he only came to Memphis this year "to give this course one more whack."

He said in four previous trips he had been on the road again after two days, after playing poorly and never completing 27 holes.

"I had bad elbows, bad knees, anything you want to think of," he said.

"I've done so poorly in Memphis that I almost missed this year, but decided to give it one more try, since the course will be torn up after this year," Ziegler said.

Colonial Country Club, scene of the tournament since it began in 1958, is being vacated in its present location, which has become surrounded by homes and businesses, and moved to a more rural location.

Ziegler was clearly the master of the course in first round play Thursday.

He started on the back nine—the toughest with a par of 36—and shaved five strokes off par with three birdies and an eagle on the 500 yard 16th hole, sinking a putt from 25 feet out.

He picked up three more birdies on the front. Ziegler used only 27 putts for the entire round. He had nine one-putts and no three-putts.

Hill, who won here in 1967, 1969 and again last year, said the rain that dampened the grounds from noon on played havoc with his iron game. He added, "I'm just downright tired."

San Rafael's Decker Returns To The Cubs

Joe Decker, a righthander who earned his prep stardom at Petaluma High School, has been called back to the major league by the Chicago Cubs.

Decker's mother, Mrs. William F. Royce of San Rafael, said this morning that he telephoned her last night from Tacoma where he has been pitching for the Cubs' Pacific Coast League farm club.

Decker, who had compiled a 5-0 record with a 1.77 earned run average for Tacoma, left for Pittsburgh last night to join the Cubs, according to his mother. The Cubs are in Pittsburgh for a four-game series. Decker pitched for the Chicago team last year.

Query: Price Flux In Municipal Bonds

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Why do different brokers quote such widely varied prices on the same municipal bonds? — R.G.

A. Municipal bonds are sold on the Over-The-Counter market where transactions are subject to negotiation, thus a certain amount of variation in price is bound to occur. Some fluctuation is attributable to whether the broker has an inventory position in the particular bond and what his estimate is of the bond's marketability. Smaller issues from obscure localities could be far harder to market than those of a large city.

Most municipal bonds are issued in series, maturing at different times. It is entirely possible that you were inadvertently quoted prices on different series of the same bond. You might also have been quoted price with or without interest, although if quoted "flat" the broker should have specified.

Again you could have been given an inside quote by one dealer and an outside quote by another. This is similar to the difference between wholesale — dealer to broker — and retail — broker to customer — prices.

Q. I am a retired and disabled veteran. Last April I invested $600 in Allstate Enterprises Stock Fund. I have recently received more money and am wondering whether to buy more shares. What do you advise? — B.R.

A. Since your original purchase of Allstate Enterprises, your investment has appreciated approximately 25 per cent. Because this fund has been established only about one year, there is no way of assessing its long-term performance. For the first three months of 1971, the average for all open-end funds gained 14.1 per cent, while the Dow Jones Industrials scored an 8.9 per cent gain. During the same period, Allstate recorded a 9.7 per cent advance.

Some 90 per cent of the fund's assets, as of December, 1970, were invested in common stocks, the list largely being made up of good quality blue chips. While your present commitment here should be retained for further growth, I favor using the additional capital for purchase of an income issue with gradual growth potential such as: American Brands and Standard Oil of California.

PAYS WORLD RECORD PRICE

Boston broker Laurence Bender paid $5,000 this week for a single bottle of Chateau Lafite wine, 1846 vintage, from the personal wine cellar of Baron Rothschild of France. The bottle, one of only three of that vintage known to exist, was believed purchased for a client during the wine auction in San Francisco. Bender was wide-eyed with excitement after the purchase. Lockheed Aircraft Sets Loss At $86.3 Million For 1970

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Lockheed Aircraft Corporation has reported a net loss of $86.3 million in 1970, or $7.60 a share.

Board chairman Daniel Haughton had estimated early this year that the corporation's after-tax loss for the year would be about $80 million, compared with a 1969 net loss of $32.6 or $2.90 a share.

Sales in 1970 reached a new high of $2.54 billion, the company said, with higher C-5A transport sales primarily responsible for the increase.

Including funded government orders, Lockheed reported a backlog of $4.90 billion at the end of 1970, down from $5.15 billion a year earlier, with more than half representing commercial orders including 144 first-buy and 34 second-buy orders for the TriStar jet.

The Nixon administration has recommended that the government guarantee loans to save Lockheed from financial disaster. The firm fell into difficulties when Rolls-Royce, which supplied the RB211 engines for the TriStar, declared bankruptcy.

"Final solution to all of our difficulties are not yet in hand," Haughton said after a board of directors meeting and completion of the year-end audit, "but the pattern for resolving them is becoming clearer."

"If the U.S. government guarantees additional bank borrowings under legislation that the administration has proposed to Congress, we believe the remaining matters can be resolved satisfactorily.

"On the other hand, insufficient financing for the L-1011 TriStar would force cancellation of the program, and bankruptcy could result," he said.

IT&T Quarter Profit Was Record $1.54 Billion

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. sales and revenues hit a record $1.54 billion the first quarter of this year, according to Board Chairman Harold S. Geneen.

He told the annual stockholders meeting Wednesday that 1970 was the best year in ITT history with consolidated sales and revenues of $6.4 billion, up 12 per cent, and net income of $353 million. Net earnings per common share were $3.17 up 20 per cent.

Geneen urged foreign holders of dollars to use them in the United States to help solve the balance of payments deficit.

Buying U.S. goods, investing in U.S. companies or making direct investments in U.S. businesses would put the capital to work and also create jobs, he suggested.

He said that otherwise, the current money crisis "can lead only to protective tariffs, further isolation and inevitably higher and higher costs in our economy for all consumers and less world competitive ability for U.S. industry."

Recycled Paper Produces Brick

SEATTLE (UPI) —Three Seattle men say they have developed a brick made out of recycled paper which can be manufactured in a pollution-free plant.

King Evers Jr. says that the "Eco-Mat" brick can be sawed, nailed, bolted, screwed, waterproofed, fireproofed and bounded or routed with standard construction techniques.

Evers, who developed it with his father and George Larsen, says it is the first brick made out of fiberized paper, developed by a mechanical process which pulverizes waste paper.

The paper fibers are mixed with adhesives and resistive chemicals and extruded into molds. The mixture is then put under severe pressure.

FISH AND GAME

Unprofitable Day Chasing Salmon

By AL GIDDINGS

The other day I met Sam Knoles and Bob Louchenauer for breakfast at the Red Kettle Restaurant in San Rafael. We were going on a salmon trip after having been kept in for the past two weeks because of the winds.

At the Kettle, we discussed the fires at the old Court House and San Rafael Joe's. It's all unbelievable. This week I had taken Sam on an abolone outing, so he filled "Locky" in on how great things had gone. He then proceeded to tell us all that he got eight packages for the freezer from his five abalones! "And," he said, "each package contains a meal for two!" That's for him and his wife. After some pondering, we finally figured out how he could get eight packages containing three steaks to the package, and feed two people with each package. For economical reasons, he doesn'g feed his wife!

AT 6 A.M. we were enroute down the Loch Lomand channel. Sam was baiting hooks. I was trying to write. "Locky" was the helmsman.

At 6:35 a.m. we were just passing Lime Point. Only one guy was fishing for bass off the rocks, and he had a fish on! It looked like that old pro, Andy Wurz of Sleepy Hollow. You can find him on a rock out by the Golden Gate almost every low tide morning from now until October.

At 7:40 we were at "B" Buoy near the lightship. Rough trip. Lots of debris in the Gate waters which was picked up by the high tides, then the minus tides take all this junk out through the Gate. It can be a hazard to boats.

IT WAS 7:45. We put those lines out. Fair and calm here — a little shower, and a big colorful rainbow. Beautiful.

At 8 a.m. two of the lines tangled - a 15-minute problem. Locky made a turn too fast!

At 9 a.m. we still had no fish except for one 15-incher on an Andy Reeker spoon. It was properly released. Radio report from other boats were all ni.

At 10 a.m. Sam got a hit — his line broke on the strike. He said it was a new line, only three years old!

AT 10:30 Sam served us smoked fish. He asked me how I liked it. I asked him if it was kingfish. Now he refuses to talk to me!

From 10:30 to 12:30 I had a temporary case of ptomaine poisoning, but was beginning to feel better. Probably the smoked fish! Sam said I was seasick!

At 12:35 some guy named Taylor said he just got a 15-pounder (on the radio), but we had no fish in the box yet. The boats were sure scattered; the radio conversation seemed to be that the only fish taken were from the Pedro Point Area. It was windy, so we decided not to make that run.

WE TRIED Duxbury Reef off Bolinas and "Locky" got a fish. As he landed it, he said, "A nice ling cod for the wife!" It was no ling cod,but it was a hake! I thought this guy's gotta be kidding, so I said nothing. (This yarn will probably cause me to lose my berth on the Lo-Hat, "Locky's" boat). Then Sam and "Locky" caught two black snappers. "Locky" said, "Now everybody has a fish!" I could stand this deceit no longer, so I told "Locky" that his fish was a hake. Incredible! He swore me to secrecy so I can't say much more about this from here on in!

We gave it a go off Rocky Point where all the birds in the county were working (Murres - Anchovy Birds, Commorants and Gulls.) Salmon? nope, but a Kingfish every pass! We headed for the dock skunked!

MARTY MEDIN of Marin called from Yuba City about the shad fishing. He and Pete Valconczi of Pt. Reyes Station went up Monday morning with their families for their usual shad outing on the Yuba River. The water's too high yet! Marty got four Tuesday, and Pete landed just one. Pete got washed off his feet in the high water, losing his rod, reel - the works! A $100 outfit. I hope the new chief of the Marin County Fire Department, Dick Pedroli, realizes that his man Pete may camp there till the river falls so that he can recover that prize rod.

STATISTICALLY speaking, only 11,197 salmon taken by Bay Area party boats during April as compared with a near 30,000 in March. (Those winds make a difference!) And only 150 stripers landed during this windy April by the party boats.

TROUT PLANTS again this week at Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe lakes and Rodeo Lagoon!

BAD TECHNIQUE, GOOD RESULT

The meat end of the bat went flying as Pirates' Bob Robertson swung in the first inning last night against Cincinnati. Although he broke the bat, Robertson delivered a single that scored a pair of runs and helped Pittsburgh to a 5-2 win. (UPI Telephoto)

'WE'RE NOT MACHINES'

Boyer's Disenchantment Is Not A Sudden Thing

ATLANTA (UPI)—Clete Boyer's disenchantment with the Atlanta Braves was no sudden thing.

Coming to Atlanta wasn't an easy adjustment. Boyer had been a New York Yankee for eight season. In five of those, 1960-64, the Yankees had been American League champions and in two, 1961-62, they had been world champions.

Those were the days of wine and rose. Most ball players, then, dreamed of being a "Yankee" and Boyer was having the time of his life. Like any player will tell you, baseball is really fun when you are winning.

"The Yankees were a first-class organization," Boyer will tell you. "They really knew how to treat you right."

The contrast between the Braves and the Yankees, real or imagined, was evident to Boyer from the day he joined the Atlanta club five seasons ago. And, built on a series of minor irritations, Clete Boyer's disenchantment crested this week when he demanded his release.

"It was really a lot of little things," Boyer insisted. "But it boils down to this: I respect anyone who respects me and when they don't respect me, I don't respect them. It's that simple.

"The feeling has persisted around here that when things aren't going well, management takes the easy way out by blaming the players.

"We're human, not machines. If you do your best, that's all anyone can ask. These people know, or they should know, that if you can't build an organization in four or five years you should know you're moving on.

"You shouldn't try to save your job by blaming the players. After all, a ball player can only do what he can do."

Boyer makes it clear that his dispute with the Braves is with General Manager Paul Richards, not Field Manager Luman Harris.

"As a person, I like to play for Luman because he always lets me alone," Boyer said. "But he never seems to be able to make a decision. Everything is 'ask Paul.'"

Boyer said he has "just been unhappy with the Braves; I don't like their system of baseball," but the incident that triggered Boyer's outburst this week was a curfew, imposed by Harris but which Boyer is convinced was ordered by Richards.

"This is my 16th year of professional baseball and I never had to check in or check out before," Boyer complained. "We win a few games and everybody's happy. Then we lose a few and they get upset.

"One thing I learned a long time ago," Boyer said. "Baseball has a long season. You're going to win some and lose some. All you can do is play your best and not let it worry you.

"I remember the seventh game of the 1962 World Series. We were in the seventh inning and the pressure got to me so bad my knees began to buckle. I told myself then, 'Just do your best, you can do no more.' I beat the pressure then and I haven't let it get to me like that since. The Yankees went on to win that game and the series from the San Francisco Giants.

"There is too much second guessing going on with the braves. Richards takes everything personal and this he shouldn't do."

Actually, it's not just the braves organization that's bugging Clete Boyer. He's getting a divorce from his pretty blonde wife after 16 years of marriage, his car rental business and other investments haven't been going well and, at 34, he's painfully aware that he's approaching the twilight of his baseball career.

"I've really been happy with my career," said Boyer. "I love baseball and I'd like to stay in it.

"But," Boyer concluded rather wistfully, "I really don't know what is going to happen."

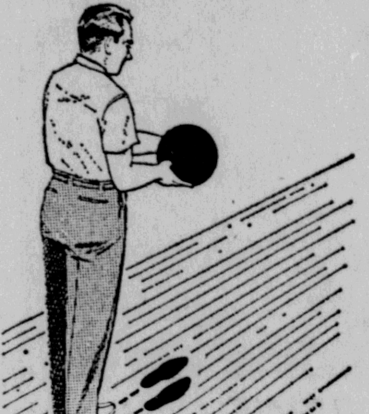
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



If you are rushing the foul line and having difficulty slowing down, move a few inches closer to the line before starting your approach (illustration). This will force you to be cautious (for fear of fouling) and you'll go up slower. Once you become accustomed to the proper rhythm, you can gradually move back to your normal area.

Did A Killer Stalk Skid Row?

(Editors: Yuba City lies in some of the prettiest country in California. But this week, along the banks of the Feather River to the north, sheriff's officers have been digging up body after body from the lush orchards the local folks like to call "the peach bowl of the nation." And a husky farm labor contractor is in jail, charged with mass murder.

A UPI reporting team has spent two Days in Yuba City reconstructing the following report.)

By JACK V. FOX

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)— The winos came shambling into the Bonanza Club on D Street In Marysville shortly after 9 a.m. As each appeared, his fellow drifters let out a cheer.

"Hey, Sarge, you made it!"

"There's Al. He didn't get you, Al!"

At the New Palm around the corner, Rose the barmaid said one of her customers always had milk in the morning. But on Thursday he ordered a double shot of Old Crow and a beer chaser.

Among these lost souls there was no doubt that the 20 victims of Yuba City's mass murders came from their ranks — skid row in the twin cities of Marysville and Yuba City, separated by the Feather River.

The towns once were a legend of the rip-roaring West in the Gold Rush days. There were 54 saloons in a four-block stretch, the prostitutes grabbed customers off the street and the miners, loggers, railroad men, cowboys and gamblers lived as if there was no tomorrow.

Those days are gone, but the shades of Sutter's boom linger on in a community which now is staunch Republican, hippieless and one of the most lush agricultural areas in all the United States.

Peaches, tomatoes, prunes, watermelons, strawberries, walnuts and almonds grow in the valley. Acres of fertile land are covered with water —flooded paddies that look like Southeast Asia.

But like the fruit, murders have seemed to come in clusters to California.

Charles Manson has been convicted of seven and is being tried for two more. Last year Dr. Victor Ohta, his wife, two children and a secretary were slain and tossed into their swimming pool in Santa Cruz. San Francisco's Zodiac killer — still uncaught —claims something like a dozen victims.

But even those gory heights were scaled this week when sheriff's deputies, wearing gauze masks and puffing cigars to reduce the stench, dug up body after body on the ranch of Jack Sullivan five miles north of Yuba City, from neat graves strung for half a mile on the riverbank beneath a prune orchard.

JUAN V. CORONA
Dug 20 graves?

One man had 32 cents in his pockets, another $9. The remainder had no wealth. One had a temporary driver's license. Another had a wrist band from a hospital and a Social Security card. One was identified because two of his toes were missing. One man had on three pairs of trousers. One man was nude except for a shirt.

They lay on their backs, their arms above their heads. Most had their shirts pulled up over their faces. All were taken to the Twin Cites mortuary which ordinarily handles one death a week.

Identification was gruesome and grim. Some were men nobody wanted and nobody missed. Some had isolated themselves from their families for years.

"It really grabs you when some guy's wife calls from Mexico or Arkansas and asks if we have found their husband — a man they haven't heard from for a year or so," said a sheriff's deputy. "They want to know and then again, they don't want to know."

The first body was discovered on May 20 by a Japanese farmer named Goro Kagehiro. He noticed a hole in an orchard, and when he came back that evening he found a mound of fresh earth. He dug and found a body. He reported it to the Sutter County sheriff's office.

Five days passed and then Roy Duron, a foreman at the Sullivan Ranch, was told by one of his laborers that while discing the rows between the prune trees he noticed an indentation. Detective Sgt. John Purcell and Detective Jerry Gregory went to the scene and found a second body.

It rained and rained on Tuesday, but in the downpour and on through the night, and into the next day, and the next, deputies dug up bodies. Some were in a peach orchard, the others in the soft loam of the Feather River bank, in graves 3 1-2 foot deep and 6 feet long.

The victims had been hacked to death by a machete or heavy knife. The fatal blow was at the back of the neck. All were men. They ranged in age from 40 to 63.

At 4:30 a.m. Wednesday, sheriff's deputies went to the home of Juan Veilliho Corona, 37, in a quiet street of small homes in Yuba City. It is a wood house of beige color with a brick frontplace. A plaster angel two feet high stands on the cement porch.

Corona answered the door. He is a good-looking Mexican, one inch short of six feet. He weighs 200 pounds and his black hair is parted in the middle. His wife Gloria is about 40. They have four daughters. Corona speaks fair English, his wife almost solely Spanish. The officers told him he was charged with murder. Corona pulled on his gray work pants, cowboy boots and a green sweater. He went along quietly.

When the patrol car arrived at the courthouse, a stately white building with columns that could pass for a southern

TAKE THAT, METER MAID!

What's this? A parking citation on a meter maid's cart? Well, not really. The "ticket" is a slip of paper that was placed on the stalled cart at Fifth Avenue and C Street in San Rafael yesterday — the work of a prankster who found the vehicle in a no-parking zone. Police said the wag even chose paper the same color as parking citations — pink — and wrote out numerous "violations." The cart had broken down, police said, and was awaiting repairs when the prankster came along.

Mass Murder Witness Picked Up After 20 Bodies Are Found

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—A skid row transient has been picked up for questioning as a material witness in the mass ax killing of at least 20 farm workers, it was disclosed today.

Deputies continued churning up the earth along a Feather River orchard area where the 20 bodies have been found.

Police in Marysville, just across the river from Yuba City, said they picked up a transient farm laborer Thursday and turned him over to Sutter County authorities.

A crude "sketch or diagram," found in the home of the 37-year-old farm labor contractor who is being held on charges of murder, was being studied by detectives. However, an official source denied that a "map" to the burial sites had been found.

Eight more bodies were found in a peach orchard and in brush along the river Thursday.

Juan Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor and father of four small girls, was arrested early Wednesday after authorities unearthed nine bodies.

Court records show Corona was committed by a brother to a state mental hospital for three months in 1956 as being "confused and disoriented ... (suffering) delusions and hallucinations."

Psychiatrists diagnosed him as a schizophrenic. He was released from Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, Calif., as "recovered" on April 18, 1956.

Officials have not disclosed any apparent motive for the slayings.

Deputies, using a trench digging backhoe at times and puffing cigars to kill the stench of dead bodies, removed the hacked remains from shallow graves into hearses for transport to a mortuary in neighboring Marysville.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker, who barred newsmen from the gravesite area, said five of the victims have been identified. But only two names were released. He said one body might be that of a Negro. The others were middleaged whites.

Identifications have been hampered by the transient life of the farm workers, many of whom had not been in touch with their familes for years.

The victims were hacked in the back of the head with a heavy, sharp instrument, possibly a machete or meat cleaver. All were buried on their backs, with arms raised in a supplicating position and shirts pulled over their bloody heads.

UAR Signs Pact With Soviets In Surprise Move

15-Year Treaty Upsets Balance Of Arms In Mideast, Says Israel

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt and the Soviet Union today announced a 15-year treaty of "unbreakable friendship" that binds them closer militarily than ever before. The Arab world reacted enthusiastically but Israel said it was "a clear threat to upset the balance of arms in the Middle East."

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat signed the treaty Thursday to climax Podgorny's trip to Cairo which ended today. Political sources in Beirut called the pact unique in the Arab world and "of profound significance."

Podgorny left today in a blaze of Egyptian acclaim. Crowds mobbing the airport chanted slogans hailing SovietEgyptian friendship as Podgorny embraced Sadat in an enthusiastic red carpet sendoff that outdid his arrival four days ago.

A 21-gun salute thundered as PodgoRny's plane was airborne at 5:13 p.m. (10:13 a.m. EDT).

Tel Aviv dispatches said the scope of the agreement took Israel by surprise and the fact that a formal treaty was signed after so many years without one also was unexpected.

Israeli sources in Tel Aviv said the possible answers were that first, the Soviets are attempting to protect their billions of dollars of investment in Egypt and that the Kremlin wants to make sure Cairo will not lean any closer toward the United States.

"It is a clear hardening of the line for both parties," one Israeli source said.

Israeli sources said Israel would continue pushing ahead with efforts toward peace but with a wait and see attitude that would leave it up to Egypt to make the next move. Israel is still awaiting a reply to the proposals it made six weeks ago on reopening the Suez Canal.

While Israel worried, the Arab world reacted enthusiastically. Cairo and Beirut newspapers splashed news of the agreement on their front pages and Arab radios led their broadcasts with the story. Damascus Radio described the treaty as "an historic document."

The tone of the agreement left no doubt Soviet-Egyptian relations were not affected by Sadat's purge of a number of pro-Moscow elements from his government. If anything, they appeared to have been strengthened.

Tass said the two chiefs of state, who have held a series of meetings since Podgorny arrived Wednesday, devoted their talks to "the dangerous situation which continues to exist in the Middle East as a result of Israel's imperialist aggression against the United Arab Republic and other Arab countries.

"The two sides noted that Israel, relying on support from the United States, is acting as an aggressor," Tass quoted the communique as saying. It claimed "Israel's policy is a serious threat to international peace and security."

Tass said "the two sides ex-

Memorial Rites Set Over Long Weekend

The three-day Memorial Day weekend begins tomorrow, highlighted by special programs in Marin and Southern Sonoma cities and a holiday for nearly everyone on Monday.

All municipal, county, state and federal government offices will be closed, as will be post offices, public libraries and schools.

Most stores will be closed with a few neighborhood stores, liquor stores and the stores in Sausalito staying open.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual, but its business and classified advertising offices will be closed Monday.

Special observances will be held in San Rafael, Fairfax and Petaluma, and a combined service for Rohnert Park and Cotati in the latter city.

Marin County's traditional Memorial Day service will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday at the San Rafael Military Academy.

Because of the fire Tuesday night at the old courthouse, the ceremony and parade were moved from the World War I Doughboy Statue to Foster Hall at the Academy on Mission and Cottage Avenues. The change was necessitated by danger to spectators at the site of the fire, said Lawrence T. O'Brien, general chairman.

Members of the board of supervisors, and mayors of all the cities in Marin County have been invited, according to publicity chairman Alfred T. Little.

The Fairfax Senior Association will conduct a memorial service at 12:30 p.m. Monday in the Fairfax Honor Grove on Bolinas Avenue next to the city hall.

San Anselmo writer William M. Taylor will deliver the address. Music will be furnished by buglers from the San Rafael Military Academy led by Col. Lee M. Alfred, a chorus, and Molly Forde of Santa Venetia and Janelle Elliott of Mill Valley, accompanied by students from Marin Catholic High School.

Boy Scouts from Troops 7 and 49 and Cub Scouts from Packs 7 and 49 will mass the colors. They will be joined by members of Brownie Troop 1046, Girl Scout Troop 2015 and Cadette Troop 2198 in the pledge of allegiance.

Commercial Soviet SST In 3 Years

PARIS (UPI)—A Soviet official said today the Soviet Union's TU144 supersonic airliner will go into commercial service at the end of 1973 or early 1974—the same time as its Anglo-French rival, Concorde.

Soviet Minister for Aeronautical Industries Pavel Dementiev told newsmen at the Paris airshow, where both delta-winged planes are drawing crowds, that so far the Soviet Union has built three flying models and would have two more in the air next year.

"In 1973 we will start series production and we expect commercial services at the end of 1973 or early 1974," Dementiev said, indicating for the first time that the Soviet Union has not overtaken the west in building these airliners.

The Anglo-French Concorde also is expected to go into service over the transatlantic run late in 1973 or early 1974.

Dementiev said the Soviet Union was interested in selling the TU144 aboard although the price had not yet been worked out. He said Pan American Airways President Najeeb Halaby "is in close contact with us for possible purchase."

Volcano Threatens Two More Villages

FORNAZZO, Italy (UPI)— Mt. Etna, pumping and belching molten lava at an increased rate, menaced two additional farming villages today on its heavily damaged southeastern slopes. 8

Renewed activity from Europe's tallest volcano raised new fears among local farmers and scientists alike. Vulcanologists studying Etna's worst eruption since 1928 said there was no way to forecast the current lava flow or Etna's unpredictable activity.

Angela Attorney Attacks Gun Evidence, Demands Dismissal

By MARY LEYDECKER

Judge Richard E. Arnason yesterday refused a request by attorneys for Angela Davis to dismiss the case against her but took their motion under submission.

Attorney Michael Tigar of Los Angeles called the case a "frame-up" and said there was no evidence that Miss Davis furnished the guns used by Jonathan Jackson, the youth who set off the shoot-out on Aug. 7 at the Marin Civic Center.

Miss Davis is accused of providing the weapons, all of which were allegedly registered to her, as well as helping plan the abortive kidnap-escape attempt. San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee is charged with actually firing the shotgun blast which killed Judge Harold J. Haley.

Yesterday, after Magee was removed from the courtroom when he kicked and then later spit at his court-appointed attorney Ernest L. Graves of Los Angeles, a long-delayed hearing on motions by Miss Davis's attorneys finally got underway.

Tigar asked at the end of the day's session that Judge Arnason, a Contra Costa County jurist, dismiss the charges and "let Miss Davis go home."

Prosecuting attorney Albert W. Harris Jr., however, argued that there was plenty of evidence given to the grand jury which indicted Miss Davis to hold her for trial.

In answer to Tigar's claim that Miss Davis had not been linked to the crimes, Harris said, "no evidence!! Only all the weapons."

He traced the history of Miss Davis's purchase of four guns, the last two shortly before the shoot-out. He said, "These are not weapons of self-defense, they are weapons of aggression and violence."

Harris said that Miss Davis's motive in "aiding and abetting the crimes" was to gain the release of the Soledad Brothers, whom she had long supported publicly.

(Jonathan Jackson, who died in the shoot-out, was the younger brother of one of the Soledad Three, George Jackson.

Miss Davis reportedly had accompanied young Jackson when he went to see his brother at San Quentin twice during the week before the shoot-out.

Judge Arnason set hearing on further defense motions for 9 a.m. next Wednesday.

PAYS WORLD RECORD PRICE

Boston broker Laurence Bender paid $5,000 this week for a single bottle of Chateau Lafite wine, 1846 vintage, from the personal wine cellar of Baron Rothschild of France. The bottle, one of only three of that vintage known to exist, was believed purchased for a client during the wine auction in San Francisco. Bender was wide-eyed with excitement after the purchase. SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Query: Price Flux In Municipal Bonds

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Why do different brokers quote such widely varied prices on the same municipal bonds? — R.G.

A. Municipal bonds are sold on the Over-The-Counter market where transactions are subject to negotiation, thus a certain amount of variation in price is bound to occur. Some fluctuation is attributable to whether the broker has an inventory position in the particular bond and what his estimate is of the bond's marketability. Smaller issues from obscure localities could be far harder to market than those of a large city.

Most municipal bonds are issued in series, maturing at different times. It is entirely possible that you were inadvertently quoted prices on different series of the same bond. You might also have been quoted price with or without interest, although if quoted "flat" the broker should have specified.

Again you could have been given an inside quote by one dealer and an outside quote by another. This is similar to the difference between wholesale — dealer to broker — and retail — broker to customer — prices.

Q. I am a retired and disabled veteran. Last April I invested $600 in Allstate Enterprises Stock Fund. I have recently received more money and am wondering whether to buy more shares. What do you advise? — B.R.

A. Since your original purchase of Allstate Enterprises, your investment has appreciated approximately 25 per cent. Because this fund has been established only about one year, there is no way of assessing its long-term performance. For the first three months of 1971, the average for all open-end funds gained 14.1 per cent, while the Dow Jones Industrials scored an 8.9 per cent gain. During the same period, Allstate recorded a 9.7 per cent advance.

Some 90 per cent of the fund's assets, as of December, 1970, were invested in common stocks, the list largely being made up of good quality blue chips. While your present commitment here should be retained for further growth, I favor using the additional capital for purchase of an income issue with gradual growth potential such as: American Brands and Standard Oil of California.

Lockheed Aircraft Sets Loss At $86.3 Million For 1970

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Lockheed Aircraft Corporation has reported a net loss of $86.3 million in 1970, or $7.60 a share.

Board chairman Daniel Haughton had estimated early this year that the corporation's after-tax loss for the year would be about $80 million, compared with a 1969 net loss of $32.6 or $2.90 a share.

Sales in 1970 reached a new high of $2.54 billion, the company said, with higher C-5A transport sales primarily responsible for the increase.

Including funded government orders, Lockheed reported a backlog of $4.90 billion at the end of 1970, down from $5.15 billion a year earlier, with more than half representing commercial orders including 144 first-buy and 34 second-buy orders for the TriStar jet.

The Nixon administration has recommended that the government guarantee loans to save Lockheed from financial disaster. The firm fell into difficulties when Rolls-Royce, which supplied the RB211 engines for the TriStar, declared bankruptcy.

"Final solution to all of our difficulties are not yet in hand," Haughton said after a board of directors meeting and completion of the year-end audit, "but the pattern for resolving them is becoming clearer."

"If the U.S. government guarantees additional bank borrowings under legislation that the administration has proposed to Congress, we believe the remaining matters can be resolved satisfactorily.

"On the other hand, insufficient financing for the L-1011 TriStar would force cancellation of the program, and bankruptcy could result," he said.

IT&T Quarter Profit Was Record $1.54 Billion

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. sales and revenues hit a record $1.54 billion the first quarter of this year, according to Board Chairman Harold S. Geneen.

He told the annual stockholders meeting Wednesday that 1970 was the best year in ITT history with consolidated sales and revenues of $6.4 billion, up 12 per cent, and net income of $353 million. Net earnings per common share were $3.17 up 20 per cent.

Geneen urged foreign holders of dollars to use them in the United States to help solve the balance of payments deficit.

Buying U.S. goods, investing in U.S. companies or making direct investments in U.S. businesses would put the capital to work and also create jobs, he suggested.

He said that otherwise, the current money crisis "can lead only to protective tariffs, further isolation and inevitably higher and higher costs in our economy for all consumers and less world competitive ability for U.S. industry."

Recycled Paper Produces Brick

SEATTLE (UPI) —Three Seattle men say they have developed a brick made out of recycled paper which can be manufactured in a pollution-free plant.

King Evers Jr. says that the "Eco-Mat" brick can be sawed, nailed, bolted, screwed, waterproofed, fireproofed and bounded or routed with standard construction techniques.

Evers, who developed it with his father and George Larsen, says it is the first brick made out of fiberized paper, developed by a mechanical process which pulverizes waste paper.

The paper fibers are mixed with adhesives and resistive chemicals and extruded into molds. The mixture is then put under severe pressure.

King Resources Suffers Setback

DENVER (UPI) — King Resources Co., of Denver has reported net losses of $53 million during 1970, compared with a net profit of $25.5 million the previous year.

The 1970 losses amount to $2.85 per share.

Revenue last year totaled $37.8 million, compared with $116.2 million the year before.

Revenues fell sharply last year after the company's best customer, IOS, ran into financial trouble.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Optimism At SALT

VIENNA (UPI)—The Vienna round of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) ended today on a new note of optimism and the Soviet and American delegations said they would meet again in Helsinki, Finland, July 8.

A brief final communique said the Helsinki talks would be based on "negotiation in accordance" with the Moscow-Washington compromise, announced last week, to concentrate now on limits on antiballistic missiles (ABM).

The communique said only that, in their two and a half months here, the SALT negotiators "continued consideration of questions dealing with the limitation of strategic armaments. At the final stage, there was an exchange of views on matters stemming from the (compromise) announcement."

Nod To Detroit

TORONTO (UPI)—The U.S. auto industry's ability to resist government pressure for changes means Americans will be driving internal combustion engine-powered cars through the 1980's, consumer advocate Ralph Nader said here Thursday.

"I think it's clear now that the auto industry has broken the grip of the federal government," Nader said in a speech to the 1971 convention of the Oil Industry-TBA (tires, batteries and accessories).

"It has now won the battle as to whether the country is to go into fullscale alternative propulsion system other than the internal combustion engine or continue with a patchup of it. The latter is clearly the case, at least through the 1980s."

Kennedy Gala

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Joseph Kennedy and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower led 3,500 other guests Thursday night in participating in a "gala preview" at the new John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The huge marble structure on the Potomac River will not be opened to the public until Sept. 8.

The preview features dining and dancing, and the crowd included a political, social and entertainment world elite.

Atkins Gets Life

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Superior Court Judge called Susan Atkins "a danger to any community" and sentenced her Thursday to life imprisonment for the slaying of musician Gary Hinman.

Miss Atkins, 23, a member of Charles Manson's "Family," pleaded guilty to first degree murder in Hinman's death, one of nine killings authorities have attributed to members of the Manson cult.

Manson and Miss Atkins, both condemned to die for the seven Tate-LaBianca murders, had been scheduled to go on trial along with two other cult members for the August, 1969 stabbing of Hinman, and the killing of another man, Donald "Shorty" Shea.

Alderman Sought In Fund Loss

Hubbard

Chicago (UPI) — Alderman Fred D. Hubbard's political star reached its zenith in April, 1970, when he was appointed to head the Chicago Plan, a federally funded project to place blacks in skilled construction jobs.

Today, 13 months later, Hubbard has dropped from sight, a warrant has been issued for his arrest in connection with about $70,000 in missing Chicago Plan funds, and Las Vegas, Nev., authorities are investigating checks he wrote there.

Hubbard has not been seen since a week ago, when it was disclosed forged checks totaling about $70,000 had been made out to him on Chicago Plan accounts. The arrest warrant, issued Thursday by U.S. Magistrate Olga Jurco, charged the alderman cashed a forged $20,000 check May 4, and deposited the money in a personal account.

In Las Vegas, Capt. Eugene Clark, chief of the Clark County Sheriff's office, said a local warrant probably will be issued for Hubbard in connection with checks he has written there.

Saigon On Drugs

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese cabinet members, prodded by the United States to do something about the drug traffic that has made an estimated one out of every 10 American servicemen in Vietnam a heroin addict, put most of the blame today on Thailand and Laos.

They said these two neighboring countries, both close allies, are the source of most of the heroin in South Vietnam, as reported Tuesday by a U.S. Congressional investigating team.

But they did not comment directly at their news conference on another charge in the Congressional report: that "politicians in both Laos and South Vietnam" are in the heroin business.

The Congressional report was issued Tuesday in Washington following an intensive investigation in South Vietnam. The chief author was Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn.

This report said between 25,000 and 40,000 American servicemen in Vietnam now are addicted to heroin. The total U.S. force in Vietnam at present is 262,500.

Bow To Threat

ROSARIO, Argentina (UPI)—The Swift & Co., meat packing plant bowed today to a series of demands by the leftist kidnapers of British Consul Stanley Sylvester and said it would distribute $60,000 worth of food to the poor to win his release.

The People's Revolutionary Army (ERT) had demanded that Swift distribute the food and rehire 4,000 workers it had laid off for economy reasons. Swift met that demand too and said it was considering others.

The kidnapers put a 5 p.m. EDT deadline of Swift's action and said if their demands were not met the diplomat-businessman would be placed on "trial." Sylvester, 59, an Argentine-born honorary consul, is manager of the Swift plant.

Romanians Flee

VIENNA (UPI)—Six young Romanians who hijacked a Romanian aircraft to Vienna on Thursday asked for political asylum today while the rest of the passengers returned home aboard a special plane.

Police said the six hijackers—all men—are still under police investigation. Their names were withheld "as it is usual in case of asylum seekers," police said.

Romania meanwhile demanded the extradition of the six hijackers on grounds that they are ex-convicts wanted for robery and kidnaping. But a high Austrian police official said "we never extradite refugees from Warsaw Pact countries."

The final decision, however, is up to the Austrian courts. Vienna airport officials said 16 passengers and four crew members returned to Bucharest early today aboard a special plane sent from Bucharest to pick them up.

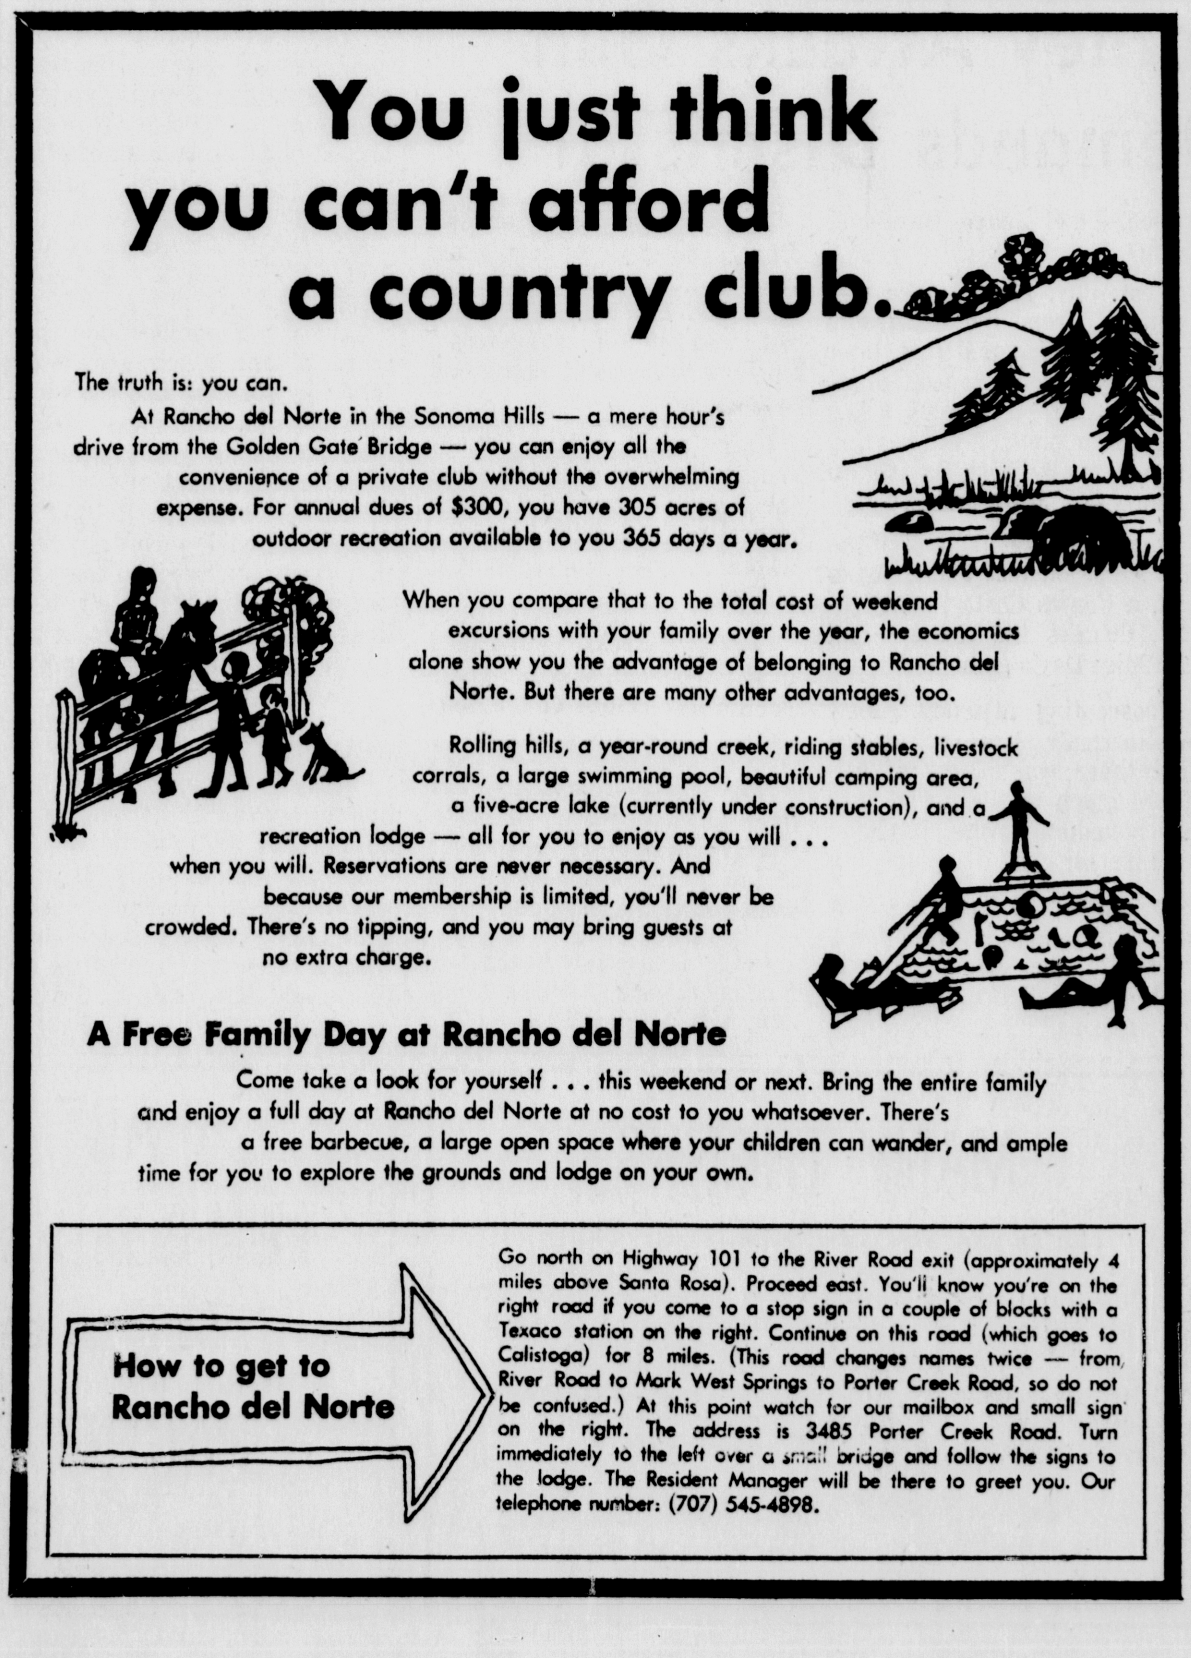
Zanuck Wins At Fox

NEW YORK (UPI)—Darryl F. Zanuck is still the fox of Hollywood. He has come out on top again in his latest battle of 45 years of Hollywood wars.

A Zanuck-led management team has been involved in a proxy fight to retain control of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. against a group of insurgent stockholders backed by Zanuck's estranged wife and their son.

Judges who counted the shares voted at the company's annual meeting May 18 said Thursday unofficial returns showed the management retained control by about 1.5 million shares out of 6.4 million voted.

A spokesman for the dissidents, Charles M. Lewis, partner in the Wall Street brokerage house of Treves & Co., said the losers might challenge the results in court.



You just think you can't afford a country club.

The truth is: you can.

At Rancho del Norte in the Sonoma Hills — a mere hour's drive from the Golden Gate Bridge — you can enjoy all the convenience of a private club without the overwhelming expense. For annual dues of $300, you have 305 acres of outdoor recreation available to you 365 days a year.

When you compare that to the total cost of weekend excursions with your family over the year, the economics alone show you the advantage of belonging to Rancho del Norte. But there are many other advantages, too.

Rolling hills, a year-round creek, riding stables, livestock corrals, a large swimming pool, beautiful camping area, a five-acre lake (currently under construction), and a recreation lodge — all for you to enjoy as you will . . . when you will. Reservations are never necessary. And because our membership is limited, you'll never be crowded. There's no tipping, and you may bring guests at no extra charge.

A Free Family Day at Rancho del Norte

Come take a look for yourself . . . this weekend or next. Bring the entire family and enjoy a full day at Rancho del Norte at no cost to you whatsoever. There's a free barbecue, a large open space where your children can wander, and ample time for you to explore the grounds and lodge on your own.

How to get to Rancho del Norte

Go north on Highway 101 to the River Road exit (approximately 4 miles above Santa Rosa). Proceed east. You'll know you're on the right road if you come to a stop sign in a couple of blocks with a Texaco station on the right. Continue on this road (which goes to Calistoga) for 8 miles. (This road changes names twice — from River Road to Mark West Springs to Porter Creek Road, so do not be confused.) At this point watch for our mailbox and small sign on the right. The address is 3485 Porter Creek Road. Turn immediately to the left over a small bridge and follow the signs to the lodge. The Resident Manager will be there to greet you. Our telephone number: (707) 545-4898.

GRIEF OVER MURDER — Mrs. Essie Mao Love wiped a tear from her eyes yesterday during a meeting in Ruleville, Miss., in the aftermath of the murder of Mrs. Love's teen-age daughter. Three white men have been arrested in connection with the slaying, and authorities today were seeking indictments against the trio.

Indictments Sought In Slaying Of Black

DREW, Miss. (UPI)—Authorities today moved swiftly to seek indictments against three young white men accused of killing a teen-age Negro girl in this small Mississippi delta town.

Frank O. Crosthwait Jr., prosecuting attorney for Sunflower County, said he would present the case to the next term of the grand jury which convenes June 7.

The three men were being held in a maximum security unit at the state penitentiary following their arrest a few hours after Jo Etha Collier, 18, was shot down Tuesday night on a Drew street. They were charged with murder.

The three were identified as Wayne Parks, 23, a cotton farmer from Drew; his brother, Wesley Parks, 26, a mechanic at Memphis, Tenn.; and their nephew, Allen Wilkerson, 19, a recent high school graduate from Memphis.

Investigators said no motive had been established for the shooting, which brought bitter reaction from black leaders and touched off protest marches Thursday afternoon at Drew and neighboring Ruleville.

FBI agents, acting on orders from President Nixon, have joined in the investigation to determine whether any federal law was violated in the killing.

Local white officials denounced the slaying. Mayor W. O. Williford of Drew called it a "tragic" incident. "The white community is upset as well as the black community," said Sunflower County Sheriff C. O. "Jack" Sessums.

About 200 blacks marched silently through Drew Thursday afternoon with Police Chief J. D. Fleming riding ahead of them in a patrol car. There were no incidents.

Thirty-one blacks, including several teen-agers, were arrested during a protest march at Ruleville on charges of obstructing sidewalks.

219 Enemy Die In Clash In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese infantrymen and tank crews with heavy U.S. air support killed 219 Communist soldiers today in the third day of bitter fighting around the town of Snuol in northeastern Cambodia, military spokesmen in Saigon reported.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said Communist troops were driven out of Snoul Thursday but had counter-attacked with mortars and infantry to within 500 yards of the town.

The fighting cost the Army of the Republic of (South) Vietnam (ARVN) at least eight dead and 18 wounded, ARVN spokesmen said, for a total of at least 12 over the three-day period.

Other military sources said more than 30 South Vietnamese have been killed in three days of the heaviest combat around Snoul since the allied invasion of Cambodia 13 months ago.

Snoul, a market town in a rubber-plantation area, straddles Highway 7 about 115 miles northeast of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, and about 90 miles northwest of Saigon.

A year ago most of the town was destroyed by the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in the allied strike into Cambodia. U.S. tank crews who occupied the town looted it in a widely reported incident.

ARVN spokesmen in Saigon claimed a "body count" of 99 Communists after a three-hour battle just west of Snoul today.

Only scattered fighting — as reported in South Vietnam, but the U.S. command said two Americans died Thursday when an Army AH1 "Cobra" helicopter gunship crashed near Quang Tri, 400 miles north of Saigon. Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

Product Recalled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration warns that a toy shaving kit called "Merry Lather N' Lotion Toiletries" poses a severe health hazard because the lotion and cream in the kit contain a bacteria. The agency said the bacteria could cause infections around the eyes, in the ears, nose and throat and in skin and connective tissues. It said the manufacturer, Merrymaking Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of Leisure Dymanics Inc., Cincinnati, has recalled the product.

47 Germans Killed In Rail Collision

RADEVORMWALD, Germany (UPI) — An express freight hurtled headon into a train carrying 100 children back from a school outing Thursday night in West Germany's worst rail disaster.

A police spokesman said 47 persons were killed, including 41 children, and 25 others were injured, many seriously.

The accident occurred on a single track when the children, who had been on a day excursion to the North Sea port of Bremen, were little more than 15 minutes away from the parents waiting for them at Radevormwald station.

The 63-ton diesel locomotive hauling the freight smashed into the two-car diesel unit carrying the children, crushing the first passenger car.

A clerk at Radevormwald town hall, who asked not to be identified, said she followed other people attracted by the sirens of police cars, fire engines and ambulances speeding to the scene, about two miles from the town.

"What I saw was terrible," she said. "The first of the rail cars was crushed so much that I felt I could have held it within the width of my arms."

The injured children were rushed to nearby hospitals and the dead were laid out in rows of coffins inside a gymnasium at Radevormwald.

Grief-stricken parents, many sobbing uncontrollably after identifying their children among the dead, stood in groups among the coffins.

On a nearby blackboard an official chalked the names of the dead and injured as they were identified.

The accident was the worst railway disaster since the state of West Germany was created in 1949.

The public prosecutor at Radevormwald, responsible for investigating such accidents in his district, said the crash "apparently stemmed from human error." A railways spokesman said the accident did not result from a mechanical failure on either train.

ARABIAN KING VISITS WHITE HOUSE

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia inspects the honor guard with President Richard M. Nixon and the guard's commanding officer, Col. Myron E. Lee Jr. (center), on the South Lawn of the White House. The monarch, touring the United States on a goodwill visit, brought along his own chef, butler and taster to prepare the king's lunch yesterday. Nixon and the other guests ate food prepared by the regular White House staff. (UPI Telephoto)

KATE SEBB'S SAGA

Prodded By Red Rifles, Bound Tight With Wire

By KATE WEBB
U.P. International

Editor's Note: Following is the fifth in a series of personal impressions written by UPI's 28-year-old Phnom Pnenh bureau chief about her capture and release 23 days later by North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

It seemed about two hours before the first rest stop. We lay against a roadside bank. There were yells from nearby trees and soldiers appeared. They stood over us, cocked their rifles and prodded us. Our shoes and Suzuki's glasses were ripped off and the soldiers retied the men with wire, tighter this time. Mine were left alone.

One of the guards walked away and the other sat smoking. I motioned my head at a soldier's canteen and asked for water. The soldier laughed and clicked his AK breach again. Too tired to care, I closed my eyes. "American," I heard the soldier say. "No, no, Anglaise, English," Sarath insisted. Jimmy nudged my shoulder with his. "Waster, miss," he said.

They carry their water in the jungle in ponchos tied by each end to a wooden pole. There must have been two gallons and we drained it as the guards stood by laughing.

We shuffled on until dusk, the asphalt burning our feet and splinters of bamboo cutting into our toes. We were still thirsty, but we were sweating again. We discarded our tree branches, no longer caring about the planes. Finally, we stopped. Soldiers appeared from the forest and grouped around. I had four cigarettes left and smoked two, which the soldiers lit for me. The other prisoners were taken behind a nearby tree.

They were led off one by one, the Cambodians first. "Food and water, my foot — shot one by one," I thought.

I knew that Charoon, still clad only in his shorts, was thinking the same thing and I tried to move nearer to him. But a guard moved him behind the tree with the others and motioned me to stay where I was. I lay in a hollow by the roadside, dozing.

Many times, a soldier would ask "American?" Many times I repeated, "Anglaise." Night fell. The soldiers appeared like shadows, all clad in the dull blues, browns and green of the Communist "line" soldier-equivalent to the American "grunt" in Vietnam.

Trucks moved on the road and into the forest with shaded headlights. I again found myself grimly amused at what observation planes could not observe.

A Cambodian wearing a bright blue shirt and civilian trousers appeared from somewhere and soon the other five captives were brought back. They whispered that they had simply undergone questioning by the Vietnamese. The Cambodian, prompted by Vietnamese, announced in Cambodian that we were prisoners of the Cambodian Liberation Forces. He said we were not to fear for our lives and would be taken a short way to another place. He said the Liberation Armed Forces were "humane."

Our ropes were replaced with green plastic covered wire. Mine, I noticed, were looser than the others. Tied in a chain and warned again not to run from the planes, we marched off into the night.

I remember little of that walk, except that we had no shoes. We were passed by shadowy groups of troops, some girls with pony tail hair styles. Four litters moved past like shadows, their bearers running at a shuffling trot. Two litters were closed, carrying dead. Groans and screams came from another and a guard told us it was a malaria case.

We were moving deep into the mountains and an artillery barrage started. We were herded into a three-man bunker. The guards stayed outside. The bunker was typical, deep and thick with about three feet of overhead cover. The six of us crammed inside, hardly able to breathe for what seemed about 30 minutes. It also smelled — of us.

Our party moved across creek beds, always uphill. We were passed by two soldiers carrying the tube of a 75 millimeter recoiless rifle on a tree branch and struggling and slithering under its weight.

Sometime in the middle of the night, we stopped at a military camp which had flimsy shelters over deep bunkers. A Vietnamese, speaking English with extreme difficulty, questioned me . . . name, age, rank . . . we were to hear the same questions often during the coming days. This night, the others were questioned separately, in the dark and closely watched by their guards.

They brought us a basket of rice and thin pork fat soup, our first meal in about 40 hours. I ate about a half bowl of the mixture, gagged and threw up on my sleeve. The others didn't seem to notice and continued eating. I drank some tea instead.

Later, I was put in one bunker and the others in another and we slept the few remaining hours until dawn.

I emerged from the bunker streaked with the red dust of its walls. A group of soldiers was eating. I asked if I could wash, pointing to a piece of soap each soldier carried in a strip of plastic. One soldier, amused, took me to a stream and watched as I splashed water over myself and my clothes. I took off my jeans and scrubbed them with sand. I happened to be wearing psychedelic colored pucci underwear. They stared, fascinated, and motioned with my rifle that I should wash my shirt, too. I grinned at him and shook my head, no.

We were given the breakfast that was to become our staple diet — rice with fatty pork in a salt sauce. The soldiers ate the same. We were questioned again and they fingered through our belongings. We offered them odd trinkets, but they refused them.

Heang's feet looked like pulp. A soldier threaded them with a needle and thread leaving the thread in the swollen places to allow the pus to run out. The Vietnamese knew about sore feet; all had gaping ulcers and scars from their toes to their knees.

400 Attend Dinner For Senator

More than 400 persons turned out last night at Peacock Gap Country Club for a birthday party and fund-raising affair for Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Behr, elected to the state Senate last November, was 55 on Tuesday. Aides to the senator said the dinner was expected to raise more than $10,000 toward wiping out a campaign deficit of nearly $18,000.

Among Republican notables at the $25-per-plate dinner were state Controller Houston I. Flournoy; Norman B. Livermore Jr., secretary of the State Resources Agency; William Penn Mott, state director of parks and recreation, and Putnam Livermore, chairman of the Republican State Central committee.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, honorary chairman, sent good wishes.

Guest speaker Flournoy spoke of the huge task facing the 1971 Legislature — grappling with welfare and tax reform while at the same time meeting the state's dire fiscal need.

Dinner co-chairmen were Leland H. Jordan, general manager of Behr's campaign, and Rodgers Broomhead of Ross, chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

Lockheed Loan Foes Recruiting Industrial Leaders To Testify

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional opponents of President Nixon's plan to save the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from bankruptcy are turning to an unlikely ally —the business community.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leader of the opposition, is writing to the presiddents of the nation's 100 largest corporations and of the 20 largest aerospace firms in search of prominent witnesses who will come to Washington to testify against the plan.

His pitch is that free enterprise is threatened and government control inevitable if Washington starts bailing out firms which run into trouble.

The Senate Banking Committee will open hearings June 7 on Nixon's bill under which the federal government would guarantee repayment if Lockheed fails to make good on $250 million worth of bank loans.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., is the chairman of the committee and the chief sponsor of Nixon's bill. Four other committee members are co-sponsors.

But Proxmire counts himself and four other members of the 15-man committee as opponents. He hopes to swing over three of those in the middle and kill the bill in the committee.

Toward that end, Proxmire hopes to show that the business community itself is cool to Nixon's plan.

He is trying to convince Jack H. Vollbrecht, president of Aerojet-General Corp., to testify against it.

Vollbrecht, something of a maverick in the aerospace industry, argues, "It is wrong to protect an environment in which a company makes a bad bid and is not forced to live with the consequences of it."

Acting out of an economic motive, General Electric Co. also opposes the proposed "departure from our competitive enterprise system." GE makes engines for planes which will compete with Lockheed's airbus, the L-1011.

Lockheed intended to buy engines for the airbus from Britain's Rolls-Royce, which underbidded GE for the contract. Rolls-Royce's economic failure threatened the project and that is enough to threaten to tip Lockheed into trouble.

Opposition to the Lockheed loan guarantee also comes from McDonnell-Douglas, a major competitor, and is said to have been expressed privately by the Boeing Corp., anothar big plane maker.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., who fought to save the supersonic transport for Boeing, says he wants to take "a good long look" at Nixon's plan. "If they're going to do it for one company, they ought to do it for all," he says.

Arrests In Case Of LSD-Laced Powder

HUNTINGTON STATION, N.Y. (UPI)—Police said two Long Island men who were arraigned on drug charges Wednesday allegedly mixed LSD with a chocolate powder and sold it to high school students to drink in their milk during lunch breaks.

Police said they seized 30,000 doses of LSD. The men, Nicholas F. Camerano, Jr., 23, and Raymond A. Castoro, 22, were ordered held without bail. Two other men were arrested on drug possession charges.

Younger's Son Named To Post

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Attorney General Evelle Younger has appointed his son to a $20,700-a-year job, the attorney general's office confirmed Thursday.

Eric Younger, 28, will be a special assistant attorney general in charge of liaison between the attorney general and the California Council on Criminal Justice.

The council was set up to consider special projects, such as helicopters or other police aids, to assist local law enforcement agencies.

Young Younger, a magna cum laude graduate of the Harvard Law School, has been with a southern California law firm from which he took a year's leave of absence to accept the state post.

A former policeman, he is still a member of the Pasadena Police Reserve.

Portrait Of Murder Suspect, Farm Area

mansion, officers gave him a blanket to put over his head to thwart news photographers.

Corona is one of five brothers who came to this area from Jalisco, Mexico, the first in the early 1940s. The big thing then was the Beale Army Camp, then a staging area and now a large Air Force base.

One of the brothers opened a bar. The others went into the labor contracting business. In the Central Valley migrant workers are a necessity for the landowners. The transients range from about 2,000 in the winter months to 20,000 when the peaches and other crops are in harvest.

Mexican nationals with "green cards" swarm into the area in the summer. But when the orchards need pruning and thinning, the contractors seek out the "locals" and the best sources are the bars on Marysville's Skid Row where on a sober day a man can pick up $20.

That was Corona's calling. By word of mouth, Mexican workers came to him. But in the duller seasons, he spent much time in the Bonanza Club, the New Palm and the other dives of a miniature Bowery. He was there on business. According to the men who knew him, he never took a drink, he never smoked.

One man who knew him well is Ted Ramirez, a barber of Mexican extraction who is married to a girl named MacKenzie, a descendant of the Stuart clan. Like all barbers, Ramirez likes to talk.

"He was a quiet fellow," Ramirez said. "He would sit and shoot the breeze. But then suddenly you'd be off on an entirely different direction in the conversation.

"He would be in here (the Bonanza) in the morning asking if anyone wanted to pick up a few bucks in the orchards. Maybe four guys would say "okay" and they would pile into that red and white pickup of his and go off.

"Then sometimes he would come in late at night and line up guys to work the next day. He never got in arguments. I knew him and all his brothers. They started leaving about two years ago."

Corona's attorney is Roy J. Van Der Heuvel. He is a public defender in Sutter County and also has practiced law here for the past six years.

Van Der Heuvel, although refusing to discuss material facts in the case under a court gag order, shook things up a bit on the day of his appointment by saying:

"They have the wrong man."

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker is convinced they have the right man.

Whiteaker is 31, one of the youngest law enforcement officers ever to hold such a post. He also is the coroner for Sutter County, although a pathologist performed the autopisies.

"This is the man," Whiteaker said. He said that before Yuba City Judicial Court Judge J.J. Hankins ordered everyone to clam up about the killing. That order has left newsmen scratching in vain about a motive.

According to court records, Corona had spent three months in the Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, Calif., in 1956, suffering from "delusions and hallucinations" and was diagnosed as a schizophrenic. He was released three months later as recovered.

One of the first two bodies identified was that of Sigrid Emil Beierman, 63, of Marysville. Police said Beierman last was seen entering a 1970 van driven by Corona. This report was checked out after Beierman was reported missing several weeks ago, then it was dropped until his body was found. It apparently helped lead Sutter County officers to Iorona, although they, under the court order, would not say so.

One of Corona's brothers, Pedro, did not leave the area when the others did. He described Juan as "the best brother I have. He sends money every week to our mother in Autlan and takes care of any of the brothers who come up here."

Juan's wife Gloria, through an interpreter, said he "always treated me right and never was violent with me or our four children."

She shook her head. "I'll never believe this," she said. "I can't understand it."

The district attorney, who eventually will prosecute the case, is another young man. His name is D. Dave Teja. He is of East Indian descendant, savvy, cool.

Under the instructions, Corona once again was shielded by a blanket when he made his first court appearance Wednesday. The public and the press were barred from Judge Hankins' courtroom.

Corona spoke one word in his first appearance, when Hankins asked him if he had the $5,000 to $20,000 which it might require to hire his own defense attorney. "No," he said.

That morning two of Corona's children were waiting for a school bus. They were oblivious to the tragedy. One wore a red and orange plaid dress and the other a blue dress. Both had neatly shined white oxford shoes. A man apparently a relative, came along and hustled them off.

Mrs. Gloria Corona was crying.

"Is this going to hurt my children?" she asked. "Is it going to be on television and the newspapers?"

In the New Palm Hotel, Rose the barmaid was talking about the man who took the double Old Crow.

"He said that Juan used to ask him if he was a local and what nationality and how old and whether he had any relatives," Rose said. And still the bodies continued to be unearthed. The world watched the bizarre happenings in the lush fruit country along the Feather River, strangely fascinated.

And always the unanswered question:

Why?

pressed determination to bring about the earliest liquidation of the consequences of Israel's aggression and reestablish a fair peace in the Middle East that would take into account the legitimate interests of the Arab people of Palestine."

However, the treaty clearly gave Sadat a go-ahead on continuing talks that might lead to peace in the Middle East. The Tass announcement said the two sides "agreed that the policy followed by the United Arab Republic toward a peaceful settlement of the Middle East crisis is one which can create an atmosphere for a just and lasting peace in the area."

Other main points in the treaty:

—The Soviet Union will continue military support to Egypt and continue training Egyptians on the weapons it provides.

—The two nations will "consult each other immediately on matters of interest to their countries."

—Neither state will interfere in the other's affairs nor join treaties or pacts to which the other is opposed.

7 Counties Seek Ruling On Welfare

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Seven California counties have asked the state Court of Appeal to overrule a Sacramento Superior Court decision which forbids the state from cutting welfare payments to persons with large incomes.

The Sacramento decision reversed a ruling by an Alameda County court, which found that the welfare office rules were being interpreted too generously.

About 27,500 families would be cut from relief rolls if the state were allowed to follow the ruling handed down in the Alameda County case. However, the California Welfare Rights Organization went to the Sacramento court and got a contradictory ruling from the Superior Court there.

Joining Alameda County in the appeal were Marin, San Mateo, Tulare, Butte, San Diego and Santa Clara.

Draft Call Finds Only 1 Inductee

Only one of the 37 youths ordered to report to the Marin County Selective Service Board in May actually was inducted, executive secretary Joy M. Kinzer reported yesterday.

She said one refused induction, 19 failed to report, three were rejected, one was transferred, orders were canceled for three, one was reclassified to 1-SC, induction was still pending for five, two walked out, and new orders were issued for one.

The only man inducted was Hans P. Kramer of Fairfax.

Mrs. Kintzer said orders will go to 43 Marin County registrants in June, all men with numbers below 195 in the 1970 lottery or 125 in the 1971 lottery.

Career Choice Director Out

A directory of Marin County businesses and industries willing to assist students in selecting a career has been released by the Marin County Industry-Education Council.

The catalogue lists 110 businesses, industries and agencies which will provide speakers, demonstrations, tours and, in some cases, on-the-job training programs.

It was developed primarily for teachers and counselors and divides businesses into nine "cluster areas" — arts, business, health, nature, personal services, trade and industry, technology, public service and professional.

Four Booked In Possession Of Grass

Four Fairfax men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of marijuana possession following their arrest when a neighbor made a complaint about their dog.

Released without bail to appear next Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court were James Harry Caulkett, 20; Robert Wesley Cobbler, 19; James Reed Orchard, 22; and Steven Jacques Miramon, 21, all of 266 Cascade Drive in Fairfax. They were arrested at 6:20 p.m. when the neighbor, Mike Morarity, who also is a Fairfax police officer, went to the house to complain about the dog destroying his garden.

According to the police report, the four were arrested when the officer saw them preparing to roll a marijuana cigarette as he approached the house.

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 8 in Marin Municipal Court for Sgt. George Milton Elsea, 26, of Hamilton Air Force Base, who is charged with possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia.

He was arrested May 11 when Novato police stopped his car because it didn't have a front license plate. They said they found a water pipe and three small bags of suspected pot in the car.

MARY H. SIMONDS
101 years of life

OBITUARIES

Mary H. Simonds, 101, Dies

Funeral service for Mary H. Simonds, who lived more than a century and whose family was the first to settle in Indian Valley in Novato, was held yesterday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Simonds, 101, died Tuesday at a local convalescent hospital where she had lived for several years.

On her 100th birthday she told the Independent-Journal she attributed her long life to living by the Golden Rule and being a good citizen.

Born in Christchurch, New Zealand, she sailed with her parents to San Francisco when she was four years old. According to her own account, her father had difficulty finding housing for His family of seven until he threatened go throw his five children into the Bay.

She was married on Christmas Day in 1897 to Walter Simonds Sr. and the couple built a house on 27th Avenue in San Francisco. Two weeks after they moved in, the earthquake hit and the house was filled with relatives and friends who had lost their homes.

When her parents purchased 40 acres of land in Indian Valley, she and her husband bought the adjoining five acres. They and their two children lived in four tents for a year until they constructed a barn and, later, a house.

Mrs. Simonds who celebrated her golden wedding anniversary a few years before her husband died in 1951 is survived by a son, Walter A. Simonds of Novato; a daughter, Gertrude M. Serres of Novato; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions to Guide Dogs for the Blind, San Rafael, would be preferred by the family.

He is survived by his wife, Gertrude B.; a son, Howard McKinstry of San Rafael; a daughter, Bertha Leigh of Los Angeles; two brothers, Rt. Rev. Raymond KcKinstry, retired Episcopal bishop of Delaware and Kenneth K. McKinstry of South Carolina; a sister, Mildred Davis of Texas; and five grandchildren.

ABAG Takes Look At Its Performance

NAPA (UPI)—A plea for a regional government with authority was made Thursday at a conference called by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

"A regional constitution is struggling to be born here," said Eugene Lee, University of California professor who served as moderator.

"Regional jobs can't be done any more by voluntary organizations," such as ABAG, Lee asserted.

"We're all going through a revolution now, in which society will have to wrench itself away from many old ideas," Lee said while demanding that the work be done "in our democratic tradition."

"Let us all allow our minds in the next few hours to get out of the boundaries of our cities and counties to truly regional problems we must face."

Lee's contention that voluntary organizations could not handle regional problems satisfactorily was challenged by Supervisor Ignazio Vella of Sonoma County.

Vella declared executive authority would lead to authoritarianism, which he said was an "anathema to the philosophy of the U.S."

"If you wish to have more efficiency, you must give up more freedom," the supervisor said while declaring that the Nazi government in Germany was "one of the most efficient ... the world has ever seen."

"State, federal, local and private interests are all fighting now to try to govern the Bay Area," Lee said, "and local governments are clearly losing out as they wallow around trying to protect their little plots of zoning."

James Dowden, of the private National Service to Regional Councils, remarked that at present "the air is still foul, the water is worse ... the housing atrocious."

He said "regional council, like ABAG, haven't been as productive as they could be, though they have done good work."

Eggshell Defects Found In DDT Laboratory Test

DAVIS (UPI)—Two University of California scientists have come up with what they believe is the first laboratory-documented evidence that DDT plays a part in weakening the eggshells of birds.

"I have no doubt that DDT is a factor in causing eggshell thinning among birds although there may be other factors," said Dr. Larry McFarland, who conducted experiments with associate R. L. Garrett.

"We have photographic evidence that Japanese quail fed DDT produce structurally defective eggshells. This is the first time in our knowledge this has been shown in the laboratory," he said Thursday.

Conservationists have long maintained that the pesticide and its residues, which are slow to break down in the environment, cause thin eggshells when they enter birds' bodies in food. As a result, they have argued, eggs break in the nests and no young are produced.

Using the university's huge scanning electron photographic microscope, the scientists discovered structural defects in Japanese quail eggs after the birds were fed the pesticide.

"We have seen that the central area of the shell—the spongy area—is most severely affected. In some cases, it was absent," McFarland said.

"I can only surmise—very strongly—that DDT or its metabolites (products of chemical breakdown) are implicated in these structural changes."

He said the defects he and Garrett photographed possibly explain the "weak eggshell" problems that reportedly threaten species of wild birds such as the peregrine falcon and the brown pelican. The laboratory quail were fed pesticides in amounts comparable to those that might be found in the wild.

Eggshells were studied under the microscope before and after the feeding.

"We are faced," McFarland said, "with the difficulty of correlating thinning of the eggshell with the presence of DDT in the environment. In the laboratory, we have observed structural changes that are definitely similar to structural changes observed (not under controlled conditions) in some brown pelican eggshells."

Europeans Asked To Share Burden

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — John B. Connally, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, bluntly told the rest of the non-Communist world today to open its doors to more American products and shoulder a larger share of the common defense.

"No longer does the U.S. economy dominate the free world," Connally told a lunch meeting winding up the four-day international banking conference of delegates from 20 nations.

"No longer can considerations of friendship or need or capacity justify the United States carrying so heavy a share of the common burdens," Connally said.

Today's speech was Connally's first public comment here on the international monetary crisis caused by an avalanche of unwanted dollars into Europe.

"We today spend nearly nine per cent of our gross national product on defense-nearly $5 billion of that overseas, and much of it in Western Europe and Japan," Connally said.

"Financing a military shield is part of the burden of leadership;" he said, "But 25 years after World War II, legitimate questions arise over how the cost of these responsibilities should be allocated among the free world allies who benefit from that shield."

Connally said, "we are not going to devalue. We are not going to change the price of gold. We are controlling our inflation.

"Is it natural or inevitable that fully 30 per cent of Japanese exports go to the U.S. market—or do restrictions in Europe help account for the direction of that flow?" Connally asked.

"After years of income growth averaging more than 10 per cent should not the Japanese consumer have free access to the products of the outside world?"

"Must Canada maintain tariffs on private purchases of U.S. autos at a time a balance of payments surplus has resulted in a floating exchange rate?"

"Is it right that United States agricultural products find acess to the densely populated continent of Europe increasingly limited?"

Arthur F. Burns, head of the American Federal Reserve System, today accused other central banks of upsetting the international monetary system by trying to make profits as if they were private firms.

"We live in a world in which private citizens and business are expected to act in response to the profit motive," Burns told the concluding session.

"Central banks, on the other hand, have a stabilizing function that should not be influenced by considerations of profit or loss," he said.

The West Germans contended during the conference that the dollar is overvalued, and that the Americans ought to raise their interest rates up to European levels so speculative money will stay home.

French, Italian and Japanese delegates were for more controls on capital movement, a path neither the Americans nor the Germans wished to tread.

All-Year School Bill To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Reagan administration-backed bill which could enable California children to go to school all year reached its final legislative barrier today.

The Assembly Thursday approved the measure by Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-San Diego, and returned it to the Senate for approval of lower house changes. The lone dissenting vote was cast by Assemblyman John Miller, D-Berkeley.

The bill allows school districts voluntarily to switch to an all-year, quarter system, with the permission of the state superintendent of public instruction. Burgener said Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, and Gov. Ronald Reagan backed the bill.

NATO Brass Wary Of Troops Cut

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) today stressed the need for caution and a common approach to the Soviet call for talks on cutting military forces in Europe.

Meeting in the bi-annual defense planning committee, the ministers welcomed the Soviet reply to repeated NATO appeals for talks on mutual and balanced force reductions.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird emphasized the need for a common approach to the subject and promised the other 13 ministers the United States would have plans ready for discussion by July. NATO also has prepared a series of studies of the subject.

Laird also stressed all the NATO partners had to maintain their strength to give meaningful negotiations a chance of success, U.S. officials said.

The British and German defense ministers agreed on the need for a common approach on force reductions and emphasized the need for caution in reply to the Soviets.

Lord Carrington, for Britain, warned the NATO nations "must beware of being diverted from meeting the essential requirements of defense."

"In seeking detente we must be careful not to exchange substance for shadow," he said.

Helmut Schimdt, the West German minister, said the west should not lose the initiative on the force reduction question but should not "rush" into dealing with the east.

Laird also indicated the United States felt the need for a continued greater European contribution to its own defense, officials said.

The European defense ministers assured Laird they were determined to improve their contribution to European defense in the 1970s.

Boat Stolen

A 12-foot aluminum boat was stolen from a dock at the residence of its owner, Thomas C. Hartley of 37 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, Monday or Tuesday, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

Congressional Record Feels Inflation Bite

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The price of all that talk is up again. Each page of the Congressional Record will cost $140—a total estimated cost of $7 million this year.

The public printer, A.N. Spence, says the only cure for it is for congressmen to say what they mean the first time. It's all that "revising and extending" of remarks that helps run up the bill.

Spence conceded in testimony published today that this was only a dream. But while he was dreaming he envisioned one further improvement in publication of Congress' own daily newspaper.

Assuming that House and Senate members no longer were allowed to rewrite their remarks (sometimes as late as 9 or 10 p.m. or even midnight), the official reporters could type their verbatim transcript onto a tape that would drive an automatic typesetting machine fast enough to produce three record pages per minute.

The way it is now, 600 employes of the Government Printing Office work all night getting out the Record's 42,000 copies, spending a good bit of their time just deciphering what the lawmakers have handwritten between the typewritten lines.

"The other night we were late," he told a House subcommittee. "We had one member in the other house (the Senate) who had interlined more material per page then there was on the original typed page. Then we had to call his administrative assistant in. For two hours our production people and his administrative assistant tried to decipher what the member put in there."

The record is published each morning after either the House or Senate has met the previous day. It purports to provide a verbatim account of what happens. Many days this requires more than 200 pages, and an estimated 50,000 pages are to be printed in the new fiscal year.

The per page cost of the record rises each year, and the total number of pages also mounts gradually. As recently as 1965 the page cost was $108.50. For the year just approaching its end the estimate was $128. Spence said $140 was his best guess for the 12 months starting July 1.

Auto Repairs Gain Controls

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two bills authorizing the state to license auto repair shops were approved Thursday by the Senate Business and Professions Committee and sent to the Finance Committee.

One of the measures by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, DBeverly Hills, would set up a state Bureau of Automotive Repair to register repair dealers.

The other bill by Sen. William Coombs, R-Rialto, provides for the licensing of repair shops. It earlier also called for the licensing of mechanics but was amended by the committee to cover only shops.

Originally the bureau created by Beilenson's bill would have been placed under the Department of Consumer Affairs but the committee moved it to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

License fees paid by shop owners would finance the new bureau.

Federal Attorney Faces Bribe Soliciting Count

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A Federal Trade Commission attorney was charged Thursday with soliciting a $150,000 bribe from the president of a local figure salon under FTC investigation.

Robert Charles Brown, 64, a San Francisco FTC lawyer for 10 years, was accused in a U.S. Grand Jury indictment of seeking the money from Richard Proctor. A salon operated by Proctor has been under investigation for possible violation of federal regulations on advertising and contracts with clients.

The indictment charges that Brown, investigating attorney for the FTC, offered to give the business a "favorable" report for $150,000.

Proctor reportedly contacted his attorney, who informed the FBI.

U. S. Attorney Dwayne Keys said Proctor gave Brown several thousand dollars during a conversation which Proctor allowed FBI agents to record, and Brown was later arrested by the FBI.

FTC Regional Director Raymond Lloyd said in San Francisco that Brown had been suspended from his duties.

Three Greenbrae Scouts To Receive Eagle Rank

Three scouts from Troop 59 in Greenbrae will receive the rank of Eagle Scout at a Court of Honor at 8 p.m. Thursday in Redwood high school's little theater.

They are Jack B. Hagler, Marc C. Lesko and Stephen J. Egger.

All three have older brothers who have achieved Eagle rank, and one has a father who achieved it.

Hagler, 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hagler of 345 Bretano Way, Greenbrae. He is in the eighth grade at Adeline E. Kent school in Kentfield.

He has been an assistant patrol leader and patrol leader in the troop.

For his Eagle project, he organized the troop to collect aluminum cans in the Greenbrae area. The project took three months to clean up the area and the money received for the cans was given to the troop.

Hagler was in the all-star little league team, Babe Ruth League, and all-star in district basketball for eighth graders. He won first place in county High C jumping.

His older brother, Richard Hagler, also holds the Eagle rank.

Lesko, 16, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Lesko of 50 Corte De Sabla, Greenbrae. He is a sophomore at Redwood High School.

He has been a scout for five years. He has been patrol leader and senior patrol leader. He has taken two 50-mile hikes with the troop. He has 21 merit badges and is a member of the Order of the Arrow.

His Eagle project was marking and maintenance of the High Marsh Trail on Marin Municipal Water District land on the north slope of Mt. Tamalpais.

His hobbies include astronomy, amateur radio, conservation and boating.

His older brother Edward R. Lesko also achieved the Eagle rank and is now attending California Polytechnic at San Luis Obispo.

Egger, 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Egger of 340 Bretano Way, Greenbrae. He comes from a scouting family.

His father was an Eagle scout with Troop 2 in Mill Valley and a past president of Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America. His older brother, Jay D. Egger won his Eagle rank with Troop 59.

Egger is a student at Adeline E. Kent school where he participates in athletics. His hobbies include both water and snow skiing, baseball and football.

He has been a scout for three years. During that time he has served as assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and troop librarian. He has earned 21 merit badges.

He is a member of the Redwoods Presbyterian Church. His Eagle project was cleaning up and maintaining the gardens of that church.

Russian, U.S. Fishermen In Another Brush

BOSTON (UPI)—Another incident of a Russian fishing vessel sailing through the lobster gear of an American boat has been reported to the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard's 1st District Headquarters said the incident took place about 6 a.m. Thursday some 65 miles south-southeast of Montauk Point, N.Y.

The lobster boat "United States" in its initial message said six Russian trawlers were in the area and that one passed through its nets. The boat gave no damage report.

Five hours later she radioed the Coast Guard she had passed charts to the Russian factory ship Robert Ehyke, marking the position and formation of her nets and those of a sister ship, the Susan Y.

The United States said it left the area satisfied and that there were no further problems.

Guilty Plea To Reduced Charge

Lissa Pope, 26, of Tiburon, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of writing a bad check.

She is to be sentenced July 16.

Mrs. Pope originally charged with three felony bad check counts, was arrested April 12 at her home on a warrant accusing her of writing more than $900 worth of bad checks.

Strawberry Drafts Recreation Budget

A preliminary $74,802 budget for 1971-72, which represents an increase of approximately 30 per cent over this year, has been approved by the Strawberry Recreation District board.

Directors estimated the spending program will require a tax rate of 55 cents per $100 assessed valuation, compared to this year's 50-cent rate.

Clerk Jeanne Heick reported the budget allocates $26,136 for salaries and includes the new position of district manager, who will oversee operation of the new community building and all district properties. He will be paid $10,000 per year.

Other budget items, with this year's expenditures in parenthesis, are: operations, $16,879 ($9,255); debt retirement, $24,342 ($25,543); capital outlay, $850 ($10,000), and reserves, $6,000 ($2,500).

Mrs. Heick said the board set a budget hearing for 8:30 p.m. July 7 at the community building and will adopt a final budget at that time.

In other business, the board authorized a five-year lease with the Strawberry Swim Club for district-owned swimming facilities at $6,000 per year in rent.

The board also amended its contract with Mill Valley Refuse Service to allow the firm to collect garbage for recycling by Whole Systems Inc.

McGovern To Face Surgery Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., the only announced Democratic Presidential candidate, will enter a hospital Monday for hernia surgery.

Doctors said they foresaw no complications with the operation and McGovern's office said he hoped to be released in time to be in the Senate June 4 for an important vote on the draft extension.

Annexation Bill Goes To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill making it easier for cities to annex unincorporated territory has been passed by the Assembly despite objections that it constituted a "land grab."

The bill by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, was sent to the Senate Thursday on a 42-20 vote after Knox agreed to give residents and landowners in unincorporated areas 60 days instead of 20 days to protest against a proposed annexation.

"If we don't make major moves in this area, the West Coast will look like the East Coast—like Hoboken and places like that," said Knox, chairman of the Local Government Committee.

Action Seen On Recreation Area

By Benjamin Shore
(I-J Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — Chances for Congressional action this year on the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area have been boosted by recent White House attention to a similar plan in the New York area.

President Nixon put his stamp of approval on the proposed Gateway National Recreation Area in New York harbor May 3 when he toured the area by helicopter.

White House aides said last week the President wants the Interior Department to move ahead with the development of open land near urban areas.

Plans for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area, taking in open land in southern Marin County and northern San Francisco, have been lying dormant in the department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

But a bureau spokesman acknowledged that as a result of the recent White House interest in recreation areas, indications of Administration action on the Golden Gate proposal now can be expected within two months.

The proposal centers mainly around portions of military lands — the Presidio, Forts Funston, Mason and Miley in San Francisco, Forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite on the Marin headlands — and Alcatraz Island in the bay.

This is the basic Administration proposal, which Rep. William S. Mailliard (R-San Francisco) has introduced in the Congress. The bill is cosponsored by Reps. Don H. Clausen (R-Crescent City), Paul N. McCloskey (R-Portola Valley), George Miller (D-Alameda), Charles Gubser (R-Gilroy) and Burt Talcott (R-Salinas).

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation is aware of sharp differences in the Bay Area over including the park-like Presidio in the recreation area, which would be administered by the National Park Service.

Some Bay Area conservationists want a commitment in writing from the Park Service that it would maintain the grounds as well as the Army has. Others, arguing that the Army has not done a good job, want the land included in the recreation area.

Sen. John V. Tunney (D-Calif.) is interested in the possibility of including Pt. Reyes National Seashore in the proposed recreation area.

Rep. Phillip Burton (D-San Francisco) has introduced separate legislation that would add the Navy Net Depot in Tiburon to the area.

Furthermore, Burton wants Alcatraz sold back to the Indians for $24.

These and other varying proposals must be weighed in the Interior Department's report to the Congress. Once a report is issued, hearings can be held in the House and Senate. Hearings to create the Gateway area in New York already have begun.

"I would hope President Nixon's visit to Gateway sets a pretty clear precedent," Mailliard said, although he was not optimistic about getting a departmental report out in time for hearings this years.

Interior Secretary Morton, accompanying Nixon on the Gateway tour, specifically mentioned the Golden Gate proposal as one which the Administration would like to see expedited.

Nixon has included $580 million in the fiscal 1972 budget for acquistion of parklands, especially preserves near urban centers that could be used for recreation.

The President recently turned over a long stretch of beachfront at Camp Pendleton for public use, and gave an 11-acre abandoned Nike missile site to the City of Redondo Beach for a park.

Man Bound Over On Check Count

Vithaya Chaloeicheep, 20, of San Rafael, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a bad check charge.

He is to be arraigned in Superior Court June 7.

Chaloeicheep was arrested on a warrant May 19, charging he signed the name of Propat Soparkthpong to a check given to a San Rafael used car dealer April 2.

Festival Sets Play Tryouts

The Marin Shakespeare Festival has announced tryouts tomorrow and Sunday for two of this season's presentations, "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Wind in the Willows."

Tryouts for "As You Like It" will be held June 20.

All sessions will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael, where the festival season opens July 17.

Persons seeking parts are asked to prepare a short speech or scene, preferably from plays to be presented, and to supply a resume and photograph.

Distaff Bar Keeps Win Court Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Women who want to be bartenders today owed the California Supreme court a drink on the house.

The high court Thursday declared unconstitutional the state law limiting woman bartenders to the wife of the license holder or to a woman who holds a liquor license.

The provision in the state constitution stated "a person may not be disqualified because of sex from entering or pursuing a lawful business, vocation or profession."

In addition the Supreme Court said the present law violates the equal-protection guarantees of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and the 1964 Federal Civil Rights Act.

"The pedestal upon which women have been placed has all too often, upon closer inspection, been revealed as a cage," said Justice Raymond E. Peters in writing the court's opinion.

The court ruled in the case of two Los Angeles bar owners who sued to stop the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control from taking action against them because they employed women as barkeeps.

Fire Remodeling In Novato Set

The Novato Fire District board has authorized remodeling at Station Two, South Novato Boulevard, to provide storage area at a cost of $235.

Fire Chief Jack Kidder reported directors on Wednesday also authorized display of the snorkel at the Novato Little League Pancake Breakfast June 5 at the Novato Fair Shopping Center.

Fireman Raymond Cleary was raised to the top salary step, $880 a month.

Panel Nod On Extra $1 Billion

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Finance Committee has tentatively agreed to increase Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed state budget by nearly $1 billion.

Chairman Randolph Collier said Thursday he would submit the proposed $7.5 billion spending program to committee members Tuesday for a vote.

"If they think these programs are necessary, they can put their money where their mouth is," the crusty Yreka Democrat told a newsman.

Committee staff estimated the state must generate $836 million in new revenue—a major tax increase—to balance the expenditure blueprint.

Reagan's proposed budget for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 called for spending $6.73 billion to operate state government and provide assistance to local school districts.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee, the Lower House's counterpart to the Senate Finance Committee, approved two weeks ago a budget of $7.06 billion.

Traditionally the Senate has held tighter purse strings on state spending, but apparently this year Senators plan to break precedent.

Although both houses must reconcile the amounts in the final version of the budget, the governor has the last word. Reagan can trim down or veto expenditures he believes unjustified. But he cannot add money.

Senate and Assembly versions of the budget differ in several key areas, including welfare, Medi-Cal and school aid.

The Senate added $146 million more than the lower house for Medi-Cal for a total program of $735 million and ordered full financing of all welfare programs with an open-ended spending plan.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said this provision would hike welfare spending a minimum of $220 million more to $793 million next year, but warned this sum could soar to $270 million.

The Assembly panel recommended spending what Reagan suggested — $573 million — but wrote into the program a guarantee counties would not have to pick up the amount if estimates are too low.

Senators also have tentatively agreed to give schools $100 million more than the governor, who recommended about $1.5 billion in classroom aid.

Both committees have voted a 10 per cent salary boost for state college and university faculty members, with a 5 per cent increase for all other state employes.

The governor recommended no salary hikes, but offered state workers more fringe benefits and time and one-half pay for overtime. They now get compensatory time off.

The finance committee also provided about $36 million in tax-supported general fund money for college and university construction. The governor made no similar spending proposal.

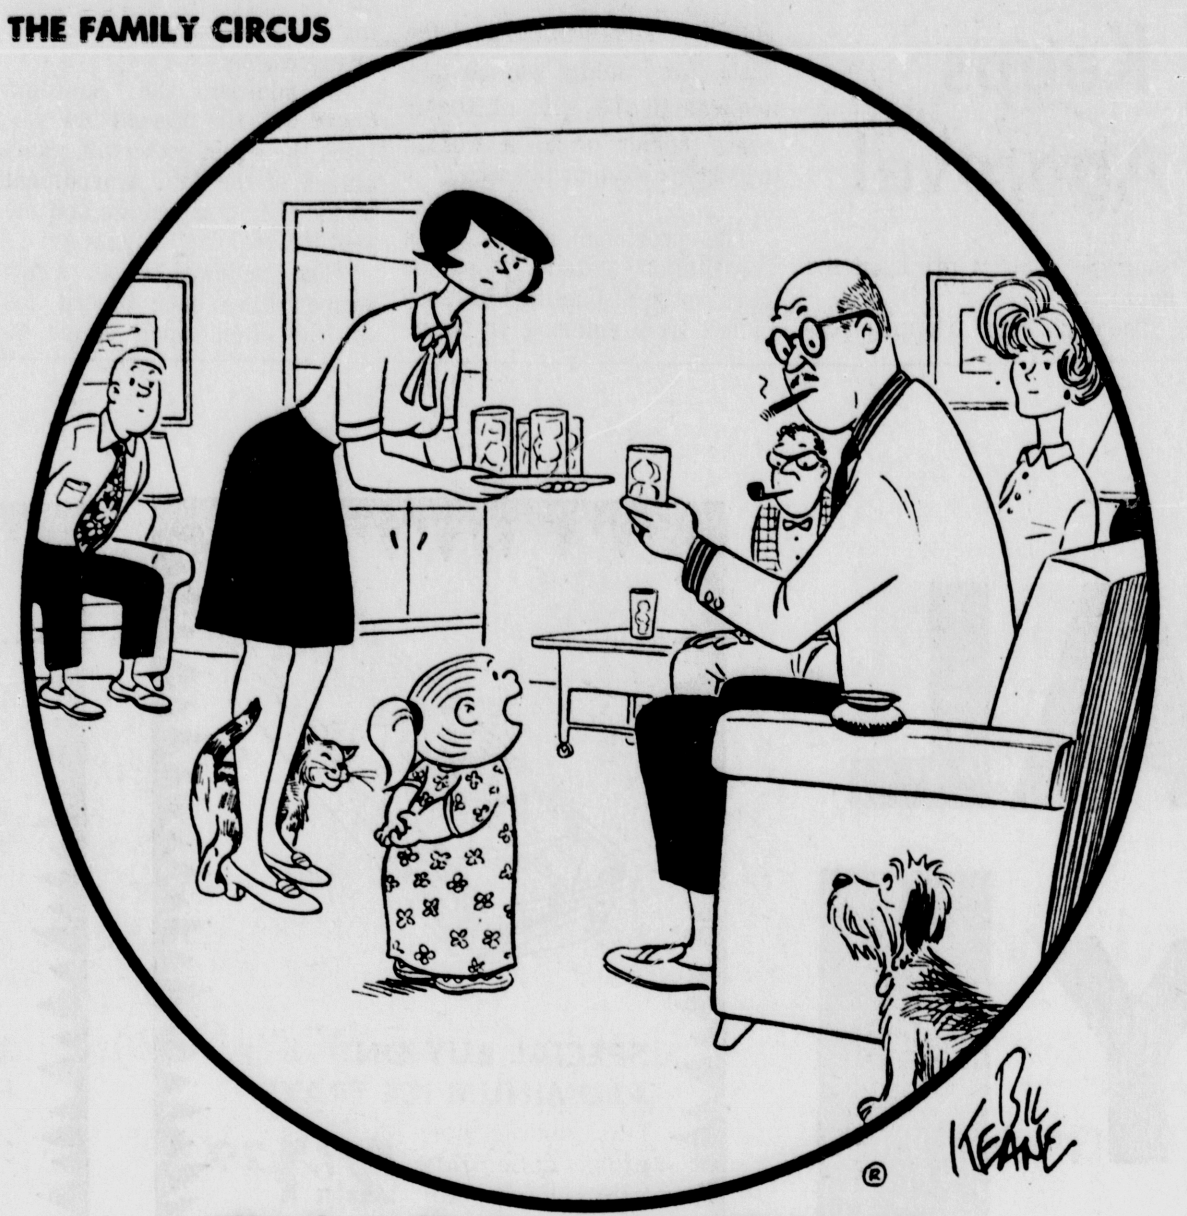
THE FAMILY CIRCUS



"How do you like the new glasses Mommy went out and bought this afternoon?"

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, May 28, the 148th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

British statesman William Pitt was born May 28, 1759.

On this day in history:

In 1798 President John Adams was empowered by Congress to recruit an American army of 10,000 volunteers.

In 1934 the Dionne quintuplets were born near Callender, Ont.

In 1940 the evacuation of British, French and Belgian troops from Dunkerque, on the English Channel coast of France, began. When it was completed, 337,000 had reached Britain safely, more than 13,000 others were killed.

In 1955 Albert Whitehouse, director of the United Steelworkers, predicted automation in factories would lead to a two-hour work day.

A thought for today: Miguel de Cervantes said: "My honor is dearer to me than my life."

Pet Lover Leaves Estate To Animals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Mrs. Lillian Tracht Schaaf, 76, who had not owned a pet in 20 years, left $900,000 in her will for the construction and operation of a home "for friendless animals."

Mrs. Schaaf, who died Jan. 25, stipulated in her will probated here Wednesday that none of the animals at the home could be used for medical purposes.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Player's Statement Cannot Deceive Readers Of This Hand

"I would have bet 5-to-1 that I was going to make that hand," South declared after going down one on the hand shown today. "I had three good chances for it, but everything was sour. Some days it doesn't pay to get out of bed." This statement was intended to prove that South was a great player but that fate was against him, but he cannot deceive readers of this column.

Opening lead — ♣ J

CLUB LEAD

West opened the jack of clubs, and dummy's queen lost to the ace. Back came a club to dummy's king, and declarer promptly drew trumps in two rounds.

South tried his first shot by leading a low diamond to finesse with dummy's jack. East won with the queen of damonds and returned a low diamond.

West's nine forced out the king, and South tried his second shot by leading a diamond to the ace. If the diamonds broke evenly, his last diamond would be good and would allow him to discard a heart from dummy.

South had to fall back on his third shot. He led a heart, hoping that West held the ace. But East had the ace of hearts, and the defenders defeated the contract with two heart tricks.

SURE THING

South had a sure thing going if he just played the hand carefully. After winning the second trick in dummy with the king of clubs he should immediately ruff dummy's last club.

South then draws trumps, noting with satisfaction that they divide evenly. The stage is then set for the correct diamond play. South leads a low diamond from his hand and puts in dummy's eight when West plays low.

LOW DIAMOND

East wins with the ten of diamonds but cannot make a safe return. A diamond gives dummy a free finesse; a heart gives a trick to dummy's king.

West cannot interfere by putting up the nine of diamonds when South first leads that suit. Declarer then puts in dummy's jack, and East is caught just as fast in the trap.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠-6 3
♥-A J 5 3 2
♦-Q 10 7 6
♣-A 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

You have 11 points in high cards and two points for the doubletons, enough for an optional opening bid. You decide to bid rather than pass because your high-card structure is good. You would prefer to have the ten or nine of hearts instead of three very low cards, and some very conservative experts would prefer to pass this hand for lack of a strong suit.

Alarm On Boating Wastes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Its bow slicing powerfully through the waves, a tanned blonde lolling on the deck, the modern powerboat symbolizes carefree life in the clean outdoors.

At least that's the view from shore.

But California antipollution authorities look at yachts from a less romantic angle.

What they see are boats with toilet facilities legally draining their sewage directly into the water. This applies to naval and commercial vessels, as well as pleasure boats.

State water officials say they don't know exactly how much sewage is dumped by sports craft, but they consider it dangerous because it is untreated and because yachts sometimes tie up near bathing areas.

"Volume-wise, perhaps they're not large contributors, compared to industrial and commercial dischargers," says Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board. "But most of this waste is going into the bay without any treatment. There is a health concern."

A bill has been introduced in the state legislature by Assembly Water Committee Chairman Carley V.. Porter, D-Compton, to require toilet-equipped vessels to have holding tanks or federally approved treatment facilities by 1974.

"We have made a great deal of progress in California in regulating the discharge of wastes to our surface waters," says Porter. "The only discharges not regulated at the present time are those from vessels which use our waterways. This act will apply to pleasure craft as well as merchant ships and naval vessels."

The federal government has already drawn up proposed treatment requirements for all vessels with "heads."

Expected to be adopted by the end of the year, the federal standards would require head discharges from new vessels to meet treatment standards within two years. Existing vessels would have to meet the standards within five years.

Navy and commercial craft would also be covered, although the Navy is moving on its own to install treatment facilities and holding tanks on its ships.

John E. Bennett, director of the state Department of Navigation and Ocean Development, says California has about 525,000 registered recreational boats, about 100,000 of them equipped with toilets.

In San Diego, "the trouble is not quantity, but the fact that boats are next to bathing beaches," reports Executive Officer Dennis O'Leary of the San Diego regional board.

Charles T. Carnahan, executive officer of the Sacramento-Central Valley Regional Board, cites the "increasing use of houseboats" in the delta as a major problem.

"One boat may not contribute a lot," he says. "But in aggregate they contribute quite a bit. At a marina you may have 50, 75 or 100 boats tied up, with people living on some of them and throwing parties. It can produce a relatively sizable discharge."

Because the sewage is untreated, he considers it "really a lot more dangerous from a public health standpoint than sewage from a treatment plant."

Attorney Lance Rideout, commodore of the Sacramento Yacht Club, strongly supports Porter's bill.

"If we're going to take the position that state waters have to be cleaned up," he says, "we have to go along with it. We have to lead the way. Our kids are the ones who swim in the river."

Acquittal For Students In Fresno Ruckus

FRESNO (UPI)—A Municipal Court jury has acquitted two Fresno State College students of charges stemming from demonstrations at the college last May.

Vincent Lavery, 34, and Gilbert Acuna, 22, had been charged with unlawful assembly and obstructing traffic.

During their trial, which ended Tuesday, they contended they were at the scene of the demonstration to stop possible violence.

The demonstration took place after the FSC administration announced the firing of most of the school's ethnic studies program faculty.

Lavery and Acuna were the last of those arrested to be brought to trial.

Command Chain For Suicide Center Set

Peggy Gartman of San Rafael will be operations coordinator for the Marin Suicide Prevention Center, the center's board of directors has announced.

At a meeting held Thursday at the San Rafael office of the Marin Association for Mental Health, according to board president Keith C. Craig, directors approved this chain of command:

The board of directors will make policy decisions. Mrs. Gartman, as operations coordinator, will be the liaison between the board and the volunteers who will man the telephones to take crisis calls.

Under Mrs. Gartman will be six subordinates in charge of resources (a file of various agencies and services that can aid those in distress), referrals (giving volunteers help in referring clients and problems to proper agencies), office operations, professional advisory committee, volunteer scheduling, and training.

Craig said the board hopes to open a telephone service for crisis calls "very soon" but declined to name a specific date. He said the board is trying to get free space in a church building in Central Marin where the telephone crisis center will be set up.

The directors will meet again in special session at 4 p.m. next Wednesday, June 2, at the Marin Association for Mental Health office. They will continue discussions on the organization chart, possibilities of raising funds, and get progress reports on negotiations for space to open the telephone service.

The total was $15.7 million, or 3.4 per cent higher, than the gross value of 1969 crops.

U.S. Suffers Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Imports exceeded exports by $214.7 million in April, to create the first deficit in the U.S. trade account in more than two years, the Commerce Department reported today.

The trade deficit aggravates the nation's critical balance of payments problem. A flood of dollars overseas this year has already resulted in five European nations increasing the value of thair currency in relation to the dollar, in effect devaluing the dollar.

Imports totaled a record $3.76 billion during the month, eclipsing the previous high of $3.69 billion recorded last January. Exports in April totaled $3.54 billion.

The export figure was down from $3.81 billion in March while imports were up from the March figure of $3.57 billion.

Summer Recreation Program Scheduled

Registration is open for summer recreation programs in Petaluma including judo, guitar, ballet, tennis and golf.

Two sessions of judo for youngsters between the ages of 6 and 14 will be offered at Kenilsorth Recreation Center on Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. Classes will be conducted by the Marin School of Self-defense.

A 10-week folk guitar course for beginning, intermediate I and intermediate II students will be offered to children and adults at La Tercera School from June 21 to Aug. 27. Participants must furnish their own guitars.

A 10-week course in ballet for children over the age of 5 will be offered at La Tercera School from June 21 to Aug. 27. Tennis lessons for persons 8 years old and over will be offered from June 21 to July 16. If there is enough interest, a second session may be offered from July 26 to Aug. 20. Participants must furnish their own tennis rackets.

Golf instruction for children between the ages of 10 and 16 will be offered at the Liberty Valley Golf Course, 50 Liberty Road, Petaluma, from June 21 to Aug. 20.

Registration fees must be paid at the Petaluma Recreation Department office at Walnut Park before each session begins.

ART REVIEW

Hyde-Doty-Grusser Show Is Satisfying

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Having reviewed Allie Hyde's paintings in San Francisco this spring, it is worth noting that seeing them a second time holds no less interest.

In this current show she shares with Jefferey Doty and Herb Grusser through June 21 at the Unitarian Fellowship, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael, her crisp-edged tapestries of muted color still effect the same initial impact and interesting after-images.

The patterned camouflage she often uses to delay recognition of a subject is, of course, less concealing. But the fact that we now immediately recognize the marijuana plant hidden in the blazing pattern of flowers doesn't lessen respect for the intricate paint scheme. And it only brings us to the total concept sooner now that the baby being born is at once discernible amid the color patterns.

Where Miss Hyde does not camouflage, as in a painting of a flower-flanked carved stone memorial, her ability to reduce a topic to its essence is just a striking. In fact, all of her work is dramatic. And in that way her paintings also relate to Grusser's mobiles and Doty's ceramic sculpture.

Grusser's painted discs and modified triangles, crescents and free form shapes which hang on arched metal rods, have the look of Alexander Calder's mobiles. Simple as they are, they do manage certain contrasts.

At times Grusser's work assumes life and airiness as in a delicate, leafy branch of brushed metal parts. At others, his work has an imposing quality such as in a sprawling spine of black metal rods ended by stark white circles, one large black disc and a teardrop of bright red.

The drama in Doty's sculpture is the sense of motion in its dented, twisting forms. It is also in the massiveness of its gnarled and casual structure and in the brown rawness and pitted glazes of its surfaces.

Some of it is brutally organic such as the chunks of clay from which weathered tree branches can be believed to grow. Others are intellectually provocative. One such is a sort of uncapped fire hydrant, its rough, delicately etched outside touched by its inner speckled glaze which drips from the openings.

The other, rising from a flag draped pedestal, is a tortured column of clay broken midway by a marble chunk caught in a jungle of burned wire and tipped with a ribbed, spiked sphere of damaged wire.

Other strong sculpture pieces are unfortunately weakened by self-conscious drips of candle wax. And while a few of Doty's "utilitarian" ceramics such as a crumpled bottle don't measure up, others, including all his understated urns and a huge bowl built of raw cloth-textured slabs, its folded,"snail-tracked" interior glazed with deep blue pools, are generous compensation.

Novato Boys' Club Opens Clubhouse Fund Effort

Directors of the Boy's Club of Novato have opened a campaign to raise $100,000 to build and equip the first phase of a club at Lamont and Railroad avenues.

Plans are to construct a club on the two-acre site, now under option, in a three-phase development.

Novato's population is more than 31,000 and growing fast, creating a city large enough to support a club comparable to those in Santa Rosa, Marin City or other Bay Area communities, said President David E. Milano.

Vice President Paul S. Scheller said first phase construction would provide a large games room, facilities for arts and crafts instruction, a library, a room for older boys and an office for an executive director.

If sufficient funds are raised in the initial drive, the next phase of construction would include a gymnasium and kitchen. The third phase plan provides a swimming pool, Scheller reported.

The campaign got off to a good start with a $1,000 donation from the Novato Junior Women's club, but Milano stressed the need for 200 volunteers to make it a success.

Immediate plans are for appointment of a campaign general chairman, a policy steering committee and chairmen for three solicitation divisions, Milano said.

There are about 5,648 boys between the ages of 6 and 18 in the Novato area and an urgent need for a boys' club to serve them, he said.

The nonprofit club would be affiliated with the Boys' Clubs of America which serve all boys regardless of race, color or creed, Milano reported. The annual dues would be $3 and boys unable to pay are given a chance to earn the membership fee.

Scheller said the proposed club site is centrally located and "easily accessible to the greatest number of boys in the community."

Milano urged every club and organized group in the city to join in a communitywide effort to raise funds. About one third of the construction costs is expected to be contributed in materials and labor, he said.

He noted that the Boy's Club of America has been functioning for 65 years and has operated under a charter granted by Congress since 1956.

College Slates Spring Festival For June 5

The Associated Students of the College of Marin will stage its first Spring Festival June 5 at the student center.

The festival will feature about 20 booths displaying and selling crafts, art works and foods.

Staged as a fund raising event for student body coffers, the festival will include works on sale by both students and non-students.

Proceeds from the sales will be kept by the artists who will pay the student association for use of booths.

The festival will begin at about 10 a.m.

Julie's Position Not Favoritism

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House said yesterday Julie Nixon Eisenhower had asked no special favors for her teaching assignment at Atlantic Beach, Fla., next fall.

A group of teachers at Jacksonville, Fla., near Atlantic Beach, have complained the President's 22-year-old daughter was assigned as a beginning teacher to a choice school only four blocks from her home, while many teachers must drive miles to get to their classrooms in ghetto areas.

Connie Stuart, First Lady Pat Nixon's press secretary, said Mrs. Eisenhower "is a teacher like any other teacher. She was assigned to a school. It wasn't her request."

FAMILY

"Fantasia" — Reissue of 30-year-old Disney all time giant entertainment. Philadelphia orchestra plays nine musical classics and artists project their imaginative interpretations in cartoons. Outstanding.

"20,000 Leagues Under The Sea" — Reissue of Disney's interpretation of the Jules Verne's science fiction classic. An imaginative production set in 1868 with good acting from a fine cast.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Andromeda Strain" — A team of trained scientists race against time trying to identify a fatal disease transported to earth by a space probe satellite. Very entertaining but too technical and the destruction of people and animals would be too frightening for young children.

"Assassination Bureau" — An English satire about some elegant dealers in death. The head of an international organization of professional killers bargains with his men, they must kill him or he will kill them. Ending is an amusing surprise.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — A deft sophisticated comedy about two bandits. Imaginative camera work, wonderful score and witty performances. Very violent ending.

"Chisum" — Based on actual character and incidents during the cattle war in New Mexico in 1878. The plot is filled with intrigue, revenge, bloody murder and violent gun battles, which is routine for westerns. Good of its kind.

"Deserter" — A formula western plot about the spartan training of an elite commando squad for a slaughter of several hundred Apache Indians. Stereotyped characters. Admirable photography.

"I Never Sang for my Father" — Exceptional acting makes this film an emotional experience. It tells of the efforts of a man to build a bridge of understanding to his domineering ill-tempered old father. Well handled but depressing.

"Lawrence of Arabia" — Reissue of magnificent production telling the story of T.E. Lawrence, an English soldier who led the revolt of Bedouins against the Turks during World War I.

"Love Story" — Film is pure romantic escapism and an old fashioned simple love story. Acting is exceptional and some tasteless language mars an otherwise beautiful portrayal.

"Rise of Louis XIV" — French film with English subtitles is near documentary but beautiful and meticulously done, though slow moving. It is a study of the reign of the young king and the way he asserted his power when Cardinal Mazarin died.

"Waterloo" — The battle where Napoleon is defeated by Wellington has some of the most exquisite action sequences ever filmed, they are both spectacular and horrifying. Too violent for young children.

"Zeppelin" — World War I spy story about a British double agent. The details about zeppelins are of interest but the story is a routine medioce romantic melodrama.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bananas" — Typical Woody Allen fare of tasteless insults, irreverent nonsense dealing in the lowest moral and aesthetic denominators. (Catholic Film Newsletter).

"Little Big Man" — A very violent tragi-comic history of Indian-white relations as recalled by 121 year old ex-gun fighter. Very thought provoking, bloody with some sex scenes.

"Little Fauss, Big Halsey" — Contemporary motorcycle drama. Fast pace covers shallow content and goes nowhere. Nudity and sex.

ADULTS ONLY

"Five Easy Pieces" — A portrait of a modern alienated man who is not comfortable either with his talented family or with the rough life of an oil rigger. His callous treatment of everyone causes him to lose the sympathy from the audience. Explicit sex and crude dialogue.

"M.A.S.H. — Nothing escapes the mockery of this ribard blood soaked comedy of wartime Korea. Several scenes are as gruesome as they are funny. Sex, nudity and cursing make this a very adult satire.

Two Inmates Fail To Come Back To San Quentin

Two San Quentin Prison inmates, out on 72-hour passes, failed to return to the prison yesterday.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park identified the missing men as Lee Cagle, 47, and Julio Lopez, 27, both serving burglary terms from Alameda County.

Park said Cagle was to have returned to the prison at 3:30 p.m. yesterday and Lopez at 1 p.m., but neither showed up. Cagle was to be paroled in July and Lopez in August.

Park said there is a 1 per cent failure-to-return rate among the "several thousand" inmates who have taken part statewide in the 72-hour pass program.

Eye Gouger To Mental Hospital

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The son of a prominent Massachusetts politician, who gouged out his eyes while in a jail last week was transferred Wednesday from Maryland General Hospital to a state mental hospital.

Charles Innes Jr., 25, whose father is general counsel to the Massachusetts House of Representatives, was under the influence of a powerful animal tranquilizer when the incident occurred last Thursday, according to police. "It is doubtful that he will ever see again," a nursing supervisor said. But his general condition is very good.

Innes was taken by ambulance to Springfield State Hospital, also located in Baltimore.

Court Clears Anti-Spiro Yell

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)— The Washington Supreme Court ruled Thursday it wasn't a crime to yell "warmonger" at Spiro Agnew while the vice president was making a political speech.

The court reversed the disorderly conduct conviction of Peter J. McDonough, a Gonzaga University students who yelled at Agnew at a political rally during the 1968 presidential campaign. Agnew was campaigning for the vice presidency at the time.

"Shouting the word 'warmonger' but once—without more to indicate a further purpose or intention of breaking up the meeting ... did not amount to a disturbance of the peace, in fact or in law," said the majority opinion written by Justice Hugh J. Rosellini.

4 Hub Schools Win In Cleanup

Four schools in the San Anselmo School District have been named winners in a five-month clean campus competition.

Isabel Cook, Sleepy Hollow, Hidden Valley and Yolansdale schools each were awarded a camera after periodic checks of campuses, ending with a final inspection Wednesday.

Yolansdale pupils, kindergarten through third grade, got a special award, a snapon banner for their ecology flag. Runner-up was Brookside School, which received a banner, according to the district office.

The contest started Jan. 1.

Few National Stars Set For Marin's Auditorium

The Marin Veterans Memorial auditorium at the Civic Center, scheduled to open on Sept. 25, is booked almost solid through June of next year.

The bulk of the bookings are by local organizations, with only a sprinkling of national names like the Lawrence Welk Show and the San Francisco Symphony.

Leon G. Kalimos, manager of the memorial building, acknowledged that the new 2,100-seat theater has not booked top performers like pianists Van Cliburn and Jose Iturbi or the Stuttgart Ballet, which play in San Francisco, Sacramento and other Bay Area communities.

Kalimos gave these reasons Marin has not yet drawn performers of international renown:

1. Opening date of the auditorium and the seating capacity were not definite until too late to book for the 1971-72 season. Only 900 seats were originally planned, and it was not until this February that the county supervisors authorized funds for a full 2,100 seats.

2. Artists like Van Cliburn or Iturbi are too expensive for a 2,000-seat theater, especially when the audience potential is unknown. "If a performer costs $10,000, all 2,000 seats would have to be a sell-out at $5 per seat just to break even. Tickets would have to sell for $8 to $9 because you don't always have a sellout," said Kalimos.

3. Impresarios who arrange for the performers are reluctant to risk expensive shows in an untried location like Marin where audience reaction is unknown. "Take the Stuttgart Ballet," said Kalimos. "At $50,000 per week, we'd need a big auditorium and an established audience before an impresario will risk bringing such a performance here."

Kalimos said many people have the mistaken idea that he, as manager of the building, can book all the performances. "That's not my job. All we do is rent the space. The ones who book performances and take the risk of losing their shirt are the impresarios."

Producers who bring entertainment to San Francisco are not likely to move such entertainment just 15 or 20 miles north to Marin when there is no established audience here, he added.

Kalimos, however, expects Marin to begin drawing more name entertainers from the 1972-73 season, after the Memorial has been opened for a season. The Marin manager said he has contacted various producers like John Kornfeld, James Doolittle of Los Angeles, and others on the Pacific Coast to let them know that the Marin Memorial will open this year.

The theater will open Sept. 25 with the Marin Symphony Orchestra and guest soloist Dorothy Kirsten.

Thereafter every weekend and many of the weekdays are booked through June of 1972.

Name performances include the Lawrence Welk Show on Sept. 26; and the San Francisco Symphony Concert on Jan. 22, Feb. 26, April 22, and May 20, 1972.

Producer Mel Goldblatt has several dates reserved in October and November this year, but performers have not been decided. On Nov. 11 through 13, Goldblatt had planned to present the play, "Charlie Brown", but this fell through, and he is working on replacements.

Other reservations made through June of next year include these:

Grape Festival on Oct. 2, Marin County Fair from Oct. 8 through 11, A. M. Lecture Series sponsored by the Family Service League, Marin Ski Swap, Explorama travel films, Seawell antique shows, Marin Conservation League benefit, Marin Symphony, Youth in Arts, Marin Hearing and Speech Center Concert, San Rafael High School Symphonic and Concert Band, Marin Festival of Trees, Actors Playhouse of Marin, Marin Civic Ballet, Marin Youth Orchestra Concert, San Rafael Elementary and High Schools Vocal Festival, Terra Linda High School Symphonic Band, Marin Cat Fanciers, San Rafael High School Annual Musical, San Rafael Elementary Schools Instrumental Festival, Marin Sports Show, San Rafael High School Instrumental Festival, and many others.

Local organizations may use the building at lower rental than commercial performers.

Hearing Set For Bomb Call Man

Rodney Allan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court ot misdemeanor charges of possessing narcotics paraphernalia and being in a place where marijuana is used.

A hearing on defense motions was set Wednesday for June 17.

Woods was arrested May 3 after a male caller told a San Anselmo police dispatcher, "There's a bomb in your place — May Day, May Day."

The call was traced to Wood's residence, police said, but the bomb threat charge has not been filed against him pending further investigation.

The misdemeanor charges stem from a contraption for smoking marijuana allegedly found in Woods's residence when police went to investigate the bomb threat.

A Stormy Assembly Adjourns

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The 183rd United Presbyterian Church General Assembly adjourned Wednesday after a 10-day session highlighted by the election of the first woman moderator, a controvery involving a black militant, and a strongly-worded statement on Vietnam.

Lois H. Stair, 47, of Wausha, Wisc., was the first woman named moderator of the 3.1 million member denomination, gaining the votes of only four more than a majority of the 799 voting commissioners needed in a race against three men.

Mrs. Stair, mother of two grown sons, is vice president and secretary of her husband's foundry company.

Easilv the most controversial issue on the agenda developed when the Rev. Edler Hawkins, a black minister heading the committee on church and race, revealed that $10,000 had been given to a legal aid fund for avowed Communist Angela Davis.

After heated debate the $100,000 per year legal defense fund was extended for three years by a close vote. However, a motion was adopted censuring the church and race committee for a "serious question concerning the propriety" of the grant.

The commissioners went on record against President Nixon's Vietnamization policy "which provides arms for Asians to kill other Asians" and adopted the policy-making body's strongest provision yet on the Indochina war.

A statement urging withdrawal from Vietnam "no later than the end of 1971" and presidential amnesty "for those who are in prisons or expatriates for conscientious dissent to this war" was adopted by a narrow margin.

The general assembly extended for two years a committee seeking a plan of re-union with the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., which is located generally in the southern states.

Speed Controls Are Tightened

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department moved today to bring widely abused stimulant drugs commonly known as "pep pills" and "speed" under the same tight controls that govern codeine, morphine and methadone.

John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, announced that the amphetamine and methamphetamine drugs were being reclassified from a category which covers drugs like barbiturates to one which includes highly addictive drugs subject to widespread abuse.

The change, which could become effective in 30 days, means the two drugs will come under a manufacturing quota set by Attorney General John N. Mitchell; that a federal order form will be required for their distribution; and that they may be obtained only on a doctor's prescription that may not be refilled.

Second Medical School Graduation For Doctor

By PAT BALMES

For the second time in her life, Dr. H. E. (Jo) Thelander, of Tiburon, will be graduated from medical school in June. The 75-year-old pediatrician received her first medical degree almost half a century ago.

Between her two medical degrees she was in private pediatric practice in San Francisco for more than 40 years and was clinical professor of pediatrics at University of California San Francisco Medical Center, where she received in 1967 the university's highest honor for her work in the care of brain-damaged children. She started over again in medical school four years ago.

"I guess that is a first," Dr. Thelander said. "The University of California San Francisco's administration not only took me in, but invited me to participate in curriculum discussions. The main reason I began the second time around was to look at medicine from a student's viewpoint."

Dr. Thelander has had a lifelong interest in medical education and served on several national medical education committees.

"A lot of doctors tell me they would like to take medicine over again one day," she says, adding thatsome envy her for her freedom.

ONE MAJOR difference of the second time around from her "awfully good" course at University of Minnesota Medical School, which she completed in 1924, is that she misses the very close relationship of students and professors.

"I cannot believe this is due to the size of classes, as they have the same proportion of teachers to students as then," she says. "I wonder if this is part of the generation gap.

"But I had fun. I enjoyed my classmates. Most of them were great. Forget the long hair and shabby clothes. Maybe if people my age had been primped from infancy and had wept in the barber's chair before two years of age, we too would like to explore a change. When the demands, confrontations, strikes, parades and picketings of this period are history, it probably will be found that a new era of humanism has emerged with greater concern for all mankind."

JO THELANDER is one of nine children who grew up on a farm in Little Falls, Minn., when Charles Lindbergh was growing up there too.

When her three brothers served in World War I, she felt badly that she couldn't go to war with them.

"They suggested that I join nursing. Then, if there were a war, I could go," says the small woman.

But she was unhappy in nurse's training and after a medical missionary addressed the student nurses about her work, Jo told her, "I wish I could study medicine and go to a foreign country."

The missionary arranged a scholarship at University of Minnesota, where Jo studied for eight years; earning a master's degree and her medical degree, cum laude.

There were as many women in proportion to men in medical school then as there are today. She encountered no prejudice against women.

She never married. A busy colleague once said that doctors ought to be celibate instead of priests, she said humorously.

DR. THELANDER interned at Children's Hospital in San Francisco in 1925 when the house staff was limited to women and all but two of the departments had women physicians as chiefs.

She was appointed to the pediatrics department's staff in the school of medicine of University of California San Francisco, maintaining a private practice in San Francisco and participating in numerous community and civic activities.

In 1926 she went to China to serve as a medical missionary and remained until revolutionaries chased her out in 1927.

"I had a terrific time. I loved it, even the smells, But the Chinese didn't love us," she says. Her letters home are now at the Hoover Institute at Stanford University.

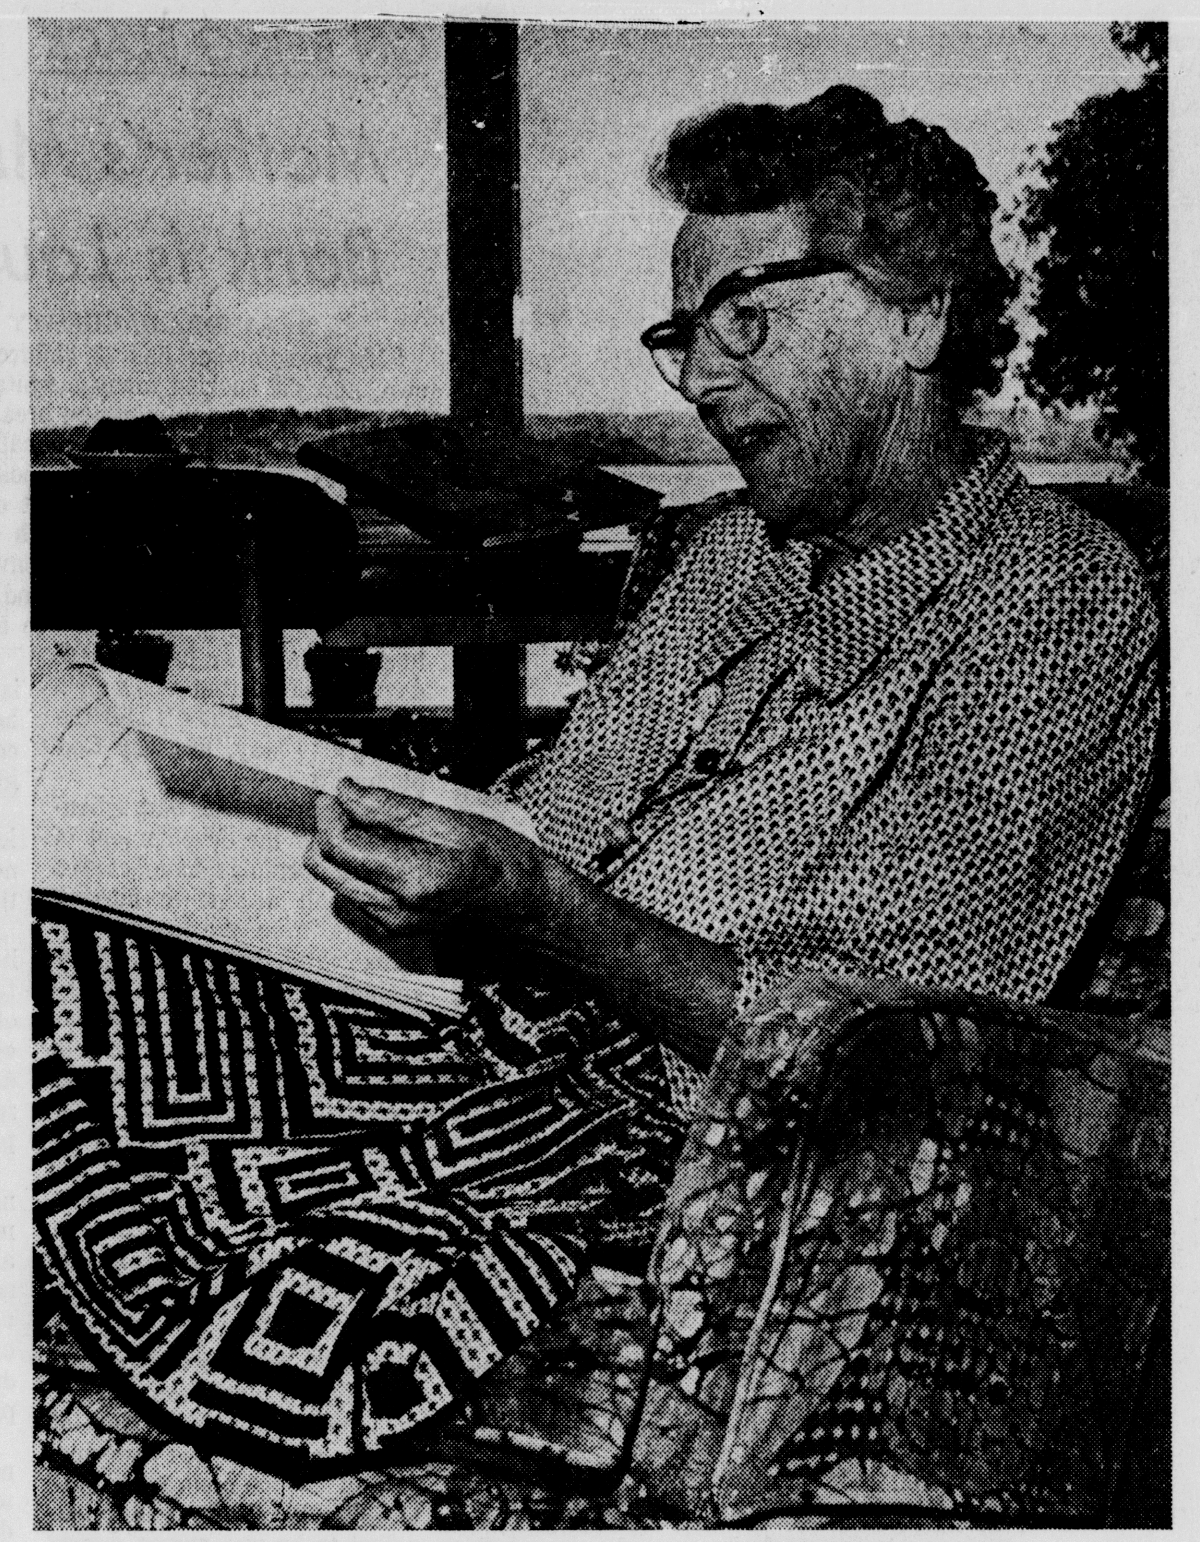
Awaiting another foreign assignment in San Francisco, she went into practice with Dr. Edward B. Shaw, whose partner had died while she was in China. No other foreign assignment came because of the troubled world situation. After practicing several years she decided to stay in San Francisco and repaid her scholarship to the Lutheran church.

DURING World War II Dr. Thelander entered the Navy as a doctor, with the rank of lieutenant commander. Stationed in San Francisco Marine, she left the Navy as a commander and for several years was chief consultant for Woman Veterans, Western Area.

Continuing private practice after the war, Dr. Thelander was also on the teaching staff at Children's Hospital where she was chairman of the pediatrics department for 10 years. She pioneered studies of brain-damaged children, which have led to great improvement in recognition and proper management of neurological defects in the early years of life.

In 1952 she started the Child Development Center at Children's Hospital, funded by the Cerebral Palsy Association. Later the March of Dimes helped finance the birth defects program. The Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital has also helped finance her work.

She started the center, not only for children with certain afflictions, but as she said, "we'll just take them all" in the diagnostic and evaluation center and nursery school to prepare them for one of the city's schools or centers.



DR. H. E. (JO) THELANDER, a 75-year-old pediatrician and professor emirtus at University of California San Francisco Medical Center, will be graduated this June from medical school for the second time in her life. "My main reason was to look at medicine from a student's viewpoint," says the Tiburon resident, who has served on several national committees on medical education. She received the university's highest honor in 1967 for her pioneer studies on the care of brain-damaged children. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn)

A SIMPLE quilt covers Dr. Thelander's bed at home, each square embroidered with one of her little patient's names by his mother, a bittersweet reminder of her work at the Child Development Center between 1952 and her retirement in 1967.

Saying that she thinks the media and general public feel that doctors are too commercial, Dr. Thelander speaks of "an awful lot of charity work for handicapped and poor done by doctors who don't advertise it." Her years of work for the Child Development Center were all voluntary.

IN 1958 Dr. Thelander was presented the Mabel Converse Memorial Award for Distinguished Service by the San Francisco Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It hangs in her Seafirth Place house in Tiburon.

"I've traveled all over the world and that's why I'm content to stay home," she says, and she leaves her sunny home reluctantly each morning she attends medical school.

As to when doctors complain that woman may drop out of medicine to rear a family, Dr. Thelander says, "Children do not stay little long. So what if a woman drops out for five years; we live five years longer than the men do!"

Trial Hang 'Up

If you are in doubt about where and at what height to hang a picture, do this: cut from brown paper a pattern exactly the size of the picture and fasten it to the wall with a bit of masking tape. You can keep changing the pattern's position until you hit on the perfect spot, then hang the picture there.

Meet The Skin-Thin Body Look

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rudi Gernreich believes in "body clothes" and thinks there's no better way of achieving that look than by using sweaters in infinite ways. The man who made the topless has even produced a bra-like sweater.

"Everything's based on the sweater theme," said Gerneich at the showing of his fall and winter collection for Harmon Knitwear, previewed for buyers and press Wednesday afternoon.

It was in 1966 that Gernreich became the enfant terrible of the fashion world when he showed swim suits with nothing above the waist but a pair of skinny straps. Now, his latest accent on the bustline is with tiny, ribcagelet sweaters, sleeveless, worn over long sleeved, longer "poor boy" type of sweaters.

GERNREICH GAVE the tiny pullovers no name; they were just part of the layered look he used with the accent on sweaters, usually ribbed.

All the clothes except one group for evening stressed cover, but always cling also. Almost tunic length sweaters were paired with skinny pants in ribbed fabrics.

The one group of fashions that really exposed the figure were in matte jerseys, done in black or medium brown, with V-shaped cutouts under the arms and at the front. These he laced together with springs from a hardware store. That's what he said.

Gernreich has a thing for rugged looking fashions; his industrial zippers were a big hit not many seasons ago. This year, other hardware touches included hip-riding belts, loosely fitted and fastened at the front with the same hardware that's used for horse's reins. Leather trim abounds, almost always stitched to the ribbed or knit fabric.

THE DESIGNER was fascinated with combinations of checks and stripes. Some of them came with striped tops, checkerboard skirts gathered full and shown either as a dress or the divided leg culotte. He showed them in combinations of offwhite or red-printed patterns, the checks of the skirts looking four or five inches across.

Gernreich hasn't given up the mini by any means, showing it in several versions in mid-thigh lengths, the models wearing color-coordinated hose. Other lengths for day as they would be shipped, he said, would just dissect the kneecaps.

Gernreich commentated his own show as usual.

"CLOTHES MUST be real," he told his audience. "They're non-nostalgic; they're of our time," he added, giving a gentle slap on the wrists to other designers who've dipped into the 1930s and 1940s in their new collections.

The use of sweaters on sweaters really was an extension, he said, "of what the kids have been doing with jeans and shirts.

"These are body clothes."

Divorced men remarry faster than women, the Census Bureau says.

Civilized Face Is New Look For Fall

A new look for fall is the civilized face, reports Women's Wear Daily. Extreme is its key, and it leaves little option for in-between.

Lips are either a bloody red or a glossy natural. Hair is waves and curled out of the past or wound into a contemporary knot. Complexion is either powdered like porcelain or glowing with the look of the outdoors. Nails look as if they are dipped in blood or buffed to a natural glow.

HELEN HELP US!

Marriage Like Business Pacts? Could Be The Way We're Moving

DEAR HELEN:

Here's a modest proposal: Why should marriage, the biggest human contract we have, not be "subject to renewal or cancellation," just as other contracts are? And without the misery of divorce?

So — my suggestion: A trial run of a year (with no children started). This to work out the kinks, and if either party proves defective, the conditional contract carries a "singles-back-- guarantee.

After this, the parties sign a two-year contract, renewable every seven years thereafter. I figure three years should pretty well convince the two whether or not they have a chance to make it as a couple. The later seven-year contract is necessary because we are said to change completely about every seven years. Should the man and woman change in different directions, the agreement can be dissolved.

Seems to me this would keep married people on their toes and in there trying to fulfill the terms of the contract. As it stands now, you work your head off winning a mate, then often get lax and "un-trying" because, after all, you've got him (her), with divorce an expensive and sometimes very difficult alternative.

It's time we made marriage a business agreement with terms as tough and definite as any long, legal contract. I believe that man and woman, being so totally different in attitudes, reactions, feelings and needs, aren't conditioned to live together for life — unless they work like crazy to fulfill and grow with their partnership. Contracts which must be reviewed and voted on would make them work.

Will this day sometime come? — FORWARD THINKER.

DEAR THINKER:

Might could. I'm sure that within the next two decades, we'll see tremendous changes in marriage and family life (or lack of same). Judging from how fast we've moved in the last 10 years, the whole thing is pretty frightening, yes? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Please say a few words about women getting so fat. My wife, in her 40s, is eating herself into an awful shape. There's nothing wrong with her health. Her appetite is the trouble.

The children and I are all slim. We watch our weight. Whatever we say just seems to have the opposite effect on her. She has a pretty face and a great personality but ever since we got married she has been gaining, and that adds up after 18 years.

How do you get through to her that she won't be well much longer, besides being an embarrassment to her family, if she doesn't go on a diet? — HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:

Without nagging, get it across that while you don't love her less, you'd like to love less of her.

Insist that she get a medical checkup, and then, via praise and appreciation, beam her in on a losing streak. Membership in a reducing club helps, for here she will learn that good, balanced, low-calorie diets aren't pain when they bring such great results — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You said "My pet peeve is women who are marital doormats 'for the sake of the children.' " Then you told a wife and family to fight back against the husband.

How many Christians have died from torture (Joan of Arc, etc.) to sustain "one jot or tittle" of Divine Law. We are not asked to be martyrs, only to honor and obey our husbands and fathers. Women got the vote. The least they can do is shut up, conform and be faithful. — FOR DIVINE LAW

DEAR F.D.L.:

I'm not for "supine squaws." Or conformity to tyrants. Sorry! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mother's Milk Bank Is Lauded

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"My grandmother had 13 children of her own, and she suckled many a white baby in her day, too. Slave women who breast-fed the babies in the 'big house' were called milk-mammies and wet nurses in those days." Grandma, an 88-year-old resident of a local rest home, rocked back and forth gently as she recalled childhood days and conversations in the South where she was born and reared.

"You young girls don't seem to have time to suckle your own babies these days — got all that modern paraphernalia. But it's still the natural way, the way God planned it."

It's certainly true that urbanization and the development of modern formulas have caused an overall decline in nursing mothers over the years. But along with the contemporary ecology movement — a desire to return to nature — there has been a noticeable increase in nursing mothers. Available statistics and observations indicate that the typical nursing mother comes from the higher educated strata of women, young college girls. Women from the lower socio-economic strata tend to bottle-feed their babies.

AND IT appears that comparatively few black women elect to nurse their babies. This, of course, probably has historical as well as contemporary rationale. Black women were compelled to be wet nurses during slavery days. Many black women these days, for financial reasons, must return to work shortly after the birth of their children, rendering them unable to be full-time nursing mothers.

Though wet nurses are largely a thing of the past, there is what could be called a contemporary counterpart — the Mothers' Milk Bank, Inc., at 2032 Webster Street in San Francisco.

Established in 1948 by the baby hygiene committee of the American Association of University Women, the Mothers' Milk Bank collects surplus milk from healthy, nursing mothers and pasteurizes and distributes it on doctors' orders to premature and sick infants. It also supplies human milk for research purposes.

Like the blood bank, the color of the donating mother does not matter. She need only be a healthy mother who is interested and willing to take time to collect the milk. Each mother is paid 10 cents an ounce for her milk, but this is minimal compared to the time and effort involved.

LIKEWISE, THE child recipients come in all colors. They need only be children who thrive better on human milk.

Financial obligations and limited milk supplies have facilitated the need to raise the price of milk for recipients to 50 cents an ounce. But no child is denied the milk due to lack of family income and ability to pay.

The Mothers' Milk Bank is a non-profit corporation, and a medical advisory staff governs all its medical policies. It is in need of financial contributions, volunteer assistants and, of course, milk donors. The milk demand is greater than the supply.

The Mothers' Milk Bank does not claim to save lives — for who can really say — but it does boast of helping children back to health.

In today's society where many of us are seeking ways to help on an individual basis, the Mothers' Milk Bank is an estremely worthwhile project. Here, a special select group of women who may have no monetary wealth can share their health and bring happiness. That in itself is quite an accomplishment.

Devaluing Effect Of Inflation Told

Should inflation continue at its present rate, in 28 years a person making $7,200 today would need to earn $16,800 to maintain his present standard of living.

A $25,000 home today would cost $58,000, television sets would increase from $275 to almost $640.

A suit today costing $125 would be $290 and college tuition would be double what it is today, according to the National Meat and Livestock Board.

6 Per Cent Of Food Costs For Transit

For every dollar spent on food, 6 cents goes for transportating the 392 million tons of products.

This necessitates 200,000 miles of railroads, 1.9 million rail cars, 16.8 million trucks, 3.3 million miles of intercity highways and 26,000 miles of improved waterways, according to the National Meat and Livestock Board.

MRS. DAVID F. LA HUE
Ten-year member

Mrs. LaHue Installation Scheduled

Mrs. David F. LaHue of Larkspur, new chairman of the Madrone Unit of Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, will be installed at the unit's annual meeting Wednesday.

Other new officers are Mmes. James W. Conley, vice chairman; P. Edward Frowd, secretary; and Joseph Durney, treasurer.

Lee LaHue has been a member of the unit for 10 years and has served as treasurer, vice chairman and chairman of the volunteer committee.

"Marin Foundation provides group homes for teen-agers whose age, experience and problems make it impossible for them to stay in their own homes or foster homes successfully," she ways. "The homes work to help the teen-agers be responsible and active residents in their neighborhood, school and community."

Each unit of the foundation raises funds to support the homes, and the Madrone Unit plans a box lunch picnic in July, a gin fizz breakfast and bridge party in August and a Christmas card tea in the fall.

New members who are interested in teen-agers' problems are welcome, says Mrs. LaHue.

'A native of Modesto, the new chairman was reared in Oakland and attended Oregon State University. She has lived in Marin 23 years. Her husband is an electrical engineer with the Public Utilities Commission.

Sewing, knitting, learning to play golf, bridge and ice skating are Mrs. LaHue's hobbies.

"I love to read or play the organ for relaxation," she says.

Committee chairman for the unit are Mmes. J. D. Worthington, ways and means; Jack L. Mengel, volunteer; A. D. Silva, house; Alfred Olson, bridge; E. L. Griffin, Christmas cards; and Geoffrey Bain, publicity.

Add Days To Life Of Flowers

Would you like to add several days to the life of your cut flowers?

First, forget the popular practice of adding aspirins and copper pennies to the water. This is a "totally useless" practice, states an article in the current issue of American Home.

Adding life to bouquets starts in the garden, according to the magazine. Cut stems cleanly at an angle with a sharp knife. A slant cut exposes more cells for water intake. After cutting the flowers, plunge them in a pail of warm water. Warm water does not shock the flowers and moves up the stem more readily than cold. And water is the most important factor in determining the life-span of cut flowers.

The article also suggests you cut flowers in the early evening after they have built up a food supply during the sunny hours.

Flood Advisers Ask No-Tax Budget

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Over the strong objections of one member, the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory Board yesterday endorsed a no-tax budget for fiscal 1971-72.

Instead, directors will recommend to the county board of supervisors that the district operate next year on existing reserve funds totaling about $54,000.

Discussion of the austere budget, which brought protest from Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen, centered on two items — flood control work in Ross and property owners' claims against the zone.

The two items, which, if accepted, could have pushed this year's tax rate of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation past the 25-cent mark, were the only major items in the budget.

The Ross flood control work was estimated to cost about $300,000 and would alleviate flooding at Ross Common and along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Ross General Hospital.

Such work was agreed upon by the county when Ross entered the zone in 1967, Allen told the board, urging they budget some money for the project.

"Are you willing to see that street closed a couple of times again next winter," he said.

Chairman Neil R. Brixon, supported by the other three board members, said the zone shouldn't budget any money until it is determined if the Army Corps of Engineers will help finance the improvements.

Referring to the county's 1967 agreement with the Town of Ross, Brixon said that at that time the town was only talking of $55,000 to $65,000 worth of improvements.

"It was never my intent to buy a Cadillac for Ross," he said of the $300,000 repair estimate. "I was thinking along the lines of a small, economy car."

Donald R. Frost, county director of public works, urged that the zone tax for part of the project this year even though it would not be started.

"It can be done with no increase to the tax rate," he said. "Just maintain the one you have now."

"You budget money when you are going to spend it," responded board member Fred B. Graham.

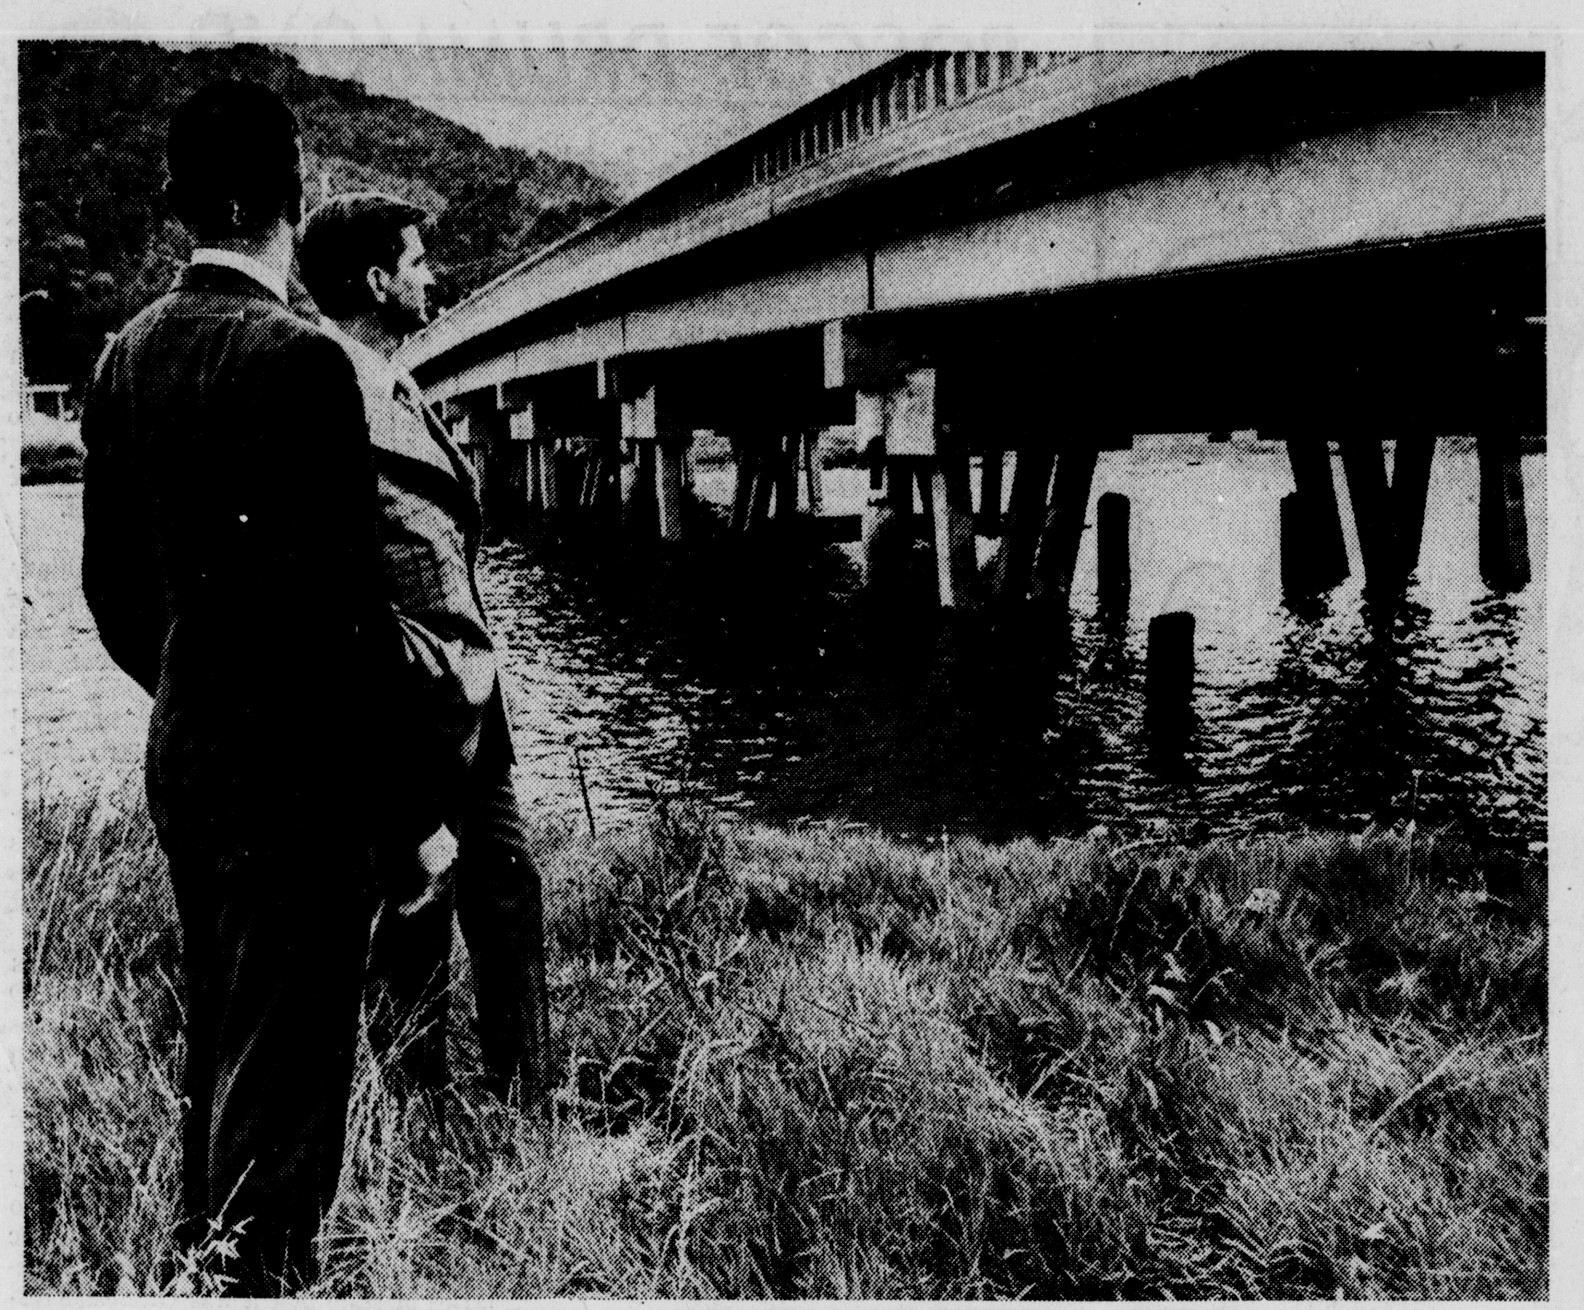
The same attitude shot down a recommendation from the county administrator's office that the zone budget about $85,000 to cover possible claims against it by property owners in Larkspur.

Five property owners and the city have filed claims against the zone, contractor, trucking firm, county, corps and 50 John Does for damages to their property during the early stages of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

The claims total about $131,000 and the county has asked the zone to put up a portion as insurance against the claims.

The homeowners, most of whom live on Harvard Drive, maintain the vibrations caused by heavy equipment using the street have caused their homes to separate from foundations.

"I say before we put up one nickel we should wait for a decision," Brixon said. Others agreed.



BRIDGE OPENING EXPECTED TODAY

Larkspur City Engineer Roy H. Hoffman (left) and Robert Perry, manager of Safeway on Bon Air Road, inspect new pilings supporting Bon Air Bridge which is expected to be reopened tonight — weeks ahead of schedule. The bridge has been closed to all traffic since April 5 and was not expected to open until June 21. However, fast curing time of cement has allowed its opening ahead of schedule, city officials said yesterday. Cost of repairs to the bridge, damaged during the Army Corps of Engineers' dredging of Corte Madera Creek, have been divided between the city, state and Corps.

Driver Shot; Ex-Convict Arrested

I-J Special Report

CRESCENT CITY — A Rohnert Park man, who suffered three gunshot wounds after stopping to help a stalled motorist on Highway 101, was reported in critical condition today.

Jack C. Baldwin, 52, of 7502 Boris Court, was shot in the chest, neck and groin. Nurses at Seaside Hospital, Crescent City, reported he was responding to treatment and said he was conscious, alert and "appears to have a very tough constitution."

His alleged assailant, Harold Hagy, 48, who was paroled last month from San Quentin, was booked into Humboldt County Jail on charges of attempted murder, kidnapping and auto theft.

Sheriff's detectives said Baldwin, an insurance representative for the California Teachers association, stopped Tuesday near Leggett in northern Mendocino County to help a stranded motorist.

Officers said Hagy has been identified as the motorist and said that he pulled a .38 caliber revolver on Baldwin and ordered him to drive to Oregon.

Deputies said the men got out of the car in northern Humboldt County on a rest stop. There Hagy allegedly shot Baldwin three times and left him to die on the side of the highway.

Passing motorists noticed the injured man and called for assistance. Baldwin gave officers the license number on his car and a road block was set up south of Crescent City. Officers said Hagy in the stolen auto was the first to come along and was captured without resistance.

Hagy had reportedly been released after serving 12 and a half years for a similar crime committed in San Bernardino County in 1958. Hagy was placed on permanent parole to West Virginia, but had not reported to his parole officer there.

The board will also accept the resignation of a teacher on leave and weigh the applications of two candidates for the teacher's replacement.

State Blocks Plans To Dredge At Jenner

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The proposed gravel dredging operation on the Russian River at Jenner fell victim yesterday to a concerted statewide effort by environmentalists before the state Lands Commission.

The commission terminated the state's lease with Northern California Aggregates for dredging near the coast at Jenner.

John Cummings, president of American Leisure Lands Corp. and its subsidiary, Northern California Aggregates, said the lease termination was accomplished in mutual agreements between his company and the commission.

"We're dropping the idea (dredging) altogether," Cummings said. "The book is closed. We had tremendous pressure from environmentalists all over the state. They simply could not be satisfied," he said.

Jenner residents attending yesterday's commission meeting greeted the action with applause. Virginia Hechtman, director of the Jenner Coastline Conservation Coalition, said the action culminated an 18-month campaign to break the lease and end the threat of dredging along the scenic rugged coast.

During hearings on use permits, environmentalists testified that the dredging operation would spell ecological doom for the area.

Cummings said the lands company still plans to go ahead with the development of the Jenner Bay subdivision on 1,100 acres adjacent to the point where the Russian River meets the ocean. He said that plans for a yachting harbor and marina must now be scrapped since dredging will not be possible.

Cummings said he hoped the Army Corps of Engineers would carry through plans to keep the river mouth open year 'round so that at least small boating can be permitted.

Gloomy Marin City Poet Vanishes In Mother Lode

I-J Special Report

NEVADA CITY — Search was underway today in the remote hills near this Nevada County community for Lewis Barrett Welch of Marin City, a 44-year-old Beat Generation poet.

Welch, who had been visting the mountain home of poet Gary Snyder, disappeared Sunday after leaving a note indicating he was depressed, according to Frank Gallino, Nevada County undersheriff.

Sheriff's deputies, friends and members of the Ananda commune, founded by Bay Area expatriates, joined in the search.

Welch of 52 Buckelew Street, read poetry at North Beach coffee houses at the height of the Beat Generation era and was the author of "On Out" and "Hermit Poems."

According to Gallino, Welch said in his note that he was a failure and that taking his life was the best way out.

Welch had been an athlete, a pool hall hustler, B-29 gunner during World War II, a dock worker, actor, jazz musician and copywriter before becoming a poet.

A fellow poet, Dr. John Doss of Bolinas said Welch had been depressed over the bay oil spill in January and said the U.S. "was starting to die on its coasts and that he was heading for the hills."

Gallino said: "Frankly, we don't know whether he's a suicide or just a missing person." It would take a long while to cover all of the remote and rugged area, he said.

Poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti reported that Welch "split up" with a Mill Valley girlfriend who went to Latin America and that might have caused some despair.

Welch and bar owner Neil Davis led a group of 50 to 150 praying poetry-reading Sausalitans in a protest against downtown decay and parking lots in Sausalito in July 1969.

At that time, Welch recited his poem: "Sausalito, little willow, perfect beauty by the last bay in the world, none more beautiful, today we kneel at the feet and curse the men who have misused you."

Welch's poems have appeared in anthologies in Italy, England and the United States.

He strolled over the beaches and Mount Tamalpais to observe the plants, water and small animals "so I'll know what to do when the world blows up."

Welch once described himself as a poet whose work is performed more on stages than on pages.

Guilty Plea To Marijuana Count

Patric Joe Smith, 25, of Mill Valley, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where marijuana is used.

He is to be sentenced June 8.

Smith, originally charged with possessing marijuana, was arrested April 13 after San Anselmo police found a plastic bag of suspected pot in his pickup truck which had stalled on Redwood Road.

City Tries Dogs For Dope Hunts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco police are going to try to train their dogs to sniff out narcotics and explosives.

Chief Alfred J. Nelder said Thursday a handler had been sent to Washington, D.C., to observe training efforts there.

The chief reported that Scotland Yard in England reports success with attempts to train the animals to smell out both substances.

Fairfax Pipe Correction Requested

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night voted unanimously to ask the city council to correct the inadequate culvert on Fairfax Creek at Olema Drive.

According to E. Ross Parkerson, chairman, the action is the first step taken to correct problems on the creek. A recently adopted watercourses ordinance prohibits obstructions in the creek that interfere with the natural flow of water.

Board members Hugh O. Winn and Gloria Duncan, who recently studied the 1966 county flood control report, made the recommendation to the commission.

In other business, Parkerson said members approved a zoning permit for palm reading at 705 Center Avenue at the Fair-Anselm Shopping Center by Mary and Miller Uwanawich and a jewelry business at 131 Mono Avenue by James L. Wheeler. The vote on the latter was 5-1 with John J. Hourihan dissenting.

Application for a bicycle rental and sales shop at 1750 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was denied in a 5-1 vote with Charles Eckles dissenting.

Parkerson said the permit was denied because the commission recently adopted a new zoning ordinance recommending that land be zoned for residential use. The ordinance has not yet been approved by the City Council.

Landscaping plans for a 68-unit apartment project on Fairfax Creek by the Gentry Development Co. were approved, Parkerson said.

Crash Victim Reported Better

An elderly San Anselmo woman, injured in a two-car crash in San Rafael Wednesday, was reported in good condition today in Marin General Hospital.

Tthe woman, Cecile G. Preble, 68, of 232 Saunders Avenue, suffered a concussion, scalp cut and multiple bruises when thrown from her car by the crash impact.

Police said her auto collided shortly after 2:30 p.m. at Front and Hoag streets with one driven by Arthur L. Vallert, 16, of 260 San Luis Way, Novato. Vallert was treated at Marin General for knee and forehead cuts.

Man Committed For Drug Help

Jon Theodore Kilpatrick, 26, of Fairfax, was committed to the California Rehabilitation Center yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court as either a narcotics addict or in danger of becoming one.

Judge Wilson's decision was made on the basis of doctors' reports received yesterday.

Kilpatrick previously pleaded guilty to burglarizing a San Anselmo variety store Dec. 18.

Still pending in Superior Court is another charge that Kilpatrick burglarized a San Rafael residence April 24.

Yosemite Park Searched For Missing Coed From Belvedere

I-J Special Report

YOSEMITE — Mary Hoefer, 19-year-old daughter of advertising executive John H. Hoefer of Belvedere, has been reported missing from Yosemite National Park since Saturday.

Park rangers combed the valley floor at the park yesterday in the continuing search for Miss Hoefer, a sophomore at the University of California at Berkeley.

A summer employee at the park, she had been working as a desk clerk at Yosemite Lodge for the past two weeks.

She was last seen near the lodge about 10 p.m. Saturday, said park information officer Larry Quist. Friends said she was talking with a man in his early 20s in the lodge parking lot, Quist reported.

"At this time we are just listing her as a missing person and that is about all we know right now," Quist said.

Rangers have searched places where Miss Hoefer was known to hike by herself, but there have been no clues, Quist reported.

Kathy Thiede, 19, who roomed with Miss Hoefer at the park said that Saturday morning Miss Hoefer mentioned going to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hoefer of 32 Peninsula Road, during the weekend.

However, there was no sign that Miss Hoefer left the room with plans to go anywhere, she said.

Miss Hoefer often spent time in a nearby meadow by herself and often took long hikes and bicycle rides alone, Miss Thiede said.

The missing girl, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 140 pounds with brown eyes and blonde hair, was last seen wearing a white blouse, dark slacks, brown hiking boots and blue socks.

Thieves Take 60 Water Beds

Sixty water beds and four heaters, valued at $800, have been stolen from the Come Together factory at 44 Woodland Avenue in San Rafael, police reported today.

The beds were boxed and ready for delivery, according to police, who said the burglary took place between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. yesterday. Entrance was gained through double doors at the rear of the building.

Taken were 48 king-size beds owned by Come Together Water Bed Co. and 12 beds and four heaters owned by Western Water Beds. Both companies are of San Rafael.

Driver Injured In Skid, Crash

A 21-year-old San Rafael woman received a cut face and scalp when her car skidded on wet pavement and went off the road hitting a utility pole, San Rafael police reported today.

Wendy H. Banks of 116 Coleman Drive was treated at Marin General Hospital at 7:10 p.m. yesterday after the accident on D Street in San Rafael.

Police said she was driving south when the accident occurred. The car, a 1963 Ford, received moderate damage to the right front end, according to police.

Recital Slated By Gary Walker

The chancel choir of St. Sebastian's Church in Greenbrae and baritone Gary Walker, choir conductor, will present a recital at 4 p.m. June 6 at the church.

The choir will perform works by Haydn, Mozart, Vivaldi and Walker. Walker will sing selections by Brahms, Lully, Faure and Paisiello.

Admission will be free.

Innocent Pleas To Indecent Exposures

Robert Edward Arnold, 46, and Thomas Allen Gust, 25, both of San Francisco, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of indecent exposure.

A pretrial conference was set for June 9.

The pair was arrested last Saturday when an off-duty sheriff allegedly saw them sunbathing in the nude near Shafter Bridge in Lagunitas.

Marist Society Plans To Sell Seminary Site

The Marist Society of California plans to sell its 10-acre St. Peter Chanel Seminary at 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, according to Frank Heffernan, a member of the Marists Lay Advisory Board.

The site containing seminary buildings, a pool and tennis courts is adjacent to Forest Meadows and sometimes used for outings by local groups.

For the past 93 years the site has been used for schools, first the Tamalpais School for Boys and then the seminary.

The Marist Society purchased the property and nine buildings from the Tamalpais School for Boys in 1955 for $400,000.

Heffernan said the Marist Society decided to sell the property because it feels students should be closer to educational centers in San Francisco and Berkeley.

It is proposed that seminary activity be located in San Francisco and at the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley, Heffernan reported.

Several of the 10 students at the seminary now take academic courses at the University of San Francisco.

The Marist Society constructed a major building, containing a library, chapel, student and faculty dining rooms, kitchen and living quarters for 10 brothers of the order at the site in 1961.

Hub Man Denies Forgery Counts

William Frederick O'Bayley, 23, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two charges of forgery and one of possessing a bad check with intent to defraud.

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 8.

O'Bayley is also awaiting sentencing on charges of burglary and concealing stolen property.

Drunk Drivers Are Sentenced

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Tuesday by Judge David Menary Jr. was:

Bobby Eugene Keenum, 39, of 221 Beryl Street, Mill Valley, arrested May 1 on Highway 101, who was placed on probation for six months and fined $302.

Sentenced Wednesday by Judge Robert A. Smallman were:

Austin Bryan Fenger, 39, of 40 Pamela Court, Tiburon, arrested May 22 in Sausalito, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Robert Keith McLean, 33, of Sonoma, arrested May 21 on Highway 37, who was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Cotati Building Plans Win Nod

The Cotati Planning Commission last night approved the architectural design of two building projects.

The commission approved the plan of Earl Andersen for a 10-unit apartment building on Page Street and plans of Loren Griffith and Wendell French to move four homes to 8440 Park Avenue.

The commission delayed action on the request of William W. Snelling for a garden terrace adjoining the Barrel of Suds bar at 8197 La Plaza, saying a use permit and public hearing would be required since the open beer garden with live music would be near residential lots.

What Fire Started Must Be Completed

Tuesday evening's fire solved one question: what to do with the old Marin County Courthouse.

There is now only one thing left to do: raze it.

The courthouse annex proved to be as fireproof as its designer had claimed. Fire doors and fire walls, together with excellent work by the San Rafael Fire Department, kept the flames from penetrating from the old courthouse itself into the annex. So the annex building remains, and is back in use by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

What remains of the courthouse, however, certainly is no longer worth preserving. Although the main floor received surprisingly little damage, considering the immense blaze that roared in the building for several hours, the upper stories were damaged beyond restoring.

IT IS SAD INDEED to see the old landmark left but a charred hulk. It is sadder still to think that anyone would intentionally set fire to it.

However, it brings into the open what has been realized all along by county and city officials and many others: The building itself was inhibiting sale of the square to anyone who might develop it in a way which could help save San Rafael's economically threatened downtown.

Since the courthouse was of no feasible commercial use, its removal had to be added to the cost of the property by anyone figuring on possible purchase. It may well have been the "sticker" that held up sale of the square.

The fire did not remove the building, but it destroyed enough of it that the county must now complete the job. Fire insurance may be sufficient to cover the cost of removing the remains.

The property, with the annex intact and commercially unseable, then may find a buyer.

In the meantime, we have a suggestion.

CERTAINLY, COUNTY OFFICIALS cannot permit the gutted walls to remain. Certainly, they should not permit the concrete foundations to remain.

The work of removal, begun by fire, should be completed as soon as possible.

And we suggest that county and city then fill and turf over the excavation that will result, and convert the whole square into a park until such time as an acceptable purchase offer is received.

Who knows? With a little community effort — some landscaping, maybe even tables and benches — it might prove to be such an attractive open space that it would do as much for the downtown business district as would commercial development.

At least, it wouldn't cost much extra to try it and see.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Three Play Out Bitter Charade On Czech Stage

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Can the people of California stop the State Assembly from rewriting history?

The startling maneuver is all there in the Assembly's publications and it reads like a Russian history book.

The state constitution requires each house of the Legislature to keep a journal of its proceedings. In accordance, each has published a "Daily Journal," which gives a chronological history of actions on measures introduced.

Well, if you'll turn to the history on AB 21 in the Assembly Weekly History of April 30, 1971, it says on April 22 that AB 21 was "read third time, passage refused. Motion to reconsider on the next legislative day made by Mr. Burton."

One week later, however, in the May 7 Weekly History, it says that on April 22 AB 21 was "read third time and passed." This same notation has appeared in subsequent weekly histories.

ARE WE TO understand that what was first reported as happening in regard to AB 21 on April 22 didn't really happen at all? Did the bill pass or didn't it? What can be believed?

AB 21 was authored by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, one of Speaker Bob Moretti's top lieutenants. Enactment of the bill would mean an end to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Because of a constitutional provision for a two-thirds vote on a tax levy on corporations, the Burton bill needed 54 votes to pass — at least that's what it says on the bill's cover.

When the bill reached the floor on April 22, according to the journal for that day, it was "refused passage" by a party-line vote of 41 ayes to 31 noes, 13 short of the number of ayes needed to make two-thirds. This roll call is recorded. Burton moved to reconsider the vote on the next legislative day and AB 21 was ordered to the unfinished bssiness file.

Action on this motion was continued to April 29, when Burton announced his intention to let his reconsideration motion lapse, requesting the speaker to transmit the bill to the Senate with the understanding that only those sections requiring less than 54 votes would be operative. In practice, this would mean that the depletion allowance would be eliminated for individuals, but would remain for corporations.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT so stunned some members that they wanted a chance to vote again. Assemblyman Bob Badham, R-Newport Beach, who had opposed the bill, moved for reconsideration, but his motion failed 35 to 25.

Speaker Moretti then ordered the bill over to the Senate with the understanding that sections requiring 54 votes would be inoperative. The GOP floor leader, Bob Monagan, charged Moretti had "in effect, sent the bill out on his own motion."

Sometime between April 29 and May 3 apparently someone decided they didn't like that wording in the journal of April 22, or the weekly history where it said AB 21 "was refused passage."

So on Monday, May 3, Democratic Floor Leader Walter Karabian asked the members to approve various daily journals "as corrected by the minute clerk."

IN MOST CIRCLES, a "correction" means there has been an error. But the correction for the April 22 journal would change the wording to show AB 21 was "passed," rather than "was refused passage."

So at this point, Assembly history was rewritten by 31 Democrats who supported Karabian's move. Republicans managed to gather only 29 votes to oppose the "corection."

Monagan asked for reconsideration. However, on May 6 the opposition collapsed. Monagan waived his motion.

The deed is done. Presumably now, the people of the state have every right to question the authenticity of all Assembly publications. With this kind of precedent, what's to prevent the 41-vote majority from changing journals of past years?

It's easy. If they don't like what has happened, just "correct" it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Insinuation Found In Council Report

Reference is made to article which appeared in your paper, Tuesday, May 18, on page 5, column 2, paragraph 7 under title "Decision On Burton Is Delayed", which was under a 5 by 7 photograph of two contestants for Miss USA, thus calling better-than-average attention to the article. in question. Since I am president of San Rafael American Little League, member of the board of directors of St. Raphael's Men's Club, and newly elected first vice-commander of American Legion, Wilkins Post 37, to name a few, I can ill afford the insinuations made by your statement: "If the council does not accept Burton's resignation, he may not be entirely welcome back on the commission." Several people have approached me and commented "that they could not believe their eyes and that it could not be true". Since your statement is without basis in fact and has created such comment and has maliciously placed the seed of doubt in people's minds as to my integrity, character, and dedication to public service, your unfounded statement amounts to moral turpitude and places in jeopardy my future career in public service, and I hereby insist on a retraction of such statement under the provisions of the California Civil Code, Section 48A.

Time For Organized Taxpayers' Revolt

Strictly on a local level, have you too received notice of re-assessment of your property? In my present frame of mind there is little difference between the systematic re-appraisal of privately held property and unreasonable search and seizure. Not only have we been re-assessed, but add to that the common knowledge certain taxing agencies of Marin regard the new 1971-72 assessment rate on property of 25 per cent of its full cash value as a windfall to be immediately absorbed into the system.

The lack of a county-side organized property tax revolt has established a trend of passive payment upon demand. The demands have reached the stage of dementia. However, the trend can so easily be reversed. With the battle cry of "Property Tax Reform Now" all of the community improvement clubs in Marin can join together in a demand that our 1971-72 tax bills reflect lesser amounts over last year's. Failing a significant roll back in property taxes, the possibility of paying our 1971-72 taxes into a holding trust account should seriously be explored. Don't wait for your community improvement club to contact you, you contact it. If you are a non-member, get affiliated.

Coverage Of Track Found Wanting

As a high school coach in Marin County I feel that your paper does not do an adequate job of covering high school sports. Rather than give you my opinion of what I think you should do, may I just mention a few of the inconsistencies . . . May I also state that in the past my particular sport, track and field, has had more than its share of coverage, although inconsistent at times.

The following recent developments have really made me wonder just what your purpose is in covering particular sports events:

1 - On Saturday, May 8, the MCAL track and field championships were held at College of Marin. On the Tuesday and Wednesday preceding this date, the results of the trials were put in your hands. Neither these results were published or, more important, was the public made aware that the championships were going to be held. The first mention of the meet was in the May 10 edition.

2 - Your reporter covering the meet, Mr. (Paul) Cane, either was not present at the meet or had no idea of what he was witnessing. Our championship meet produced more outstanding results than any meet in recent history. Four of the athletes competing in that meet are the best ever in Marin County history — and, barring any unforseen circumstances, will each be competing in this year's state meet, giving Marin County at least four schools in representation, something which hasn't happened in a long time.

3 - Upon reading last night's IJ (May 18) I learn from Mr. (David) Einstein that last Saturday's Division III track and field meet was a "chaotic disaster". Also, that "except for Tams triumph (varsity), the meet Saturday was a flop." First, the meet was held on Friday. Which meet did Mr. Einstein attend? Second, Tamalpais was not the leading team from Marin County — Terra Linda was, on combined varsity and Soph-bee points. We expect no praise for this, but our athletes certainly don't look at the meet as a "flop" . . .

If this kind of quality reporting is allowed to exist, where is your accountability? The public should be made aware of the facts. That should be your purpose.

Little Knowledge Is Dangerous Thing

They often say that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. Having just read two letters by Mr. Thomas Knight of the Planned Parenthood organization, I can easily believe it.

Mr. Knight states categorically, for example, that an "unborn infant" is a figment of Mr. Rus Walton's imagination. He cites as proof a few well-known facts from elementary physiology and embryology. What he fails to mention is that the object he insists we should all correctly refer to as a "fetus" is fully-developed in all of its human characteristics, sucks its thumb, moves about, and can even survive the process of premature birth within only six months of conception. Isn't it remarkable how a so-called fetus can become an infant in only a couple of hours, Mr. Knight?. . .

In another part of one of his letters Mr. Knight insists that every woman should have the right to regulate her own fertility and should never be forced to have an unwanted child. I don't know anyone who would argue with these as general principles. But does it really follow logically that every pregnant woman thereby has the right to terminate her pregnancy at any time she chooses simply because she feels she doesn't want to have a child? I wonder how many of us would ever have seen the light of day if such a criterion for birth had prevailed in the past! And I also can't help wondering how long elderly dependent, handicapped children and any others who might come to be looked on by their relatives as "unwanteds" could hope to survive in a world where being wanted by those one depended on determined one's right to life!

Finally, Mr. Knight hypothesises that the wider distribution of information like that supplied by his organization is exactly what is needed to counteract our growing problem with venereal disease and unwanted pregnancies. What a travesty of logic! Can't you just picture our young people refraining from illicit sexual relations because, thanks to Mr. Knight and Planned Parenthood, they now know where to get and how to use contraceptives. Who are you trying to kid, Mr. Knight?

Democrats Turn Isolationist, Reversing Former Party Roles

WASHINGTON — The most significant consequence of the vote on the Mansfield amendment, seeking to cut U.S. forces in Europe by half, is being overlooked. It is this:

The Democratic Party by a vote of 31 to 22 repudiated the foreign policy of its four most recent Presidents — Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson — and aligned itself with the new isolationism.

The effect of the vote on the Mansfield resolution is to put the Democrats behind a foreign policy whose premise is: Forget trying to keep the peace and hope war won't break out.

Thus we are now witnessing the substantial beginnings of a nearly complete reversal of the position of the two major parties in foreign affairs.

THE DEMOCRATS are embracing the isolationism which dominated the Republican Party from 1920 until the late 1940s when Senator Vandenberg and General Eisenhower took the GOP out of the hands of the Tafts and the Wherrys.

The Republicans are supporting the internationalist foreign policy of the four postwar Democratic Presidents and of Dwight Eisenhower.

The way the two parties voted on the Mansfield amendment is evidence that the Democrats have gone far down the road to isolationism and the Republicans are continuing internationalist.

The Mansfield amendment drew nearly all of its support from Democratic senators and was defeated only because the Republican senators were almost unanimously against it.

Here is the party breakdown: Democrats for the amendment 31; against it 22. Republicans for the amendment 5; against it 39.

NO SINGLE INITIATIVE by the Democratic leaders proves that the party has gone Republican-isolationist. But the sum-total of their recent actions shows they are moving steadily in that direction. The sum of their moves are these:

To force a precipitate withdrawal from Vietnam without adequate time to enable the South Vietnamese to be ready to defend themselves alone.

To curtail the constitutional powers of the President as commander-in-chief.

To abolish the draft.

To reduce unilaterally the military strength of the nation — a degree of projected one-sided disarmament which couldn't fail to dismay our allies and delight our adversaries.

To cut U.S. forces in Europe to a level which would render NATO nearly impotent.

THE METHOD as well as the substance of the Mansfield initiative reveals the lack of concern which the Democrats apparently have for enabling the United States to help keep the peace.

It proposed to slash U.S. NATO forces without any consultation with our NATO allies. It proposed to reduce U.S. forces in Europe without any parallel reduction of Soviet forces in Europe and prior to any attempt to negotiate such a reduction.

Most Democratic senators said they thought this was just fine — and voted to reject the counsel of two Democratic Presidents and two Democratic secretaries of state that it was careless irresponsibility.

Most Republican senators voted to support the President in his efforts to insure that the United States try to keep out of war by helping to deter war from breaking out.

There are 1,105,000 NATO troops in Western Europe, and 1,235,000 Warsaw Pact troops in Eastern Europe.

The responsible road to a more stable peace is to negotiate a mutual reduction.

It was unilateral disarmament which led to both World War I and World War II.

Drought Returns To Texas, But It's Different Now

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

LUBBOCK, Tex. — All day the cloudless sky over the South Plains is a hazy blue at the dome, but toward every horizon it is yellow with dust. The dry wind blows incessantly; one afternoon it is from the west, and hot, then the next morning it has shifted to the north and is cold. But it never stops.

Old timers around here say "It won't rain until the wind stops, and the wind won't stop until it rains." So the wind blows on and the drought drags on. Some say it is the worst since the mid-50s, others say there has been nothing like it since depression days.

Off in one direction from Lubbock, the main crops are cotton and milo sorghum for cattle feed. One way the land is irrigated, one way it depends on the rain that does not come. To the east where the caprock drops off toward the Oklahoma line, the business is range cattle, and there is no grass for them. In one locality there has been less than three inches of rain in 20 months, less than you expect on the desert.

But the most intense local drought began last fall and has been broken only by one quick two-inch rain that barely dampened the surface. Seed plantings have been delayed. Some farmers who risked planting cotton saw the young plants cut off at ground level as if by a blade — but by a sandstorm.

YOU CAN FEEL the drought as well as see it if you drive the string-straight farm roads east of here, out around Idalou and Lorenzo. In the fields, the oil wells keep rocking and pumping from deep beneath the surface. But the surface itself, plowed and waiting, is blowing away. Little whirlwinds spin across the flatness sometimes chasing each other. Mirages, imaginary lakes that look as good to the farmers as they would to any stranded prospector on a cartoon desert, sizzle near the horizon and then disappear.

You can feel the dust on your fingertips without seeing it, and your lips dry soon after you leave the airport. This is the way it affects you, passing through, but then you have no stake here, and soon you can book another plane and head back to the green East.

A few, but only a few, have sold out and moved away, or gone into another business. More cattlemen are liquidating their herds because feed is short and its price is up a third over last year. Thus they rush their cattle to feed lots and then to market — far ahead of schedule — at about twice the normal rate for this time of year. To them and others whose livelihoods depend on rain, the story of the drought is not a description of a thirsty landscape, but a profit-and-loss statement already written in red ink for 1971. To the rest of the nation, it will mean higher beef prices in months ahead.

STILL, YOU WILL LOOK in vain to fill in the images usually conjured up by the words drought and "dustbowl." For grown-up Americans, the first things they bring to the mind's eye are the opening scenes of "The Grapes of Wrath," with the land literally blowing away and the bank foreclosing and the pitiable Joads loading up their truck to head for the Promised Land. The absence of such scenes, despite the acuteness of the weather, is telling testimony to how things have changed since the Great Depression.

The Joads wouldn't have recognized a profit-and-loss statement had they seen one. Likely they wouldn't have been able to skin any farm implement more advanced than a team of mules. In the mid-30s, Roosevelt had begun the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (AAA), but nobody in the Joads' plight ever heard of things like an Emergency Livestock Seed and Hay Transport program, and the emergency loans of the Farmer's Home Administration. But today, farmers in 182 of Texas' 254 counties are declared eligible for such government help, and using it.

Today, more than half the crop land here on the South Plains is irrigated. It was the Rural Electrification Administration that first made that possible. With irrigation, many farms and ranches that would have been wiped out by such a drought will be able to ride it out instead.

AND TODAY, most marginal farmers like the Joads are off the land. They went to California during the depression, or to the cities after the war. Farm labor is far less intensive in the tractor age, and now those who provide it must be paid a minimum wage. Most of the smaller farmers here are working rented land.

But most of the land is in big farms, in the hands of the men who were tougher, meaner or luckier than the Joad family. They survived the '30s and grew, and then the drought of the '50s, and they will survive this one too. That has become the story of farming in America in this part of the West, and particularly in the case of Johnny Wheeler, a man you will hear more about shortly.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By GEORGE NEVIN

Why Not Different School For Those Who Desire It?

This week's hassle over an experimental education program proposed for the Mill Valley School District next year makes one wonder if the opponents of the plan understood it.

Many parents told district trustees Monday that the program, called Experience in Cooperative Education, was divisive and would tend to fragment the district.

They based this on one feature of the plan — that some 60 pupils would be taken out of regular classes and placed under direction of two teachers at an off-campus site.

WHY IS THIS objectionable? Children, after all, are separated from each other at regular schools —separated by classroom walls, different lunch hours, different recess periods.

It's not stretching things too far to assume that many youngsters —perhaps even next-door neighbors — never see each other during the school day.

Why, then, is it undesirable for a group of students to attend classes away from their fellow pupils?

If the parents meant the pupils would be separated by radically different educational programs, they're right again.

BUT DO THESE parents insist that all children, no matter what their personal preferences, abilities and interests, be lumped together in the same educational bag and fed, occasionally force-fed, the same courses?

If so, they are moving contrary to modern educational theory.

Herein lies the heart of the matter. The Mill Valley School District for some years has been moving toward identifying differences between individual pupils and then cultivating these differences.

ROB GOLDSTEIN, the Tamalpais Valley School teacher who proposed the cooperative education program, conducts his class in an informal atmosphere that would shock many of the more educationally conservative parents.

But children are not assigned to Goldstein's class unless they and their parents approve. Thus no parent can claim his Johnny is being used as a guinea pig in an experimental program without his approval.

Objections by parents weren't the only things that killed the program, at least for now. Supt. James A. Collins said it would have cost more than educating 60 children by the usual method, and the district was having trouble finding an acceptable site for the program.

There remains the possibility that the program, in a modified form, will be implemented next fiscal year.

Here's hoping that parents with a "what's right for me is right for everyone" attitude don't kill any chance for it before it can be tried.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Lack Of Security To Blame For Loss Of Old Courthouse

I was shocked, saddened and angry. It didn't have to happen. What is this environmental thing? Does it not include our heritage? I think it should and does. Judging by the telephone calls I have received today, I am far from being alone.

A friend called me about 7 o'clock to tell me that it was burning — this old courthouse of ours — and then again later. At 11 I watched it on the TV newscast, as it was being destroyed. I felt tears coming into my eyes: another old friend was going.

My compliments to reporter Jeff Greer for his excellent historical picture and to I-J librarian Jean Day, who was able to supply the material immediately when needed.

YOU SEE I WAS privileged to serve in the old building for 27 years — seven of them as manager of Marvelous Marin, Inc., and 20 as supervisor. During those years, I never failed to feel the richness of its passing years — the consciousness of those who had climbed those broad stairs and passed through the huge pillars and doors during the many, many years before; some with expectation of joy and hope and the others with fear and dread.

This loss is an indictment of the board of supervisors, who turned it all over to the administrator to report back to them while they went on their way. Where was the leadership? Where was the personal interest in the only remaining structure of a century-old county government?

The answer is that they just couldn't care less. They were too busy carrying out the grand manner charade out at Brasilia. During the passing virus of destroying public buildings, this valuable and important structure was certainly entitled to security protection if ever anything was.

MENTION WAS MADE in the news story of the dislike many people had for the last addition to the courthouse — that it didn't match the older sections. Few know that the architect was a student of Frank Lloyd Wright, who had lived and worked at Taliesin. He was instructed to design a building that could be converted for business occupance. That was the only way the great need for court space could have gotten the votes required to build; there was so much fear that somehow or other I would be able to throw a monkey wrench into the scheme of building the Civic Center. Chip Day was present when the vote was taken. He wrote a very amusing story about it. Perhaps I can get a copy and run it in the column soon.

My friends, I hope you will understand my emotions about this loss of ours. Again; it never should have happened.

VOICE OF YOUTH

If You Miss Bandwagon, It Will Be Back Again

By CANDY MATSON
Novato High School
Sophomore

Slow down. Curb your speed and keep slackening until you come to a complete standstill. Once you have stopped, look around and watch the people pass. Watch them closely: they are all in a hurry. They rush by in every direction, scurrying from task to task, issue to issue, stand to stand, to belief to moral to value. . . It's constant. It's as if life were one big climax; as if society moves along continually at the peak of the traffic hour.

Who is caught up in the haste? Look around, and on every side you will see a different bandwagon. First there are the politicians, each screaming louder than the other. Then the society "freaks," going more and more far-out to get "far-in." There are the businessmen living their lives on a schedule. There are the radicals — different — full of strange dreams and forever preaching unheard of, "impossible" ideas. There are the activists, and the parasites who latch on to any stand that comes along which might stir up some excitement. There are the newscasters and newsmen who spew facts, figures, violence and bad-news-headlines into your tired ears so fast that it makes your poor head reel. There are the optimists, the pessimists; the peace lovers, the capitalists; the old generation, the young generation; people who have an opinion on everything, people who haven't any opinions at all, and know-it-alls who are experts on expertise.

BUT WHO ARE these hasty persons? They — we — are everyday people who are being forced into growing up at an earlier and earlier age. It's as though there were loudspeakers ceaselessly blaring their own form of propaganda. Not only are we being forced to grow up, but forced to claim almost godlike wisdom and insight on every diverse subject that appears in Newsweek.

People, and particularly young people, are being pressured into making decisions on just about every issue ever questioned. Every day, 15-year-olds, 16-year-olds, even 14-year-olds are being pressed to make up their minds — now!

This is not to say that they shouldn't start thinking for themselves. This is not to say that 16 isn't the time to begin taking on the responsibility of preparing oneself for a very complex world. This is not to say that the vociferous youth who clamor to "be heard" do not know what they want. This is not to say that there are not values to be decided on. Opinions should be formulated and sincere consideration given them while one is still young and open-minded.

THIS ARTICLE is to say — and I'm saying it now — that there is a lifetime in which to search for the answers. I say that there is a time for everything. Most of the questions today are not yes and no, or even multiple choice. They require many years of listening, asking, accepting, discarding. It is well to begin when we are young — young enough to have plenty of time to change our minds. As we go through life, different stages tend to shade subjects with different tints. It is not fair that youth be forced to travel in the same direction even when the wind changes.

There are many modes of transportation for traveling through the years, but there is much to be said for standing still sometimes. There are simple things to see that cannot often be caught on the run.

Peace Sit-In Trial Dates Set For 26

Twenty-six persons pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges stemming from a sit-in at the San Rafael office of the U.S. Selective Service May 5.

Ten of the group said they wished to represent themselves.

When asked by Judge David Menary Jr. to plead to the charges, eight of the 10 replied, "I stand mute before the court," and the innocent pleas were entered for them by Judge Menary.

The 26 are among a group of 36 persons — three of them juveniles — charged with failing to disperse and wilfully obstructing a public place in connection with the sit-in.

Seven others previously pleaded innocent and are set to stand trial June 10.

Menary set jury trial dates for the 26 in three groups.

Scheduled to be tried June 17 are: Steven John Loegerin, 19; James Gordon Digby, 22, and Ronald Keith Nichols, 32, all of Novato; Neil Lionel Edwards, 26, Michael Alan Glass, 18, and Kenneth John Cottrell, 23, all of Mill Valley; Richard Carol Sloan, 35, of Lagunitas; Michael Drew Mendelson, 25, of Berkeley, and Eric Signard Svenson, 20, of San Rafael.

Scheduled to be tried July 1 are: Debbie Webb, 20, and Randy Clifton Patterson, 22, both of Kentfield; Robert Nelson Well, 24, of Novato; James Kimo Campbell, 24, of San Rafael; William Griffin Zane, 26, of Fairfax, and Lynn Zimmerman, 21, of Sausalito.

Scheduled to be tried July 8 are : Wendi Anne Kallins, 19, Wilmar Eugene Frieson, 21, Kenneth William Bott, 19, all of Mill Valley; Robert Alan LeBlanc, 23, Gregory Carlton Fearon, 22, Carol Marie Ouellet, 20, Deborah Lee Neil, 18, and Daryl Kent Grossman, 23, all of San Rafael; Michele Tormanen, 19, and James Russell Allen, 23, both of Fairfax, and Mark Nolen Werner, 22, of Sausalito.

Three Youths Seeking Delinquency Panel Post

Three youths, including the newly elected student body president of Marin Community College in Kentfield, applied for posts on the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Commission yesterday.

Interviewed by the commissioners at the Civic Center were Kenneth Bott, 19, of Mill Valley, who will head the student body at the college next semester; Paul Clark, 16, a sophomore at San Rafael High School; and Melany Beth Kramer, 17, of Fairfax, a junior at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Gary Giacomini, who served as chairman in the absence of the Rev. James C. Upshaw, said other candidates will be interviewed at the next meeting at 4 p.m. June 8.

Two vacancies are open on the 11-member commission. The commissioners will make recommendations to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which appoints the commissioners.

The commissioners also decided they would attend the meeting of the Marin Juvenile Justice Commission at 4 p.m. next Wednesday. The justice commissioners will discuss County Administrator Alan Bruce's recommendation that the preplacement center be phased out at Marin Juvenile Hall and group counselors at the hall be reclassified to a lower salary.

Smog Boards Get Teeth In Ruling From High Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Air pollution control districts have as much power as the State Public Utilities Commission, the State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The decision concerns the PUC, the Orange County Air Pollution Control District and Southern California Edison Co. which wants to build two generating units in Huntington Beach.

The smog district refused Edison a permit, but the PUC ordered the company to proceed and declared it had paramount jurisdiction.

Justices decided Edison must obey rules of both agencies and said that neither has "exclusive or paramount authority."

Edison, the court said, is free to go to court to challenge the reasonableness of the smog district's rejection.

Pacific Island Review Slated

"Sounds of Young Hawaii", a program of songs and dances of the Pacific islands will be presented at 8 p.m. June 9 and 10 at St. Peter Chanel Seminary.

The group of 36 young people from Hawaii will present the program at the seminary at 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

This is the second world tour of the group which have performed throughout the United States, Canada, Europe and Japan. This is their first Bay Area appearance.

Ex-Marin Judge Loses Ballot Suit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Supreme Court has ruled against a former Marin attorney involved in a long fight over a judgeship in sparsely populated Sierra County.

The court said Wednesday that John F. Keane and not the former Marinite, Gordon I. Smith, is entitled to sit as the mountainous county's lone superior court judge.

The judgeship has been contested since early last year, when Smith defeated Keane, then the incumbent, by a nine-vote margin. Later, however, a trial court ruled nine ballots were counted improperly and that there was a tie.

During the campaign, Smith, then Sierra's district attorney, raised questions about Keane's performance on the bench and implied the judge had been imbibing. Smith listed one of his qualifications as "sobriety."

In a second election in November, Keane won by nearly 300 votes. In the meantime, however, the state Court of Appeal ruled the controversial nine votes in the primary were intended for Smith and directed he be certified as elected.

In February, the Supreme Court agreed to consider the issue.

The court upheld the primary tie vote and said Keane was the ultimate winner by virtue of the runoff.

Smith has indicated he will petition the court to reverse itself. He has 15 days to act.

Sierra County has been without a regularly assigned judge since January, when Keane's term expired. Smith's term as district attorney also expired at the same time, and he since has been replaced in that post.

Smith, 56, formerly served as Sierra's superior court judge but was defeated for reelection in 1958. While in Marin, he practiced law in San Rafael and also served as a deputy district attorney.

BART Approves Fare Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District Thursday approved a fare schedule ranging from 30 cents to $1.05 and conceded that a tax subsidy might be needed in the future to keep BART in the black.

BART is now authorized by state law to levy a property tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation if the money is needed to cover operational costs. The tax would be levied against property owners in Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco counties.

A spokesman said, however, if BART patronage is heavy enough and operational costs low enough, the tax levy may not be needed later on.

Oregon Drafts Curb On Bottles

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—A bill banning nonreturnable beverage bottles and cans and lift-tab can lids in Oregon was approved Thursday by the State Senate.

The measure was sent to the Assembly, which previously approved it in slightly different form, for concurrence in an amendment changing the effective date from July 1, 1972, to Oct. 1, 1972.

The bill would require a five-cent deposit on all beverage bottled and containers, except returnable beer bottles which would have a two-cent deposit.

Righetti Estate Regains Timber Cutting Rights

The estate of Dr. Ethel Righetti paid $1,000 to itself yesterday to purchase the rights to cut timber on the 1,400-acre Righetti Ranch on Bolinas Ridge.

The transaction was a legal formality to allow the estate to take back timber rights which had been contracted to an Oregon lumber firm.

The estate previously filed suit against the firm — Mathews, Humbert and Walker of North Bend, Ore. — in Marin Superior Court for breach of contract.

Yesterday at the Marin Hall of Justice, the co-executors of the estate, Marie R. Weaver and Milton R. Righetti, made the only bid for the timber rights which were being sold at public auction by San Francisco attorney William D. McKee, a trustee of the estate.

The timer operation of the Oregon firm has been in and out of the courts for several years, with charges that the operation was filling nearby creeks with silt and that illegal burning was being allowed on the property.

Criminal charges stemming from the illegal burning are still pending against the lumber firm's owners in Marin Municipal Court.

Giants At Candlestick For Series With Expos

JIM GILMARTIN

Giant Fans Already Talk World Series

Some notes gleaned after a visit to Candlestick Park yesterday as a warmup for tonight's opening homestand for those Cinderella Giants . . .

The ticket office already is besieged by requests about playoffs and, yes, even World Series ducats. Ticket manager Peter Hoffman says persons purchasing season tickets now would be eligible for post-season tickets . . . The first escalator that would eliminate the strains of Cardiac Hill, scene of so many heart attacks, should be in operation by Aug. 15 . . . By World Series time, if the Giants make the grade, the old ball orchard, now under renovation, hopefully will accommodate 40,000 persons.

The Giants apparently are a bunch of hams, to wit: Through last night's game in Los Angeles they have won seven out of eight televised games, including two exhibition contests . . . There's a write-in campaign to get shortstop Chris Speier, the dazzling rookie, on the All-Star team. The ballots were printed before the season began and no one expected Chris to be the sensation he is . . . Incidentally, Radio KSFO has put together a tape recording the several sensational plays by Speier who along with unsung second baseman Tito Fuentes is largely responsible for the team's fantastic early season success.

Another reason for the Giants' success at the home gate this season is the work of Garry Schumacher, Art Santo Domingo and John Taddeucci of the public relations department who got players out in force on the banquet circuit last winter to arouse interest . . . Schumacher, by the way, reminded me that he is in his 50th year of organized baseball as a reporter first and finally as publicity director for Horace Stoneham. Good old Garry is the inventor of the yearbook, by the way.

Jim Ray Hart, who was sent down to Phoenix to work himself out of a shoulder injury, isn't even playing for the Pacific Coast League farm club. He still can't throw, but reportedly is hitting well in practice . . . Jeff Carter of San Rafael, the Voice of Candlestick, is available for speaking engagements scheduled by the late Russ Hodges of Mill Valley.

Allan B. Murray's Boosters Club is sold out for its Montreal-New York-Philadelphia trip next month with 154 fans booked . . . The popular Boosters Club attracts about 90 fans to its bimonthly dinner meetings at Rubini's in Fairfax . . . Next Wednesday the Giants' Jerry Johnson, described by some as the best relief pitcher in baseball, will be the featured guest along with Nate Thurmond of the Warriors and a "special guest," according to Murray . . . Newest members of the Boosters Club are former State Sen. Jack McCarthy and former Marin District Attorney Roger Garety, two good sports . . ..

Other Boosters trips this year, according to Murray, are to Los Angeles July 9-11, St. Louis-Chicago Aug. 3-8 and Houston-Cincinnati Sept. 20-26. . . Murray advises his Boosters to bring along their boxing gloves on the L.A. weekender because those Dodger fans are tough. "I'm a different kind of fighter," he says, "I'm taking my track shoes."

Taddeucci noted that the Giants indeed are a "home team" with no fewer than 16 players, two-thirds of the roster, residing in the Bay Area. Pitcher Frank Reberger of Novato is the only Marinite. Alan Gallagher is the only native born San Franciscan. The other Giants who live in the Bay Area the year-'round are Juan Marichal, who recently purchased a home site in fashionable Woodside Hills, Gaylord Perry, Ron Bryant, Jerry Johnson, Rich Robertson, Russ Gibson, Willie McCovey, Hal Lanier, Chris Speier, Bob Heise, Willie Mays, Ken Henderson, Bobby Bonds and Frank Johnson.

Return From Dodgerland With Two Out Of Three

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The crowd came out expecting to see Willie Mays set another of his many records Thursday night but the great San Francisco Giants outfielder ran into an outstanding pitching performance by Don Sutton.

Sutton hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-1 victory for only their second win this season over the Giants. And it was a critical victory for Sutton who went into the game with a 1-5 record.

But the soft-spoken righthander proved equal to the task and delighted the throng by striking out Mays the first three times he faced him. The first time Sutton fanned Mays in the first inning it raised him to the 1,000 strikeout plateau in his major league career.

"You know that Mays is a super star so just getting him out is a thrill," Sutton said. "He's a great one and he's hit a lot off me.

"When I was a kid playing Little League baseball I would dream of striking out a great star like Mays three times. But once reality struck me, I had no such thoughts."

Mays went into the game with 1,949 runs scored in his lengthy career, putting him in a tie with Stan Musial for the National League record. But the 20-year star of the majors never got on base in four times at bat.

Sutton, whose only previous win was a shutout against Atlanta, appeared to be heading for a similar effort against the Giants for six innings. But in the seventh, catcher Dick Dietz slammed a solo homer into the left field seats.

"Dietz hit a bad pitch," Sutton said. "I hung a curve waist high."

Sutton, who normally alternates his curve with a fast ball, said he went to his slider early in the game because he didn't feel he had a good curve ball.

Other than the home run ball, he gave up only three singles and did not walk a man while striking out eight.

"Control was responsible more than anything else," he said. "I moved the ball around, showing it to them in one place and throwing it another. It's hard to explain when a pitcher is going to have a good game. You can go out there feeling fine and get bombed. I threw very few pitches where I wanted them when I was warming up."

Manager Walt Alston agreed that control was the major factor in Sutton's win. Alston said he had seen Sutton throw harder but he made very few bad pitches.

The Dodgers got to San Francisco starter Ron Bryant for two runs in the first inning, one of them unearned, and that proved to be all they needed.

Maury Wills led off with a walk, an error and a walk to Wes Parker loaded the bases with one out. Then Richie Allen stroked a single to centerfield toscore Wills and Willie Davis, who later singled to stretch his hitting streak to 19 games.

The Dodgers matched San Francisco's homer with a four-bagger by Bill Sudakis in the sixth inning when they were leading 4-0. It came off reliever John Cumberland.

Bryant had gone into the game with a mark of 5-1 and a string of three straight wins. But he lasted only four innings to take the loss.

The Giants headed home where they meet Montreal tonight with Steve Stone, 3-2, opposing the Expos' Steve Renko, 4-3.

Rain Washes Out 3 Tournament Games

For the first time in its eight year history, the Redwood High School Tournament of Champions saw rain yesterday. A steady drizzle turned to a downpour in late afternoon and wiped out three of four first round games.

In the opener, Kennedy of Fremont defeated Richmond by virtue of a tournament rule that was imposed when the teams played out their time limit tied to 1-1 after nine innings. The Titans outhit the defending champion Oilers, 6-3, on which basis they were awarded the victory.

As a result of the rain, the entire schedule for the three-day tourney has been moved up one day; with semi-finals tomorrow and finals on Memorial Day. Today the rest of the first round will be completed, with Ignacio Valley vs. Sunset at 4 p.m., Rancho Cotate vs. Moreau at 6 and Castlemont vs. Marin Catholic at 8.

Senior pitcher Dennis DeBaar tied a tournament record for Kennedy with 16 strikeouts as he went all nine innings and was credited with the victory. His opponent, Miles Brantson, also went the distance, quite an accomplishment considering he is only a freshman!

Backup QB, Not Kicker, Says Blanda

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—George Blanda, pro football's senior citizen, said Thursday he will keep on playing as long as "I'm a backup quarterback."

"I would never stay on a club as just a kicker," said the 43-year-old signal calling marvel in an interview with Bill Mulflur, executive sports editor for the Oregon Journal.

Blanda said in the interview he doesn't get his kicks out of kicking, even though he has booted 190 consecutive extra points and appeared in 154 consecutive games since leaving the NFL to join the AFL in its beginning in 1960.

Other than a dissertation about the kicking end of football, Blanda said, "I think it's wrong when athletes make more money than the president of the United States. It's that way in basketball and baseball but not in football, although it would have become that way if it hadn't been for the merger. I signed with the Chicago Bears as a 12th round draft choice out of the University of Kentucky for $6,000.

"Football isn't complicated, the television announcers like to make it sound that way. Football is a game of block, tackle, desire and discipline."

Blanda was in Portland for an exhibition golf match. He has a six handicap.

It Could Be Record Run In Tomorrow's Indy 500

ij Sports

Friday, May 28, 1971 Independent-Journal, 37

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—one of the most competitive 500-mile speedway auto races in years loomed today with at least a half dozen hot-shot drivers battling for the million-dollar jackpot.

Barring adverse weather conditions and major accidents which slow the pace of the field, Saturday's winner was expected to average at least a record 160 miles per hour for the distance—possibly faster.

The forecast called for partly cloudy to cloudy skies with temperatures climbing into the 70s. Possible rain was expected to hold off until evening.

Unlike last year, when Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., ran away from the field to become the eighth pole sitter to roll into victory lane, the 200-lap chase was expected to be a torrid dual between the three British McLaren machines and the rest of the field headed by Unser, his brother, Bobby, and A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex.

The three basically identical McLarens are driven by pole sitter Peter Revson, New York City; Mark Donohue, Media, Pa., who starts next to Revson in the first row, and New Zealand's Denis Hulme, the fourth fastest qualifier who starts on the inside of the second row.

Their machines are powered by four-cylinder Offenhausers, an engine that churned the four fastest cars in qualifications and which has an 18-15 advantage over the eight-cylinder Fords among the 33 starters.

Al Unser led 190 of the 200 laps last year, including the last 95, but no such singular superiority was expected this time—especially with the three McLarens up front.

However, many railbirds figured it will be the McLarens against the field, with Donohue perhaps the driver to beat. The Brown University alumnus with an engineering degree dominated practice through most of the month, only to lose the pole spot to Revson when a handling problem in his car cropped up on the first day of the time trials nearly two weeks ago.

The correction has been made and Donohue's machine was ready to go, as were those of the other front runners.

Bobby Unser was starting on the outside of the front row while brothers Al and Foyt, shooting for a record fourth "500" victory, were in the second row. In the third row were such chargers as Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., and Mario Andretti, Nazarath, Pa., the winner two years ago.

Some predicted the winner will come from the first nine starters, but the three-hour chase provides so many intangibles, such as mechanical breakdowns and accidents, that virtually anything was possible.

Ruby, in the lineup for the 12th time, charged from 25th position to take the lead last year before his machine caught fire and he was eliminated.

Four years ago Parnelli Jones in a turbocar led 171 laps and was in front by nearly 60 seconds when a $6 ball bearing went sour near the finish and Foyt got the checkered flag as the winner.

A year later a similar fate hit Leonard, also within sight of victory in another turbocar.

Bobby Unser won then, taking the final lead with just nine laps to go.

Bobby Unser said flatly it's McLaren against the field this year.

"They've got such an advantage speed-wise and handling-wise, there's no doubt they're faster than the other cars," he said. "Thirty of us will be underdogs this year."

Race strategy, however, will hold the ultimate answer to the winner.

"If a couple of us can keep the pressure on, maybe we can force the McLarens to run a race that is too hard on their machines," Leonard said.

The rules still call for three mandatory pit stops to take on fuel, and pit strategy plays a vital part in the outcome of the race.

They talked about race strategy today in Gasoline Alley where seasoned mechanics put the final touches on their finely-tuned machines, but it was obvious those hoping to challenge for victory will have to run among or close to the leaders.

Chief Steward Harlan Fengler gave the starters their final instructions at today's traditional drivers meeting, the last ceremonious function before Saturday's noon (EDT) flying start of the race.

The race will be shown on ABC television on delayed basis from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. tomorrow, Pacific time, about eight hours after the expected end of the race.

More Than 300 Runners Expected For Marathon

More than 300 runners from 20 states are expected to compete tomorrow in the second annual Golden Gate Marathon, a 26-mile, 385-yard endurance test that will start at Paradise Park on the Tiburon Peninsula and end at the San Francisco Marina.

The event will start at 7:30 a.m. and follow a course through Tiburon, Belvedere, Mill Valley, Sausalito, across the Golden Gate Bridge, through portions of the Presidic and finally to the Marina.

It is co-sponsored by the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union and the Golden Gate Marathon Committee.

A. L. PLAYOFF PREVIEW?

A's Open Series In Boston

BOSTON (UPI)—A weekend series that the long-shot bettors say could be a preview of next fall's American League playoffs opens at Fenway Park tonight and the opening game pitching choices are the hottest in the business.

Dick Williams will celebrate his return to Fenway Park by throwing Vida Blue (10-1) at the Red Sox team he managed until he was canned late in the 1969 season.

Eddie Kasko, Williams' replacement as manager of the Red Sox, will counter with his hottest pitcher, unbeaten Sonny Siebert (8-0) in what would likely be the matchup if the teams were opening in the final clash for the pennant.

The Red Sox and Athletics, respective leaders of the two American League divisions, will be colliding for the first time this season and Oakland will be throwing the book at Boston with Chuck Dobson and Jim "Catfish" Hunter following the spectacular Blue to the mound on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The three have won 21 straight decisions.

Tomorrow's game in Boston will be televised by KCRA (Channel 3, Sacramento) beginning at 11 a.m.

The Red Sox, indicating the pressure on the three-game set, finally decided to scramble their batting order after earning a split with the lowly Washington Senators on the strength of a 6-2 victory Thursday afternoon.

Kasko indicated he would return slumping veteran Luis Aparicio to shortstop after a one-game bench tour but would probably use hot-hitting rookie second baseman Doug Griffin in the leadoff spot Aparicio had occupied for weeks.

Luis, with one hit in his last 43 trips, will bat first, second, seventh or eighth. The speculation was that Griffin would be leading off with Luis second, Reggie Smith third and Carl Yastrzemski dropping into the cleanup spot previously occupied by Rico Petrocelli.

Kasko hoped to have Yastrzemski available for the game after removing him early for a rest on Thursday. Duane Josephson was due back behind the plate after missing two games with a wrenched shoulder.

ALL-STAR GAME

Lew's Wedding Night On Court

HOUSTON (UPI)—Lew Alcindor will spend his wedding night playing basketball.

Alcindor, the 7-3 center of the NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks, planned to get married today in Washington and then fly to Houston for the first meeting of the all stars from the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association.

The players arranged the game to fatten their pension funds and to help the Whitney Young Foundation and they consider it a real test of the relative strengths of the two leagues.

Oscar Robertson, a teammate of Alcindor on the Bucks, revealed Alcindor's hitherto secret wedding in the locker room before the first NBA practice Thursday. Then Robertson said:

"He's giving up his honeymoon. That's how much he thinks of the game."

The game, starting at 7:30 p.m. CDT, will be played before a token crowd of about 15,000 in the cavernous Astrodome, but it will be seen by about 20 million over 197 television stations, the largest network for a pro basketball game in prime time in history. The old record was 189 stations.

(Although the game will be played at 5:30 p.m. PDT, it won't be brought to the Bay Area until later, on delayed television. Channel 3 will have it at 8:30 p.m. and Channel 2 at 11 p.m.)

NBA coach Bill Russell said he was not going to announce his starting lineup until shortly before tipoff, but the best guess was Alcindor, Robertson, one of the game's organizers; Elvin Hayes of San Diego, a former University of Houston star; John Havlicek, whom Russell played with and coached on the Celtics; and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers.

ABA coach Larry Brown said he would start former NBA players Rick Barry of New York and Zelmo Beaty of Utah along with Willie Wise of Utah, Charlie Scott of Virginia and Larry Jones of Florida.

The ABA reserves are most valuable player Mel Daniels and Roger Brown of Indiana, Don Freeman and Steve Jones of Texas, Bill Melchionni of New York and John Brisker of Pittsburgh.

Russell's bench consists of Earl Monroe of Baltimore, Walt Frazier and Dave Debusschere of New York, Dave Bing of Detroit, Lou Hudson of Atlanta and Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

"You don't have to be a genius to coach this team, but I am so I will," Russell said. "I'm gonna tell them only one thing and that is they have to make one pass each during the game. Seriously, I consider this one of the real sincere compliments of my life to coach this team."

Russell, a player or coach on 11 world championship Boston teams, said he was going to play all his players, but he intended to win big if he could.

"We're going to beat them as bad as we can out of respect...respect to the ABA,," Russell said. "It wouldn't be respectful to beat them only 20 points if we could beat them 50. It would not be fair and they would not appreciate it."

The first half of the game will be played under NBA rules with the NBA ball and the 24-second clock. The last half will be with the ABA red, white and blue ball, the 30-second ABA clock and the three-point rule for field goals from more than than 25 feet.

Jones, the ABA Player Association president, said the colored ball handles different because the painted leather does not absorb perspiration and does not breathe. Someone asked Russell if his team would go for the new three-point shots in the second half.

"Our guys can shoot from out there," Russell said. "They might not be able to breathe from out there, but they can shoot."

The ABA players association took a full page advertisement in both daily newspapers and printed an open letter to the NBA players saying the NBA was overrated and was going to lose.

They showed a copy to Russell and invited him to post it on the dressng room bulletin board for his players to read.

"My guys can't read," Russell said. "They been on scholarships since the third grade."

2 Pitchers Have 'Reborn' Feeling

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Chris Zachary and Tom Kelley have that reborn feeling today.

Zachary, back in a starting rotation for the first time in five years, pitched a two-hitter Thursday night as the St. Louis Cardinals stretched their National League Eastern Division lead to a full game with a 10-0 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

And Kelley, an American League castoff who twice quit baseball, tossed a four-hitter to help the Atlanta Braves defeat the Montreal Expos 4-1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the San Francisco Giants 5-1 in the only other NL games.

Zachary, a 27-year-old righthander obtained from Kansas City last year, allowed only a double to rival pitcher Ferguson Jenkins in the third inning and a sixth inning single by Chris Cannizzaro in recording his second victory against one loss.

He was backed by a 16-hit St. Louis attack, including three by Lou Brock, who drove in three runs and extended his hitting streak to 23 games.

"The last time I was in the starting rotation in the majors was with Houston in the last half of the 1966 season," said Zachary. "I was 3-5 but pitching better than that. The only time I've ever had any success in the majors was in the starting rotation. I've never done well as a reliever. I just hope I can stay in the starting rotation."

Kelley, backed by Henry Aaron's 607th career Homer and Sonny Jackson's two-run single, scattered three singles and a double in recording his first National League victory.

Kelley, who pitched for Cleveland in 1966 and returned to baseball after undergoing back surgery in 1968, claims he regained his major league form pitching winter ball in Puerto Rico this year.

Robert Clemente and Manny Sanguillen contributed home runs and Dock Ellis pitched one-hit ball for the last five innings for his fourth straight victory as Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati.

Jim Merritt, a 20-game winner last season, was racked for four runs in the first two innings as he absorbed his seventh loss without a victory this year.

A WELL GUARDED HOLE

Golfers at Hidden Hills Country Club in Jacksonville, Fla., will have something besides sand traps to worry about in the future. An 11-foot alligator, which had been dwelling in a nearby pond and disturbing residents, was transferred to a pond on the golf course, where, presumably, he will be less dangerous. State game and fish officer Robert Brantley helped the reluctant gator move in.

Redwood Crew Takes Title

Redwood High School won the lightweight crew championship of the Bay Area yesterday, defeating Skyline High of Oakland in a two-team race on Oakland's Lake Merritt.

The Redwood team, composed of John Broderick, Steve Barbour, Max Agajan, Woody Buckner and David Kimelman, edged the Skyline lighweights by three quarters of a length over the 1,300 meter course. The winning time of five minutes, 18 seconds was considered fast under the bad weather conditions.

Redwood thus closed out its first crew season with a 4-1 record.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Even Superstars Have Bad Days

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some days even the superstars look like Little Leaguers.

That was the case Thursday with Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins, two of the top players in the American League.

Robinson dropped a routine fly ball in the second inning of a game with the Cleveland Indians, allowing two runs to score and paving the way for a 10-5 Orioles' defeat.

Oliva didn't do anything quite as embarrassing, but he did fail to come up with Roberto Pena's line single to right field in the eighth inning, letting the ball get by him for a bases-clearing triple which gave the Kansas City Royals a 5-3 victory.

In both instances the players thought they had the play sized up correctly.

Robinson called second baseman Dave Johnson off a soft fly hit to right by Ray Fosse with two runners aboard but failed to hold on to the ball as both runners crossed the plate.

Robinson's error keyed a three-run inning and gave the Indians a 4-0 lead. The Orioles bounced back to tie the score in the fifth but Ted Uhlaender delivered a two-run single in the sixth to give the Indians a lead they never relinquished. Uhlaender drove in four runs in the game while Boog Powell cracked his eighth homer of the year for Baltimore.

Oliva was victimized by the outfield grass which caused the ball Pena hit to bounce away from the charging rightfielder. With the bases loaded in the eighth and the Brewers trailing 3-2, pinch-hitter Pena hit what appeared to be a single to right and Oliva rushed in hoping to make a play at the plate on Tommy Harper, who was trying to score from second base with the tie-breaking run.

But the ball took a bad hop over Oliva's glove and went for a triple as three runs scored.

"I charged the ball," said Oliva. "It was right in front of me. But then it hit the grass and scooted off to the side. If I get it, the man from second can't score and the game is still tied 3-3."

In the only other AL action, Detroit edged New York 4-3 and Boston defeated Washington, 62.

Willie Horton hit his 10th homer of the year and singled home another run during a three-run sixth inning as the Tigers moved to within 1 1-2 games of second-place Baltimore in the East. Run-scoring singles by Al Kaline, Horton and Bill Freehan in the sixth pinned Fritz Peterson with his fourth loss and helped Mickey Lolich to his eighth victory.

Winning pitcher Gary Peters cracked a two-run single and Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli homered to pace Boston's triumph.

Bill Lee of Terra Linda pitched three-hit relief in the final 3⅓ innings for his second save. The Red Sox now lead Baltimore by three games in the east.

No Decision Yet For Andros

PENDLETON, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State football coach Dee Andros says he is waiting for Oalahoma to make "the next move" regarding the vacant athletic director's post there.

A former Sooner star, Andros flew here Thursday from Norman, Okla., where he visited with Oklahoma officials.

He said Oklahoma was talking with at least two other candidates for the job and a final decision probably would be made next week.

Ironic Twist In Walker Cup Victory

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) —There was an ironic twist to Britain's 13-11 victory over the United States Thursday in the 23rd Walker Cup amateur golf match.

The two men —Roddy Carr and Hugh Stuart —who did most to achieve the victory were rated extremely lucky to be selected.

It was lucky for Britain, winners for only the second time, that they were. Carr and Stuart helped contribute six and one half points of the total Britain gained from 12 victories and two halve matches. The United States won 10, plus the two halved.

Carr, 20-year old son of former British Captain Joe Carr, wound up the only man on either side to remain undefeated in four matches.

Stuart, a 28-year-old insurance inspector from Ayr, Scotland, was chosen for only three matches and emerged victorious each time.

With his achievement, young Carr at last emerged from the shadow of his father's past triumphs. After three victories and a half in his first Walker Cup he is no longer just "the son of Joe Carr."

Carr sank a 33-foot putt on the 18th green to defeat Jim Simons of Butler, Pa., by two holes Thursday.

Simons, 21 year old youngster of the U.S. squad, lost both matches in his first Walker Cup and two other American newcomers also failed to impress on their debuts. They were Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta and John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex.

But the undoubted success of the U.S. team was dapper Tom Kite, a 21-year-old student at the University of Texas. Only once in four outings on the 6,951 yard, par 72 course was he on the losing side.

MEMPHIS GOLF

Ziegler's Act Tough To Follow

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Larry Ziegler needs an encore.

But after firing a near record 62 over the par 70 Colonial Country Club course to take the first day lead in the 14th annual Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, he's a tough act to follow.

Ziegler, 31, from Terre Dulac, Mo., said the round, which included six birdies and an eagle, was his best since he won the 1969 Michigan Classic and the lowest round he has had. He joined the PGA tour in 1966.

It fell a stroke short of the record 61 touring pro Steve Reid fired during the 1969 Memphis Open, which was renamed the Danny Thomas event a year ago.

Ziegler started early and finished the course just after noon.

The remainder of the field seeking the top prize of $35,000 chased him to no avail through an intermittent rain.

Veteran Frank Beard came closest, but rested two strokes back with a six-under par 64. Lee Trevino and Chi Chi Rodriquez were paired at 66, four strokes off the pace, and defending champ Dave Hill, who said he was tired, was back in the pack at 71.

After getting to the clubhouse, the blond Ziegler explained that he only came to Memphis this year "to give this course one more whack."

He said in four previous trips he had been on the road again after two days, after playing poorly and never completing 27 holes.

"I had bad elbows, bad knees, anything you want to think of," he said.

"I've done so poorly in Memphis that I almost missed this year, but decided to give it one more try, since the course will be torn up after this year," Ziegler said.

Colonial Country Club, scene of the tournament since it began in 1958, is being vacated in its present location, which has become surrounded by homes and businesses, and moved to a more rural location.

Ziegler was clearly the master of the course in first round play Thursday.

He started on the back nine—the toughest with a par of 36—and shaved five strokes off par with three birdies and an eagle on the 500 yard 16th hole, sinking a putt from 25 feet out.

He picked up three more birdies on the front. Ziegler used only 27 putts for the entire round. He had nine one-putts and no three-putts.

Hill, who won here in 1967, 1969 and again last year, said the rain that dampened the grounds from noon on played havoc with his iron game. He added, "I'm just downright tired."

San Rafael's Decker Returns To The Cubs

Joe Decker, a righthander who earned his prep stardom at Petaluma High School, has been called back to the major league by the Chicago Cubs.

Decker's mother, Mrs. William F. Royce of San Rafael, said this morning that he telephoned her last night from Tacoma where he has been pitching for the Cubs' Pacific Coast League farm club.

Decker, who had compiled a 5-0 record with a 1.77 earned run average for Tacoma, left for Pittsburgh last night to join the Cubs, according to his mother. The Cubs are in Pittsburgh for a four-game series. Decker pitched for the Chicago team last year.

FISH AND GAME

Unprofitable Day Chasing Salmon

By AL GIDDINGS

The other day I met Sam Knoles and Bob Louchenauer for breakfast at the Red Kettle Restaurant in San Rafael. We were going on a salmon trip after having been kept in for the past. two weeks because of the winds.

At the Kettle, we discussed the fires at the old Court House and San Rafael Joe's. It's all unbelievable. This week I had taken Sam on an abolone outing, so he filled "Locky" in on how great things had gone. He then proceeded to tell us all that he got eight packages for the freezer from his five abalones! "And," he said, "each package contains a meal for two!" That's for him and his wife. After some pondering, we finally figured out how he could get eight packages containing three steaks to the package, and feed two people with each package. For economical reasons, he doesn'g feed his wife!

AT 6 A.M. we were enroute down the Loch Lomand channel. Sam was baiting hooks. I was trying to write. "Locky" was the helmsman.

At 6:35 a.m. we were just passing Lime Point. Only one guy was fishing for bass off the rocks, and he had a fish on! It looked like that old pro, Andy Wurz of Sleepy Hollow. You can find him on a rock out by the Golden Gate almost every low tide morning from now until October.

At 7:40 we were at "B" Buoy near the lightship. Rough trip. Lots of debris in the Gate waters which was picked up by the high tides, then the minus tides take all this junk out through the Gate. It can be a hazard to boats.

IT WAS 7:45. We put those lines out. Fair and calm here — a little shower, and a big colorful rainbow. Beautiful.

At 8 a.m. two of the lines tangled - a 15-minute problem. Locky made a turn too fast!

At 9 a.m. we still had no fish except for one 15-incher on an Andy Reeker spoon. It was properly released. Radio report from other boats were all ni.

At 10 a.m. Sam got a hit — his line broke on the strike. He said it was a new line, only three years old!

AT 10:30 Sam served us smoked fish. He asked me how I liked it. I asked him if it was kingfish. Now he refuses to talk to me!

From 10:30 to 12:30 I had a temporary case of ptomaine poisoning, but was beginning to feel better. Probably the smoked fish! Sam said I was seasick!

At 12:35 some guy named Taylor said he just got a 15-pounder (on the radio), but we had no fish in the box yet. The boats were sure scattered; the radio conversation seemed to be that the only fish taken were from the Pedro Point Area. It was windy, so we decided not to make that run.

WE TRIED Duxbury Reef off Bolinas and "Locky" got a fish. As he landed it, he said, "A nice ling cod for the wife!" It was no ling cod,but it was a hake! I thought this guy's gotta be kidding, so I said nothing. (This yarn will probably cause me to lose my berth on the Lo-Hat, "Locky's" boat). Then Sam and "Locky" caught two black snappers. "Locky" said, "Now everybody has a fish!" I could stand this deceit no longer, so I told "Locky" that his fish was a hake. Incredible! He swore me to secrecy so I can't say much more about this from here on in!

We gave it a go off Rocky Point where all the birds in the county were working (Murres - Anchovy Birds, Commorants and Gulls.) Salmon? nope, but a Kingfish every pass! We headed for the dock skunked!

MARTY MEDIN of Marin called from Yuba City about the shad fishing. He and Pete Valconczi of Pt. Reyes Station went up Monday morning with their families for their usual shad outing on the Yuba River. The water's too high yet! Marty got four Tuesday, and Pete landed just one. Pete got washed off his feet in the high water, losing his rod, reel - the works! A $100 outfit. I hope the new chief of the Marin County Fire Department, Dick Pedroli, realizes that his man Pete may camp there till the river falls so that he can recover that prize rod.

STATISTICALLY speaking, only 11,197 salmon taken by Bay Area party boats during April as compared with a near 30,000 in March. (Those winds make a difference!) And only 150 stripers landed during this windy April by the party boats.

TROUT PLANTS again this week at Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe lakes and Rodeo Lagoon!

'WE'RE NOT MACHINES'

Boyer's Disenchantment Is Not A Sudden Thing

ATLANTA (UPI)—Clete Boyer's disenchantment with the Atlanta Braves was no sudden thing.

Coming to Atlanta wasn't an easy adjustment. Boyer had been a New York Yankee for eight season. In five of those, 1960-64, the Yankees had been American League champions and in two, 1961-62, they had been world champions.

Those were the days of wine and rose. Most ball players, then, dreamed of being a "Yankee" and Boyer was having the time of his life. Like any player will tell you, baseball is really fun when you are winning.

"The Yankees were a first-class organization," Boyer will tell you. "They really knew how to treat you right."

The contrast between the Braves and the Yankees, real or imagined, was evident to Boyer from the day he joined the Atlanta club five seasons ago. And, built on a series of minor irritations, Clete Boyer's disenchantment crested this week when he demanded his release.

"It was really a lot of little things," Boyer insisted. "But it boils down to this: I respect anyone who respects me and when they don't respect me, I don't respect them. It's that simple.

"The feeling has persisted around here that when things aren't going well, management takes the easy way out by blaming the players.

"We're human, not machines. If you do your best, that's all anyone can ask. These people know, or they should know, that if you can't build an organization in four or five years you should know you're moving on.

"You shouldn't try to save your job by blaming the players. After all, a ball player can only do what he can do."

Boyer makes it clear that his dispute with the Braves is with General Manager Paul Richards, not Field Manager Luman Harris.

"As a person, I like to play for Luman because he always lets me alone," Boyer said. "But he never seems to be able to make a decision. Everything is 'ask Paul.'"

Boyer said he has "just been unhappy with the Braves; I don't like their system of baseball," but the incident that triggered Boyer's outburst this week was a curfew, imposed by Harris but which Boyer is convinced was ordered by Richards.

"This is my 16th year of professional baseball and I never had to check in or check out before," Boyer complained. "We win a few games and everybody's happy. Then we lose a few and they get upset.

"One thing I learned a long time ago," Boyer said. "Baseball has a long season. You're going to win some and lose some. All you can do is play your best and not let it worry you.

"I remember the seventh game of the 1962 World Series. We were in the seventh inning and the pressure got to me so bad my knees began to buckle. I told myself then, 'Just do your best, you can do no more.' I beat the pressure then and I haven't let it get to me like that since. The Yankees went on to win that game and the series from the San Francisco Giants.

"There is too much second guessing going on with the braves. Richards takes everything personal and this he shouldn't do."

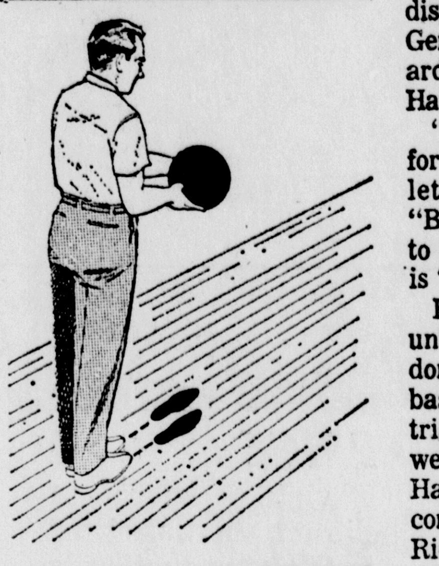
Actually, it's not just the braves organization that's bugging Clete Boyer. He's getting a divorce from his pretty blonde wife after 16 years of marriage, his car rental business and other investments haven't been going well and, at 34, he's painfully aware that he's approaching the twilight of his baseball career.

"I've really been happy with my career," said Boyer. "I love baseball and I'd like to stay in it.

"But," Boyer concluded rather wistfully, "I really don't know what is going to happen."

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



If you are rushing the foul line and having difficulty slowing down, move a few inches closer to the line before starting your approach (illustration). This will force you to be cautious (for fear of fouling) and you'll go up slower. Once you become accustomed to the proper rhythm, you can gradually move back to your normal area.

PAYS WORLD RECORD PRICE

Boston broker Laurence Bender paid $5,000 this week for a single bottle of Chateau Lafite wine, 1846 vintage, from the personal wine cellar of Baron Rothschild of France. The bottle, one of only three of that vintage known to exist, was believed purchased for a client during the wine auction in San Francisco. Bender was wide-eyed with excitement after the purchase. SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Query: Price Flux In Municipal Bonds

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Why do different brokers quote such widely varied prices on the same municipal bonds? — R.G.

A. Municipal bonds are sold on the Over-The-Counter market where transactions are subject to negotiation, thus a certain amount of variation in price is bound to occur. Some fluctuation is attributable to whether the broker has an inventory position in the particular bond and what his estimate is of the bond's marketability. Smaller issues from obscure localities could be far harder to market than those of a large city.

Most municipal bonds are issued in series, maturing at different times. It is entirely possible that you were inadvertently quoted prices on different series of the same bond. You might also have been quoted price with or without interest, although if quoted "flat" the broker should have specified.

Again you could have been given an inside quote by one dealer and an outside quote by another. This is similar to the difference between wholesale — dealer to broker — and retail — broker to customer — prices.

Q. I am a retired and disabled veteran. Last April I invested $600 in Allstate Enterprises Stock Fund. I have recently received more money and am wondering whether to buy more shares. What do you advise? — B.R.

A. Since your original purchase of Allstate Enterprises, your investment has appreciated approximately 25 per cent. Because this fund has been established only about one year, there is no way of assessing its long-term performance. For the first three months of 1971, the average for all open-end funds gained 14.1 per cent, while the Dow Jones Industrials scored an 8.9 per cent gain. During the same period, Allstate recorded a 9.7 per cent advance.

Some 90 per cent of the fund's assets, as of December, 1970, were invested in common stocks, the list largely being made up of good quality blue chips. While your present commitment here should be retained for further growth, I favor using the additional capital for purchase of an income issue with gradual growth potential such as: American Brands and Standard Oil of California.

Lockheed Aircraft Sets Loss At $86.3 Million For 1970

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Lockheed Aircraft Corporation has reported a net loss of $86.3 million in 1970, or $7.60 a share.

Board chairman Daniel Haughton had estimated early this year that the corporation's after-tax loss for the year would be about $80 million, compared with a 1969 net loss of $32.6 or $2.90 a share.

Sales in 1970 reached a new high of $2.54 billion, the company said, with higher C-5A transport sales primarily responsible for the increase.

Including funded government orders, Lockheed reported a backlog of $4.90 billion at the end of 1970, down from $5.15 billion a year earlier, with more than half representing commercial orders including 144 first-buy and 34 second-buy orders for the TriStar jet.

The Nixon administration has recommended that the government guarantee loans to save Lockheed from financial disaster. The firm fell into difficulties when Rolls-Royce, which supplied the RB211 engines for the TriStar, declared bankruptcy.

"Final solution to all of our difficulties are not yet in hand," Haughton said after a board of directors meeting and completion of the year-end audit, "but the pattern forresolving them is becoming clearer."

"If the U.S. government guarantees additional bank borrowings under legislation that the administration has proposed to Congress, we believe the remaining matters can be resolved satisfactorily.

"On the other hand, insufficient financing for the L-1011 TriStar would force cancellation of the program, and bankruptcy could result," he said.

IT&T Quarter Profit Was Record $1.54 Billion

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. sales and revenues hit a record $1.54 billion the first quarter of this year, according to Board Chairman Harold S. Geneen.

He told the annual stockholders meeting Wednesday that 1970 was the best year in ITT history with consolidated sales and revenues of $6.4 billion, up 12 per cent, and net income of $353 million. Net earnings per common share were $3.17 up 20 per cent.

Geneen urged foreign holders of dollars to use them in the United States to help solve the balance of payments deficit.

Buying U.S. goods, investing in U.S. companies or making direct investments in U.S. businesses would put the capital to work and also create jobs, he suggested.

He said that otherwise, the current money crisis "can lead only to protective tariffs, further isolation and inevitably higher and higher costs in our economy for all consumers and less world competitive ability for U.S. industry."

Recycled Paper Produces Brick

SEATTLE (UPI) —Three Seattle men say they have developed a brick made out of recycled paper which can be manufactured in a pollution-free plant.

King Evers Jr. says that the "Eco-Mat" brick can be sawed, nailed, bolted, screwed, waterproofed, fireproofed and bounded or routed with standard construction techniques.

Evers, who developed it with his father and George Larsen, says it is the first brick made out of fiberized paper, developed by a mechanical process which pulverizes waste paper.

The paper fibers are mixed with adhesives and resistive chemicals and extruded into molds. The mixture is then put under severe pressure.
